NEW TROOPS LAND

Red China, U.S. Trade Warnings On Asia Buildup

By United Press International

Communist China warned the United States Saturday of a "worse defeat than Korea" if the American buildup in Southeast Asia continued. The United States warned it would use "awesome combat power" in Southeast Asia if necessary.

In Thailand, 500 more U.S. Army and Marine combat troops landed after a flight from Hawaii. Another 500 were reported en route soon to push the 5,000 mark along a broad arc facing the Communist-treatened border of Laos.

Gen. Paul D. Harkins, the top U.S. commander in Asia, toured the Marine encampment near the Laotian border Saturday and planned to visit the U.S. Army encampment Sunday before flying back to Saigon to take up the struggle against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

SOUND WARNING

The Chinese Communist warning was broadcast both by Peiping radio and by the New China news agency. It said Red China absolutely "cannot tolerate" any new American bridgeheads bordering the China mainland.

Earlier in the week Peiping said "the Chinese people cannot remain indifferent" to American military moves in Southeast Asia. The broadcasts were strangely similar to those of Sept. 30, 1950, preceding Chinese intervention in Korea—that Red China "will not stand idly by."

Marines unloaded supplies and ammunition throughout the day from U.S. 7th Fleet vessels and loaded them onto Thai army trucks headed for the Laotian border. Observers said so many supplies were coming ashore it appeared the Marines were dug in for a long stay.

The American statement of "awesome combat power" came from Gen. George H. Decker, U.S. Army chief of staff, at an Armed Forces Day ceremony in West Berlin. But he said he did

Kennedy Tax Bill Opposed By Sen. Byrd

Statement Deals Sharp Blow To Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., of the Senate Finance Committee announced Saturday his opposition to President Kennedy's plan for a tax withholding system dividends and interest.

Byrd's statement dealt a sharp blow to administration hopes for retaining this key feature of the President's tax revision bill.

VOTED BY HOUSE

It already has been accepted by the House and is the most important revenue-producing section of the bill. The Treasury estimates $4 billion in dividend and interest income now goes unreported each year, causing a loss of $800 million in revenue. The department figures withholding would recover at least $650 million of this.

Byrd also reiterated his opposition to the other major provisions of the bill—an investment credit giving an annual $1.35-billion tax incentive to business to modernize its plans and equipment.

The Finance Committee begins its closed-door work on the tax bill Wednesday. Byrd has predicted these session will run a month. The group completed six weeks of public hearings on the measure May 11.

Byrd, who frequently opposes administration legislative proposals and did not campaign for Kennedy in 1960, has given indications for some time that he was unhappy about the withholding provision, but the administration has made strenuous efforts to change his mind.

REP. OTTO PASSMAN

Re-Election Bid Planned By Passman

Louisiana's Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman has announced that he will be a candidate for reelection to the U. S. House of Representatives. The Congressional Democratic primary, if the date is not changed by the Louisiana Legislature, will be held Saturday, July 28.

Congressman Passman was first elected in 1946 to serve in the 80th Congress, and has served continuously since that time.

Now ranking 12th from the top in point of seniority on the 50-member Committee on Appropriations, he is chairman of the Foreign Operations Subcommittee and vice-chairman of the Subcommittee on Treasury and Post Office Department Appropriations.

FOE OF AID

A foe of excessive foreign aid spending, he is now in his eighth year as chairman of the subcommittee handling the money bill for that program, which he regards as being "bloated, wasteful, and ineffective." During the past seven years, he has led fights which have resulted in slashing $5 billion from the foreign aid budget requests.

An advocate of "federal fiscal solvency," Passman said he favors a balanced budget, preservation of Constitutional government, the protection of states' rights, limitation of central government authority, and a realistic foreign policy to protect our nation's own self-interests and also meet our international responsibilities."

Agricultural legislation, especially with respect to measures affecting the cotton farmer, and actions for development of the lower Mississippi Valley flood control and major drainage programs — including rivers and harbors and general water resources improvements — also receive his attention in Congress.

At the present time, he has the principal responsibility for obtaining the funds to finance the Ouachita River nine-foot navigation channel, as well as for continuation of improvements in the Tensas-Boeuf-Bayou Macon Basin and other important related work in his area. During his period of service in Congress $170 million has been expended for flood control in the Fifth Dis-

Says Tax Funds Spent In 'Blitz' For Health Plan

CHICAGO (AP)—The president of the American Medical Association charged Saturday that "the U.S. Treasury is being looted" to promote the health care for the aged plan endorsed by the Kennedy administration.

Dr. Leonard W. Larson said the American people have a right to know how much it is costing them and who is organizing rallies around the country to promote adoption of the program.

STATEMENT

He said in a statement: "Tax money is being scooped out of the Treasury and government officials and employes are being turned loose in numbers we cannot count in a massive propaganda blitz designed to pressure Congress into enacting the King-Anderson bill for health care for the aged, a bill that millions of Americans do not want.

"The facts should be revealed about the rallies that are being held around the country to promote this bill and about the National Council of Senior Citizens, the ostensible sponsor of these rallies.

Joint Session Is Scheduled For Address

By SAM HANNA
World Legislative Writer

BATON ROUGE — Louisiana's million-dollar Legislature will return to the capitol tonight for a joint session where Gov. Jimmie H. Davis will outline the state's spending for the coming fiscal year.

Davis will address a joint session at 7:30 p.m., 30 minutes after both Houses convene to take a look at the mystery budget for the first time.

It will be the beginning of the second week of the 60-day session — a session that will cost Louisiana $1,185,208.46, which is about normal for modern times.

TUGWELL ESTIMATE

While the administration has kept the budget close to its chest, Treasurer A. P. Tugwell estimates it will be in the neighborhood of $800 million.

Actually, if the Legislature sticks to the budget committee's recommended $22 million reduction in state spending, the budget will run closer to $850 million.

The Governor's fiscal address will top the Sunday night session, but there is a strong possibility that the administration will call for a vote in the House on the $60-million bond issue to resolve the big $72-million deficit.

Administration leaders pushed the bond issue into a position for a floor vote before adjourning Wednesday — absolutely assured of enough votes to pass the proposal.

With $14 million still remaining in deficit spending after the bond issue, Davis plans to shift

Trials Set This Week In Court

A 24-year-old Monroe Negro woman is scheduled for trial Monday in Fourth District Court on four charges — three for murder and one for aggravated arson.

Alice Faye Washington, 807 Calypso Street, was indicted by an Ouachita Parish Grand Jury as the result of a fire here Oct. 14, 1961, in which three persons died. She has been held in the parish jail since that time.

She is charged in the deaths of Mattie B. Campbell, William Harris and Charlie Roe Jr., all Negroes. They died as the result of a fire which swept a two-story rooming house on Adams Street.

Trial of the Negro woman is one of six felony cases scheduled Monday with Judge Jesse Heard presiding.

No cases have been scheduled Tuesday, but four are slated Wednesday, two Thursday and one Friday.

Also scheduled for trial Monday are:

Theodis Brown, 20, Negro of 1414 Louise Anne Street, Monroe, charged with aggravated rape;

James Floyd Eldridge, 30, of 801 Blazier Lane, West Monroe, two charges of attempted murder;

Horace Cherry, 18, Negro of 3001 Bailey, Monroe, charged with manslaughter;

David Wesley Bryant, 19, of 1402 Myers, Monroe, charged with simple burglary; and Earl C. Herrington, 46, of 710 Louisiana Avenue, Ferriday, charged with attempted murder.

Four cases scheduled for trial Wednesday include:

A popular singing star and a hero of the younger set would be less than pleased to learn he has a namesake at the Bernstein Park zoo. When the baboon last Sunday began to rattle his cage, shouting his familiar "Wahoo" call to the top of his lungs, one of the small fry out near the swings was overheard urging his mother, "C'mon, mama, c'mon — it's the Pat Boone."

Oh, well, at least the baboon has a prestige of a sort. He's one of the park's top attractions, so Pat needn't feel too bad.

UG Fund Executive Group Set

The executive committee of the United Givers Fund of Ouachita Parish has been selected for 1962, it was announced Saturday by Dr. George T. Walker, president of the board of directors for the organization.

Members of the executive committee are Dr. Walker, president; Hugh B. Balfour, vice president; D. R. Sartor Jr., secretary; W. G. Haynes, Jr., treasurer; Paul Gallion, labor representative; Lee Vanderpool, representing bodies of civic and public trust; Conway Crossland, business and professional representative; A. T. Harrelson, industry representative; and Fred Petty, J. C. Loftin and Bernard Biedenharn, members-at-large.

Also serving on the committee are members of the advisory council, Robert H. Evans, Allen T. Givens and Walter W. Kellogg.

In making the announcement, Dr. Walker said, "The community is fortunate to have men of this caliber serving in this capacity. They will be volunteering many hours of their time to organizing and directing the work of the United Givers Fund, in preparation for the fall campaign and in actual conduct of the drive."

The United Givers Fund annually raises operating funds for some 14 health, welfare and character building agencies in the Ouachita Parish.

PAR Points Out Plan To Reapportion

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Public Affairs Research Council (PAR) said Saturday 33 per cent of Louisiana's people can elect a majority of the House of Representatives and 34 per cent can elect a Senate majority.

But PAR said Louisiana faces a far less serious problem in reapportionment of its legislature than some other states.

U. S. PRESSURE

Pressure has been building up to reapportion state legislatures over the nation since the U.S. Supreme Court ruled March 26 the federal courts have jurisdiction in suits to compel reapportionment.

There has been extensive activity among the states to reapportion their legislatures.

PAR said "reapportionment suits have been filed, or legislation introduced, in half of the states," including 11 in the South.

The Louisiana constitution requires reapportionment after every federal census, but this has not been done since the 1921 constitution.

PAR said in the House one representative now has only 6,909 constituents, while another has 120,205. In the Senate one senator represents 31,175 people while an-

Davis 'Neutral' On Agency Bills

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis refused Saturday to put an administration label on several bills to abolish state agencies and boards.

Davis was asked about his stand on the bills, including the Little Hoover Commission proposal to do away with the office of state comptroller

"These are not administration bills," the governor said.

POSITION CITED

An administration spokesman said the position of the administration will be one of neutrality on the measures introduced in the first week of the 60-day legislature.

If adopted, 16 bills could bring about a new look in state government.

Most of them were sponsored by the Little Hoover Commission, which set out to streamline state government and bring about economy.

The bills have the effect of consolidating agencies and their functions, and in some cases abolishing them.

Some would cut out functions considered being duplicated.

Rep. Frank Fulco, Caddo Parish, offered legislation to repeal by constitutional amendment most of the so-called blue ribbon administrative boards inaugurated by Gov. Robert F. Kennon in 1952.

State Comptroller Roy Theriot has fought the Little Hoover Commission proposal to abolish the office he holds, and he has blamed Davis for the legislation.

Theriot called it spite legislation promoted by the governor because of Theriot's vote against bond and building commission funds use to complete the luxurious new governor's mansion under construction.

Davis' statement indicated the measure didn't have his endorsement.

Theriot said he believes he has

Astronaut Orbit Ride Is Delayed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The second U.S. man-in-orbit was postponed Saturday for at least two more days when scientists spotted new technical bugs, this time in the Atlas launching rocket.

The delay was the second in three days.

It came as scientists finished clearing up other troubles in the Aurora 7 space capsule's parachute system.

The news broke as astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter, a Navy lieutenant commander, was running through final preparations for a launch he had expected for next Tuesday.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the next target date is Thursday, May 24, at the earliest.

The new bugs were found in a thermostat in the gyro system that helps keep the rocket on course during the powered portion of flight.

Irregularities in the temperature control device were discovered Friday night, officials said, and it was decided Saturday to replace the faulty parts.

The gear—housed in a device about the size of a big fruit juice can—was flown Saturday night to San Diego, Calif., where technicians of the company which built the Atlas will work on it Sunday.

Three Die As 'Quake Hits Areas

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The second earthquake in eight days rocked Mexico City and other areas along the Pacific Saturday. Three men died, one of them toppling from the top of a swaying building.

As the quake struck at 8:58 a.m.—and lasted 1 minute and 10 seconds—a frightened driver lost control of his truck and ran over a man in the street. The pedestrian was killed.

The third victim was a businessman who dashed from his quivering office building and collapsed dead of a heart attack on the sidewalk. He was Roy A. Blay, 50, a native of Goderich, Ont.

Damage was slight in Mexico City but extensive in Acapulco, the Pacific Coast resort town, and surrounding areas.

Tourists in Acapulco rushed from their hotels in panic. Seventeen residents of the city were rushed to hospitals. Power failed, and one major hotel was forced to close down because of damage.

Acapulco was once again near the epicenter.

Jose Merino Coronado of the government seismological bureau said this quake was not related to the last. He said it was caused by an earth settling movement in the sea off the west coast. There was no tidal wave, however.

Heaviest damage was reported in the State of Guerrero, south of the capital, where Acapulco, Chilpancingo and Iguala reported several homes and other structures collapsed.

Although many were hospitalized in the area, there were no immediate reports of deaths. Communications with the coastal area were disrupted.

Armed Forces Day Events Scheduled Here

Twin Cities active and reserve armed forces units will observe Armed Forces Day today with a public, two - hour program at Selman Field.

The annual observance, which replaces those held by the individual services, is held on the first day of the week designated by the President for tribute to the services.

Monroe's program gets underway with the whoosh of eight B57 jet bombers which will fly over the field, north to south, at 1 p.m.

Museum Removes Figure Of Prophet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department announced Saturday that the manager of a wax museum in St. Augustine, Fla., had agreed to destroy immediately a figure of the Prophet Mohammed. There have been objections it offended persons of the Mohammedan faith.

Angier Biddle Duke, chief of protocol in the State Department, wrote Lucie Talbott, museum manager, that ambassadors of Moslem nations in Washington regard the figure of Mohammed as a desecration.

Mrs. Talbott said at St. Augustine that she had reluctantly agreed to remove the statue but had not decided what disposition will be made of it.

She said a State Department spokesman had called her Saturday and "begged me to take it out because it was causing such a state controversy."

She added, "We want to cooperate, but our feeling toward the State Department would have been much warmer if someone had come down and let us present our side."

The figure, Mrs. Talbott said, will be placed in storage until "we see what we can do with it." She said it was possible to convert it to a figure of some other persons.

"I never said we would destroy it, never," she said.

The figure cost several thousand dollars, she said, but did not give a specific figure.

A State Department spokesman, explaining the Duke letter, said the Mohammedian religion "has an abhorrence of images," especially images of Mohammed."

DISPUTE NAKED RIDE

City Fathers Put Clothes On Godiva

COVENTRY, England (AP) — Coventry's city fathers came up Saturday with a startling new theory: Lady Godiva wasn't naked at all when she made her famous ride through the town.

She wore clothes, the City Council suggested in a publicity leaflet for tourists.

The statement aroused some citizens who are proud of Godiva's legendary nudity.

"Not naked?" asked Coventry city historian Abe Jephcott. "Rubbish. I challenge anyone to produce facts disputing the naked ride by Lady Godiva."

The row was sparked by plans for a pageant in connection with the consecration of the new Coventry cathedral. A local girl will appear as Lady Godiva and ride through the streets on horseback during the three weeks following the consecration next Friday. She will wear flesh-colored tights and a wig with long flowing hair.

Tradition says Lady Godiva, an 11th century beauty, wore nothing but her long locks. She did it to persuade her husband Leofric, Earl of Mercia and Lord of Coventry, to spare the people of the city from oppressive taxation.

The City Council's new leaflet says Leofric, instead of daring his wife to ride in the nude, may have challenged her merely to appear in public without her jewels and finery.

"It is unlikely that Leofric, being a man of great piety and benevolence, would allow his wife to ride naked," the leaflet said.

Officials of the council explained the pamphlet was prepared after a study of old books in the city's archives.

U.S. Sets Off Nuclear Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States set off two more nuclear explosions Saturday, one in the Pacific and the other underground at the Nevada test site.

The newest blasts were announced by the Atomic Energy Commission here. They were No. 12 of a series in the Pacific, and No. 33 at the Nevada site.

The AEC said the detonation in the Pacific took place at about 10:30 a.m. in the vicinity of Christmas Island. Like most of the others there, the device was dropped from an airplane.

The blast was in the intermediate range, meaning it had the blast equivalent of less than a million tons of TNT.

Members of the executive committee are Dr. Walker, president; Hugh B. Balfour, vice president; D. R. Sartor Jr., secretary; W. G. Haynes, Jr., treasurer; Paul Gallion, labor representative; Lee Vanderpool, representing bodies of civic and public trust; Conway Crossland, business and professional representative; A. T. Harrelson, industry representative; and Fred Petty, J. C. Loftin and Bernard Biedenharn, members-at-large.

Also serving on the committee are members of the advisory council, Robert H. Evans, Allen T. Givens and Walter W. Kellogg.

In making the announcement, Dr. Walker said, "The community is fortunate to have men of this caliber serving in this capacity. They will be volunteering many hours of their time to organizing and directing the work of the United Givers Fund, in preparation for the fall campaign and in actual conduct of the drive."

The United Givers Fund annually raises operating funds for some 14 health, welfare and character building agencies in the Ouachita Parish.

PAR Points Out Plan To Reapportion

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Public Affairs Research Council (PAR) said Saturday 33 per cent of Louisiana's people can elect a majority of the House of Representatives and 34 per cent can elect a Senate majority.

But PAR said Louisiana faces a far less serious problem in reapportionment of its legislature than some other states.

U. S. PRESSURE

Pressure has been building up to reapportion state legislatures over the nation since the U.S. Supreme Court ruled March 26 the federal courts have jurisdiction in suits to compel reapportionment.

There has been extensive activity among the states to reapportion their legislatures.

PAR said "reapportionment suits have been filed, or legislation introduced, in half of the states," including 11 in the South.

The Louisiana constitution requires reapportionment after every federal census, but this has not been done since the 1921 constitution.

PAR said in the House one representative now has only 6,909 constituents, while another has 120,205. In the Senate one senator represents 31,175 people while an-

Davis 'Neutral' On Agency Bills

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis refused Saturday to put an administration label on several bills to abolish state agencies and boards.

Davis was asked about his stand on the bills, including the Little Hoover Commission proposal to do away with the office of state comptroller.

"These are not administration bills," the governor said.

POSITION CITED

An administration spokesman said the position of the administration will be one of neutrality on the measures introduced in the first week of the 60-day legislature.

If adopted, 16 bills could bring about a new look in state government.

Most of them were sponsored by the Little Hoover Commission, which set out to streamline state government and bring about economy.

The bills have the effect of consolidating agencies and their functions, and in some cases abolishing them.

Some would cut out functions considered being duplicated.

Rep. Frank Fulco, Caddo Parish, offered legislation to repeal by constitutional amendment most of the so-called blue ribbon administrative boards inaugurated by Gov. Robert F. Kennon in 1952.

State Comptroller Roy Theriot has fought the Little Hoover Commission proposal to abolish the office he holds, and he has blamed Davis for the legislation.

Theriot called it spite legislation promoted by the governor because of Theriot's vote against bond and building commission funds use to complete the luxurious new governor's mansion under construction.

Davis' statement indicated the measure didn't have his endorsement.

Theriot said he believes he has

Astronaut Orbit Ride Is Delayed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The second U.S. man-in-orbit was postponed Saturday for at least two more days when scientists spotted new technical bugs, this time in the Atlas launching rocket.

The delay was the second in three days.

It came as scientists finished clearing up other troubles in the Aurora 7 space capsule's parachute system.

The news broke as astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter, a Navy lieutenant commander, was running through final preparations for a launch he had expected for next Tuesday.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the next target date is Thursday, May 24, at the earliest.

The new bugs were found in a thermostat in the gyro system that helps keep the rocket on course during the powered portion of flight.

Irregularities in the temperature control device were discovered Friday night, officials said, and it was decided Saturday to replace the faulty parts.

The gear—housed in a device about the size of a big fruit juice can—was flown Saturday night to San Diego, Calif., where technicians of the company which built the Atlas will work on it Sunday.

Three Die As 'Quake Hits Areas

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The second earthquake in eight days rocked Mexico City and other areas along the Pacific Saturday. Three men died, one of them toppling from the top of a swaying building.

As the quake struck at 8:58 a.m.—and lasted 1 minute and 10 seconds—a frightened driver lost control of his truck and ran over a man in the street. The pedestrian was killed.

The third victim was a businessman who dashed from his quivering office building and collapsed dead of a heart attack on the sidewalk. He was Roy A. Blay, 50, a native of Goderich, Ont.

Damage was slight in Mexico City but extensive in Acapulco, the Pacific Coast resort town, and surrounding areas.

Tourists in Acapulco rushed from their hotels in panic. Seventeen residents of the city were rushed to hospitals. Power failed, and one major hotel was forced to close down because of damage.

Acapulco was once again near the epicenter.

Jose Merino Coronado of the government seismological bureau said this quake was not related to the last. He said it was caused by an earth settling movement in the sea off the west coast. There was no tidal wave, however.

Heaviest damage was reported in the State of Guerrero, south of the capital, where Acapulco, Chilpancingo and Iguala reported several homes and other structures collapsed.

Although many were hospitalized in the area, there were no immediate reports of deaths. Communications with the coastal area were disrupted.

Armed Forces Day Events Scheduled Here

Twin Cities active and reserve armed forces units will observe Armed Forces Day today with a public, two - hour program at Selman Field.

The annual observance, which replaces those held by the individual services, is held on the first day of the week designated by the President for tribute to the services.

Monroe's program gets underway with the whoosh of eight B57 jet bombers which will fly over the field, north to south, at 1 p.m.

Intricate close - order drill will be performed by the Air Force ROTC drill team of the Louisiana Tech unit at 1:15 p.m.

U.S. Sets Off Nuclear Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States set off two more nuclear explosions Saturday, one in the Pacific and the other underground at the Nevada test site.

The newest blasts were announced by the Atomic Energy Commission here. They were No. 12 of a series in the Pacific, and No. 33 at the Nevada site.

The AEC said the detonation in the Pacific took place at about 10:30 a.m. in the vicinity of Christmas Island. Like most of the others there, the device was dropped from an airplane.

The blast was in the intermediate range, meaning it had the blast equivalent of less than a million tons of TNT.

Museum Removes Figure Of Prophet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department announced Saturday that the manager of a wax museum in St. Augustine, Fla., had agreed to destroy immediately a figure of the Prophet Mohammed. There have been objections it offended persons of the Mohammedan faith.

Angier Biddle Duke, chief of protocol in the State Department, wrote Lucie Talbott, museum manager, that ambassadors of Moslem nations in Washington regard the figure of Mohammed as a desecration.

Mrs. Talbott said at St. Augustine that she had reluctantly agreed to remove the statue but had not decided what disposition will be made of it.

She said a State Department spokesman had called her Saturday and "begged me to take it out because it was causing such a state controversy."

She added, "We want to cooperate, but our feeling toward the State Department would have been much warmer if someone had come down and let us present our side."

The figure, Mrs. Talbott said, will be placed in storage until "we see what we can do with it." She said it was possible to convert it to a figure of some other persons.

"I never said we would destroy it, never," she said.

The figure cost several thousand dollars, she said, but did not give a specific figure.

A State Department spokesman, explaining the Duke letter, said the Mohammedian religion "has an abhorrence of images," especially images of Mohammed."

DISPUTE NAKED RIDE

City Fathers Put Clothes On Godiva

COVENTRY, England (AP) — Coventry's city fathers came up Saturday with a startling new theory: Lady Godiva wasn't naked at all when she made her famous ride through the town.

She wore clothes, the City Council suggested in a publicity leaflet for tourists.

The statement aroused some citizens who are proud of Godiva's legendary nudity.

"Not naked?" asked Coventry city historian Abe Jephcott. "Rubbish. I challenge anyone to produce facts disputing the naked ride by Lady Godiva."

The row was sparked by plans for a pageant in connection with the consecration of the new Coventry cathedral. A local girl will appear as Lady Godiva and ride through the streets on horseback during the three weeks following the consecration next Friday. She will wear flesh-colored tights and a wig with long flowing hair.

Tradition says Lady Godiva, an 11th century beauty, wore nothing but her long locks. She did it to persuade her husband Leofric, Earl of Mercia and Lord of Coventry, to spare the people of the city from oppressive taxation.

The City Council's new leaflet says Leofric, instead of daring his wife to ride in the nude, may have challenged her merely to appear in public without her jewels and finery.

"It is unlikely that Leofric, being a man of great piety and benevolence, would allow his wife to ride naked," the leaflet said.

Officials of the council explained the pamphlet was prepared after a study of old books in the city's archives.

Referring to the recent Berlin crisis, he said that the "awesome power" would be used in Europe as well as Southeast Asia if necessary.

No new fighting was reported from Laos where government troops have been reported sending patrols north toward captured Nam Tha in the northwestern sector near the borders of Red China, Thailand and Burma.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, leader of the neutralist faction in Laos, left London Saturday by plane for his headquarters on the Plain of Jars and possible meetings with the right-wing and left-wing rival princes on formation of a coalition government.

Souvanna conferred with British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and a spokesman said afterward that "Lord Home fully endorsed Souvanna Phouma's efforts to work for a coalition government in a unified, independent and neutral Laos."

Tugwell warned the administration, however, that the state may end up with a deficit of $10 million at the end of the coming fiscal year.

Department spending is expected to be kep on a par comparable to this year's expenditures under the budget prepared by the governor's legislative budget committee.

Copies of the budget, which was prepared by Commissioner of Administration James S. Reily after the committee completed its work, will be on the lawmakers' desk for the joint session.

The administration may call for a vote tonight on Rep. Rodney Buras' bill postponing the Democratic primary this summer from July 28th to September 11th.

Buras has said this would give legislators who want to run for Congress a chance to conduct a campaign. But the measure is opposed by U.S. Sen. Russell B. Long.

One administration leader, Rep. Bryan Lehmann of Norco, has said, however, that he will "personally prevail" on the governor not to declare the Buras bill as emergency legislation.

Lehmann said he would fight anything that would hurt his friend, Congressman Hale Boggs of New Orleans. Since the tidelands issue has not been settled, the Davis administration is not likely to back Buras' bill. Boggs is President Kennedy's floor whip in the U.S. House.

HEAVY LOAD

Meantime, House Speaker Thomas Jewell said the Legislature will have a full workload on his hands this week, probably meeting through Thursday before adjournment.

The Senate met twice briefly last week while the House stayed in session through Wednesday. Over 500 bills were introduced, but lawmakers can introduce legislation for the first 20 days of the session.

Jewell expressed hopes that the Legislature can abolish its practice of starting each week on Sunday.

Locally, Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe will introduce two resolutions tonight affecting the LSU Board of Supervisors. He wants to expand the board from 14 to 18 members, in addition to prohibiting any state employee or office holder from serving on the board.

The third judgeship bill sponsored by the Ouachita-Morehouse delegations is set for a committee hearing Tuesday.

After conferences at home over the weekend, the Ouachita-Morehouse delegation also is expected to introduce a bill to create a water district for the Bartholomew area.

This is necessary before pump facilities can be built to bring water from Bartholomew into Bayou DeSiard.

In announcing his candidacy for reelection, he said: "I will always be deeply grateful to the people of the Fifth Congressional District of Louisiana for the opportunities of public service they have made it possible for me to undertake and accomplish, and I will continue to devote my very best efforts to the faithful and effective performance of my duties."

He added that the point had been reached in his Congressional tenure, through 16 years of continuous service, which enables him to be of maximum usefulness to the district, state and nation.

"I make the same promise now as I have made each time I have come before the people for election," he said, "which is that I will continue to work conscientiously and untiringly to make our district, state, and nation a creditable representative.

"One of my greatest compensations from serving as a member of Congress is to be able to render useful personal services to the several hundred thousand wonderful constituents who I have the great honor to represent. I will continue at all times to express my interest and exert my efforts in their behalf."

Passman, 61, was born on a farm near Franklinton, in Washington Parish, and has been a lifelong resident of Louisiana. He left his boyhood home at the age of 13.

He has resided at Monroe, where he heads a business firm, for almost 34 years.

other senator represents 248,427.

Even this disparity, PAR said, is quite different from a situation in New Hampshire, where one representative represents three people and another 3,244. In California, one senator represents 14,294 people and another 6,038,711.

A plan which would meet the Louisiana constitutional requirement for reapportionment of the House would require a shift of only eight seats in the lower chamber, PAR reported.

The possible reapportionment bill, House Bill 175, is offered by Rep. Jesse Knowles of Calcasieu Parish.

PAR said it is in line with a study by the Louisiana Legislative Council and substantially in accord with a report on reapportionment one by PAR in 1960.

The Knowles plan would eliminate one representative for each of these parishes: Acadia, Avoyelles, Lafourche, Natchitoches, St. Landry, and St. Mary. It would cut one representative each from wards 3 and 11 in Orleans Parish.

Parishes gaining one representative would be: Caddo, Calcasieu, Jefferson, and Terrebonne. Two representatives would be added for East Baton Rouge and two for Ward 9 in Orleans.

PAR outlined a reapportionment plan for the Louisiana Senate which would keep the same number of senators but cuts the number of districts from 35 to 27.

PAR said the plan would make the population represented by each senator close to the state average of 83,000.

Trials Set This Week In Court

Route 2, Box 206, Tallulah, charged with three counts of forgery in the amounts of $256, $426 and $200;

Lawrence Holmes Jr., 28, Negro of 716 Powell Avenue, Monroe, charged with negligent homicide;

J. E. Stokes, of Farmerville, charged with theft in the amount of $125; and

William A. Myles, 35, of 2803 Lee Avenue, Monroe, charged with theft in the amount of $20.

The trial of Frances Griffith, 27, of Highway 80, West Monroe, charged with abortion, has been continued and reset for Nov. 19 after being originally scheduled for Wednesday.

Two cases scheduled Thursday are:

Leza Price, 40, of 801 Wood Street, West Monroe, two charges of forgery; and

Frank Bradshaw, 26, and Paul Griffith, 39, both of Vidalia, charged with the theft of a dog valued at $150.

The only case scheduled Friday is Donald W. Cobb, 17, of 1706 Polk, Houston, Tex., charged with the theft of an automobile valued at $2,000.

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (UPI) — Robert Oswald, president of Mississippi Young Democreats, said Saturday Gov. Ross Barnett's administration "is reducing taxes of the wealthy but increasing the tax burden of the little man."

Oswald said that with such a program going on "it insults the intelligence of Mississippians to say we cannot afford to pay our teachers a living wage."

support of most lawmakers in his campaign to stop the legislation.

The proposal would require consent of the people in the November balloting.

Other bills proposed would abolish the boards of registration, highways, institutions, welfare, hospitals, and wildlife and fisheries, the office of supervisor of public funds, three divisions of the insurance rating commission, the immigration duties of the commission of griculture, the anhydrous ammonia commission and the Stonewall Jackson Memorial Board.

Some legislators have expressed doubt any of the measures will pass the legislature, and if they did they probably would be defeated by the people.

Sen. Jones is one of the legislative leaders who more than a year ago talked up a limited constitutional convention, mainly to allow tapping of constitutional public school funds to help finance the new grants in aid program for private schooling.

Some administration leaders, such as Rep. Triche, still are talking in favor of a convention. And so is Sen. E. W. Gravolet Jr. of Pointe a la Hache, Senate segregation whip.

If Gov. Davis is behind the Jones idea, and the governor has given no hint that he is, he may be attempting to do something the politicians' politician, Earl K. Long, never was able to pull off.

A convention idea also fizzled when it was brought forth under former Gov. Robert Kennon, now a Davis supporter.

Those who advocate a convention contend the present one is one of the longest and most unwieldly in the land.

Jones said a general convention, as he now proposes—has a limited one—could solve lots of problems, reapportionment, the overweighted dedication of state revenues, the large array of overlapping and contradictory feagures now in the constitution and state laws.

"I'm just throwing this in so the public and the legislature can take a look at it," Jones said. "The state is in a mess."

Jones said his initial bill would call for a 90-day convention to convene two months after this legislature adjourns July 12.

He would use a simple legislative act, requiring only majority votes in House and Senate, but the finished convention product would be submitted to the voters at the polls.

The Jones proposal, of course, could be subject to revisions in the legislature, if it catches fire.

The senator said he would suggest the 144-man legislature constitute the main body of the convention, with 10 additional delegates appointed by the governor, 10 by industry in general, 10 by the petroleum industry, 10 by the Louisiana State Bar Association and 10 by labor. This would constitute a convention of 194 delegates.

Jones said he has not discussed his idea with the governor.

When the House gets down to business Sunday after the governor's talk, four bills are ready for floor action if there is enough time for them.

They include the bond bill, Rep. Rodney Buras' controversial proposal to postpone the July 28 congressional primary until Sept. 8 or 15, an emergency measure to authorize parish and city school boards to borrow funds against next fiscal year and a bill for an extra judgeship in east Baton Rouge Parish.

and a bill for an extra judgeship in east Baton Rouge Parish.

The Davis House leaders, Rep. Lehmann and Fields, voiced opposition to the Buras bill, which may have strong support from some segregationists.

Rep. John Garrett, Claiborne Parish, chairman of the powerful Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, declined to comment on the Buras bill.

AT one time Garrett was considered a potential rival to run against U.S. Sen. Russell Long. Long frowned on the election date change.

Lehmann said he would fight the Buras bill "if this is an attempt in any way to defeat or embarrass my friend, Congressman Hale Boggs."

The New Orleans congressman is the Democratic majority leader and close to President Kennedy.

Rep. Fields said he would have to vote against the Buras bill because it also would affect school board elections, "and I feel teachers might do more politicking than teaching then.

"I have some friends in Congress too," Fields said, "and I think it is bad to get our congressional delegation all stirred up when we're attempting to gain a Tidelands settlement with the federal government."

President Kennedy is slated to address a Madison Square Garden rally Sunday night in New York sponsored by the Golden Ring Council of Senior Citizens, but Larson made no specific reference to the President.

Larson, a doctor from Bismarck N.D., said: "Hordes of government employes and officials from numerous executive departments are roaming the country at taxpayers' expense as itinerant salesmen for the King-Anderson bill, misrepresenting the product and promising things they cannot deliver.

"This gigantic campaign amounts to taxation for misrepresentation.

"The Cabinet has been transformed into a part-time political lobbying organization, and government employes in a four-room White House office suite and in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare are working full time to flood the country with news releases, articles, radio and television spots, cartoons, booklets and advertisements plugging this proposal for government-controlled health care. The flood has reached such proportions that some newsmen say they don't even have time to open the envelopes.

"And, as we have pointed out to the U.S. attorney general, all this activity by the government is a violation of federal law which prohibits tax money and government officers and employes being used for lobbying purposes."

Byrd did say he might be willing to go along with a withholding plan at some future time if an alternative system fails to work.

These would be used to match the new account numbers on taxpayers' returns with the same numbers as shown by corporations and savings institutions on information returns listing their dividend and interest payments. In this way a taxpayer's failure to report income which a company or bank said it had paid him would be disclosed.

In announcing his candidacy for reelection, he said: "I will always be deeply grateful to the people of the Fifth Congressional District of Louisiana for the opportunities of public service they have made it possible for me to undertake and accomplish, and I will continue to devote my very best efforts to the faithful and effective performance of my duties."

He added that the point had been reached in his Congressional tenure, through 16 years of continuous service, which enables him to be of maximum usefulness to the district, state and nation.

"I make the same promise now as I have made each time I have come before the people for election," he said, "which is that I will continue to work conscientiously and untiringly to make our district, state, and nation a creditable representative.

"One of my greatest compensations from serving as a member of Congress is to be able to render useful personal services to the several hundred thousand wonderful constituents who I have the great honor to represent. I will continue at all times to express my interest and exert my efforts in their behalf."

Passman, 61, was born on a farm near Franklinton, in Washington Parish, and has been a lifelong resident of Louisiana. He left his boyhood home at the age of 13.

He has resided at Monroe, where he heads a business firm, for almost 34 years.

AMA Claims Taxes Spent For Lobbying

byist?"

President Kennedy is slated to address a Madison Square Garden rally Sunday night in New York sponsored by the Golden Ring Counci! of Senior Citizens, but Larson made no specific reference to the President.

Larson, a doctor from Bismarck N.D., said: "Hordes of government employes and officials from numerous executive departments are roaming the country at taxpayers' expense as itinerant salesmen for the King-Anderson bill, misrepresenting the product and promising things they cannot deliver.

"This gigantic campaign amounts to taxation for misrepresentation.

"The Cabinet has been transformed into a part-time political lobbying organization, and government employes in a four-room White House office suite and in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare are working full time to flood the country with news releases, articles, radio and television spots, cartoons, booklets and advertisements plugging this proposal for government - controlled health care. The flood has reached such proportions that some newsmen say they don't even have time to open the envelopes.

"And, as we have pointed out to the U.S. attorney general, all this activity by the government is a violation of federal law which prohibits tax money and government officers and employes being used for lobbying purposes."

other senator represents 248,427.

Even this disparity, PAR said, is quite different from a situation in New Hampshire, where one representative represents three people and another 3,244. In California, one senator represents 14,294 people and another 6,038,711.

A plan which would meet the Louisiana constitutional requirement for reapportionment of the House would require a shift of only eight seats in the lower chamber, PAR reported.

The possible reapportionment bill, House Bill 175, is offered by Rep. Jesse Knowles of Calcasieu Parish.

PAR said it is in line with a study by the Louisiana Legislative Council and substantially in accord with a report on reapportionment one by PAR in 1960.

The Knowles plan would eliminate one representative for each of these parishes: Acadia, Avoyelles, Lafourche, Natchitoches, St. Landry, and St. Mary. It would cut one representative each from wards 3 and 11 in Orleans Parish.

Parishes gaining one representative would be: Caddo, Calcasieu, Jefferson, and Terrebonne. Two representatives would be added for East Baton Rouge and two for Ward 9 in Orleans.

PAR outlined a reapportionment plan for the Louisiana Senate which would keep the same number of senators but cuts the number of districts from 35 to 27.

PAR said the plan would make the population represented by each senator close to the state average of 83,000.

Demo Leader Fires Blast At Barnett Regime

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (UPI) — Robert Oswald, president of Mississippi Young Democrcats, said Saturday Gov. Ross Barnett's administration "is reducing taxes of the wealthy but increasing the tax burden of the little man."

Oswald said that with such a program going on "it insults the intelligence of Mississippians to say we cannot afford to pay our teachers a living wage."

"Of course we want industry to come to Mississippi, but it does us harm to bring in industry that does not want to pay its fair share of the tax load.

Trials Set This Week In Court

Route 2, Box 206, Tallulah, charged with three counts of forgery in the amounts of $256, $426 and $200;

Lawrence Holmes Jr., 28, Negro of 716 Powell Avenue, Monroe, charged with negligent homicide;

J. E. Stokes, of Farmerville, charged with theft in the amount of $125; and

William A. Myles, 35, of 2803 Lee Avenue, Monroe, charged with theft in the amount of $20.

The trial of Frances Griffith, 27, of Highway 80, West Monroe, charged with abortion, has been continued and reset for Nov. 19 after being originally scheduled for Wednesday.

Two cases scheduled Thursday are:

Leza Price, 40, of 801 Wood Street, West Monroe, two charges of forgery; and

Frank Bradshaw, 26, and Paul Griffith, 39, both of Vidalia, charged with the theft of a dog valued at $150.

The only case scheduled Friday is Donald W. Cobb, 17, of 1706 Polk, Houston, Tex., charged with the theft of an automobile valued at $2,000.

Armed Forces Day Events Scheduled Here

lege's drill team will march at 1:30, after which the 9425th Air Force Reserve Recovery Squadron, stationed at Selman Field, will recover a military aircraft, a C119.

The squadron's deputy commander, Pascal Norris, will act as master of ceremonies in the ceremony which will also feature the national champion Air Force Marching Band of Louisiana Tech at 2:30 p.m.

Final segment of the day's program will be tours of static displays of the T-37 Air Force jet trainer, S2F Navy anti - submarine carrier plane, C131 Air Force turbo - jet cargo plane, and tanks, personnel carriers and weapon carriers.

Davis 'Neutral' On Agency Bills

support of most lawmakers in his campaign to stop the legislation.

The proposal would require consent of the people in the November balloting.

Other bills proposed would abolish the boards of registration, highways, institutions, welfare, hospitals, and wildlife and fisheries, the office of supervisor of public funds, three divisions of the insurance rating commission, the immigration duties of the commission of griculture, the anhydrous ammonia commission and the Stonewall Jackson Memorial Board.

Some legislators have expressed doubt any of the measures will pass the legislature, and if they did they probably would be defeated by the people.

Sen. Jones is one of the legislative leaders who more than a year ago talked up a limited constitutional convention, mainly to allow tapping of constitutional public school funds to help finance the new grants in aid program for private schooling.

Some administration leaders, such as Rep. Triche, still are talking in favor of a convention. And so is Sen. E. W. Gravolet Jr. of Pointe a la Hache, Senate segregation whip.

If Gov. Davis is behind the Jones idea, and the governor has given no hint that he is, he may be attempting to do something the politicians' politician, Earl K. Long, never was able to pull off.

A convention idea also fizzled when it was brought forth under former Gov. Robert Kennon, now a Davis supporter.

Those who advocate a convention contend the present one is one of the longest and most unwieldly in the land.

Jones said a general convention, as he now proposes—has a limited onè—could solve lots of problems, reapportionment, the overweighted dedication of state revenues, the large array of overlapping and contradictory feagures now in the constitution and state laws.

"I'm just throwing this in so the public and the legislature can take a look at it," Jones said. "The state is in a mess."

Jones said his initial bill would call for a 90-day convention to convene two months after this legislature adjourns July 12.

He would use a simple legislative act, requiring only majority votes in House and Senate, but the finished convention product would be submitted to the voters at the polls.

The Jones proposal, of course, could be subject to revisions in the legislature, if it catches fire.

The senator said he would suggest the 144-man legislature constitute the main body of the convention, with 10 additional delegates appointed by the governor, 10 by industry in general, 10 by the petroleum industry, 10 by the Louisiana State Bar Association and 10 by labor. This would constitute a convention of 194 delegates.

Jones said he has not discussed his idea with the governor.

When the House gets down to business Sunday after the governor's talk, four bills are ready for floor action if there is enough time for them.

They include the bond bill, Rep. Rodney Buras' controversial proposal to postpone the July 28 congressional primary until Sept. 8 or 15, an emergency measure to authorize parish and city school boards to borrow funds against next fiscal year and a bill for an extra judgeship in east Baton Rouge Parish.

and a bill for an extra judgeship in east Baton Rouge Parish.

The Davis House leaders, Rep. Lehmann and Fields, voiced opposition to the Buras bill, which may have strong support from some segregationists.

Rep. John Garrett, Claiborne Parish, chairman of the powerful Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, declined to comment on the Buras bill.

AT one time Garrett was considered a potential rival to run against U.S. Sen. Russell Long. Long frowned on the election date change.

Lehmann said he would fight the Buras bill "if this is an attempt in any way to defeat or embarrass my friend, Congressman Hale Boggs."

The New Orleans congressman is the Democratic majority leader and close to President Kennedy.

Rep. Fields said he would have to vote against the Buras bill because it also would affect school board elections, "and I feel teachers might do more politicking than teaching then.

"I have some friends in Congress too," Fields said, "and I think it is bad to get our congressional delegation all stirred up when we're attempting to gain a Tidelands settlement with the federal government."

Riding Club's Show, Barbecue Event Set Today

The West Monroe Riding Club will hold a free horse show and riding event this afternoon at 1 p.m. There will be no charge for admission.

Bobby Albritton, president of the Riding Club invited "anyone interested in seeing good horse show and riding performance" to come to the areana on Harrell Road, which connects U. S. Highway 80 and Arkansas Road.

In addition to the show, the Riding Club has arranged to have 1,000 pounds of barbecue prepared for sale near the arena. Take home plates will be available from 11 a.m. until through the afternoon.

Show events have been arranged to entertain entries from all horsemen. Children and adult riders will participate in barrell running, ring race, stake race, etc.

One event has been billed as an attraction requiring the "tougher type" participant. In this event the rider will pick up a live goat at the far end of the arena and bring him back aboard the horse.

Judging will be held for saddle horses and quarter horses.

Chairman of the day's events will be Paul Johnston, who will be assisted by Mack O'Neal and H. M. Morrison.

White House Meet Slated On Industry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The major figures in the Kennedy administration's price hike clash with the steel industry assemble here next week to discuss national economic issues.

Roger Blough, chairman of the U.S. Steel Corporation, was expected to be in the audience Monday when President Kennedy opens a two-day White House conference on wage, prices, automation and collective bargaining.

Other key participants in last month's three-day price fight also were scheduled to take part in the meeting of about 190 high government, business and union officials.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, Bethlehem Steel Board Chairman Arthur B. Homer, Inland Steel Chairman Joseph L. Block and Kaiser Steel President Edgar F. Kaiser also will attend.

U. S. Steel's April 2 announcement of a $6 a ton price boost and Bethlehem's matching increase triggered the dispute with the President who ultimately succeeded in forcing the firms to rescind the hikes.

The price-lifting firms caved in under a combination of government pressure and the refusal by Inland and Kaiser to go along.

The administration's show of force, including summoning a federal grand jury to consider possible antitrust violations, was deeply resented in business circles. Since then Kennedy has tried to soothe injured feelings in appeals for harmonious dealings in the future.

Next week's conference which will feature an exchange of views between business, labor and government policy-makers, may revive the steel price controversy.

JFK Assails Republicans At Political Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — A frankly partisan President Kennedy, accepting a "Birthday Salute" at Madison Square Garden Saturday night, accused the Republican party of trying to stop his program at virtually every turn.

Telling a huge Democratic rally at the Garden that the Kennedy program is "a policy of constructive action" on every front, Kennedy added: "Our opponents prefer to be against everything."

In his prepared speech, he accused the Republicans of being "against every new program, against every appropriation, against every attempt to help the individual citizen find a better life for himself and his family."

To the cheers of Democrats who had paid up to $1,000 to attend the celebration—a birthday which actually will occur May 29—Kennedy said: "We stand for a world community of free and independent nations—and we have broken new ground to achieve it in the Peace Corps, long-term foreign aid, food for peace, disarmament and a stronger United Nations."

Nicaragua Bars Somoza Family

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Luis Somoza will be the last member of his family ever allowed to be elected to the presidency or vice presidency, Congress has decided.

It voted approval Friday of a constitutional reform proposed by Somoza prohibiting more than one member of any family from ever occupying the presidency or vice presidency. The law will be effective May 1, 1963, the end of Somoza's term.

Monroe Man Is Cited In Times Issue

CHARLES C. WHITTELSEY

Monroe's Charles C. Whittelsey was recently the subject of an extensive, detailed article in the New York Times which characterized him as "a Southerner, an engineer and a professional buyer of all sorts of things, to a total far in excess of $1,000,000,000."

The article traces Whittelsey's rise since 1925 with Ford, Bacon and Davis, one of the country's oldest engineering and management consultant companies, to become chairman in 1959.

Whittelsey began with the company's construction branch, Ford, Bacon and Davis Construction Corporation, which maintains headquarters in Monroe.

At his start he was a $175-a-month field engineer fresh out of the Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy.

Today, his company serves as an appraiser of the feasibility of a major undertaking. Very often it provides the final approval or disapproval of multi - million-dollar financings by municipalities, bond houses, investment syndicates, insurance companies and others in the Wall Street community.

Ford, Bacon and Davis is also involved in a wide variety of design engineering and construction work.

Whittelsey's part in the operation is broad and varied. He directs several hundreds of engineers and specialists whose projects range from, say, the commercial possibilities of musk rat farming in Louisiana to analization of U. S. Steel's operations.

Lately, for instance, he has had part in rebuilding an Australian railroad, checking Turkish investment opportunities and forecasting the asbestos market on a world scale.

The great Monroe and Amarillo, Tex., gas fields were just opening when he joined the company in 1925. He was to take part in the pioneering of the great natural gas pipelines expansion of the time.

Pipelines, those of the high-pressure, long distance sort, have since come to be an integral part of the operations of his company, which got its start in 1894 electrifying horse - drawn trolleys.

Whittelsey in the process has developed a philosophy to the effect that pipelines are the most efficient and economical mass freight movers than can now be conceived.

He envisions the day when huge pipelines will stretch across the nation, speeding along cargoes of ore, grain, coal and other bulk products now hauled by truck and rail.

But he has other fields in which to claim fame, and he has a reputation in the world of business for getting things done in a hurry.

During World War II he supervised the construction — completed two months ahead of schedule — of the first synthetic rubber plant, a $60 million job, on an open field in Charleston, W. Va., in 1942-43.

His next crash war - time project was to build a plant in Tennessee for "some new kind of explosive." The Oak Ridge project is described by Whittelsey as the most complex and costly single construction effort in history.

But, besides being a businessman and a man of action spending half his business time away from his office, in lower Manhattan he is a quail hunter and a fisherman.

He was born May 28, 1901, in Birmingham, Ala., and is married to the former Miss Alice Yeldell.

College Band In Forsythe Concert Today

The Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce will present, this Sunday, the Northeast Louisiana State College Concert Band, under the directorship of Joe Barry Mullins, at 1:45 p.m. at Forsythe Park. The concert series, has proved to be "highly successful," according to Jack Murphy, Jaycee project chairman.

The Northeast Louisiana Concert Band has held concerts at the Bossier High School, the North Caddo High School, and the Fair Park High School, all located in the Shreveport, Louisiana area recently. The band has received a special invitation to be the featured college band in the finale concert at the Mid - South Band Clinic to be held in Memphis later this year. Two concert presentations have, also, been tentatively scheduled in Mobile, Alabama in December.

The concert band's director, Joe Barry Mullins, is the associate professor of music, at Northeast Louisiana State College, where he has been instructing for the past twelve years and completed his MM degree.

The Sunday program will begin promptly at 1:45 p.m., fifteen minutes earlier than the regular concert series, due to another commitment the Northeast Louisiana Concert Band must fill later in the afternoon. The program will include "The Star Spangled Banner," "The Free Lance March" by John Phillip Sousa, the score from the upcoming United Artists Academy Award Winning motion picture "The West Side Story" by Bernstein, "Sarafand" a march by Willcocks, "Flight Of The Bumblebee" featuring marimba solist Mike Brown, "Chant and Jubilo" by McBeth, "Minuet and Dance Of The Blessed Spirits" by Gluck featuring flute solist Keith Pettway, and the "Manhattan Beach March" by Sousa.

Jaycee chairman, Jack Murphy, stated there is no donation or admission fee to enjoy the Sunday afternoon concerts. Families are urged to come to the park, complete with picnic baskets, after church services and enjoy this good, wholesome entertainment. Chairs will be provided in the bandstand area.

Priest To Vsit Masonic Lodge

The Grand High Priest of Royal Arch Masons will visit West Monroe Masonic Lodge Chapter No. 93, Royal Arch Masons Monday night.

A banquet will be held in his honor. The meeting is described as important and all Royal Arch Masons are urged to attend. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. with the meeting to follow.

Ruston Youth Named Editor Of LSU Paper

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Bill Brown, 21 - year - old senior from Ruston, has been appointed editor of the LSU Daily Reveille for the summer term by the committee on Student Publications, Dr. George Lowery, chairman of the committee, announced this week.

Brown, who will graduate in August, is currently a news editor and reporter for the Reveille, posts he has held since last September. He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, a participant in the Arts and Sciences Honors Program; and served as a reporter and columnist for the Ruston High School "Chatterbox."

Other members of the summer Reveille staff include Edith Jean Hassell and Lucretia Holmes, news editors, and Russell Eakin, photographer.

Pastors' Aid Requested In Safety Drive

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Ministers were asked to preach a sermon on child safety in this Deep South city Sunday to kick off a special weeklong observance aimed at protecting children from traffic hazards.

Twelve youths, including seven under 10 years of age, were killed in traffic accidents in the Memphis area during a five week period in April and early May.

The high death toll among children led to a meeting of concerned city officials, community leaders and traffic specialists May 10. Most agreed the solution to the grim problem would require cooperation of parents, preachers, schools and civic organizations as well as law enforcement agencies.

"Public education is the biggest key to the problem," said Police Commissioner Claude Armour. "We've got to get the message to the parents that it can happen to their child."

Armour said most of the recent mishaps involving small children "couldn't have been prevented even if a police car had been in the block."

Mayor Henry Loeb issued a proclamation two days later designating the week of May 20-26 as "Child Safety Week" in the area.

Youth Music Festival Scheduled

The Northeast State Youth Music Festival for junior and senior high school students will commence June 8 with sessions on orchestra, chorus, stage bands, instrument clinics, and twirling, and the Cheerleading School will open June 11.

The Festival will run through June 16 and the Cheerleading School through June 15, Dr. Harry M. Lemert, dean of the division of fine arts, has announced.

Nationally known music educators will be directors, instructors and clinicians at the Festival. Among them will be Butler R. Eitel, conductor and euphonium soloist from Edina - Morningside, Minn., High School Band; Barbara Emminger, national twirling champion from the University of Georgia; Bernard H. Stiner, director of instrumental music in the Waukegan, Ill. Public Schools; and Walter C. Minniear, director of the Fair Park (Shreveport) High School band and orchestra.

The carefully planned program will include training in band, orchestra, choral work and twirling. Solo performances and demonstrations by the staff will offer Festival participants numerous opportunities to become acquainted with the finest examples of musical performance.

Music teachers, school band and orchestra directors and parents of participants are invited to attend the Festival clinics, rehearsals and performances.

Registration for music and twirling students will be held in Biedenharn Hall Auditorium June from 1 to 5 p.m. Cheerleading School students will register June 10 between 1 and 5 p.m., also in Biedenharn Auditorium.

Fees for the Music and Twirling clinics will be $20 for non-residents without rooms and meals and $40 for residents to include nine days' housing and 2 meals.

Fees for Cheerleading School are $15 non - resident and $30 resident.

Persons registering after May 20 will be assessed a late registration fee of $5.

Monroe Man Is Cited In Times Issue

CHARLES C. WHITTELSEY

Monroe's Charles C. Whittelsey was recently the subject of an extensive, detailed article in the New York Times which characterized him as "a Southerner, an engineer and a professional buyer of all sorts of things, to a total far in excess of $1,000,000,000."

The article traces Whittelsey's rise since 1925 with Ford, Bacon and Davis, one of the country's oldest engineering and management consultant companies, to become chairman in 1959.

Whittelsey began with the company's construction branch, Ford, Bacon and Davis Construction Corporation, which maintains headquarters in Monroe.

At his start he was a $175-a-month field engineer fresh out of the Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy.

Today, his company serves as an appraiser of the feasibility of a major undertaking. Very often it provides the final approval or disapproval of multi - million-dollar financings by municipalities, bond houses, investment syndicates, insurance companies and others in the Wall Street community.

Ford, Bacon and Davis is also involved in a wide variety of design engineering and construction work.

Whittelsey's part in the operation is broad and varied. He directs several hundreds of engineers and specialists whose projects range from, say, the commercial possibilities of muskrat farming in Louisiana to analization of U. S Steel's operations.

Lately, for instance, he has had part in rebuilding an Australian railroad, checking Turkish investment opportunities and forecasting the asbestos market on a world scale.

The great Monroe and Amarillo, Tex., gas fields were just opening when he joined the company in 1925. He was to take part in the pioneering of the great natural gas pipelines expansion of the time.

Pipelines, those of the high-pressure, long - distance sort, have since come to be an integral part of the operations of his company, which got its start in 1894 electrifying horse - drawn trolleys.

Whittelsey in the process has developed a philosophy to the effect that pipelines are the most efficient and economical mass freight movers than can now be conceived.

He envisions the day when huge pipelines will stretch across the nation, speeding along cargoes of ore, grain, coal and other bulk products now hauled by truck and rail.

But he has other fields in which to claim fame, and he has a reputation in the world of business for getting things done in a hurry.

During World War II he supervised the construction — completed two months ahead of schedule — of the first synthetic rubber plant, a $60 million job, on an open field in Charleston, W. Va., in 1942-43.

His next crash war - time project was to build a plant in Tennessee for "some new kind of explosive." The Oak Ridge project is described by Whittelsey as the most complex and costly single construction effort in history.

But, besides being a businessman and a man of action spending half his business time away from his office, in lower Manhattan he is a quail hunter and a fisherman.

He was born May 28, 1901, in Birmingham, Ala., and is married to the former Miss Alice Yeldell.

College Band In Forsythe Concert Today

The Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce will present, this Sunday, the Northeast Louisiana State College Concert Band, under the directorship of Joe Barry Mullins, at 1:45 p.m. at Forsythe Park. The concert series, has proved to be "highly successful," according to Jack Murphy, Jaycee project chairman.

The Northeast Louisiana Concert Band has held concerts at the Bossier High School, the North Caddo High School, and the Fair Park High School; all located in the Shreveport, Louisiana area recently. The band has received a special invitation to be the featured college band in the finale concert at the Mid - South Band Clinic to be held in Memphis later this year. Two concert presentations have, also, been tentatively scheduled in Mobile, Alabama in December.

The concert band's director, Joe Barry Mullins, is the associate professor of music, at Northeast Louisiana State College, where he has been instructing for the past twelve years and completed his MM degree.

The Sunday program will begin promptly at 1:45 p.m., fifteen minutes earlier than the regular concert series, due to another commitment the Northeast Louisiana Concert Band must fill later in the afternoon. The program will include "The Star Spangled Banner," "The Free Lance March" by John Phillip Sousa, the score from the upcoming United Artists Academy Award Winning motion picture "The West Side Story" by Bernstein, "Sarafand" a march by Willcocks, "Flight Of The Bumblebee" featuring marimba solist Mike Brown, "Chant and Jubilo" by McBeth, "Minuet and Dance Of The Blessed Spirits" by Gluck featuring flute solist Keith Pettway, and the "Manhattan Beach March" by Sousa.

Jaycee chairman, Jack Murphy, stated there is no donation or admission fee to enjoy the Sunday afternoon concerts. Families are urged to come to the park, complete with picnic baskets, after church services and enjoy this good, wholesome entertainment. Chairs will be provided in the bandstand area.

Priest To Vsit Masonic Lodge

The Grand High Priest of Royal Arch Masons will visit West Monroe Masonic Lodge Chapter No. 93, Royal Arch Masons Monday night.

A banquet will be held in his honor. The meeting is described as important and all Royal Arch Masons are urged to attend. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. with the meeting to follow.

CIVIL WAR REMINDER

Grant's March Is Marked By Plaque Near Tallulah

"HE WENT THATAWAY . . ." Francis Ward, head of the Madison Parish Civil War Centennial Committee looks south in the direction Union General U. S. Grant took in his march through Madison and Tensas Parishes in 1863. Twenty-seven plaques are being erected to mark the route. Commenmoration of the march will be held June 2 at Tallulah and Vicksburg with Governors Jimmie H. Davis and Ross Barnett in attendance.

The newly - erected plaque at Milliken's Bend, near Tallulah, marks the place where Union General U. S. Grant began his march south through Madison and Tensas Parishes in early 1863 in his attack on Vicksburg, the last Confederate stronghold on the Mississippi River.

The route of Grant's army through the two parishes has been permanently marked with 27 plaques by the Louisiana Civil War Centennial Commission and numerous road markers have been installed by the Madison and Tensas Parish Civil War Centennial Committees.

At Milliken's Bend at daybreak of June 7, 1863, Confederate General Henry E. MvCulloch successfully lead his Texas Bridage against the Union forces which guarded the supply depot here. The Union forces, supported by the ironclad "Choctaw," then overpowered the Confederate troops who were forced to withdraw.

This was the second Civil War battle in which Negro troops were employed by the North.

Grant's march will be commemorated June 2 through joint efforts of the Mississippi and Louisiana Civil War Centennial Commissions. The Saturday program will start at Tallulah, La., at 10:00 a.m. with Governors Ross Barnett and Jimmie H. Davis, and include a motorcade over part of the route, a parade of the Mississippi and Louisiana Greys in Vicksburg, memorial services at Vicksburg National Military Park and a fireworks display from barges in the river in the evening.

Civil War buffs and the general public are invited to the commemoration.

Neal Services Are Set Today; Died On Friday

A prayer service in the chapel of Mulhearn Funeral Home will precede funeral services today for Barnell Elmer Neal Jr., 37, of 313 South McGuire St., who died in a local hospital Friday night.

The prayer service will be held at 1:15 p.m. with funeral services to follow at 2:30 p.m. at Mount Zion Baptist Church near Spearsville with the Revs. N. T. Smith and J. C. Houston officiating.

Burial will be in Mount Zion Cemetery under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

Mr. Neal, a native of Union Parish, had made his home in Monroe for the past several years where he was in construction work. He was a member of the Baptist church and a veteran of World War II.

Mr Neal is survived by his widow, Mrs. Joyce Neal, Monroe; one daughter, Phyllis Gayle Neal, Monroe; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Neal Sr., Monroe; two sons, Eugene and Roger Neal, both of Farmerville; three sisters, Mrs. F. K. Mize, Abilene, Tex., Mrs. R. P. Graves and Mrs. Joe DeMoss, both of Monroe; and one brother, Dan Neal, of Monroe.

Serving as pallbearers will be Grady Kight, Dale Morgan, Gay Morrison, Alford Reppond, Troy Duncan and O. E. Tucker.

Negroes Booked In Gaming Case

Eight Negroes were booked for gambling and disturbing the peace by Monroe police after they were allegedly caught "shooting dice" shortly after 12-midnight Friday.

The eight were taken into custody at 604½ rear Adams Street and booked at 12:05 a.m. Saturday.

The five were identified as Wilson Brown, 53 of 704 Adams St.; John Moorehead, 42 of 1415 Texas Ave.; Lennon Foster, 39 of 200 North 18th St.; Johnnie Wilson, 52 of 110 Shotwell St.; Albert Williams, Oak St.; Clyde Lain, 35 of 114 Forrest Lawn, Raymond Haynes, 39 of 818 Layton St., and Harper L. Caldahugh, 34 of 607 Adams, St., all of Monroe.

They were all being held under $290 bonds with the exception of Brown, whose bond was set at $500.

PAYS WAR REPARATIONS

TOKYO (AP) — Japan has paid $350 million in reparations and economic technical assistance to Southeast Asian countries. This represents 34.4 per cent of Japan's World War II reparations obligations.

Burglary, Theft Are Investigated

The burglary of a Monroe law office and theft of a tire and wheel are under investigation by Monroe police.

Officers discovered that the law offices of Layton and Pipes located at 316 South Grand St. had been burglarized when they checked the building at 1:30 a.m. Saturday. Entrance had been gained through a rear window and an undetermined amount of money taken from Robert Layton's office inside.

Also being probed is the theft of a spare tire and wheel from a 1961 Volkswagen while it was parked at Madison Hall on Northeast State College campus. The theft occurred April 13, and was reported Saturday by the owner of the car, Mrs Pharis Corder, of 3402 Lincoln St.

Plays Scheduled By Speech Class

The Northeast State speech 74 class will present three one act plays in a program Tuesday, May 22, at 7:30 p.m. in Biedenharn Hall Auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

The three plays will be "Bread" directed by David Terry and Margie Thompson, both of Monroe; "Suppressed Desire" directed by Mitchell Goldman of Monroe and Sherry Wells of Bastrop; and "The Boor" directed by Mike Parkerson of Monroe and Sara Womack of Bastrop.

"HE WENT THATAWAY . . ." Francis Ward, head of the Madison Parish Civil War Centennial Committee looks south in the direction Union General U. S. Grant took in his march through Madison and Tensas Parishes in 1863. Twenty-seven plaques are being erected to mark the route. Commenmoration of the march will be held June 2 at Tallulah and Vicksburg with Governors Jimmie H. Davis and Ross Barnett in attendance.

CIVIL WAR REMINDER

Grant's March Is Marked By Plaque Near Tallulah

The newly - erected plaque at Milliken's Bend, near Tallulah, marks the place where Union General U. S. Grant began his march south through Madison and Tensas Parishes in early 1863 in his attack on Vicksburg, the last Confederate stronghold on the Mississippi River.

The route of Grant's army through the two parishes has been permanently marked with 27 plaques by the Louisiana Civil War Centennial Commission and numerous road markers have been installed by the Madison and Tensas Parish Civil War Centennial Commission.

At Milliken's Bend at daybreak of June 7, 1863, Confederate General Henry E. McCulloch successfully lead his Texas Bridage against the Union forces which guarded the supply depot here. The Union forces, supported by the ironclad "Choctaw," then overpowered the Confederate troops who were forced to withdraw.

This was the second Civil War battle in which Negro troops were employed by the North.

Grant's march will be commemorated June 2 through joint efforts of the Mississippi and Louisiana Civil War Centennial Commissions. The Saturday program will start at Tallulah, La., at 10:00 a.m. with Governors Ross Barnett and Jimmie H. Davis, and include a motorcade over part of the route, a parade of the Mississippi and Louisiana Greys in Vicksburg, memorial services at Vicksburg National Military Park and a fireworks display from barges in the river in the evening.

Civil War buffs and the general public are invited to the commemoration.

YMCA-YWCA DAY CAMP scheduled to begin June 11 at Forsythe Park will have numerous activities for youngsters attending, such as the boys learning safety with firearms, above, and the girls getting patriotic instruction on the flag, below, during last year's camp.

Day Camps Start June 11

Twin Cities YMCA camp committee chairman Buster Crowley today announced six weeks of YMCA-YWCA day camping will get underway June 11.

About 500 Ouachita Parish boys and girls are expected to participate in the program, marking its eighth consecutive year in 1962.

Forsythe Park will serve again as the camp site and headquarters for swimming, boating, hiking, fishing, handicrafts, horseback riding, archery, hiking, singing, devotionals, athletics and educational trips.

Crowley also said that the YMCA will conduct four weeks of resident camping for boys 9-14 on Volmans Lake, Riverton, June 25 - July 21.

"The camp site consists of many acres of beautiful woodland and open field. It is bordered on one side by the Ouachita River and another by the lake," Crowley said.

The YMCA will sponsor a week long canoe camp-trip for boys 15-18 July 23-28. The trek will begin at YMCA Camp Kiwani 30 miles north of Shreveport and range through 70 miles of Caddo Lake's wilderness. Twenty young men along with four adult leaders will make overnight camps in tents on different sites each night. YMCA will provide transportation to Shreveport for all campers.

Information on the day camp, resident camp and canoe camp will be given by John Dobbins of the Twin Cities YMCA, FA 2-2791.

The YMCA and Swayze swimming pools will serve the day campers for recreation and instruction. Each camper will be instructed according to the National YMCA aquatic program. Last summer, 114 campers were taught to swim and 271 passed other swimming tests.

Day campers will be divided into groups of 10-12 youngsters of the same age, who will plan their activities with a counselor.

Resident camping director Tom Causey, a teacher at Jefferson Junior High, said his program will consist of swimming, hiking, crafts, boating, nature study, devotionals, campfire programs and many other activities.

YMCA youth counselor John Dobbins will direct the day camp. Ken Bates will serve as head boys counselor. Miss Bess Sharp, YWCA executive secretary, will be the girls' program directer. Miss Cindy Gulkey will be head girls counselor.

Charles Ackel, Jackie Holdsworth, Butch Hoffman, Jerry Huckabee, Mac Ward, Jr., Lamond Whitten, Mike McCready and Tom Causey will serve as boys counselors.

Girls Counselors will be Susan Benton, Genger Dean, Sandy Hootsell, Marguerite May and Dale Gulkey.

Counselors-in-training for boys are Louis Bernhardt, Chuck Gain, Mickey Cook, Byron Davis, David McGee and Billy Wilkerson. Counselors - in - training for girls are Jane Brimberry, Maureen Halpin, Barbara Koontz, Diana Lawn, Jan Mason, Lucille Morton and Judy Stigall.

Junior counselors are Bobby Bernhardt, Billy Bryan, Frank Harmon, Reggie Henry, Janet Brueck, Carol Holdsworth and Sallie Suddduth.

U.S. Military Forces Back Diplomacy In Asia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Time will tell whether the United States went to the brink of war in Southeast Asia this week.

The government clearly was willing to do so if it came to that. And there was no conspicuous opposition in the political parties to President Kennedy's course, which resulted in significant new strategic dispositions 10,000 miles away in Southeast Asia.

After the pattern cut in the Eisenhower-John Foster Dulles years for meeting Communist threats and thrusts, Kennedy ordered a 5,000-man land and air force deployed in Thailand and had on the alert any additional amount of force that might conceivably be necessary.

It was a huge display of military power in the circumstances. It came at the end of a week in which fighting had erupted in neighboring Laos and then simmered down with red gains that were marked but apparently less than they could have been.

The purpose was not to let hostilities take up where diplomacy left off. But it was to make entirely clear that military power is an instrument America always has ready at hand in necessary quantities to back up its diplomacy and help put its policies into effect.

It was unmistakable new evidence for the Sino-Soviet bloc of the flexibility and mobility of that power. It was a guarantee to Thailand, a treaty ally made nervous by Red gains in bordering Laos, that its frontier would be defended — however likely or unlikely any probes by the Communist Pathet Lao might seem now.

The maneuver was reminiscent of actions in the 1950's in the Formosa Straits when Red China threatened the off shore islands and in Lebanon in the 1958 Middle East crisis.

In Lebanon, the United States put 7,000 men ashore in three days, and eventually had 14,000 there. Gen. Paul D. Adams, chief of the U. S. Army and Air Force strike command, recently raised the question in a military publication of why the United States put so much power into Lebanon.

His answer was that success came from having "enough visible military strength in the area of operations to defeat any military force in the area that could be marshalled against us."

That would appear to be the object in Thailand as well. Whether it constitutes "brinkmanship" is a matter of opinion at the moment.

In the new strategic dispositions resulting from the Laotian crisis, the United States now has powerful forces moving into Thailand equipped with everything from guerilla fighters' knives to supersonic jet planes that can carry atomic bombs.

These forces are under the same over-all commander, Gen. Paul D. Harkins, as the 6,000 U.S. instructors and advisers in South Viet Nam.

The events in Southeast Asia and U.S. reaction to them starkly underlined the global commitments of American military power and the reason it is being expanded.

U.S. Military Forces Back Diplomacy In Asia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Time will tell whether the United States went to the brink of war in Southeast Asia this week.

The government clearly was willing to do so if it came to that. And there was no conspicuous opposition in the political parties to President Kennedy's course, which resulted in significant new strategic dispositions 10,000 miles away in Southeast Asia.

After the pattern cut in the Eisenhower-John Foster Dulles years for meeting Communist threats and thrusts, Kennedy ordered a 5,000-man land and air force deployed in Thailand and had on the alert any additional amount of force that might conceivably be necessary.

It was a huge display of military power in the circumstances. It came at the end of a week in which fighting had erupted in neighboring Laos and then simmered down with red gains that were marked but apparently less than they could have been.

The purpose was not to let hostilities take up where diplomacy left off. But it was to make entirely clear that military power is an instrument America always has ready at hand in necessary quantities to back up its diplomacy and help put its policies into effect.

It was unmistakable new evidence for the Sino-Soviet bloc of the flexibility and mobility of that power. It was a guarantee to Thailand, a treaty ally made nervous by Red gains in bordering Laos, that its frontier would be defended — however likely or unlikely any probes by the Communist Pathet Lao might seem now.

The maneuver was reminiscent of actions in the 1950's in the Formosa Straits when Red China threatened the off shore islands and in Lebanon in the 1958 Middle East crisis.

In Lebanon, the United States put 7,000 men ashore in three days, and eventually had 14,000 there. Gen. Paul D. Adams, chief of the U. S. Army and Air Force strike command, recently raised the question in a military publication of why the United States put so much power into Lebanon.

His answer was that success came from having "enough visible military strength in the area of operations to defeat any military force in the area that could be marshalled against us."

That would appear to be the object in Thailand as well. Whether it constitutes "brinkmanship" is a matter of opinion at the moment.

In the new strategic dispositions resulting from the Laotian crisis, the United States now has powerful forces moving into Thailand equipped with everything from guerilla fighters' knives to supersonic jet planes that can carry atomic bombs.

These forces are under the same over-all commander, Gen. Paul D. Harkins, as the 6,000 U.S. instructors and advisers in South Viet Nam.

The events in Southeast Asia and U.S. reaction to them starkly underlined the global commitments of American military power and the reason it is being expanded.

YMCA-YWCA DAY CAMP scheduled to begin June 11 at Forsythe Park will have numerous activities for youngsters attending, such as the boys learning safety with firearms, above, and the girls getting patriotic instruction on the flag, below, during last year's camp.

Day Camps Start June 11

Twin Cities YMCA camp committee chairman Buster Crowley today announced six weeks of YMCA-YWCA day camping will get underway June 11.

About 500 Ouachita Parish boys and girls are expected to participate in the program, marking its eighth consecutive year in 1962.

Forsythe Park will serve again as the camp site and headquarters for swimming, boating, skiiing, fishing, handicrafts, horseback riding, archery, hiking, singing, devotionals, athletics and educational trips.

Crowley also said that the YMCA will conduct four weeks of resident camping for boys 9-13 on Volmans Lake, Riverton, June 25 - July 21.

"The camp site consists of many acres of beautiful woodland and open fields. It is bordered on one side by the Ouachita River and another by the lake," Crowley said.

The YMCA will sponsor a week-long canoe camp-trip for boys 15-18 July 23-28. The trek will begin at YMCA Camp Kiwanis, 30 miles north of Shreveport and range through 70 miles of Caddo Lake's wilderness. Twenty young men, along with four adult leaders, will make overnight camps in tents on different sites each night. YMCA will provide transportation to Shreveport for participants.

Information on the day camp, resident camp and canoe camp will be given by John Dobbins of the Twin Cities YMCA, FA 5-7391.

The YMCA and Swayze swimming pools will serve the day campers for recreation and instruction. Each camper will be instructed according to the National YMCA aquatic program. Last summer, 114 campers were taught to swim and 271 passed other swimming tests.

Day campers will be divided into groups of 10-12 youngsters of the same age, who will plan their activities with a counselor.

Resident camping director Tom Causey, a teacher at Jefferson Junior High, said his program will consist of swimming, hiking, crafts, boating, nature study, devotionals, campfire programs and many other activities.

YMCA youth counselor John Dobbins will direct the day camp. Ken Bates will serve as head boys counselor. Miss Bess Sharp, YWCA executive secretary, will be the girls' program director. Miss Cindy Guilkey will be head girls counselor.

Charles Ackel, Jocko Holdsworth, Butch Hoffman, Jerry Huckabee, Mac Ward, Jr., Lamond Whitten, Mike McCready and Tom Causey will serve as boys counselors.

Girls Counselors will be Susan Benton, Genger Dean, Sandy Hootsell, Marguerite May and Dale Guilkey.

Counselors-in-training for boys are Louis Bernhardt, Chuck Gain, Mickey Cook, Byron Davis, David McGee and Billy Wilkerson. Counselors-in-training for girls are Jane Brimberry, Maureen Halpin, Barbara Koontz, Diana Lawn, Jan Mason, Lucille Morton and Judy Stigall.

Junior counselors are Bobby Bernhardt, Billy Bryan, Frank Harmon, Reggie Henry, Janet Brueck, Carol Holdsworth and Sallie Suddduth.

Reading Class Is Scheduled At Northeast

A remedial reading institute will be held from June 6 to July 18 at Northeast Louisiana State College Special Education Center, Dr. Levelle Haynes, director of special education, has announced.

The institute lecture sessions will meet daily from 8:30 to 9:45 a.m. to evaluate past practices, to exchange ideas and to stimulate thinking on more effective and efficient teaching and diagnosite procedures in the field of reading.

Opportunity for working with individual disabled readers will be given in a laboratory session, which meets from 10 a.m. to 12 noon each day to put into practice ideas gained during lecture periods.

Corrective instruction will be given as part of the teacher-training function of the institute. Individual instruction by experienced teachers will be given to the children permitting them to progress at their own rate and interest level.

Before a child will be allowed to participate in the program he will be screened diagnostically. During the screening an intelligence test, a word recognition test and reading tests will be administered to determine the student's capacity and reading level.

Only students who have average or above average intelligence and have a reading level which is at least one year below their expected level will be invited to participate.

In - service teachers enrolled in the institute may receive six semester hours of graduate or undergraduate credit in Education 146, Teaching of Remedial Reading, and Education 147, Diagnosis and Correction of Reading Difficulties.

Nationally known authorities about reading and reading problems will be speakers during the institute. They are William Sheldon, George Spache, Ralph C. Staiger, Carlene Vandergraft and Gertrude Bruchlackler.

Exhibitis of new materials and equipment related to reading will be shown by various companies at the institute, and there will also be a complete display of childrens' books arranged according to the various interest and reading levels.

MRS. CORALIE HEARD WHITE

PIANO SOLOIST

Concert Band Set For Event Today

The Northeast Louisiana State College Concert Band, directed by Joe Barry Mullins, will give a concert open to the public on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Brown Hall Auditorium.

Carolie Heard White, pianist from West Monroe, will be featured in a rendition of Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue.

Keith Pettway, flutist from Vicksburg, Miss., will be heard in Minuet and Dance of the Blessed Spirits by Gluck.

This outstanding 61 member concert band has been in demand throughout the state for several years and recently played concerts at Bossier High School, North Caddo High School and Fair Park High School n Shreveport.

Other music to be included in the Sunday afternoon concert in Brown Auditorium are Over the Hills and Far Away by Grainger, Toccata and Fugue in D Minor by Bach, Chant and Jubilo by McBeth, Symphony for Band (4th movement) by Persichetti.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Pettway of Vicksburg, Miss., Keith is an instrumental music major also. He was collegiate soloist from Louisiana to the Southern division of National Music Teachers Convention this year.

AIR SERVICE TO RESUME

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Philippine Airlines' international service, suspended in 1954, will be resumed June 20 with a Manila-Honolulu - San Francisco run.

Two Injured, Pole Broken In Accident

An early Saturday morning wreck on South Grand Street resulted in two persons being injured and left a telephone pole broken, electric and telephone wires down in the street and a street speed limit sign knocked down.

Monroe police rushed to the scene of the accident after it was reported by an unidentified passerby at 2 a.m. The wreck occurred in the 1400 block of South Grand Street.

When officers arrived at the scene of the accident, they were unable to locate the occupants of the vehicle. However, minutes later two youths found running down the street at the intersection of St. John and Bry streets.

One was identified as the driver of the vehicle — Ronald K. Mays, 24 of 210½ South Riverfront St., West Monroe. The other youth, Billy Ray Wilkens, 16 of 1302 Nina St., West Monroe, was an occupant in the vehicle. Both were taken to E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital for emergency treatment.

The Wilkens youth sustained a severe laceration of the head and a fractured skull while Mays suffered bruises and abrasions. He was kept overnight for observation and released Saturday, but Wilkens was still hospitalized last night.

According to investigating officers, the car apparently was traveling at a high rate of speed, left the street, clipped the telephone off even with the ground and traveled approximately 50 feet after the impact.

The vehicle also knocked down a 25 mile per hour speed zone sign and in breaking the telephone pole, caused electric wires and telephone wires to be broken and fall into the street. The street lights and fire alarm system, attached to the pole, were also damaged and knocked out of commission. The telephone company and utilities company were notified and soon cleared the street of wires.

The wreck was still under investigation by police Saturday.

26 DIE IN EPIDEMIC

DACCA, Pakistan (AP)—Twenty-six persons, mostly children, have died in a cholera epidemic in Narayanganj, 12 miles from Dacca, officials announced Saturday. A town official said the epidemic has been effectively controlled now and the population inoculated.

Shot Fired At Car Wounds Officer

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A bullet fired by a Texas highway patrolman at a speeding auto ricocheted and struck the officer in the leg early Saturday.

First reports were that the officer, Ralph W. Allen of Queen City, Tex., was wounded by a gun fired from a speeding car he pursued.

Caddo Parish Sheriff J. Howell said Allen was in good condition in a hospital in Texarkana.

Flournoy said the teen-agers were Johnny Heflin, 18, Shreveport, and Jerry Addie, 18, Ida. They were arrested about 30 miles north of Shreveport, shortly after they were forced to abandon Addie's car because one of the tires was shot out.

Decker Warns U.S. To Fight If Necessary

BERLIN (UPI) — Gen. George H. Decker, U.S. Army chief of staff, said Saturday "awesome combat power" will be used if necessary in southeast Asia but he did not believe American troops in Thailand would enter Laos.

He said American troops had been sent to Thailand to prevent a Communist takeover there "and it is not to be assumed that they will have to intervene in Laos."

Decker, in an Armed Forces Day speech, said awesome American combat power will be used both in Europe and Southeast Asia if required.

Decker said American soldiers in Laos were there as advisers and not to fight. But he said they would defend themselves if they were attacked.

AIR SERVICE TO RESUME

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Philippine Airlines' international service, suspended in 1954, will be resumed June 20 with a Manila-Honolulu - San Francisco run.

Two Injured, Pole Broken In Accident

An early Saturday morning wreck on South Grand Street resulted in two persons being injured and left a telephone pole broken, electric and telephone wires down in the street and a street speed limit sign knocked down.

Monroe police rushed to the scene of the accident after it was reported by an unidentified passerby at 2 a.m. The wreck occurred in the 1400 block of South Grand Street.

When officers arrived at the scene of the accident, they were unable to locate the occupants of the vehicle. However, minutes later two youths found running down the street at the intersection of St. John and Bry streets.

One was identified as the driver of the vehicle — Ronald K. Mays, 24 of 210½ South Riverfront St., West Monroe. The other youth, Billy Ray Wilkens, 16 of 1302 Nina St., West Monroe, was an occupant in the vehicle. Both were taken to E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital for emergency treatment.

The Wilkens youth sustained a severe laceration of the head and a fractured skull while Mays suffered bruises and abrasions. He was kept overnight for observation and released Saturday, but Wilkens was still hospitalized last night.

According to investigating officers, the car apparently was traveling at a high rate of speed, left the street, clipped the telephone off even with the ground and traveled approximately 50 feet after the impact.

The vehicle also knocked down a 25 mile per hour speed zone sign and in breaking the telephone pole, caused electric wires and telephone wires to be broken and fall into the street. The street lights and fire alarm system, attached to the pole, were also damaged and knocked out of commission. The telephone company and utilities company were notified and soon cleared the street of wires.

The wreck was still under investigation by police Saturday.

26 DIE IN EPIDEMIC

DACCA, Pakistan (AP)—Twenty-six persons, mostly children, have died in a cholera epidemic in Narayanganj, 12 miles from Dacca, officials announced Saturday. A town official said the epidemic has been effectively controlled now and the population inoculated.

Shot Fired At Car Wounds Officer

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A bullet fired by a Texas highway patrolman at a speeding auto ricocheted and struck the officer in the leg early Saturday.

First reports were that the officer, Ralph W. Allen of Queen City, Tex., was wounded by a gun fired from a speeding car he pursued.

Caddo Parish Sheriff J. Howell said Allen was in good condition in a hospital in Texarkana.

Flournoy said the teen-agers were Johnny Heflin, 18, Shreveport, and Jerry Addie, 18, Ida. They were arrested about 30 miles north of Shreveport, shortly after they were forced to abandon Addie's car because one of the tires was shot out.

Class Favorites Are Chosen For NLSC Yearbook

Class favorites for the Chacahoula, Northeast Louisiana State College yearbook, were chosen in a run-off election Saturday following the selection of only one winner in the primary.

Lanny Johnson, a health and physical education major from Monroe, won the favorite senior man title by a big majority in the primary. The victory was a repeat for Johnson, who captured the honor during his junior year.

Carol Shipp, another H. and P. E. major from Monroe, won top place among the senior women in the run-off.

Favorites in the junior class were Julia Ann Reagan, Monroe home economics student, and William Bobo, social studies education major from Kilbourne.

Winners in the sophomore group were Sylvia Hayden, elementary education student from West Monroe, and Charles McDonald, health and physical education student from Oakdale.

Taking freshman honors were Jane Loker, pre-engineering major from Monroe, and Chris Posey, English student from Shreveport.

Competing with Miss Shipp for senior favorite were Sandy Edwards, Kirby Mooney and Pansy Riser.

Junior class students in competition with Bobo and Miss Reagan were Brownie Goodreaux and Carolyn Oubre.

Sophomore candidates besides McDonald and Miss Hayden were Gene Hufty, Betsy McBride and Sandra Stancil.

Largest number of candidates were competing for the freshman class titles. Besides Miss Loker and Posey were: Tommy Edmonson, Bob Flanagan, Palmer Willett, Jim Robinson, John Varino, Judy Cathey, Dixie Harvey and Penny Williams.

New Frontier Texas Issue

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The New Frontier became an increasingly prominent issue Saturday as John Connally and Don Yarborough crisscrossed Texas searching for votes in the second Democratic primary two weeks from now.

Underlying the issue is the age-old Texas controversy between conservatives and liberals, with an unusual twist. Neither has ever held elective office.

Connally was the New Frontier's first secretary of the Navy and is identified in the minds of most voters as a close friend of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson a Texan, President Kennedy; and the late House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

But it is not Connally who is running on a New Frontier platform, although he declares he still is a friend of administration leaders.

His platform carries opposition to some pet New Frontier projects, including medical care for the aged and certain forms of federal aid to schools.

Connaly managed or helped in all Johnson's campaigns and nominated him for president at the 1956 Democratic convention.

Yarborough, 36, is a Houston attorney backed by COPE, the AFL-CIO political organization, although some unions in Texas have endorsed neither.

The young lawyer also is generally backed by liberal groups but found his greatest strength in counties which in the past have swung to Gov. Prince Daniel, who is not considered liberal.

Yarborough has called for a New Frontier in Texas—particularly, he says, in acceptance of new ideas. He charges that Connally is an "admitted, proven and confessed lobbyist for Eastern oil and gas monopolies."

Connally replies that he is only a lobbyist for all the people.

Connally, 45, a Fort Worth attorney, claims that the liberal Americans for Democratic action is fighting his candidacy.

He says the ADA has "appointed itself to tell the people how they should think" and adds that ADA "thinks about 100 per cent the opposite of the way most Texans think."

Car Hits Children

NEW YORK (UPI) — A car driven by a Roman Catholic bishop en route to preside over confirmation ceremonies hurtled out of control Saturday into a group of 150 children assembled for the religious rites, injuring at least 20 of them.

Driver of the car which ran into the lined up children from behind was identified by police as the Most Rev. Joseph P. Denning, auxiliary bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn.

Twenty children, between the ages of 10 and 14, were taken to two nearby hospitals, Elmhurst and St. Johns. At Elmhurst, officials said three of the youngsters are in critical condition

Jackson Slated For Speech At Civitan Meeting

State Superintendent of Education Shelby Jackson will address the Civitan International Northwest Louisiana District convention today at 10 a.m., on retarded children, at the Penn Resort Hotel.

More than 100 delegates, plus their wives and children, are attending the two - day convention which winds up today.

Local Civitans are interested in Jackson's topic, having launched the Cerebral Palsy school, the Monroe Area Vocational Training and Evaluation Center at Selman Field, and redecoration of Cooley hospital for retarded children.

"Inside Civitan" will be the subject of Civitan International Executive Secretary Rudolph T. Hubbard of Birmingham at noon today during the installation banquet.

As editor of "The Civitan" magazine Hubbard has been honored by American Heritage Foundation and the Freedom Foundstion, Valley Forge, Pa.

Delegates will breakfast this morning at 7:30 in the Penn's Four Seasons Room, then hold a business session at 9.

Boat - riding on the Ouachita River will be provided for the wives whiile a final business session is conducted at 2:30 p.m. Wives also will be escorted on a guided tour of Monroe shortly before noon.

Jimmy Herren, convention chairman, said that officials attending the meeting included Carl L. McCafferty, Tulsa, International vice president; W. J. Keating, Alexandria, district governor; J. Hall LeBlanc, Alexandria, International membership chairman; and Hubbard.

Hosts for the convention, headquartered at the Penn, are Civitan clubs of Monroe and West Monroe.

Woman, Children Sought; Mother Is Hospitalized

A woman and three children, believed to have lived in Monroe, are being sought by Georgia authorities in behalf of the young woman's mother who is hospitalized in Auusta, Ga.

Sheriff George C. Mutimer from Richard County, Ga., in Augusta, wrote the Ouachita sheriff's department seeking aid in locating Mrs. Catherine Kattie Butler Coleman. Sheriff Mutimer had information that she lived in Monroe at one time with her children.

She is described as being 34, five feet, five inches tall, weighing between 110 and 120 pounds and has black hair and blue eyes. The woman's mother, Mrs. Minnie Shuman Butler is in Talmadge Hospital in Augusta and is attempting to contact her daughter.

The last time Mrs. Butler heard from her daughter was when Mrs. Coleman lived in Monroe with her children.

Ouachita Parish Sheriff Bailey Grant is requesting any information that may lead to the whereabouts of this woman. Persons who may know her or know someone who fits her description are asked to call the sheriff's department at Fairfax 2-5123.

TIMING SAID PERFECT

Ability Of Davis Is Re-Evaluated

By SAM HANNA
World Legislative Writer

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, whether you are for him or against him, is an underrated man in political circles.

His timing on the introduction of the $60-million bond issue to help cover this year's deficit spending was perfect. The bill was brought into the House just 1½-hours after the Legislature convened Monday at noon.

This immediately stamped out any opposition that the administration might have encountered down the line on solving the deficit. Had the administration waited, there may have been time for opposition to organize for a fight.

At this moment the Legislature is in almost complete accord with the Davis administration on the bond issue.

Davis knew that it was too close to an election to pass a tax to cover the deficit. So before the Legislature had time to grow restless in anxiety over the administration's plans, he sent his assistant, Chris Faser, out to get enough signatures to assure the passage of a bond issue.

Faser circulated quietly through the House to get 57 solons on the dotted line — four more than were actually needed.

As one of the governor's floor leaders, Rep. T. T. Fields of Farmerville, put it, "Thirty days ago you would have thought this was going to be a wild session."

However, the administration will have its headaches before this 60-day session is over. The Legislative budget committee has recommended a reduction in state spending of $22 million.

This means that the departments of state government, like education, will not receive any extra revenues for new programs, salary increases and what-nots.

The administration may have to fight requests for additional revenues, despite the committee's recommendation for reduced spending. But the only department that is strong enough with the Legislature to give the administration trouble is the education department, headed by Supt. Shelby M. Jackson.

Jackson's budget is expected to be the same as it was this year — about $196 million, which means that there will not be any salary increases for school teachers.

Davis and Jackson may run head-on before the session is over while Sen. Jamar Adcock's resolution to make Jackson's position appointive rather than elective could come in mighty handy for the administration.

At any rate, there is a strong possibility that this session, which was supposed to be the one where the Legislature would flex its muscles, will be just as much of a honeymoon for Davis as his first regular session.

Quite a contrast to the days of the late Earl K. Long, who created fights when he couldn't find one. Jimmie Davis just avoids them.

The administration has introduced a bill to permit any newspaper in Louisiana with a daily circulation of 10,000 or more to be disignated as the official journal of the state.

At present the Manship-owned Baton Rouge State Times is the official journal of the state, printing all of the state's legal notices, which of course runs into quite a bit of money.

But it so happens that the State Times and its morning sister, the Morning Advocate, have not been too friendly toward the Davis administration.

When Robert F. Kennon was governor, he removed the state printing from the State Times and gave it to a new defunct paper, the North Baton Rouge Journal. Later on, however, he took it away from the Journal and gave it back to the State Times.

Davis may be repaying the State Times.

Comptroller Roy R. Theriot is sticking close to home now that the Legislature is in session, especially since the Little Hoover Commission introduced a bill to abolish his office.

Theriot is saying privately that he is not worried, that he has enough votes to kill the bill. Passage of the measure requires a two-thirds vote in both Houses.

But he says he'll still go to the people, stumping the entire state, if the Legislature votes to abolish the Comptroller's office. It would have to be approved by the public in a constitutional amendment election.

Theriot could be wrong about his votes in the Legislature, however, since the governor is powerful. If Davis decides to throw his entire support behind the bill, chances are it would pass without too much of a fight.

Although the Legislature has introduced over $22 million in special appropration bills, the so-called pork-barrel legislation is far less than it usually is.

This session where lawmakers like to lay claim to local projects — to take them back home prior to the next election.

But with state revenues the way they are, pet projects will be few and far between for members of the Legislature.

On top of that, Highway Director Ray Burgess is telling lawmakers that unless the $60 million highway bond issue, which should not be confused with the governor's deficit bond issue, is approved by the people next November, there will not be any blacktopping for farm-to-market roads.

There is a big difference between the Governor's deficit bond issue and the highway program bond issue. The People will not get a chance to vote on the $60-million bond program to cover the deficit, but they will be asked to approve at the polls the highway department's $60 - million bond issue for highways next November.

The highway department is expected to receive a reduced budget. That's why Burgess is saying that unless the bond issue passes, gravel roads will remain dusty.

Still on the subject of bond issues, Davis passed a $60-million bond issue at the out set of his four-year term for capital improvements, including the million-dollar mansion.

Provided the highway bond program and the deficit bond issue are adopted, the Davis Administration will have accounted for $180 million in bond issues.

But State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell says the state's bonded indebtedness can stand it.

Sen. Howard Jones of St. Joseph has introduced a bill to provide a pension for former governors or their widows until remarriage.

Jones' proposal calls for a $5,000 annual pension for life.

If the Legislature adopts the bill, it will mark the first governor's pension law in Louisiana.

At present there are four former governors still alive in Louisiana — Sam Jones of Lake Charles, James A. Noe of Monroe, Dick Leche of New Orleans, and Robert F. Kennon of Baton Rouge.

Davis would come under the bill.

However, Davis would not apply to the bill sponsored by the Little Hoover Commission to permit the governor to succeed himself.

TIMING SAID PERFECT

Ability Of Davis Is Re-Evaluated

By SAM HANNA
World Legislative Writer

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, whether you are for him or against him, is an underrated man in political circles.

His timing on the introduction of the $60-million bond issue to help cover this year's deficit spending was perfect. The bill was brought into the House just 1½-hours after the Legislature convened Monday at noon.

This immediately stamped out any opposition that the administration might have encountered down the line on solving the deficit. Had the administration waited, there may have been time for opposition to organize for a fight.

At this moment the Legislature is in almost complete accord with the Davis administration on the bond issue.

Davis knew that it was too close to an election to pass a tax to cover the deficit. So before the Legislature had time to grow restless in anxiety over the administration's plans, he sent his assistant, Chris Faser, out to get enough signatures to assure the passage of a bond issue.

Faser circulated quietly through the House to get 57 solons on the dotted line — four more than were actually needed.

As one of the governor's floor leaders, Rep. T. T. Fields of Farmerville, put it, "Thirty days ago you would have thought this was going to be a wild session."

However, the administration will have its headaches before this 60-day session is over. The Legislative budget committee has recommended a reduction in state spending of $22 million.

This means that the departments of state government, like education, will not receive any extra revenues for new programs, salary increases and what-nots.

The administration may have to fight requests for additional revenues, despite the committee's recommendation for reduced spending. But the only department that is strong enough with the Legislature to give the administration trouble is the education department, headed by Supt. Shelby M. Jackson.

Jackson's budget is expected to be the same as it was this year — about $196 million, which means that there will not be any salary increases for school teachers.

Davis and Jackson may run head-on before the session is over while Sen. Jamar Adcock's resolution to make Jackson's position appointive rather than elective could come in mighty handy for the administration.

At any rate, there is a strong possibility that this session, which was supposed to be the one where the Legislature would flex its muscles, will be just as much of a honeymoon for Davis as his first regular session.

BRINGS NEW CRISIS

Kennedy Policy Failure In Laos

WASHINGTON (AP)—The sudden crisis which swept U.S. troops unto Southeast Asia last week appears to have resulted in part from a failure of U.S. policy in Laos.

This has caused searching but so far informal discussion among high officials of the Kennedy administration about what went wrong and whether similar error can be avoided in future.

So far President Kennedy's angry dissatisfaction has centered on Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, strong man in the pro-Western royal Lao government of Premier Boun Oum.

The White House and State Department are understood to have told American representatives in the field that Phoumi's power must be curtailed—preferably by getting him to yield his various Cabinet positions and confine himself to purely military matters.

Administration informants said Saturday all U.S. government agencies involved in Laos have given assurances that they have loyally supported Kennedy's policy of trying to settle the dispute through formation of a three-way coalition government.

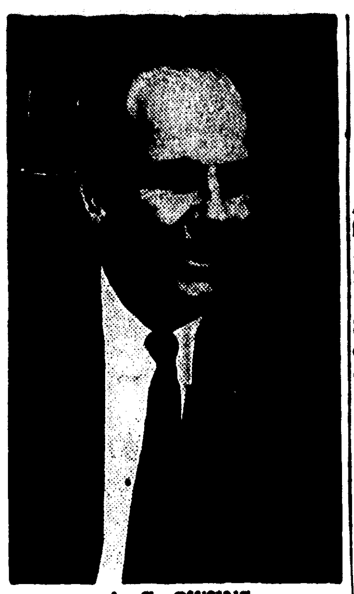
There have been suspicions, particularly in high quarters of the State Department, that some elements of the U.S. government might have been pulling against other elements and encouraging Phoumi to disregard the U.S. advice he was receiving officially.

This speculation arose because there are divisions within official Washington over whether a neutral Laos with a government of neutralists, Communists and pro-Western elements has any chance of withstanding an eventual Communist takeover.

With the long-distance support of Russia, the more immediate encouragement of Red China and the direct help of the neighboring Communist state of North Viet Nam, the Pathet Lao developed into a spearhead of a Red campaign to take over the country.

Several years ago, during the Eisenhower administration, the United States rejected a neutralist solution for Laos and the Boun Oum government took over as a strongly pro-Western regime. Gen. Phoumi became the central figure in the administration, reportedly with powerful backing from the CIA. As deputy premier, minister of defense and minister of the interior he has wide powers.

Health Meet Is Scheduled At Shreveport



A. G. OWENS

Twenty five members of area parish health units and the regional laboratory, State Department of Health, will attend the annual convention of the Louisiana Public Health Association, slated for the Captain Shreve Hotel, Shreveport, Wednesday through Friday.

Twenty three of these attending are from the Ouachita unit and regional laboratory in Monroe.

More than 300 public health workers from official and voluntary health groups are expected to attend the conference, A. G. Owens, Ruston, president of the state organization, said yesterday.

Owens, regional sanitarian for the northwest region of Louisiana will preside over the convention.

Among the speakers slated to address the convention, Owens said, are Dr. Roy T. Lester, manager, Washington office, American Medical Association, Washingtonn D. C.; Dr. William J. Martin, medical director, Louisiana Department of Public Welfare.

One of the highlights of the convention will be the presentation of 20-year service pins, which will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday. Among those slated to receive the pins are six from the Ouachita Parish unit and two from area parish units. These include Mrs. Lucille H. Durham, steno - clerk; Madeline Kelly, dental clerk; Louie B. Lee, sanitarian; Beryl S. Lord, steno - clerk; Osburne Willis, regional sanitation; and George W. Harris, custodial worker.

Cecile Kiper, steno - clerk of the Franklin parish unit, and Lela M. Knight, typist - clerk in the Catahoula unit, will receive their pins for 20 years of service.

Local delegates attending the convention include Dr. W. Carroll Summer, unit director; Mrs. Sally Snap, Alice Jones, Ethel Trapp and Miss Sandra Thrasher, nurses; Otha Trapp, Joe Collinsworth, John Hicks, Jesse Carter and Russell Price, sanitarians; Madge Kelly, Toby Smith and Odell Scarbrough, clerks;

A. G. Owens, Osborne Willis, Jack Blanks, Ruth Miller, Pearl Anding, Perry Watson, Louise Guidry, Dolly Reed, Willie Jean Shields and Linda Halley, from regional laboratory.

The keynote address will be given by Dr. Roy Lester, who will discuss "Health and Legislation. This will be given at 9 a.m. the opening business session.

Others items to be heard during the morning session will be a paper, "Our Goal is the Eradication of Syphilis," given by Dr. Brown; and "Aging of the Population; A Challenge for Leadership", which will be given by Dr. Gill. The session will end with the presentation of outstanding public health leader awards.

The annual banquet and dance will be held Thursday night.

Friday's sessions will include meetings of the different groups. Dr. J. D. Martin, medical director, Louisiana Department of Public Welfare, will talk to the public health physicians' section on "Medical Care Programs of the State Department of Public Welfare; Miss Thelma Kunzman, Southern Bell Telephone Company will address the clerical and statistical section of "Put Your Best Voice Forward."

The sanitation section will here 'Current Program of Federal Food and Drug Administration" by Bryan L. Eggerton, chief inspector, FFDA, New Orleans, and "Changes Occurring in the State Food and Drug Control Program," by Leo W. Spath, director of the Food and Drug Division State Board of Health.

The nursing section and education and special services sections will hear "Challenge of Venereal Diseases" by Dr. Frank R. Gomila, Dr., director, Delgado Out-Patient Clinic, New Orleans.

"The Susceptability to Brucellosis" will be discussed before the laboratory section by Dr. Rene Beinvenue, chief of the Department of bacteriology, Northwestern State College, Natchitoches. Miss Lucille Godelfer, assistant director of the division of Laboratories, Louisiana State Board of Health, will read a paper on "The Isolation, Identification and Classification of Enterobacteriaceas."

U.S. To Deploy New War Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army will deploy its new battlefield missile—the Sergeant—overseas next year. It can carry a nuclear warhead.

Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr., announcing this Saturday did not disclose the number of Sergeant battalions to be sent nor their future bases.

The solid-fuel missile is designed to replace the older, liquid-fuel Corporal, in use for the last half-dozen years and now in the hands of troops in West Germany.

Stahr also announced that two more Sergeant battalions will have been added to the Army by June 30. They will be the 3rd and 5th Missile battalions of the 77th Artillery Regiment. They will train at Ft. Sill, Okla.

By using solid instead of liquid fuel, the Sergeant can be fired far faster than the Corporal and be constantly ready for use, the Army said.

Both weapons have about 75-miles range.

The power of the warheads for each presumably is about the same—in the low and medium kiloton range for use in knocking out battlefield fortifications and employing against enemy troop concentrations.

The Sergeant is a smaller weapon to move and handle—34½ ft. long, compared with 45 ft. for the Corporal. The Corporal weighs 11,000 lbs.; the Sergeant, 10,000 lbs.

The Sergeant is guided toward its target by an inertial guidance system. The Corporal uses radar and radio. Thus, the Sergeant's inertial guidance is immune to electronic countermeasures which might' be used by an enemy against the Corporal's guidance system.

BRINGS NEW CRISIS

Kennedy Policy Failure In Laos

WASHINGTON (AP)—The sudden crisis which swept U.S. troops unto Southeast Asia last week appears to have resulted in part from a failure of U.S. policy in Laos.

This has caused searching but so far informal discussion among high officials of the Kennedy administration about what went wrong and whether similar error can be avoided in future.

So far President Kennedy's angry dissatisfaction has centered on Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, strong man in the pro-Western royal Lao government of Premier Boun Oum.

The White House and State Department are understood to have told American representatives in the field that Phoumi's power must be curtailed—preferably by getting him to yield his various Cabinet positions and confine himself to purely military matters.

Administration informants said Saturday all U.S. government agencies involved in Laos have given assurances that they have loyally supported Kennedy's policy of trying to settle the dispute through formation of a three-way coalition government.

There have been suspicions, particularly in high quarters of the State Department, that some elements of the U.S. government might have been pulling against other elements and encouraging Phoumi to disregard the U.S. advice he was receiving officially.

This speculation arose because there are divisions within official Washington over whether a neutral Laos with a government of neutralists, Communists and pro-Western elements has any chance of withstanding an eventual Communist takeover.

With the long-distance support of Russia, the more immediate encouragement of Red China and the direct help of the neighboring Communist state of North Viet Nam, the Pathet Lao developed into a spearhead of a Red campaign to take over the country.

Several years ago, during the Eisenhower administration, the United States rejected a neutralist solution for Laos and the Boun Oum government took over as a strongly pro-Western regime. Gen. Phoumi became the central figure in the administration, reportedly with powerful backing from the CIA. As deputy premier, minister of defense and minister of the interior he has wide powers.

Shifted To Ouachita River

Boat Project In Yard

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

Jack Beasley wanted a house boat, so he built one in his own front yard. It took two years, but now he's got one of the slickest craft on the Ouachita River—and it's worth about $30,000.

The boat, named the "Jack Bunn" for Beasley's nine-year-old son, has everything from sun deck on top to air conditioning and boat-to-shore telephone.

"I'd rather build another paper mill than a house boat the way I did this one," quips Beasley, assistant maintenance superintendent at Olin Mathieson.

MILL PROJECT

He was in charge of constructing a paper mill in Uraguay in 1953—but had no experience on ship building until he began this project.

"I had lots of help," he recalls. "For instance, one Saturday, we had a big welding party with about nine or 10 welders. We had a fish fry and welded up practically all of the hull in one day.

"I don't know how the neighbors stood it — 10 welding machines and two air compressors going at one time.

"They were nice about it, in fact all the neighbors helped."

Getting the boat to the Ouachita River — and wondering if it would sink or float — was the worst part of the whole thing.

"I lived about 10 years in the hour and a half it took to move the boat," said Beasley.

LOADED ON TRAILER

"Mutt" Carroll and Tommy Younse loaded the "Jack Bunn" onto a huge tractor trailer May 4. E. T. Starks of Louisiana Power and Light climbed on top of the craft and raised the "Hot lines" as it went past. West Monroe furnished a police escort.

"I know the neighbors were glad to see it out of the yard," Mrs. Beasley laughed.

But the understructure remains at 2626 North 10 St. Now Beasley is thinking about building a boat dock using the same frame that the ship went up on.

If he does, it will be a while in the making. In the construction business all his life, Beasley devoted weekends, holidays and vacations for two and one-half years in building the houseboat.

ENJOYING RESULT

Now he plans to spend his free time enjoying the result of that work.

"The only time I'll have to build a boat dock will be when it's too bad to be out on the river — and then it probably will be too bad to work at all."

The whole family — Mrs. Beasley, Melba, 20, and Jack Bunn—helped with the craft, and they have plans of weekends up-river fishing.

"I'll also use it as headquarters to go to some lake up-river, tie up, take the little boat and go along small streams in hunting season," said Beasley.

The boat makes pretty good time in the river — on the first trip the 6-71 cylinder GMC diesel engine took it the five miles from the railroad bridge to the mouth of D'Arbonne in 30 minutes.

"So far, there's only one thing I've found wrong," said Beasley. "The air compressors have to be raised because the oil doesn't drain back into the engine right."

WHITE TRIM

The houseboat is chocolate brown with white trim.

It sits flat in the water, and has a modified V bottom and 24-inch cut-away in back, so that it steers straight and doesn't cause waves.

The propeller sits in a built-in tunnel, so the boat can run aground or onto the bank without tearing up the props.

Twelve - feet wide and 47 long, it has a sleek exterior, and all the comforts of home.

One of Olin's newest products of research and development still in the experimental stage, compressed sawdust, provides the "cork - tile" floor.

Beasley set a "checker - board" design in the center of the cabin floor for Jack Bunn, and credits Olin technician Craig Campbell with installing the floor.

Inside paneling is ash. Outside, it's one by eight pine car siding.

ROOF BEAMS

Roof beams are three by six, of lumber taken from a building constructed in 1923. They're all 'heart pine', almost as hard as pitch. Roof is one by eight ship-lap pine, painted, sealed, and covered with canvas — no hard or spike heels allowed on the top deck — "We don't have the room to get under the top deck and fix a leak".

Seven feet high from floor to ceiling, the cabin contains a kitchen with four - burner butane stove, sink, refrigerator, built-in soft - drink ice box, electric oven and hot water heater.

A snack bar and booth with drop-leaf table are included.

The living room has studio couches with storage space, chairs, television set, radio, the ship-to-shore phone, and the whole cabin is air conditioned.

Ten windows have curtains, courtesy of Mrs. Beasley's sewing, and the color scheme for the cabin is brown, orange and aqua.

"Everything is home - made or made or second hand rebuilt or worked over,, with the exception of two chairs," Beasley revealed.

"I was given a lot of stuff and swapped other things out. That's the only way I could build it."

MELBA BEASLEY checks the refrigerator for ingredients for a dinner on the Ouachita River. "I think this boat is a great idea," she smiled.

The steering wheel was salvaged from an old sunken boat.

Beasley plans to install speakers upstairs and down, as an intercom system.

Cliff Ferguson installed the boat-shore phone. "I'll use it for emergency use only — and to keep him posted on where the fish are biting up and down the Ouachita," Beasley chuckled.

The houseboat would pass Coast Guard inspection for safety: it has running lights, life preservers, fire extinguishers.

As far as actual cost goes, Beasley lost track.

"It was a kind of build-as-you-go affair — I didn't keep up with the cost, that's the quickest thing to discourage you."

CREDIT

He gives credit to friends and relatives for their help in constructing the boat:

Wheeler Mitchell. "Anytime I ran into trouble and needed help," says Beasley, "I went to an experienced houseboat builder, Wheeler Mitchell. He has built 10 on the River now.

Mrs. Beasley. "I guarantee anybody my wife now is a full-fledged mechanic and painter. I don't think I'll ever make a welder of her though, everytime it would shock her, she'd leave the boat for three days."

Harry Moore and Elmer Stubbs. "For electric work and wiring, I had the guiding hands and help of years of experience of two of the best electricians in town."

ASSISTED

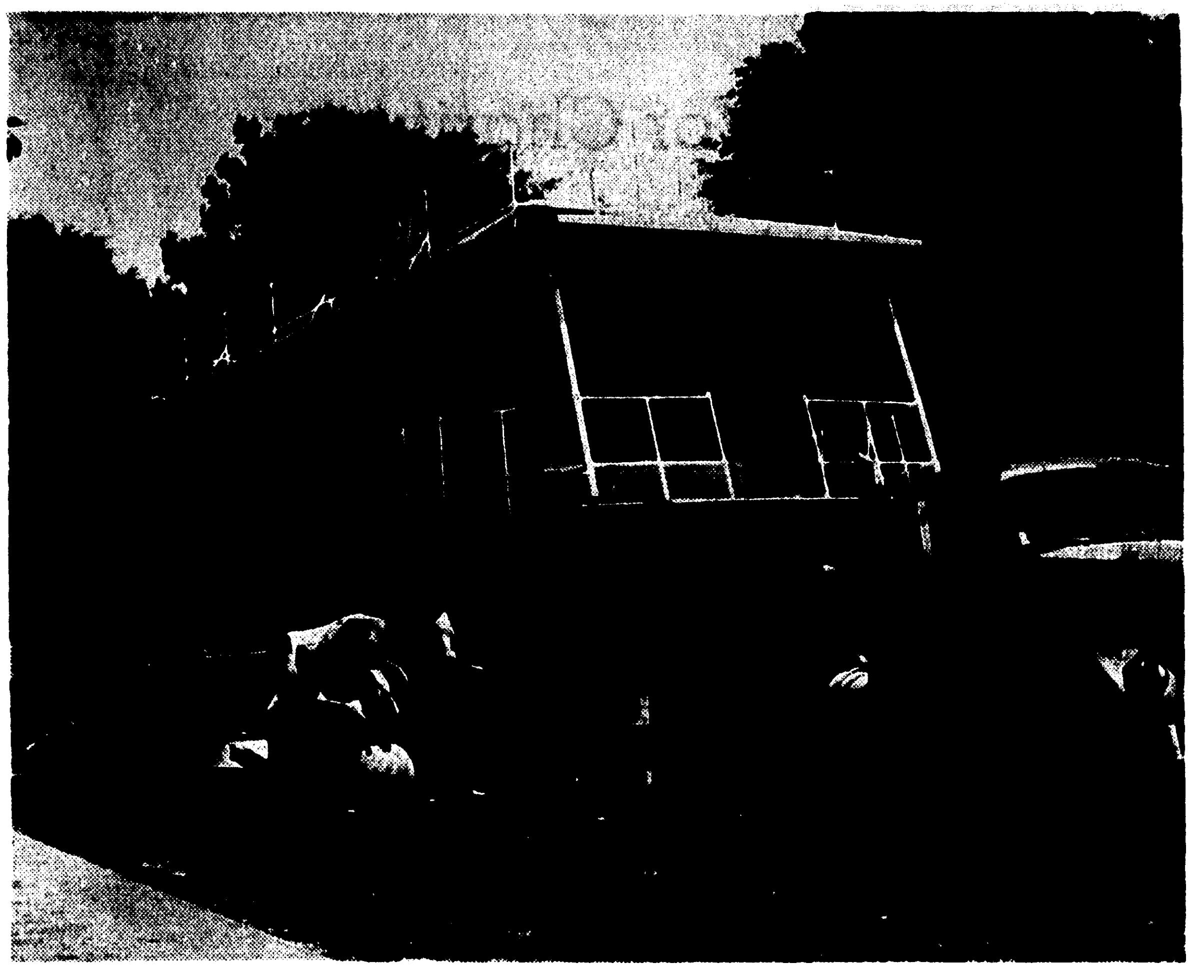
James Pickens. "He came down with a big motor crane and turned the hull right-side up."

"Everyone came in and gave good advice on my mistakes and what to watch out for. I left a big hole in the metal on one side for a long time, and everyone who came by warned me it would sink. I want to let them all know I welded that hole up before I put the boat in the water.

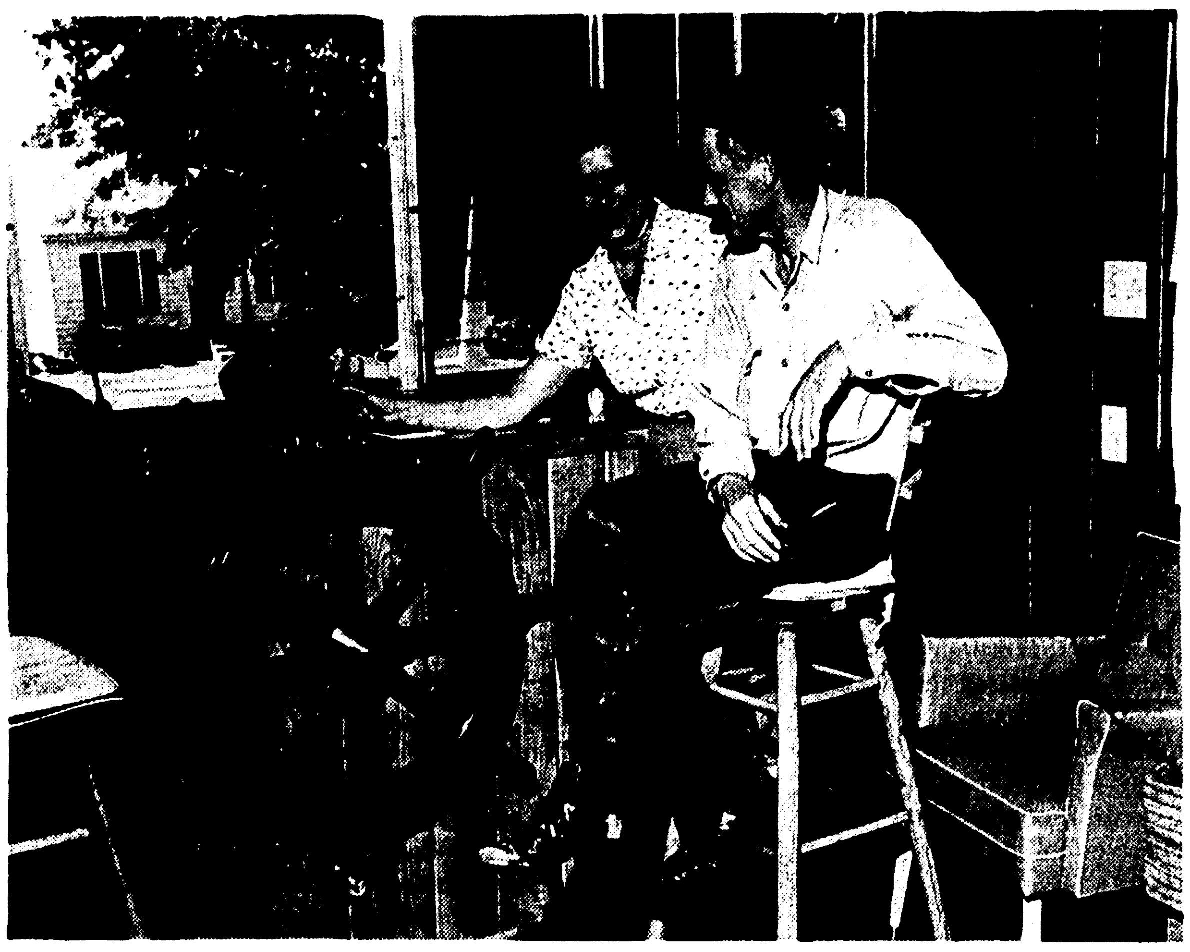
"All in all, I never would have gotten it built if it hadn't been for a lot of good friends. I could name thousands who have helped me at different times."

What next, after the boat dock?

"I'm thinking," said Beasley, "about building a steam boat with two paddle wheels."



"JACK BUNN" houseboat sat outside the Jack Beasley residence, 2626 North 10th St., West Monroe, where Beasley built it over a two-year period. Just loaded onto tractor-trailer, it was ready for launching in the Ouachita River. (Staff photos by John I. Fogleman.)



HARDWORKING SHIPBUILDER Jack Beasley takes a rest break at wheel of boat, as Mrs. Beasley smiles in anticipation of riverboat rides. Shown here, the craft still was in their front yard.

NEWEST CRAFT of its type on the River, the boat is tied up just north of railroad bridge. The Beasley family plans to use itfor fishisg and hunting trips.

A team of experts in science and defense, known on the record as the Strategic Missile Evaluation Committee, met in a room at the Pentagon in 1954 and made a critical decision.

The committee's function was to help the government decide what direction America's missile program should take, and the advice it gave that day was to go ahead with development of the Atlas — the rocket John Glenn was destined to ride into space.

One of the members of that committee was Charles A. Lindbergh.

PARALLELS

The coincidence is intriguing, in view of the inordinate parallels that have been drawn between the two aviation pioneers on every level from courage displayed to confetti thrown.

But far more interesting to many is that Charles Lindbergh was in 1954 and is—on the 35th anniversary of his storied flight from New York to Paris—actively involved in aviation. His counsel is sought at the highest levels, his schedule crowded with appointments, conferences, trips, his interest in current affairs never livelier, his circle of friends never broader.

This may surprise some who were asking, amid the tumult raised for Glenn: Whatever became of Lindbergh?

The vague, general impression is that Lindbergh long ago withdrew to some secluded island, cutting himself off from a society that once had lionized him but also had refused him a moment's peace even after the 1932 kidnaping of his son.

TO ENGLAND

Shortly before the kidnaper, Bruno Hauptmann, was executed in 1936 Lindbergh moved to England. He returned four years later but didn't reappear as a public figure until his impassioned 1941 campaign to keep the United States out of World War II.

After the war Lindbergh did buy an island, two of them in fact, but he doesn't live on either. He lives solidly on the mainland in Darien, Conn., and he lives as normally as anyone else—except in one respect. He simply avoids the public eye.

He attends very few public functions. A rare exception was, with his wife, at a recent White House dinner in honor of Andre Malraux, French minister of culture. His telephone is unlisted. His mailbox is nameless. His business associates refuse to divulge his whereabouts to the merely curious, and his friends likewise are voluntarily protective of him.

But this is the extent of Lindbergh's "seclusion," as the occasional news reports and magazine stories invariably describe his quiet way of life.

Lindbergh is in no sense secluded.

FREE MOVEMENT

He goes about freely. He stands on the platform with the commuters from Darien, Conn., and takes the train with them to New York. He walks through Grand Central Station and window shops on Fifth Ave. and rides in taxicabs and airplanes and elevators. He stays in hotels when he's out of town, and when he's home he putters around the lawn and goes to the postoffice and fishes in the Sound and chats with the neighbors and welcomes the friends who come to visit his children.

He doesn't wear dark glasses or false whiskers or make any contrived effort to hide his identity. He doesn't have to.

Only a handful of photographs of Lindbergh have appeared in the last 20 years. He studiously avoids photographers and, as one of his close friends explained, "Slim has developed the knack of being inconspicious into a fine art; he's better at it than any detective."

The man once known on sight by thousands today, at 60, can stroll the streets a stranger.

Lindbergh's cultivated anonymity gives him deliverance, at last, from that unrelenting army of transom peepers he once had to flee the country to escape. More than that, it enables him to keep his professional life free from the clutter of banquets, speeches, award presentations and such that are the inevitable inheritance of prominence.

"If I accepted all the invitations I would like to, from the people I like," Lindbergh once told Lauren D. Lyman, whose friendship dates back before the 1927 flight, "I would be busy every night for two years."

Lindbergh's schedule wouldn't permit that; it's already full.

He still is a consultant for the Defense Department, helped select the site of the Air Academy and according to a Pentagon spokesman "has made major contributions to the ballistic missile program." He also is aviation consultant for the Library of Congress and has been the go-between in acquiring a number of historical documents. "I would say Charles Lindbergh is one of the most active men in the country," said Marvin W. McFarland, chief of the library's Aeronautics Division.

FULL CIRCLE

Lindbergh's work for Pan American World Airways has, in a sense, gone full circle.

He explored the first air routes from North America to Europe for the company in 1933, some of them still in use today. Later he helped Pan-Am develop its first transoceanic Clippers, and not long ago earned part of the credit for the company's pioneering switch to jet airliners.

As a Pan-Am consultant Lindbergh is nearly always on the go, traveling from the company's executive offices in New York to various manufacturing plants across the country as well as to London, Rome, Beirut, Saigon, Tokyo.

He also likes to visit his boys on the West Coast, Jon, 29 now, in California; Land, 24, in Washington, the father of a brand new baby girl. The other three children live at home: Anne, 21; Scott, 19; Reeve, 16.

HOME

Home, for the past 16 years, has been a gracious Tudor-style house — high-pitched slate roof, gray half-timbers exposed in white stucco gables, wrought iron appointments—on a rugged hill overlooking Scot's Cove, a breeze-caressed inlet off Connecticut's Long Island Sound. Over the years the house has snuggled itself comfortably into the hill, among the elm and evergreen and forsythia, much as a sturdy old dog finally settles heavily into his favorite spot before the fire.

It is far from the most pretentious house in the posh neighborhood, but few have as much charm.

The home is in a private residential section of Darien, a typically quiet New England town whose 18,437 residents are quite proper, quite polite, not given to idle talk. But even some of them have strange notions about Lindbergh.

NO DIFFERENT

One said a caretaker patrols the house; another that a watchdog snarls at the gate. Nonsense. Any one can drive up the gravel driveway that the Lindberghs share with a neighbor, knock on the heavy door and state his business to the housekeeper. But most Darian citizens emphasize the Lindberghs are just another family in town, no different than the rest.

Surely somehwere within the paneled walls of that house are mementoes of Lindbergh's bold victory 35 years ago—the Medal of Honor, the Royal Air Cross, the Legion of Honor, the Order of Leopold, awards and decorations from 31 countries in all; the Wright Memorial Trophy, the Guggenheim Medal.

And likely he will reflect on the flight this anniversary day.

The dream was born one moonbright night when he was flying the St. Louis to Chicago mail run. St. Louis to Chicago. Why not New York to Paris?

Others were trying it, mostly two-man teams with costly twin-engine jobs. Lindbergh was convinced the only way it could be done was by one man — a lone eagle, so to say — in a single-engine plane. Few would listen. Finally, nine St. Louis men agreed to loan him the money for a plane that Lindbergh himself helped design. "The Spirit of St. Louis," he called it.

Shifted To Ouachita River

Boat Project In Yard

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

Jack Beasley wanted a house boat, so he built one in his own front yard. It took two years, but now he's got one of the slickest craft on the Ouachita River—and it's worth about $30,000.

The boat, named the "Jack Bunn" for Beasley's nine-year-old son, has everything from sun deck on top to air conditioning and boat-to-shore telephone.

"I'd rather build another paper mill than a house boat the way I did this one," quips Beasley, assistant maintenance superintendent at Olin Mathieson.

MILL PROJECT

He was in charge of constructing a paper mill in Uraguay in 1953—but had no experience on ship building until he began this project.

"I had lots of help," he recalls. "For instance, one Saturday, we had a big welding party with about nine or 10 welders. We had a fish fry and welded up practically all of the hull in one day.

"I don't know how the neighbors stood it — 10 welding machines and two air compressors going at one time.

"They were nice about it, in fact all the neighbors helped."

Getting the boat to the Ouachita River — and wondering if it would sink or float — was the worst part of the whole thing.

"I lived about 10 years in the hour and a half it took to move the boat," said Beasley.

LOADED ON TRAILER

"Mutt" Carroll and Tommy Younse loaded the "Jack Bunn" onto a huge tractor trailer May 4. E. T. Starks of Louisiana Power and Light climbed on top of the craft and raised the "Hot lines" as it went past. West Monroe furnished a police escort.

"I know the neighbors were glad to see it out of the yard," Mrs. Beasley laughed.

But the understructure remains at 2626 North 10 St. Now Beasley is thinking about building a boat dock using the same frame that the ship went up on.

If he does, it will be a while in the making. In the construction business all his life, Beasley devoted weekends, holidays and vacations for two and one-half years in building the houseboat.

ENJOYING RESULT

Now he plans to spend his free time enjoying the result of that work.

"The only time I'll have to build a boat dock will be when it's too bad to be out on the river — and then it probably will be too bad to work at all."

The whole family — Mrs. Beasley, Melba, 20, and Jack Bunn—helped with the craft, and they have plans of weekends up-river fishing.

"I'll also use it as headquarters to go to some lake up-river, tie up, take the little boat and go along small streams in hunting season," said Beasley.

The boat makes pretty good time in the river — on the first trip the 6-71 cylinder GMC diesel engine took it the five miles from the railroad bridge to the mouth of D'Arbonne in 30 minutes.

"So far, there's only one thing I've found wrong," said Beasley. "The air compressors have to be raised because the oil doesn't drain back into the engine right."

WHITE TRIM

The houseboat is chocolate brown with white trim.

It sits flat in the water, and has a modified V bottom and 24-inch cut-away in back, so that it steers straight and doesn't cause waves.

The propeller sits in a built-in tunnel, so the boat can run aground or onto the bank without tearing up the props.

Twelve - feet wide and 47 long, it has a sleek exterior, and all the comforts of home.

One of Olin's newest products of research and development still in the experimental stage, compressed sawdust, provides the "cork - tile" floor.

Beasley set a "checker - board" design in the center of the cabin floor for Jack Bunn, and credits Olin technician Craig Campbell with installing the floor.

Inside paneling is ash. Outside, it's one by eight pine car siding.

ROOF BEAMS

Roof beams are three by six, of lumber taken from a building constructed in 1923. They're all 'heart pine', almost as hard as pitch. Roof is one by eight ship-lap pine, painted, sealed, and covered with canvas — no hard or spike heels allowed on the top deck — "We don't have the room to get under the top deck and fix a leak".

Seven feet high from floor to ceiling, the cabin contains a kitchen with four - burner butane stove, sink, refrigerator, built-in soft - drink ice box, electric oven and hot water heater.

A snack bar and booth with drop-leaf table are included.

The living room has studio couches with storage space, chairs, television set, radio, the ship-to-shore phone, and the whole cabin is air conditioned.

Ten windows have curtains, courtesy of Mrs. Beasley's sewing, and the color scheme for the cabin is brown, orange and aqua.

"Everything is home - made or made or second hand rebuilt or worked over,, with the exception of two chairs," Beasley revealed.

"I was given a lot of stuff and swapped other things out. That's the only way I could build it."

MELBA BEASLEY checks the refrigerator for ingredients for a dinner on the Ouachita River. "I think this boat is a great idea," she smiled.

The steering wheel was salvaged from an old sunken boat.

Beasley plans to install speakers upstairs and down, as an intercom system.

Cliff Ferguson installed the boat-shore phone. "I'll use it for emergency use only — and to keep him posted on where the fish are biting up and down the Ouachita," Beasley chuckled.

The houseboat would pass Coast Guard inspection for safety: it has running lights, life preservers, fire extinguishers.

As far as actual cost goes, Beasley lost track.

"It was a kind of build-as-you-go affair — I didn't keep up with the cost, that's the quickest thing to discourage you."

CREDIT

He gives credit to friends and relatives for their help in constructing the boat:

Wheeler Mitchell. "Anytime I ran into trouble and needed help," says Beasley, "I went to an experienced houseboat builder, Wheeler Mitchell. He has built 10 on the River now.

Mrs. Beasley. "I guarantee anybody my wife now is a full-fledged mechanic and painter. I don't think I'll ever make a welder of her though, everytime it would shock her, she'd leave the boat for three days."

Harry Moore and Elmer Stubbs. "For electric work and wiring, I had the guiding hands and help of years of experience of two of the best electricians in town."

ASSISTED

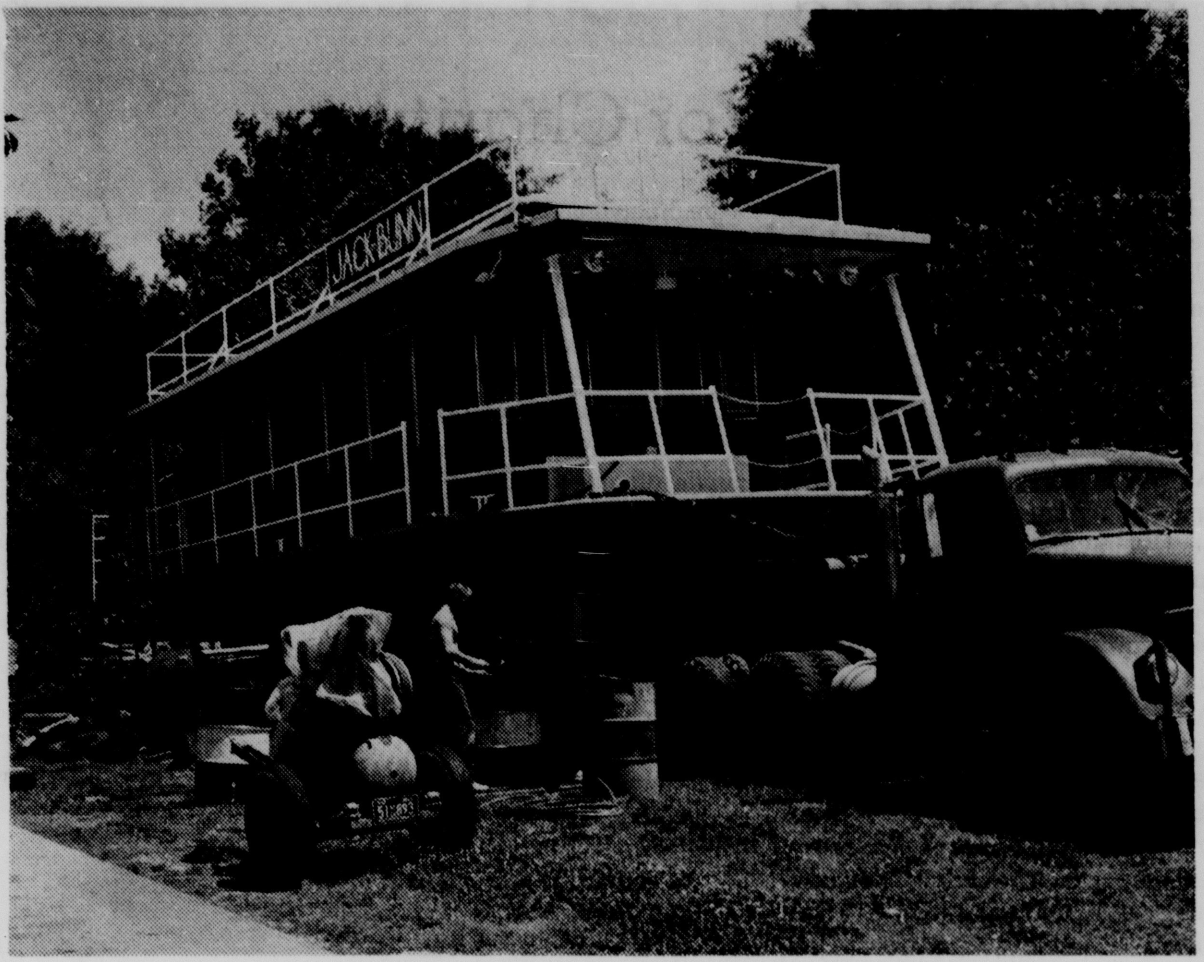
James Pickens. "He came down with a big motor crane and turned the hull right-side up."

"Everyone came in and gave good advice on my mistakes and what to watch out for. I left a big hole in the metal on one side for a long time, and everyone who came by warned me it would sink. I want to let them all know I welded that hole up before I put the boat in the water.

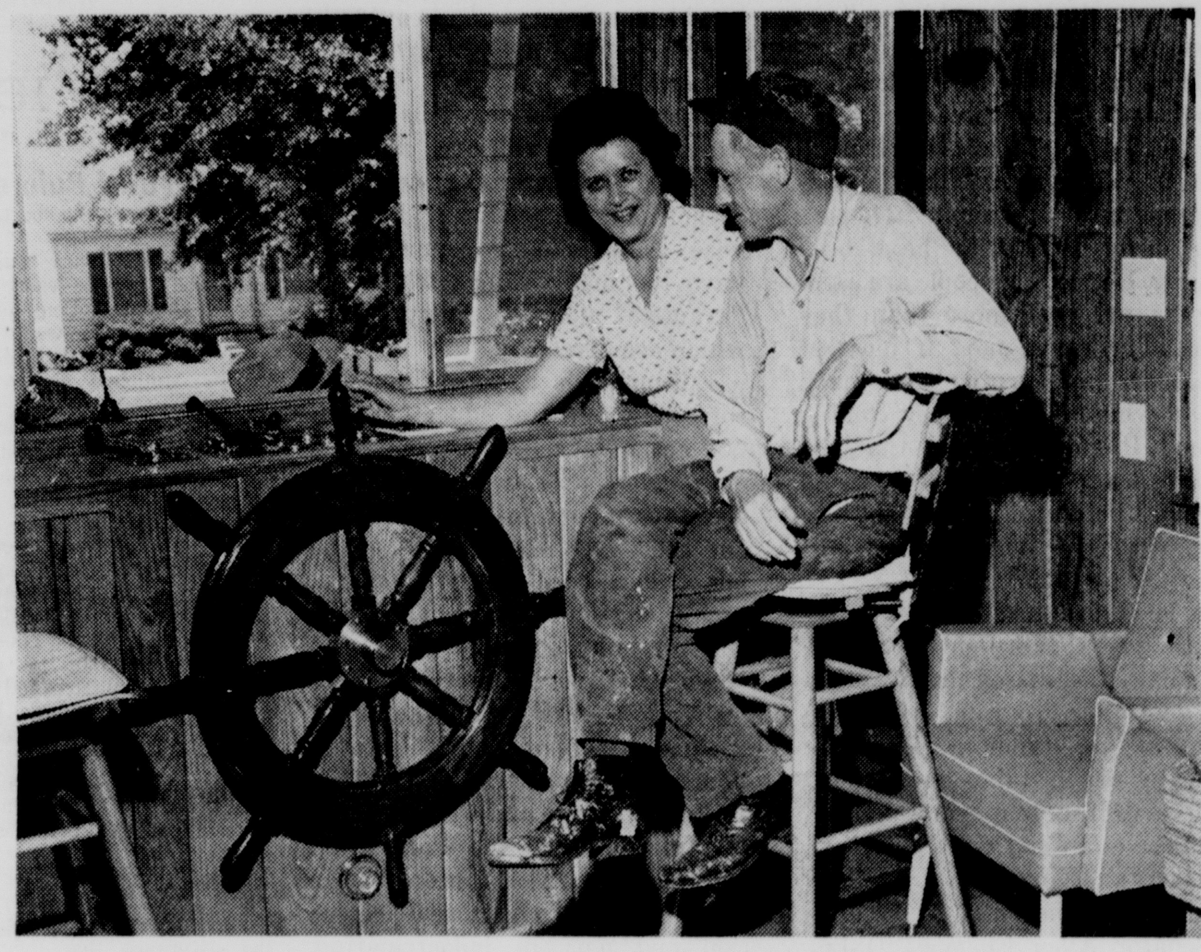
"All in all, I never would have gotten it built if it hadn't been for a lot of good friends. I could name thousands who have helped me at different times."

What next, after the boat dock?

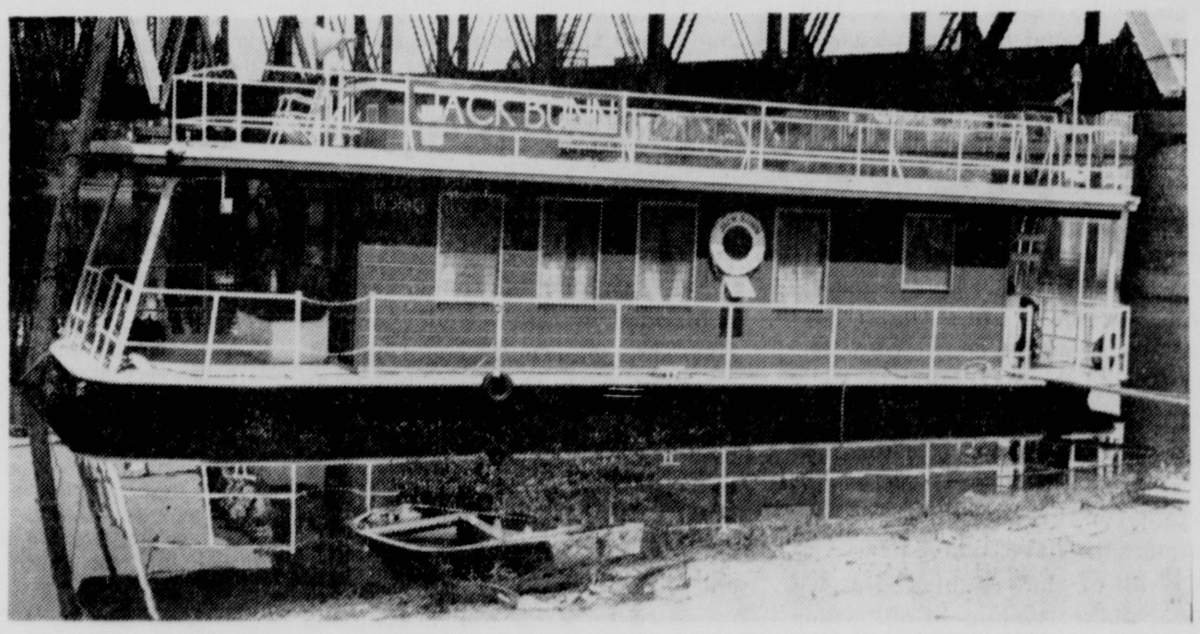
"I'm thinking," said Beasley, "about building a steam boat with two paddle wheels."



"JACK BUNN" houseboat sat outside the Jack Beasley residence, 2626 North 10th St., West Monroe, where Beasley built it over a two-year period. Just loaded onto tractor-trailer, it was ready for launching in the Ouachita River. (Staff photos by John I. Fogleman.)



HARDWORKING SHIPBUILDER Jack Beasley takes a rest break at wheel of boat, as Mrs. Beasley smiles in anticipation of riverboat rides. Shown here, the craft still was in their front yard.



NEWEST CRAFT of its type on the River, the boat is tied up just north of railroad bridge. The Beasley family plans to use itfor fishisg and hunting trips.

Charles A. Lindbergh

Lone Eagle In Space Role

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Thirty-five years ago Charles A. Lindbergh made history by flying alone from New York to Paris. The feat brought him fame, followed by searing personal tragedy. At the dawn of the space age, America now has a new hero. But yesterday's hero is making a far bigger contribution to modern aviation than most people suspect.

Education For Charity

It is doubtful if any government in the world ever looked as diligently for ways to give away money as the Kennedy administration is doing now.

Five facts stab us in the eye in this connection. One is that this feverish search for ways to give away more and more billions comes at a time when we are frequently having to raise our debt limit and when that debt limit is now about six times what it was a few years ago. Another is that all this money must come from taxes which the over-burdened citizens pay. A third is that the United States not only is giving away vast sums to other nations but is losing the respect of those countries while doing it. A fourth is that the government is creating in this country a breed of "give me" dependents. The fifth is that the government is carrying on all this for the purpose of placing all people of the United States under its thumb, so that eventual socialization and dictatorship will be easy.

In the last four years federal expenditures have increased 24 per cent. If the nation is to remain solvent, this means that the taxpayers must contribute 24 per cent more than they have been paying. How many people are earning 24 per cent more than they were four years ago? If most of them are not earning that much more, where is the money coming from? It simply means that the people are getting to use less and less of their own money and are having to give more and more of it to the government.

A large part of the constant increase goes to more public welfare spending, "depressed area" spending and other programs which are suppose to promote economic growth, which takes more and more of the taxpayers' money, calls for more and more deficit finascing and hurts the economy more than it helps.

Senator Allen Ellender, D.-La., says:

"The nation's economy can only grow because the citizens have good, sound, stable dollars to save, invest or spend as they please on consumer goods and the citizens can have this money only when industry is prospering and able to pay a large number of employes. The nation can grow strong only by producing and making wise use of the fruits of that production.

"Government expenditures, if made unwisely, do not add to the real wealth of the country and can act only as a temporary support for the economy."

One case in point is that in which the federal government is shoving into the field of education with the eventual purpose of brainwashing all our students to the government viewpoint, just as is being done in some of those countries we criticize so much.

The federal aid-to-education bill is now in conference to iron out the differences between the versions passed by the house of represestatives and the senate. The house version would provide scholarship loans to talented and needy students, while the senate version would give these students outright grants which would not have to be repaid.

The senate version calls for an expenditure of well over a billion dollars on scholarship grants. This is not only unnecessary but unwise. Already our young people have too many things which are "granted" and too many things which are "free."

Education is a good thing but sometimes the best education does not occur in the classroom. If a child grows up learning to look to the government to supply his every need, free of charge, then he has indeed been poorly educated, even though he may have a doctor of philosophy degree.

We should remember that it costs taxpayers less when the schools are supported by the states than when supported by the federal government and we should also remember that the states thus far have been chiefly interested in giving the students a real education and not in indoctrinating them in some "ism" theory.

If this country is to remain strong, we will need the kind of stalwart, independent citizens we had when the nation was founded.

U.S. Policy Confused

Although the small southeast Asian kingdom of Laos has made news regularly over the past week, some accounts from that "hot war" area reveal a confused policy. The United States should make it clear as to which faction we aim to support and proceed on that basis. Perhaps this is not so important for the Laotians since the communists have taken over virtually all of that country. But we should make it plain to our other allies in Europe and in Asia just what we expect of them.

United States officials reportedly have blamed General Phoumi Nosavan, the tough, anti-communist head of the Royal Laotian Army, for the latest Red advance in the Nam Tha area. General Phoumi, according to the opinions of some U. S. officials, actually provoked the latest Red guerrilla advances by building up military forces to defend the last royal strongholds in Laos.

Here is a case of our official policy actually scolding an ally for making an attempt to stand up against the communists. Has there ever been one single case of an enemy halting his advance because the defending army retreated?

Yet there are those officials who now say the Russian and Red Chinese directed rebels in Laos would not have made their final thrust into Laos had they not been provoked by General Phoumi.

In the jig-saw puzzle which until 1953 was French Indo-China, the United States policy has shown other contradictions. For a while we have openly aided South Vietnam in its war against Red guerrillas, we have insisted on a neutralist coalition for Laos which was doomed all along to fall into communist hands.

In fact, one of the conditions demanded by Ambassador Averell Harriman was such a coalition government with the communists in charge of the police. This is a proven pattern for a communist takeover. Also, one of the points mentioned in connection with the landing of 1,800 Marines in Thailand is the matter of providing pressure on Laos for a coalition government.

So it appears we are trying to build up defenses in Vietnam and Thailand in order to stop the same communist rebels who were provoked into breaking the Laotian ceasefire because of a military buildup there.

In the long run, our own blindness in Laos makes South Vietnam, Cambodia, Burma and Thailand all the more vulnerable to the drawn-out war being directed there by Mao Tse-Aung with the occasional help of the Soviet Union.

These countries — amounting to little more than map studies for many Americans at this time — mark the latest spot on the globe where the cold war has turned hot.

Kaola bears, Australian teddy bears, rarely drink water. They obtain water from eucalyptus leaves.

Okinawa is one of the most crowded islands in the world, with 763,000 people living on 465 square miles.

Old Salem, N. C., used a form of modern plumbing in pre-Revolutionary days. Water was piped through hollow logs to every house in town.

To the Editor:

There are many Americans who won't believe we're headed for a United Nations one-world government until we wake up one morning to find Mongolian troops stationed in our front yards.

Senator Barry Goldwater will be one of those surprised Americans too, judging by what happened in the Senate on April 5. Senator Goldwater had just received a hometown newspaper containing a startling announcement by our state department at the Geneva conference a few days earlier. Our government had proposed that all national armies be eliminated and a United Nations police force be substituted. Senator Goldwater, as the young people say, "flipped." During debate on the $100 million U. N. bond issue, he asked several leading "liberal" senators if they had heard about our amazing proposal at Geneva. Of course, Mansfield, Sparkman and Fulbright came right back with the assurance that they didn't know a thing. The No. 1 "liberal," Senator Humphrey, was present but was strangely silent. (See pages 5558 and 5590, Congressional Record, April 5.)

Why didn't Senator Goldwater know that the disarmament act, passed last September, provided for an eventual elimination of national armies and military schools and bases, including our own? I don't question for one second the fact that Fulbright and Co. knew the provisions. The question arises now: Are we afflicted with some kind of legislative disease that renders our lawmakers incapable of reading a bill before they vote on it? There must be much foundation for the accusation that there is a veritable "mill" that grinds out "liberal" bills for our legislators. They know they're expected to pass them, they'd better pass them, they do pass them, and God help the people.

A revealing feature about the denial by "the boys" of any knowledge of this proposal will be found on page 19382 of the Record of September 21, 1961, where Senator Humphrey is reported saying to the Senate: "I wish to comment on the announcement that has just been made that the U. S. and the Soviet Union have now accepted a joint statement of certain agreed general principles which form a basis for guiding them in the resumption of disarmament negotiations. This agreement is the result of discussions between Mr. McCloy, representing the U. S., and Mr. Zorin, representing the Soviet Union, which began last June. . . . Anyone who reads this statement will recognize the degree of agreement reached by the U. S. and the Soviet Union."

Doubtless they will "recognize the degree of agreement!" Filed with the U. N. that day, the agreement reads in part: "(a) Disbanding of armed forces, dismantling of military establishments, including bases, cessation of the production of armaments as well as their liquidation or conversion to peaceful uses. . ." And Part VII, " . . . During and after the implementation of the program of general and complete disarmament, there should be taken, IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PRINCIPLES OF THE U. N. Charter, the necessary measures to maintain international peace and security, including the obligation of states to place at the disposal of the U. N. agreed manpower necessary for an international peace force to be equipped with agreed types of armaments. Arrangements for the use of this force should insure that the U. S. effectively deter or suppress any threat or use of arms in violation of the purposes and principles of the United Nations."

No wonder Senator Humphrey was silent in the face of Goldwater's questioning. But another worrisome thought intrudes. Don't our lawmakers even read the Congressional Record? And where was Senator Goldwater when the disarmament act was passed?

Everybody ought to order a copy of this suicidal act from the Government Printing Office, 15 cents. Title is U. S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. The 33 degree Masons also printed a warning about it in their October 1961 issue of THE NEW AGE, but nobody has seen much of a public outcry by other Masons. Is everybody for U. N. World Government except me and Barry Goldwater and one or two others?

At our last regular board meeting, several of our supervisors were very complimentary to the Monroe News Star and Monroe Morning World for their interest in agriculture. The Farm Front Page on Monday of each week is a fine way of keeping all of the people in Northeast Louisiana informed on what is being done in agriculture.

Soil conservation districts are legal sub-divisions of our state and are charged with the responsibility of getting soil and water conservation practices on the land. We are making every effort to keep the public informed on the progress that is being made. The wonderful job that your papers are doing helps us tremendously in our effort.

We would like for you or some representative from your paper to visit our district and see first-hand some of the soil and water conservation practices that the farmers cooperating with our district are applying.

Billions For Enemies

Monroe, La.

To The Editor:

I would not presume to know whether Congress was correct in refusing to pay War damage claims by the Phillipines, as I do not know the facts concerning these claims. Were I a Philipino though I suspect I would find it awfully hard to understand how that same Congress can continue year after year voting "Foreign Aid" funds for such countries as Poland and Yugoslavia. Billions for our enemies but not one cent for a staunch friend would likely be my thoughts, right or wrong.

Wants Conservatives

To the Editor:

Several times I have asked myself these two questions:

(1) Are you fed up with liberalism and socialism?

(2) What would you rather have in the Senate, a liberal or a conservative?

I answered the first question in the affirmative, by telling myself yes, I am fed up. I answered the second question by telling myself that it would be a blessing to have a Senate full of conservatives at all times.

I do not know how the millions of other people in the state of Louisiana feel about this, but if they feel as I do, I can say with all sincerity that they will have a golden opportunity to do something about it on July 25, 1962. On this day Colonel Phil A. St. Amant, a conservative, will run for United States Senator against the incumbent liberal, Senator Russell B. Long.

On April 30, 1962, I had the pleasure of hearing Colonel St. Amant make his bid for the Senate of the United States, and I might add that his platform is encouraging. He is for the Right to Work Bill and Segregation. He is against Federal Aid to Education, Socialized Medicine, United Nations Bonds and Socialized Farming. I am asking you a question: could a conservative ask for a better plat form?

Man has always been venturesome and such will continue for it is a universal order from the powers that goven the universe. A lot of our past history has been supposition. The world today is by far a better place to live in than it has been in the past. With the vast knowledge we have acquired from the experience of generation to generation the world and the universe would be in a sad state if we tried to live a life comparable to that of time of Christ. Rather than interfering with the plan of the universe we are seeking the truth, the reason and the foundation for all things.

Since I can remember, man has known the powers of gravity and force and through the use of such knowledge by force using the mechanical inventions of man we have traveled into outer space and thus have proven our planet is one of perhaps many surrounded by a shield we call outer space isolating us from intercourse with other planets that make up the universal order. Some day we may find a way to break through this shield and enter into the magnetic pull or power of some other planet, that is, if the theory of relativity applies to the universal order. For years and years our planet and the radiation belt that surrounds it have stood the force of lightning through the theory that lightning burns a path in the belt that surrounds us and creates a vacuum in that belt. We acquired the knowledge to invent the jet engine. It is very doubtful that scientists, through their search, will destroy the world or the universal order. They may knock a hole in our religous conception of our purpose and future.

High-Up Threats

Naturalized Citizen Who Airs Views Made To Fear Reprisal

Some time ago, an American citizen wrote to the President criticizing the French policy in Algeria and the U. S. support of it. In this, the letter writer was exercising her Constitutional rights.

The normal practice under previous Administrations would have been to answer the letter, ignore it, or if it was the obvious product of a crank — which this letter was not — to turn it over to the Secret Service.

In this case, however, the writer was a naturalized citizen. And so the letter was bucked to the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service — although the subject matter had no relation to that Justice Department Agency. The Associate Commissioner, E. A. Loughran, answered the letter writer in a manner which on the face of it represented a threat. Let me quote this answer from a photostat in my possession:

"This refers to your letter . . . addressed to the President, which was received in this office for response.

"The remarks submitted in your letter will be considered if the views of this Service are solicited."

A naturalized citizen, perhaps not aware of the statutes, might see a threat implicit in Mr. Loughran's answer that steps might be taken to withdraw her American citizenship because of the views she held in opposition to those of Mr. Kennedy.

This is but one example of the attitude toward criticism held by the Administration — an attitude which is philosophically if not legally violative of the First Amendment. Another aspect of this attitude can be seen in the efforts of the State Department to discredit the thousands of Americans who write expressing their opinions or asking for information.

The State Department received well over 181,000 letters in 1961. Many of them came from responsible citizens. But the Office of Public Service has been selecting the crackpot mail to give correspondents here the impression that the kooks are the rule and not the exception. The writers are depicted as "extremists," John Birchers, or as one Washington reporter put it, "repeating the inaccuracies (about the U. N.) in some of the Senate speeches."

But the Administration's efforts to stifle debate or to make those who differ seem foolish goes beyond this. Democratic political strategists are deeply concerned over the effects of the "no win" in the cold war argument of Administration opponents. According to the Washington Post, which has the best pipelines into the Administration and supports it most staunchly, a "counter-offensive" has been launched by Democratic spokesmen. For example, Secretary of State Rusk charged that "some of those who talk about a 'no win' policy want to participate in a hydrogen war" — a neat debater's trick but hardly an answer to critics who believe that unless the U. S. strengthens its foreign policy it will drift inevitably into such a war.

The real disregard of the Constitutional process, however, consists in depriving members of the Senate of the information they must have if they are to give the President the "advice and consent" which the Consitution calls for.

It is interesting to note that the Washington Post gave away the game when it stated that "virtually no member of Congress possesses adequate information to engage the Executive Branch in serious substantive debate on its foreign policy" — a foreign policy" — a situation ascribed to Administration secrecy and one in which "the nation itself is often the loser for lack of effective, informed dialogue."

Those legislators who wish to find out what is going on must piece together bits of information, "leaks" from government officials, and what little they are told. Acting like Intelligence officers handling enemy information, they try to arrive at answers. But for the most part, members of Congress must rely on reading what has already been dicided in the morning papers.

Several weeks ago, for example, Senator Barry Goldwater read a newspaper story from Geneva that the U. S. intended to submit a plan for the eliminatiin of national armies in nine years and their replacement by a U. N. force. Mr. Goldwater questioned Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Chairman Russell of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Not one of these top Democratic legislative leaders knew anything about the plan, though they should have been the first to be consulted.

Is it any wonder that to many here in Washington, the Constitution has begun to resemble a scrap of paper?

President Ready To Send Troops If Reds Continue Pressure

President Kennedy is ready to send U.S. troops into southern Laos if the Communists continue to press their offensive in that small Southeast Asian kingdom.

The President plans to commit U.S. ground and air forces now in Thailand to the defense of Vientiane, the southern capital of Laos, if such military action should become necessary.

Also, he is considering a Joint Chiefs of Staff recommendation that U.S. and South Vietnam air units bomb Chepone, the big Communist Air and supply base in southern Laos.

These military moves, which are awaiting the outcome of backstage diplomatic negotiations with Russia, were fully outlined by the President during his White House briefing of congressional leaders.

After reporting plans to send U.S. troops to Thailand, the President told the bipartisan group of legislative leaders:

"Additional military moves will be taken if the (pro-Communist) Pathet Lao forces renew their offensive. Troops being sent to Thailand will be used to keep Vientiane, the administrative Capital of Laos, from falling to the Communists should that become necessary."

The President said he still has hope that the Soviet will put pressure on Pathet Lao forces to restore the cease-fire in Laos.

"While we are preparing for all eventualities," reported the President, "the establishment of a neutral government in Laos is still our principal objective. We believe that a coalition government can be arranged if the Communists agree to a new ceasefire."

In discussing the South Vietnam situation, the President reported that he is considering the commitment of U. S. air power (in addition to U.S. helicopters) in the battle against the pro-Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

"We are studying recommendations for the employment of U.S. air power against the Viet Congs' main supply base in Laos," said the President. "This airfield and storage area is at Chepone, only 20 miles from the South Vietnamese border in southern Laos."

The President pointed out that the airfield at Chepone was handling 16 Soviet planes a day. Also, that the Communists were building a road to the base from North Vietnam. It is guarded by radar-controlled anti - aircraft guns.

Another disturbing fact reported by the President was the arrival of light amphibious tanks of Russian manufacture in Laos. He said his military advisers had warned him that these tanks could be used to ferry Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese troops across the Mekong River into Thailand.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: Please explain Matthew 7:1, "Judge not that ye be not judged." A.P.

ANSWER: A careful examination of Christ's command, "Judge not that ye be not judged," together with its context, will reveal its meaning. He never intended that his disciples should set aside all exercise of the sense of judgment, but rather that they should not apply to others any judgment which they would be unwilling to have applied to themselves by others. We may and we must judge that which is openly and manifestly evil, and we must separate ourselves from it. We may and we should exercise the discernment God has given to us as to outward acts. But there we must stop, for we can know nothing as to the inward motives. We are, however, commanded to judge ourselves, for we know our own hearts well enough to know that many an outward action which looks fair enough to our friends is after all selfish and sinful. This judging of ourselves will keep the beams from our own eyes and help us to better remove the motes from our brothers eyes.

Education For Charity

It is doubtful if any government in the world ever looked as diligently for ways to give away money as the Kennedy administration is doing now.

Five facts stab us in the eye in this connection. One is that this feverish search for ways to give away more and more billions comes at a time when we are frequently having to raise our debt limit and when that debt limit is now about six times what it was a few years ago. Another is that all this money must come from taxes which the over-burdened citizens pay. A third is that the United States not only is giving away vast sums to other nations but is losing the respect of those countries while doing it. A fourth is that the government is creating in this country a breed of "give me" dependents. The fifth is that the government is carrying on all this for the purpose of placing all people of the United States under its thumb, so that eventual socialization and dictatorship will be easy.

In the last four years federal expenditures have increased 24 per cent. If the nation is to remain solvent, this means that the taxpayers must contribute 24 per cent more than they have been paying. How many people are earning 24 per cent more than they were four years ago? If most of them are not earning that much more, where is the money coming from? It simply means that the people are getting to use less and less of their own money and are having to give more and more of it to the government.

A large part of the constant increase goes to more public welfare spending, "depressed area" spending and other programs which are suppose to promote economic growth, which takes more and more of the taxpayers' money, calls for more and more deficit financing and hurts the economy more than it helps.

Senator Allen Ellender, D.-La., says:

"The nation's economy can only grow because the citizens have good, sound, stable dollars to save, invest or spend as they please on consumer goods and the citizens can have this money only when industry is prospering and able to pay a large number of employes. The nation can grow strong only by producing and making wise use of the fruits of that production.

"Government expenditures, if made unwisely, do not add to the real wealth of the country and can act only as a temporary support for the economy."

One case in point is that in which the federal government is shoving into the field of education with the eventual purpose of brainwashing all our students to the government viewpoint, just as is being done in some of those countries we criticize so much.

The federal aid-to-education bill is now in conference to iron out the differences between the versions passed by the house of repesetatives and the senate. The house version would provide scholarship loans to talented and needy students, while the senate version would give these students outright grants which would not have to be repaid.

The senate version calls for an expenditure of well over a billion dollars on scholarship grants. This is not only unnecessary but unwise. Already our young people have too many things which are "granted" and too many things which are "free."

Education is a good thing but sometimes the best education does not occur in the classroom. If a child grows up learning to look to the government to supply his every need, free of charge, then he has indeed been poorly educated, even though he may have a doctor of philosophy degree.

We should remember that it costs taxpayers less when the schools are supported by the states than when supported by the federal government and we should also remember that the states thus far have been chiefly interested in giving the students a real education and not in indoctrinating them in some "ism" theory.

If this country is to remain strong, we will need the kind of stalwart, independent citizens we had when the nation was founded.

U.S. Policy Confused

Although the small southeast Asian kingdom of Laos has made news regularly over the past week, some accounts from that "hot war" area reveal a confused policy. The United States should make it clear as to which faction we aim to support and proceed on that basis. Perhaps this is not so important for the Laotians since the communists have taken over virtually all of that country. But we should make it plain to our other allies in Europe and in Asia just what we expect of them.

United States officials reportedly have blamed General Phoumi Nosavan, the tough, anti-communist head of the Royal Laotian Army, for the latest Red advance in the Nam Tha area. General Phoumi, according to the opinions of some U. S. officials, actually provoked the latest Red guerrilla advances by building up military forces to defend the last royal strongholds in Laos.

Here is a case of our official policy actually scolding an ally for making an attempt to stand up against the communists. Has there ever been one single case of an enemy halting his advance because the defending army retreated?

Yet there are those officials who now say the Russian and Red Chinese directed rebels in Laos would not have made their final thrust into Laos had they not been provoked by General Phoumi.

In the jig-saw puzzle which until 1953 was French Indo-China, the United States policy has shown other contradictions. For a while we have openly aided South Vietnam in its war against Red guerrillas, we have insisted on a neutralist coalition for Laos which was doomed all along to fall into communist hands.

In fact, one of the conditions demanded by Ambassador Averell Harriman was such a coalition government with the communists in charge of the police. This is a proven pattern for a communist takeover. Also, one of the points mentioned in connection with the landing of 1,800 Marines in Thailand is the matter of providing pressure on Laos for a coalition government.

So it appears we are trying to build up defenses in Vietnam and Thailand in order to stop the same communist rebels who were provoked into breaking the Laotian ceasefire because of a military buildup there.

In the long run, our own blindness in Laos makes South Vietnam, Cambodia, Burma and Thailand all the more vulnerable to the drawn-out war being directed there by Mao Tse-Aung with the occasional help of the Soviet Union.

These countries — amounting to little more than map studies for many Americans at this time — mark the latest spot on the globe where the cold war has turned hot.

Kaola bears, Australian teddy bears, rarely drink water. They obtain water from eucalyptus leaves.

Okinawa is one of the most crowded islands in the world, with 763,000 people living on 465 square miles.

Old Salem, N. C., used a form of modern plumbing in pre-Revolutionary days. Water was piped through hollow logs to every house in town.

To the Editor:

There are many Americans who won't believe we're headed for a United Nations one-world government until we wake up one morning to find Mongolian troops stationed in our front yards.

Senator Barry Goldwater will be one of those surprised Americans too, judging by what happened in the Senate on April 5. Senator Goldwater had just received a hometown newspaper containing a startling announcement by our state department at the Geneva conference a few days earlier. Our government had proposed that all national armies be eliminated and a United Nations police force be substituted. Senator Goldwater, as the young people say, "flipped." During debate on the $100 million U. N. bond issue, he asked several leading "liberal" senators if they had heard about our amazing proposal at Geneva. Of course, Mansfield, Sparkman and Fulbright came right back with the assurance that they didn't know a thing. The No. 1 "liberal," Senator Humphrey, was present but was strangely silent. (See pages 5558 and 5590, Congressional Record, April 5.)

Why didn't Senator Goldwater know that the disarmament act, passed last September, provided for an eventual elimination of national armies and military schools and bases, including our own? I don't question for one second the fact that Fulbright and Co. knew the provisions. The question arises now: Are we afflicted with some kind of legislative disease that renders our lawmakers incapable of reading a bill before they vote on it? There must be much foundation for the accusation that there is a veritable "mill" that grinds out "liberal" bills for our legislators. They know they're expected to pass them, they'd better pass them, they do pass them, and God help the people.

A revealing feature about the denial by "the boys" of any knowledge of this proposal will be found on page 19382 of the Record of September 21, 1961, where Senator Humphrey is reported saying to the Senate: "I wish to comment on the announcement that has just been made that the U. S. and the Soviet Union have now accepted a joint statement of certain agreed general principles which form a basis for guiding them in the resumption of disarmament negotiations. This agreement is the result of discussions between Mr. McCloy, representing the U. S., and Mr. Zorin, representing the Soviet Union, which began last June. . . . Anyone who reads this statement will recognize the degree of agreement reached by the U. S. and the Soviet Union."

Doubtless they will "recognize the degree of agreement!" Filed with the U. N. that day, the agreement reads in part: "(a) Disbanding of armed forces, dismantling of military establishments, including bases, cessation of the production of armaments as well as their liquidation or conversion to peaceful uses. . ." And Part VII, " . . . During and after the implementation of the program of general and complete disarmament, there should be taken, IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PRINCIPLES OF THE U. N. Charter, the necessary measures to maintain international peace and security, including the obligation of states to place at the disposal of the U. N. agreed manpower necessary for an international peace force to be equipped with agreed types of armaments. Arrangements for the use of this force should insure that the U. S. effectively deter or suppress any threat or use of arms in violation of the purposes and principles of the United Nations."

No wonder Senator Humphrey was silent in the face of Goldwater's questioning. But another worrisome thought intrudes. Don't our lawmakers even read the Congressional Record? And where was Senator Goldwater when the disarmament act was passed?

Everybody ought to order a copy of this suicidal act from the Government Printing Office, 15 cents. Title is U. S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. The 33 degree Masons also printed a warning about it in their October 1961 issue of THE NEW AGE, but nobody has seen much of a public outcry by other Masons. Is everybody for U. N. World Government except me and Barry Goldwater and one or two others?

The Farm Front Page on Monday of each week is a fine way of keeping all of the people in Northeast Louisiana informed on what is being done in agriculture.

Soil conservation districts are legal sub-divisions of our state and are charged with the responsibility of getting soil and water conservation practices on the land. We are making every effort to keep the public informed on the progress that is being made. The wonderful job that your papers are doing helps us tremendously in our effort.

We would like for you or some representative from your paper to visit our district and see first-hand some of the soil and water conservation practices that the farmers cooperating with our district are applying.

After reporting plans to send U.S. troops to Thailand, the President told the bipartisan group of legislative leaders:

"Additional military moves will be taken if the (pro-Communist) Pathet Lao forces renew their offensive. Troops being sent to Thailand will be used to keep Vientiane, the administrative Capital of Laos, from falling to the Communists should that become necessary."

The President said he still has hope that the Soviet will put pressure on Pathet Lao forces to restore the cease-fire in Laos.

"While we are preparing for all eventualities," reported the President, "the establishment of a neutral government in Laos is still our principal objective. We believe that a coalition government can be arranged if the Communists agree to a new cease-fire."

In discussing the South Vietnam situation, the President reported that he is considering the commitment of U. S. air power (in addition to U.S. helicopters) in the battle against the pro-Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

"We are studying recommendations for the employment of U.S. air power against the Viet Congs' main supply base in Laos," said the President. "This airfield and storage area is at Chepone, only 20 miles from the South Vietnamese border in southern Laos."

The President pointed out that the airfield at Chepone was handling 16 Soviet planes a day. Also, that the Communists were building a road to the base from North Vietnam. It is guarded by radar-controlled anti - aircraft guns.

Another disturbing fact reported by the President was the arrival of light amphibious tanks of Russian manufacture in Laos. He said his military advisers had warned him that these tanks could be used to ferry Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese troops across the Mekong River into Thailand.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: Please explain Matthew 7:1, "Judge not that ye be not judged." A.P.

ANSWER: A careful examination of Christ's command, "Judge not that ye be not judged," together with its context, will reveal its meaning. He never intended that his disciples should set aside all exercise of the sense of judgment, but rather that they should not apply to others any judgment which they would be unwilling to have applied to themselves by others. We may and we must judge that which is openly and manifestly evil, and we must separate ourselves from it. We may and we should exercise the discernment God has given to us as to outward acts. But there we must stop, for we can know nothing as to the inward motives. We are, however, commanded to judge ourselves, for we know our own hearts well enough to know that many an outward action which looks fair enough to our friends is after all selfish and sinful. This judging of ourselves will keep the beams from our own eyes and help us to better remove the motes from our brothers eyes.

MASSACHUSETTS ELECTION

McCormacks And Kennedys Battle

EDITOR'S NOTE—By ordinary expectations, the Democratic Party in President Kennedy's home state should be in fine fettle. But its two most powerful clans are locked in battle, scandals have shaken the state, and the horizon is far from cloudless. Here's a guided tour through an astonishing political image .

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Newsfeatures Writer

BOSTON (AP)—Two very powerful men in Washington are Democrats who call Massachusetts home.

President John F. Kennedy sits in the White House. Rep. John W. McCormack sits in the speaker's chair in the House of Representatives.

You'd think that this augurs well for the Democratic Party in Massachusetts. You'd think of it as a proud, satisfied, well-oiled machine, purring along smoothly on all cylinders.

But a brief survey of the Democratic Party in Massachusetts is a visit to a wonderland of confusion, rivalries and apprehension, through which blows the chilling wind of scandal in an election year.

Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, the President's brother, and Edward J. McCormack Jr., Speaker McCormack's nephew, are running against each other for the U.S. Senate.

But there are people who will tell you, in effect, that their primary concern is simply to get away from Massachusetts politics, like their illustrious relatives before them.

"Jack Kennedy never had much to do with the state once he was elected to Congress in 1946," says Dr. Charles Cherington, professor of government at Harvard. "I think he was quite right. He saw state politics were a virtual maelstrom."

"Bright young men seem to regard Massachusetts state politics as hopeless," says Prof. Paul Heffron, chairman of the Government Department at Boston College. "They don't want to get involved in it."

What is so peculiar about politics—particularly the Democratic kind—in Massachusetts, the platform from which President Kennedy and Speaker McCormack vaulted onto the national scene?

Massachusetts Democrats rate high as individualists.

Early next month, they will gather for three hectic days in Springfield in a pre-primary convention to give the party endorsement to candidates for statewide office. Anyone with a slight knowledge of Massachusetts politics can tell you what's likely to happen then.

The losers will keep right on running into the primary. All they need to get on their primary ballot is 2,500 signatures, 500 from each of five of the state's 14 counties. And probably at least one of them will upset the convention choice.

The most notable Democratic maverick of recent years was John F. Kennedy (no relation to the President of the same name) who never won a convention endorsement in his life yet served three terms as state treasurer.

Kennedy's first term provided a great moment in sport, or politics, which in a sense is a sport in Massachusetts.

When treasurer Kennedy appointed his brother, James A., to the post of third deputy treasurer, the Governor's Council refused to approve it on grounds James was not qualified. Whereupon treasurer Kennedy challenged the councillors to match IQs with his brother.

"The state government is disorganized," says Ed McCormack, who as attorney general holds the second most important office in the state. The attorney general can, and often does, have his own legislative program which is not necessarily that of the governor.

Recently, McCormack's office made an attempt to straighten out what the attorney general calls the "proliferation of agencies."

"Some of them didn't even know their responsibilities," he says. "We had to analyze them to see if they were judicial, administrative or regulatory. They couldn't classify themselves. We had to tell them what they were."

The dispersal of power in the state government and the lack of Democratic Party discipline has produced among Democrats what may be called "The Cult of the Personality."

There is no discernible right or left wing in the Massachusetts Democratic Party. There are no liberal or conservative Democrats, as such.

The division of power in the state government helps to perpetuate the personality cults. Each officeholder has his own little bowl of patronage to ladle out; his own little favors to dispense.

"Democrats support the individual first, the party second," says Ed McCormack.

Compounding the political confusion are the scandals that have been rocking the Massachusetts government for the past two years.

Threads of graft and outright theft have been discovered weaving in and out of the federal and state highway programs, the newly built parking garage under Boston Common and the State Waterways Division.

U.S. Rep. William C. Cramer (R-Fla.), member of a House subcommittee that investigated the federal highway program, took note of the "grafters and cheats who have turned (Massachusetts) into little more than a sovereign pork barrel."

Scandal in Massachusetts is not peculiar to the Democratic Party alone, but the current disclosures have the Democrats worried over effects in the fall elections.

There is a tendency for Massachusetts Democrats to look wistfully to Washington—not only for patronage and favors but for the strong leadership they need. Most feel they are looking in vain.

"The Kennedys are just not party leaders," says Michael Dukakis, a Boston lawyer and member of the Board of Directors of the Commonwealth Organization of Democrats, a group of young Democrats who are seeking to reorganize the party from within.

"Jack Kennedy held it in his power to control Massachusetts for years. He chose not to do it. Ted has given no indication that he is concerned with party problems."

Liberal Party Is Reviving In England

LONDON (AP)—Britain's two major political parties are looking over their shoulders at a long, lean shadow that is taking on more form than they care to admit.

It represents a revived Liberal party.

The man casting this shadow is long and lean Jo Grimond.

The Liberals look on Grimond as a political Moses. He still has to prove he can lead them out of the wilderness, but even his opponents no longer scoff.

Nobody in Britain today underestimates Jo Grimond and his band of half a dozen fellow Liberals in Parliament. He has emerged, by common consent, as a potential maker and breaker of future governments.

A string of spectacular midterm electoral gains—capped by big advances in local council voting this month—has established his new liberalism as Britain's third force. It menaces both Prime Minister Macmillan's ruling Conservatives on the right and Hugh Gaitskell's opposition Laborites on the left.

"We're on our way," says Grimond.

"We want a new alignment of forces in this country.

"We intend to shake up British politics.

"We're interested in power."

Power is a faded memory for most British Liberals.

The old glories of Gladstone, Asquith and Lloyd George have sunk into the history books. You must go back to World War I for a time when the last Liberal prime minister—David Lloyd George—kept the keys of 10 Downing St. Even then he headed a national coalition.

Even in his headiest moments Grimond cannot see himself driving to Buckingham Palace to receive Queen Elizabeth's commission to form a government.

"It may take 15 or 20 years," he muses. "But in the immediate future I can see a substantial Liberal representation in Parliament exercising the balance of power.

"We're the only party whose vote keeps going up.

"We're doing this without the money, newspapers, patronage or rewards at the disposal of the Tories or Socialists."

If the rise of Liberalism in midterm elections were repeated in a general election that would enhance Labor's chances of unseating Macmillan. This is because Grimond's men are taking more votes away from the Tories in marginal districts.

Parliamentary by-elections and local council elections are not necessarily pointers to a national vote, however. Macmillan, a deft and shrewd politician, can pick his own time and issue on which to fight a general election—any time before the end of 1964.

Grimond, 49, is tall and handsome, has graying hair and blue eyes.

What is the appeal of Grimond's new Liberalism when 95 per cent of the voters have never known a Liberal government?

Iceland Election To Draw Attention

By LYNN HEINZERLING

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—The 99,000 voters in this volcano-scarred island will get a lot of attention when they choose new municipal councils May 27.

From the Kremlin to the Pentagon, soldiers and statesmen are waiting to learn how the proud and independent Icelanders will divide up ideologically in the election. A prime question: Are Iceland's Communists getting stronger or declining?

Iceland stands like a silent sentinel high up in the North Atlantic, its northern tip jutting into the Arctic Circle.

The paramount political issue is the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's base at Keflavik, 31 miles through the lava fields from Reykjavik. It is manned by 4,000 United States sailors and Marines.

The Communists and their left-wing adherents oppose the base bitterly and unendingly as a danger to the country, a blow to national pride and a threat to the nation's culture. They make their views heard because they captured almost a fifth of the vote at the last general election in October, 1959.

The Communists are pounding hard on a popular theme. Not many Icelanders like the idea of having foreign troops stationed in the country.

The Icelanders, descendants of Norwegians and Celts, have created a pleasant society out of a once forbidding land studded with scores of volcanoes and glaciers. There is little natural wealth except the cod and the herring that surround the island and swarm obligingly into nets.

With a total population of only 175,000, the nation never has had its own army, navy or air force. The NATO force and the extension of the early warning radar system to three stations in Iceland are hard for many Icelanders to swallow.

Under the coalition government headed by Prime Minister Olafur Thors, Iceland has worked out a fairly reasonable relationship with the NATO base. Unhappy incidents involved United States personnel and Icelanders in the past but these have ceased.

Restrictions on the men at the base are still severe. No more than 4 per cent of the personnel, approximately 160 men, are permitted outside the 24,000-acre base at one time.

Trips to Reykjavik, small but pleasant and brightly lighted, are, therefore, very limited. There is a 10 p.m. curfew in Reykjavik for troops every night except Wednesday. On Wednesday it is extended to midnight, but bars are closed all day.

"There is no other base in the world where the men are so restricted," one Navy man said unhappily.

Some of the restrictions are retained only because of the Communists' hostile attitude. Rear Adm. Robert B. Moore, commander of the Iceland defense force, and U.S. Ambassador James K. Penfield work closely with the government and have an easy relationship with its leaders. Adm. Moore entertained Iceland's President Asgeir Asgeirsson and the Cabinet at a base reception a few days ago.

National elections are scheduled for next year.

When Iceland's voters choose their town councils next weekend, they may indicate whether the national government is in danger. It is a coalition of the Conservative Independence party, with 24 of the 60 seats in Parliament, and the Social Democratic party with 9.

The United People's Socialist party, which includes the Communists and other left-wing groups, won 10 seats at the last national election. It is united in opposition with the Progressive party, an agrarian and cooperative grouping which won 17 seats.

More than 40 per cent of the votes are cast in Reykjavik, a city of 75,000 where much of the public and private heating is provided by hot water piped from hot springs.

The Independence party holds 10 of the 15 seats in the Reykjavik Council, the United People's Socialist party 3 and the other two parties one each. The Independence party may lose one or two seats. If it suffers a greater defeat, a difficult situation may be created.

The Communists are reported to be well subsidized by Moscow through the Reykjavik embassy. Two small municipal councils in the country already are controlled by Communists.

The Communists never miss a chance to take a swipe at NATO or the Americans. When Adm. Moore arranged to send a blind and speechless girl to the United States for training, the Communists charged he was trying to "get publicity through charity."

Earthquake Area Returns To Normalcy

VALDIVIA, Chile (AP) — Two years after nature ravaged southern Chile in a fit of cataclysmic fury the country is painfully finding its way back toward a semblance of normalcy.

But two years have not been nearly long enough to repair the havoc of earthquake, tidal waves and volcanic eruptions that for three days tormented fully a fourth of Chile's land mass.

Thousands perished in the hellish hours of May 21-23, 1960, and about 100 cities and towns were reduced to ruins in the country's richest area.

Much has been done since then to rebuild the cities and railroads, restore the bridges and roads and bring the harbors back to life.

But the desperate shortage of dwellings in the 11 southern provinces remains. Thousands of people are again faced with the bleak prospect of another winter season in makeshift shelters.

Government and private capital have joined forces to solve the vast problems of reconstruction and repair. In the first year after the catastrophe the government alone spent more than $200 million.

Private capital took a quick hand in helping with the construction of new industrial installations, schools, hospitals and water and supply systems.

Further financing has been obtained in the United States and Europe.

But the monumental extent of the damage makes a mockery of any hopes that life in the devastated area will soon be normal. Chile will feel the effects of its historic ordeal for a long time to come.

Two Dictators Now In Trouble

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Sharp spring winds have blown up troubles for the Iberian Peninsula's two dictators. Francisco Franco and Antonio Salazar are picking their way carefully through the accompanying dust clouds.

One veteran observer here described the situation in Spain and Portugal in these words:

"The problems of the Franco regime, including the current labor strike, might well be called growing pains. In Portugal the troubles of Premier Salazar resemble more the aging aches of possible disintegration."

Many agree with this view, but probably more see the strikes in Spain and the more violent political manifestations in Portugal as passing phases.

Changes are coming in the Iberian Peninsula, but not even in Portugal does the time seem ripe for any abrupt abandonment of the regime Premier Salazar has ruled since 1932.

There is a contrast between the problems Gen. Franco faces in Spain and those which have turned areas of Portugal into armed camps.

Despite the application of a state of emergency in three northern provinces of Spain, the longest and most serious strikes in Franco's 25-year-rule have been devoid of violence. Leftist agitators seek to use the strikes as a political weapon but few incidents and only a few hundred arrests have been reported.

In Portugal, security forces have become restless under the pressure of repeated and sometimes violent anti-Salazar demonstrations. There have been several deaths and numerous wounded in outbreaks of gunfire.

Franco's situation seems likely to improve. Salazar's may continue to deteriorate.

Spain's labor strife began a month ago in the coalfields of Asturias Province and spread to heavily industrialized Bilbao and other areas.

In the United States a walkout of 80,000 workers—they are less than one per cent of Spain's labor force of 10 million—might go almost unnoticed. Here the rarity of strikes, technically illegal, made the work stoppage a major problem.

Franco's failure to quell or otherwise settle the labor strife promptly produced two reactions. Some Spaniards praise Franco for refusal to crack down on the strikers while aiming for negotiated settlement—certain to include almost countrywide pay boosts for workers.

Others claim Franco dared not use force because of its possible effect both on internal conditions and Spain's standing abroad.

Whatever the reason, Franco is obviously committed to a policy of peaceful settlement. This may be followed by a campaign to spread industrial profits over a wider segment of the population. Heavier restrictions against excess profits are expected for owners and operators of much of Spain's industry.

Spanish officials say foreign Communist agitators are responsible for the strikes, and the foreign groups opposed to Franco are helping finance them.

They recall that strikes have usually ended when the strikers ran out of funds. This time the workers and miners seem to find money for food.

Spain's censored newspapers have said little about the strikes, but people are hearing and talking about them.

And, as one Madrid worker said, "They will probably settle the strikes this time, but what happens the next time around?"

Obviously Franco is thinking the same thoughts. He sent his ace labor man, Jose Solis Ruiz, chief of the Spanish syndicates, into the coalfields.

Portugal's situation is more severe because of the basic weakness of economy and government after a series of setbacks.

The Angolan revolt cost the Salazar regime heavily in men, money and prestige. Loss of Goa shook the Portuguese people even more. Political and student disturbances in Portugal—including an armed attack by the opposition on the Beja army base—have split the nation.

Opposition leaders first tried mass demonstrations against Salazar, but these were smashed by determined security forces. Then the opposition sent small groups of agitators to insult or assault police patrols and fade into crowds. Police said armed snipers fired on them from rooftops.

This Story Doesn't Quite Make Grade

BELLE DE JOUR. By Joseph Kessel. St. Martin's. $3.95.

It should be noted first that the author is known in this country for "The Lion," and in France for a good many other works as well.

It should be noted secondly that this experienced author says "none of my books is dearer to me than this one." He says it in a preface written to explain the story's unusual nature. A bit of explanation seems in order.

The story is about Severine, young wife of a surgeon named Pierre. She leads a double life, the victim of an aberration which causes her to seek physical degradation; in the afternoons she works in a house of prostitution — hence the title.

Her entanglement in that situation leads to a sinister alliance with a gangster and a pimp, and finally there is an oddly contrived tragedy that strikes at her innocent husband, an ironic finish to her double life.

It is supposed to be one of the literary canons that a work should be judged only on its merits in the writing art, without reference to subject matter. This allows authors to choose some pretty rugged plots, and there are some readers who feel that when things get too pathological, the literacy merit is hard to see.

Kessel says in his preface that he did not intend to create a piece of pathological observation, but "I chose my subject as one examines a sick heart, in order to know a healthy one functions . . .The subject of 'Belle de Jour' is not Severine's sensual aberration; it is her love for Pierre independent of that aberration, and it is the tragedy of that love."

On that basis, this reader must decide that although the novel has many well - written passages, it does not come off. Why? Because Severine's love for her husband never seems to shine through the murky clouds of her aberration. And the character of Pierre never seems real, wrapped as it is in the shadows of that pathological state.

Behind Spy Lines Of The 'Cold War'

THE SECRET WAR. By Sanche de Gramont. Putnam. $5.95.

As the author points out, Americans have had a traditional distaste for spying, even against a hostile power. Nathan Hale has been admired more for his patriotism than for his assignment.

And as late as 1928, Henry L. Stimson squelched a cryptographic bureau in the State Department on the ground that "gentlemen don't read other people's mail."

In contrast, the Russian tradition has been to spy on its own people as well as on outsiders.

Since the Second World War, America has had to change its attitude toward espionage, for it has become an absolute necessity of all major powers. They must spy on each other, keeping tab on friendly as well as unfriendly nations, and take elaborate precautions against foreign spies within their own borders.

The subtitle of De Gramont's book is "The Story of International Espionage Since World War II." It is a very comprehensive survey of the West (mainly the United States and England) against the Russians.

There are whole chapters devoted to such famous cases as those of Judy Coplon, Harry Gold and Rudolf Abel, and many more case histories of lesser figures. There are many analyses of the defections to the West, including some redefections. De Gramont says some of the best sources of intelligence are defecting intelligence personnel. There is a whole chapter on the U-2 flights.

DeGramont also examines the probable size, composition and operating techniques of the American and Russian intelligence services.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Books About Red Menace Popular

FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Libarian

Recent additions to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library offer a great variety of reading material to the people of the Parish. A perfectly beautiful book was a recent gift to the Library. It is "The Christian History of the United States of America" compiled by Verna M. Hall. A lovely new book about the sea was written by Farley Mowat, who is one of our most literate and versatile writers. The title is "The Serpent's Coil" and it is well worth your reading time. People who like exciting adventure in the out of doors will want to read "Heart of the World" by Chet Schwarzkopf. The setting is in the Pacific Northwest and it is a very fine collection. "Midget Motoring and Karting" by K. D. McFarland will be of special interest to a particular audience. "10c Crafts For Kids" by Jane Wardall should be especially valuable for Bible school teachers in the coming weeks. With the summer season coming on, there are many individuals and groups who should find a use for "The Complete Book of Camping" by Leonard Miracle.

The latest selection of the Literary Guild is "30 Stories to Remember" by Thomas B. Costain. It contains the complete texts of 30 of the more recent popular books of fiction and non-fiction. "Who Killed the Congo" is a very discerning presentation of the entire problem, written by a correspondent who was on the scene when violence first broke out. Her name is Philippa Schuyler and she has done a wonderful job. An excellent book for those who would like to read the basic documents on which the history of our country is established is "Basic Documents of American History," selected by Richard B. Morris.

Since the centennial of the Civil War is currently being observed, a great many books on the subject are being published. The latest one is called "The Adventure of the Civil War, Told With Pictures," written by Irving Werstein. The Ouachita Parish Public Library has a very fine collection of genealogy, which is continually growing. The latest title in this collection was compiled by Miss Mary Elizabeth Sanders of Baton Rouge, who is an officer of the Louisiana Genealogical Society and is also a librarian. This book contains the "Records of Attakapas District, Louisiana from 1739 to 1811". From this district the Parishes of Lafayette, St. Martin, Franklin and New Iberia were formed and these early records are very valuable. For the past three years the Ouachita Parish Public Library has had the genealogical collection of the Louisiana State D.A.R. shelved at the headquarters Library. This collection was available, because Mrs. Landreaux, our cataloger was the State Librarian of the Louisiana Society D.A.R. Her term has expired and the books have been sent to Lake Providence, to the East Carroll Parish Library, where Mrs. Rosenschweig, one of the staff members of that Library is now State Librarian. This is a circulating collection and any member of the D.A.R. may write to her for books. Our own collection is a Reference collection only, but you are welcome to use it in the Library.

In this community there is a great interest in books which explain the dangers of communism. Several new books on this subject have recently been added to the Library collection. One is "Communism, Its Faith and Fallacies" by James B. Bales. Another is "Capitalism, Socialism and Democracy" by Joseph A. Schumpeter.

A lovely addition to the music shelf of the Library is "Music in the Baroque Era" by Manfred Bukofzer. It is a very fine study and will be appreciated by musicians. One of the most interesting figures in modern American literature was Louis Bromfield. For many years he wrote best selling novels. Later on he became interested in reclaiming an old farm near Cleveland. He made of it a model far and his later books were concerned with his adventures in this field. His daughter has written a most interesting biography of her father, which she calls "The Heritage." A very lovely new book is a history of Norfolk, Virginia. The author is Thomas J. Wertenbaker and the title is "Norfolk, Historic Southern Port."

Books in the field of flower gardening are always popular. The latest one is called "Minature Chyrsanthemums and Koreans" and the author is Roy Genders. A book which is certain to be in demand is "The Good Housekeeping Book of Cake Decorating." Other books of this type have been widely used. Copies of this book are to be found in each branch of the Public Library and we know you will enjoy them.

"Democrats support the individual first, the party second," says Ed McCormack.

Compounding the political confusion are the scandals that have been rocking the Massachusetts government for the past two years.

Threads of graft and outright theft have been discovered weaving in and out of the federal and state highway programs, the new-ly-built parking garage under Boston Common and the State Waterways Division.

U.S. Rep. William C. Cramer (R-Fla.), member of a House subcommittee that investigated the federal highway program, took note of the "grafters and cheats who have turned (Massachusetts) into little more than a sovereign pork barrel."

Scandal in Massachusetts is not peculiar to the Democratic Party alone, but the current disclosures have the Democrats worried over effects in the fall elections.

There is a tendency for Massachusetts Democrats to look wistfully to Washington—not only for patronage and favors but for the strong leadership they feel is lacking at home. But most feel they are looking in vain.

"The Kennedys are just not party leaders," says Michael Dukakis, a Boston lawyer and member of the Board of Directors of the Commonwealth Organization of Democrats, a group of young Democrats who are seeking to reorganize the party from within.

"Jack Kennedy held it in his power to control Massachusetts for years. He chose not to do it. Ted has given no indication that he is concerned with party problems."

Liberal Party Is Reviving In England

LONDON (AP)—Britain's two major political parties are looking over their shoulders at a long, lean shadow that is taking on more form than they care to admit.

It represents a revived Liberal party.

The man casting this shadow is long and lean Jo Grimond.

The Liberals look on Grimond as a political Moses. He still has to prove he can lead them out of the wilderness, but even his opponents no longer scoff.

Nobody in Britain today underestimates Jo Grimond and his band of half a dozen fellow Liberals in Parliament. He has emerged, by common consent, as a potential maker and breaker of future governments.

A string of spectacular midterm electoral gains—capped by big advances in local council voting this month—has established his new liberalism as Britain's third force. It menaces both Prime Minister Macmillan's ruling Conservatives on the right and Hugh Gaitskell's opposition Laborites on the left.

"We're on our way," says Grimond.

"We want a new alignment of forces in this country.

"We intend to shake up British politics.

"We're interested in power."

Power is a faded memory for most British Liberals.

The old glories of Gladstone, Asquith and Lloyd George have sunk into the history books. You must go back to World War I for a time when the last Liberal prime minister—David Lloyd George—kept the keys of 10 Downing St. Even then he headed a national coalition.

Even in his headiest moments Grimond cannot see himself driving to Buckingham Palace to receive Queen Elizabeth's commission to form a government.

"It may take 15 or 20 years," he says. "But in the immediate future I can see a substantial Liberal representation in Parliament exercising the balance of power.

"We're the only party whose vote keeps going up.

"We're doing this without the money, newspapers, patronage or rewards at the disposal of the Tories or Socialists."

If the rise of Liberalism in midterm elections were repeated in a general election that would enhance Labor's chances of unseating Macmillan. This is because Grimond's men are taking more votes away from the Tories in marginal districts.

Parliamentary by-elections and local council elections are not necessarily pointers to a national vote, however. Macmillan, a deft and shrewd politician, can pick his own time and issue on which to fight a general election—any time before the end of 1964.

Grimond, 49, is tall and handsome, has graying hair and blue eyes.

What is the appeal of Grimond's new Liberalism when 95 per cent of the British electorate never known a Liberal government?

Iceland Election To Draw Attention

By LYNN HEINZERLING

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—The 99,000 voters in this volcano-scarred island will get a lot of attention when they choose new municipal councils May 27.

From the Kremlin to the Pentagon, soldiers and statesmen are waiting to learn how the proud and independent Icelanders will divide up ideologically in the election. A prime question: Are Iceland's Communists getting stronger or declining?

Iceland stands like a silent sentinel high up in the North Atlantic, its northern tip jutting into the Arctic Circle.

The paramount political issue is the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's base at Keflavik, 31 miles through the lava fields from Reykjavik. It is manned by 4,000 United States sailors and Marines.

The Communists and their leftwing adherents oppose the base bitterly and unendingly as a danger to the country, a blow to national pride and a threat to the nation's culture. They make their views heard because they captured almost a fifth of the vote at the last general election in October, 1959.

The Communists are pounding hard on a popular theme. Not many Icelanders like the idea of having foreign troops stationed in the country.

The Icelanders, descendants of Norwegians and Celts, have created a pleasant society out of a once forbidding land studded with scores of volcanoes and glaciers. There is little natural wealth except the cod and the herring that surround the island and swarm obligingly into nets.

With a total population of only 175,000, the nation never has had its own army, navy or air force. The NATO force and the extension of the early warning radar system to three stations in Iceland are hard for many Icelanders to swallow.

Under the coalition government headed by Prime Minister Olafur Thors, Iceland has worked out a fairly reasonable relationship with the NATO base. Unhappy incidents involved United States personnel and Icelanders in the past but these have ceased.

Restrictions on the men at the base are still severe. No more than 4 per cent of the personnel, approximately 160 men, are permitted outside the 24,000-acre base at one time.

Trips to Reykjavik, small but pleasant and brightly lighted, are, therefore, very limited. There is a 10 p.m. curfew in Reykjavik for troops every night except Wednesday. On Wednesday it is extended to midnight, but bars are closed all day.

"There is no other base in the world where the men are so restricted," one Navy man said unhappily.

Some of the restrictions are retained only because of the Communists' hostile attitude. Rear Adm. Robert B. Moore, commander of the Iceland defense force, and U.S. Ambassador James K. Penfield work closely with the government and have an easy relationship with its leaders. Adm. Moore entertained Iceland's President Asgeir Asgeirsson and the Cabinet at a base reception a few days ago.

National elections are scheduled for next year.

When Iceland's voters choose their town councils next weekend, they may indicate whether the national government is in danger.

It is a coalition of the Conservative Independence party, with 24 of the 60 seats in Parliament, and the Social Democratic party with 9.

The United People's Socialist party, which includes the Communists and other left-wing groups, won 10 seats at the last national election. It is united in opposition with the Progressive party, an agrarian and cooperative grouping which won 17 seats.

More than 40 per cent of the votes are cast in Reykjavik, a city of 75,000 where much of the public and private heating is provided by hot water piped from hot springs.

The Independence party holds 10 of the 15 seats in the Reykjavik Council, the United People's Socialist party 3 and the other two parties one each. The Independence party may lose one or two seats. If it suffers a greater defeat, a difficult situation may be created.

The Communists are reported to be well subsidized by Moscow through the Reykjavik embassy. Two small municipal councils in the country already are controlled by Communists.

The Communists never miss a chance to take a swipe at NATO or the Americans. When Adm. Moore arranged to send a blind and speechless girl to the United States for training, the Communists charged he was trying to "get publicity through charity."

Earthquake Area Returns To Normalcy

VALDIVIA, Chile (AP)—Two years after nature ravaged southern Chile in a fit of cataclysmic fury the country is painfully finding its way back toward a semblance of normalcy.

But two years have not been nearly long enough to repair the havoc of earthquake, tidal waves and volcanic eruptions that for three days tormented fully a fourth of Chile's land mass.

Thousands perished in the hellish hours of May 21-23, 1960, and about 100 cities and towns were reduced to ruins in the country's richest area.

Much has been done since then to rebuild the cities and railroads, restore the bridges and roads and bring the harbors back to life.

But the desperate shortage of dwellings in the 11 southern provinces remains. Thousands of people are again faced with the bleak prospect of another winter season in makeshift shelters.

Government and private capital have joined forces to solve the vast problems of reconstruction and recovery. In the first year after the catastrophe the government alone spent more than $200 million.

Private capital took a quick hand in helping with the construction of new industrial installations, schools, hospitals and water and supply systems.

Further financing has been obtained in the United States and Europe.

But the monumental extent of the damage makes a mockery of any hopes that life in the devastated area will soon be normal. Chile will feel the effects of its historic ordeal for a long time to come.

Two Dictators Now In Trouble

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Sharp spring winds have blown up troubles for the Iberian Peninsula's two dictators. Francisco Franco and Antonio Salazar are picking their way carefully through the accompanying dust clouds.

One veteran observer here described the situation in Spain and Portugal in these words:

"The problems of the Franco regime, including the current labor strike, might well be called growing pains. In Portugal the troubles of Premier Salazar resemble more the aging aches of possible disintegration."

Many agree with this view, but probably more see the strikes in Spain and the more violent political manifestations in Portugal as passing phases.

Changes are coming in the Iberian Peninsula, but not even in Portugal does the time seem ripe for any abrupt abandonment of the regime Premier Salazar has ruled since 1932.

There is a contrast between the problems Gen. Franco faces in Spain and those which have turned areas of Portugal into armed camps.

Despite the application of a state of emergency in three northern provinces of Spain, the longest and most serious strikes in Franco's 25-year-rule have been devoid of violence. Leftist agitators seek to use the strikes as a political weapon but few incidents and only a few hundred arrests have been reported.

In Portugal, security forces have become restless under the pressure of repeated and sometimes violent anti-Salazar demonstrations. There have been several deaths and numerous wounded in outbreaks of gunfire.

Franco's situation seems likely to improve. Salazar's may continue to deteriorate.

Spain's labor strife began a month ago in the coalfields of Asturias Province and spread to heavily industrialized Bilbao and other areas.

In the United States a walkout of 80,000 workers—they are less than one per cent of Spain's labor force of 10 million—might go almost unnoticed. Here the rarity of strikes, technically illegal, made them a major political problem.

Franco's failure to quell or otherwise settle the labor strife promptly produced two reactions. Some Spaniards praise Franco for refusal to crack down on the strikers while aiming for negotiated settlement—certain to include almost countrywide pay boosts for workers.

Others claim Franco dared not use force because of its possible effect both on internal conditions and Spain's standing abroad.

Whatever the reason, Franco is obviously committed to a policy of peaceful settlement. This may be followed by a campaign to spread industrial profits over a wider segment of the population. Heavier restrictions against excess profits are expected for owners and operators of much of Spain's industry.

Spanish officials say foreign Communist agitators are responsible for the strikes. But the foreign groups opposed to Franco are helping finance them.

They recall that strikes have usually ended when the strikers ran out of funds. This time the workers and miners seem to find money for food.

Spain's censored newspapers have said little about the strikes, but people are hearing and talking about them.

And, as one Madrid worker said, "They will probably settle the strikes this time, but what happens the next time around?"

Obviously Franco is thinking the same thoughts. He sent his ace labor man, Jose Solis Ruiz, chief of the Spanish syndicates, into the coalfields.

Portugal's situation is more severe because of the basic weakness of economy and government after a series of setbacks.

The Angolan revolt cost the Salazar regime heavily in men, money and prestige. Loss of Goa shook the Portuguese people and their morale. Political and student disturbances in Portugal—including an armed attack by the opposition on the Beja army base—have split the nation.

Opposition leaders first tried mass demonstrations against Salazar, but these were smashed by determined security forces. Then the opposition sent small groups of agitators to insult or assault police patrols and fade into crowds. Police said armed snipers fired on them from rooftops.

This Story Doesn't Quite Make Grade

BELLE DE JOUR. By Joseph Kessel. St. Martin's. $3.95.

It should be noted first that the author is known in this country for "The Lion," and in France for a good many other works as well.

It should be noted secondly that this experienced author says "none of my books is dearer to me than this one." He says it in a preface written to explain the story's unusual nature. A bit of explanation seems in order.

The story is about Severine, young wife of a surgeon named Pierre. She leads a double life, the victim of an aberration which causes her to seek physical degradation; in the afternoons she works in a house of prostitution — hence the title.

Her entanglement in that situation leads to a sinister alliance with a gangster and a pimp, and finally there is an oddly contrived tragedy that strikes at her innocent husband, an ironic finish to her double life.

It is supposed to be one of the literary canons that a work should be judged only on its merits in the writing art, without reference to subject matter. This allows authors to choose some pretty rugged plots, and there are some readers who feel that when things get too pathological, the literacy merit is hard to see.

Kessel says in his preface that he did not intend to create a piece of pathological observation, but "I chose my subject as one examines a sick heart, in order to know a healthy one functions . . . The subject of 'Belle de Jour' is not Severine's sensual aberration; it is her love for Pierre independent of that aberration, and it is the tragedy of that love."

On that basis, this reader must decide that although the novel has many well - written passages, it does not come off. Why? Because Severine's love for her husband never seems to shine through the murky clouds of her aberration. And the character of Pierre never seems real, wrapped as it is in the shadows of that pathological state.

Behind Spy Lines Of The 'Cold War'

THE SECRET WAR. By Sanche de Gramont. Putnam. $5.95.

As the author points out, Americans have had a traditional distaste for spying, even against a hostile power. Nathan Hale has been admired more for his patriotism than for his assignment.

And as late as 1928, Henry L. Stimson squelched a cryptographic bureau in the State Department on the ground that "gentlemen don't read other people's mail."

In contrast, the Russian tradition has been to spy on its own people as well as on outsiders.

Since the Second World War, America has had to change its attitude toward espionage, but it has become an absolute necessity of all major powers. They must spy on each other, keeping tab on friendly as well as unfriendly nations, and take elaborate precautions against foreign spies within their own borders.

The subtitle of De Gramont's book is "The Story of International Espionage Since World War II." It is a very comprehensive survey of the West (mainly the United States and England) against the Russians.

There are whole chapters devoted to such famous cases as those of Judy Coplon, Harry Gold and Rudolf Abel, and many more case histories of lesser figures. There are many analyses of the defections to the West, including some redefections. De Gramont says some of the best sources of intelligence are defecting intelligence personnel. There is a whole chapter on the U-2 flights.

DeGramont also examines the probable size, composition and operating techniques of the American and Russian intelligence services.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Books About Red Menace Popular

FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Libarian

Recent additions to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library offer a great variety of reading material to the people of the Parish. A perfectly beautiful book was a recent gift to the Library. It is "The Christian History of the United States of America" compiled by Verna M. Hall. A lovely new book about the sea was written by Farley Mowat, who is one of our most literate and versatile writers. The title is "The Serpent's Coil" and it is well worth your reading time. People who like exciting adventure in the out of doors will want to read "Heart of the World" by Chet Schwarzkopf. The setting is in the Pacific Northwest and it is a very fine collection. "Midget Motoring and Karting" by K. D. McFarland will be of special interest to a particular audience. "10c Crafts For Kids" by Jane Wardall should be especially valuable for Bible school teachers in the coming weeks. With the summer season coming on, there are many individuals and groups who should find a use for "The Complete Book of Camping" by Leonard Miracle.

The latest selection of the Literary Guild is "30 Stories to Remember" by Thomas B. Costain. It contains the complete texts of 30 of the more recent popular books of fiction and non-fiction. "Who Killed the Congo" is a very discerning presentation of the entire problem, written by a correspondent who was on the scene when violence first broke out. Her name is Philippa Schuyler and she has done a wonderful job. An excellent book for those who would like to read the basic documents on which the history of our country is established is "Basic Documents of American History," selected by Richard B. Morris.

Since the centennial of the Civil War is currently being observed, a great many books on the subject are being published. The latest one is called "The Adventure of the Civil War, Told With Pictures," written by Irving Werstein. The Ouachita Parish Public Library has a very fine collection of genealogy, which is continually growing. The latest title in this collection was compiled by Miss Mary Elizabeth Sanders of Baton Rouge, who is an officer of the Louisiana Genealogical Society and is also a librarian. This book contains the "Records of Attakapas District, Louisiana from 1739 to 1811." From this district the Parishes of Lafayette, St. Martin, Franklin and New Iberia were formed and these early records are very valuable. For the past three years the Ouachita Parish Public Library has had the genealogical collection of the Louisiana State D.A.R. shelved at the headquarters Library. This collection was available, because Mrs. Landreaux, our cataloger was the State Librarian of the Louisiana Society D.A.R. Her term has expired and the books have been sent to Lake Providence, to the East Carroll Parish Library, where Mrs. Rosenschweig, one of the staff members of that Library is now State Librarian. This is a circulating collection and any member of the D.A.R. may write to her for books. Our own collection is a Reference collection only, but you are welcome to use it in the Library.

In this community there is a great interest in books which explain the dangers of communism. Several new books on this subject have recently been added to the Library collection. One is "Communism, Its Faith and Fallacies" by James B. Bales. Another is "Capitalism, Socialism and Democracy" by Joseph A. Schumpeter.

A lovely addition to the music shelf in the Library is "Music in the Baroque Era" by Manfred Bukofzer. It is a very fine study and will be appreciated by musicians. One of the most interesting figures in modern American literature was Louis Bromfield. For many years he wrote best selling novels. Later on he became interested in reclaiming an old farm near Cleveland. He made of it a model far and his later books were concerned with his adventures in this field. His daughter has written a most interesting biography of her father, which she calls "The Heritage." A very lovely new book is a history of Norfolk, Virginia. The author is Thomas J. Wertenbaker and the title is "Norfolk, Historic Southern Port."

Books in the field of flower gardening are always popular. The latest one is called "Miniature Chrysanthemums and Korgenans" and the author is Roy Genders. A book which is certain to be in demand is "The Good Housekeeping Book of Cake Decorating." Other books of this type have been widely used. Copies of this book are to be found in each branch of the Public Library and we know you will enjoy them.

HERMAN WOUK
has written his most important novel
YOUNGBLOOD HAWKE

By the author of The Caine Mutiny and Marjorie Morningstar . . . a powerful new novel of an outsized genius who lived the American dream . . . a Kentucky mountain boy who became a millionaire Pulitzer Prize author, and whose meteoric rise and fall are brilliantly spotlighted against a wide and varied panorama of America itself. "Vast, crowded, knowing, always in movement," YOUNGBLOOD HAWKE is a richly satisfying novel — an unforgettable portrait of a man, a talent, and the way we live now.

MONROE DISTRICT

Gas Tops Area Activity For Week's Drilling

Gas activity held center stage last week in the 14 parishes of the Monroe Oil and Gas District as area drillers recorded the third healthy advance in as many weeks. Ouachita Parish made sizeable contributions.

Records on file in the Monroe office of District Manager Duncan S. Cook showed four of a total of seven completions reported over the period in Ouachita Parish, all gas rigs and all in the Monroe Field. Also in the Monroe Field were two gas completions listed in Union Parish. The only oil final came in LaSalle Parish, the South Jena Field, reported pumping at 3910 feet. Depth on the gas wells averaged 2300 feet, all producing from Monroe Gas Rock.

The total on new locations throughout the district surged well over last week's final to 25, of which one was spotted in Ouachita Parish, again the Monroe Field. The rest were well scattered over nine of the 14 parishes in 15 fields in Catahoula, Concordia, Union, Franklin, Grant, LaSalle Madison and Tensas Parishes. Concordia and Union led the way with reports of five new locations each. All the sites in Union Parish are for gas wells in the Monroe Field.

Of total of 13 wells listed as active at week's end, seven were to be found in LaSalle Parish; all

Business, Industry Show Signs Economy Is Better

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Pan American Petroleum Cor., continued testing a contrary Monroe County gas well this week, hoping to cap a winner at 5,900 feet.

The Watson No. 1, sec. 32-15s-7e, blew out last week as operators attempted to drill - stem test a cored interval at 5,675-85 feet. Gas sprayed for a few hours before it was controlled.

The venture, with little information reported, is three miles southeast of the Muldon gas field.

Two potential new discoveries are under test in Franklin and Wilkinson counties to determine commercial worth of shows logged in the Wilcox Zone.

Griffin, Kelley and Byrne are rulling production tests on the Stuart No. 1, sec. 29-6n-2e, in Franklin County, about a mile south of the abandoned Roxie field. Operators set production casing to 6,218 feet and will perforate and test a zone at 6,138-47 feet.

In Wilkinson County, Germany and Gulmon have set production casing to 6,580 feet and are preparing to perforate and test the Davis No. 1, sec. 4-4n-1w, about one mile north of the Ireland

OIL-HAULING FLEET

Tanker Building Climbs Modestly

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — World construction of oil tankers has made a minor recovery since its sharp 1960 decline.

The British Petroleum Co. Ltd., estimates tankers totaling 14,700,000 deadweight tons were under construction or on order at the end of 1961.

The comparable total at the end of 1959 was 19,500,000 tons but the world surplus of oil dropped 1960's year-end new construction total to 14,600,000 tons.

British Petroleum's annual statistical review of the world oil industry rates the world tanker fleet at the end of 1961 at 67,100,000 tons, compared to 64,000,000 a year earlier, and 60,900,000 at the end of 1959.

The 3 per cent increase each of the last two years is in sharp contrast with 9 per cent in 1959, 12 per cent in 1958, and 11 per

Tankers flying the United States flag accounted for 57 per cent of the world fleet in 1946. Despite increasing her tonnage from 8,000,000 to 9,100,000, the United States' share amounted to only 13½ per cent of the world total.

Great Britain's share meanwhile dropped from 18 per cent to 15½ per cent.

No tankers were flying the Liberian flag in 1946. Her postwar boom has been rivaled only by Western European nations whose combined totals jumped from 8 per cent of the world fleet in 1946 to 25 per cent at the end of 1961.

Norway meanwhile boosted her share from 10 to 14½ per cent. Other Western Hemisphere nations increased their share from

GMC Auto's Sales Show Great Boom

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Signs that things are picking up again for business and industry showered over the economic landscape during the past week.

They came in reports from Washington agencies, from stockholder meetings in New York, Chicago and elsewhere, and in statistics from Detroit, capital of motordom.

The indicators pointed upwards for the gross national product — the sum of output of all goods and services—for industrial production, for personal income, and nonfarm payrolls.

Also higher were hours worked in factories, housing starts in April, and automobile sales—notably those of General Motors Corp., which seemed almost embarrassed by its booming achievements.

One of the brightest reports came from Sears Roebuck & Co., which said the February-April quarter earnings had jumped 35 per cent over a year ago and that sales so far in May have been up about 16 per cent.

Business Briefs

25 Years

T. A. Breard became a 25-year employee of Sears, Roebuck and Company on May 14, 1962.

Numerous executives of the company have written congratulatory letters to Breard on the occasion of his 25th anniversary with the company. He joined Sears' organization when the company first came to Monroe and has worked in all departments. He is currently in the furniture sales department.

Small Business

NEW ORLEANS (Special)—The northern section of Louisiana has again been placed under the New Orleans office of the Small Business Administration, causing the office to arrange for periodical visits of its representative to Monroe.

Manager Justin Green announced here that Loan Specialist Fred B. Otell will be in Monroe all day Thursday, May 24, in Room 216, Post Office Building.

Olin Oil & Gas

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — Gross income of Olin Oil and Gas Corporation for the first three months of 1962 was $12,997.646 compared with $12,200,976 for the same period last year.

Net income provided 55 cents per common share after preferred stock dividends, up 22 cents over 1961.

Cotton's Prices Slightly Firmer At Week's End

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton prices moved within a narrow range last week, closing on some what firmer ground.

On the New York Cotton Exchange, active futures contracts from July 1962 through July 1963 made gains of 35 cents a bale to $1.35 a bale but the distant October delivery eased 25 cents.

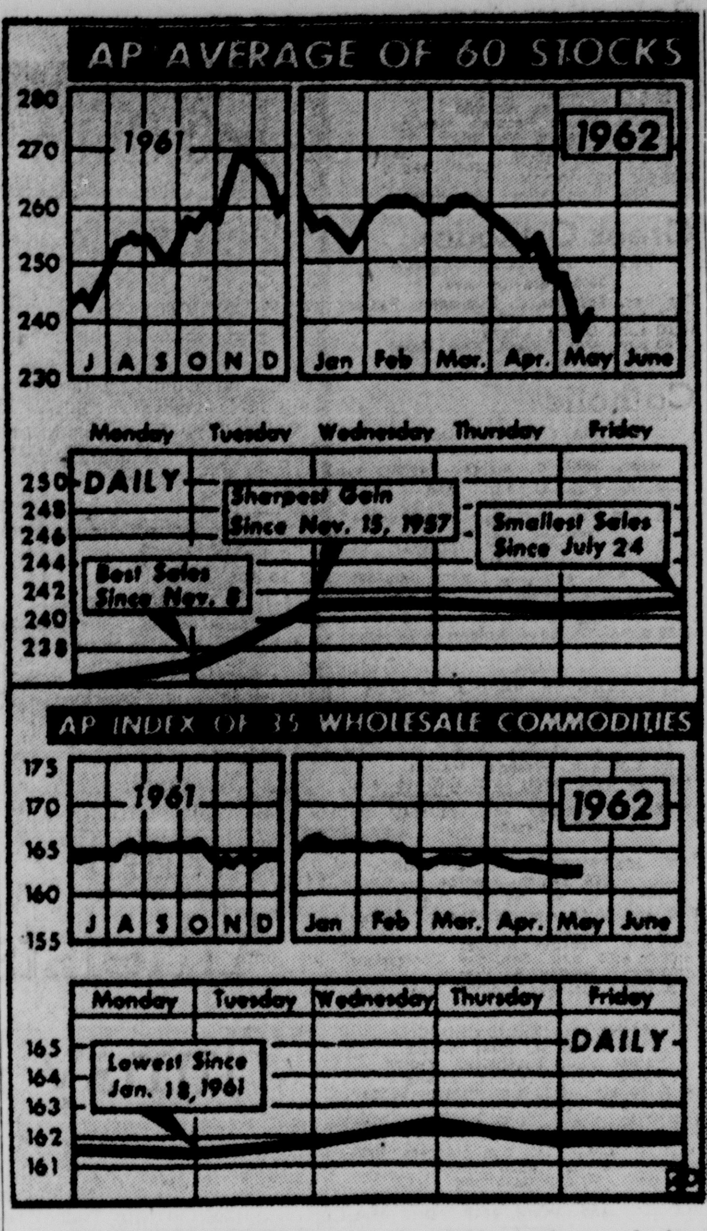
Commission house support and prospects of better exports in coming weeks were described as sustaining factors.

The latest report of the Commodity Credit Corp. with respect to 1961 cotton loans showed that repossessions during the week ended May 11 were upwards of 50,000 bales, largest since early December.

Total entries into loans of almost 4.50 million bales have been pared so far to 3.79 million and the total is expected to drop to 3.25 million by the close of the season.

United States cotton exports for the week ended Tuesday were estimated at 79,000 bales, compared with 48,000 in the previous week and 63,000 in the same week a year ago.

For the season through May 15, exports reached about 3.85 million bales, compared with 5.9 million last year.



ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks made its first weekly gain in a month when it closed Friday at 240.9 from 236.1 a week ago. Sales for the week were the largest this year. For the first time in four weeks the commodity index moved higher, closing Friday at 161.9 from 161.6 in the preceding period. Livestock chalked up a sizable gain. (AP Wirephoto)

ERUPTION ON MONDAY

Stock Recovery Not As Expected

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market got its long-awaited selling climax last week but the subsequent recovery failed to live up to expectations.

The lid blew off Monday morning in an eruption of selling after the market in the previous week had experienced its most severe weekly loss in at least 30 years.

By noon the ticker tape was running 34 minutes late, a lag unequalled since May 27, 1933.

Then buyers charged in, the tide turned and the averages ended up with good gains.

The rally picked up Tuesday where it had left off and gained momentum. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks scored its biggest gain in 4½ years and the Dow Jones industrial average made its greatest advance since April 25, 1961.

The recovery at its peak had retraced about one-third of its decline from mid-March, but the usual expectation after a selloff such as Monday's is for a recovery of about one-half.

Brokers attributed the quick interruption of the rally to a drying up of trading volume and scattered weakness in higher priced stocks.

Nevertheless, they found the week's action reassuring on the whole and the technical aspects not too bad.

Wall Streeters said investors' sentiments had been helped by encouraging business indicators and optimistic predictions about the economic outlook.

These included record levels in April for industrial production and personal income, a sharp increase in housing starts in April and gains in production of mines, mills and utilities.

President Kennedy told his news conference that all indications point to 1962 as a record year for profits, wages and production.

For the week, The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 4.80 to 240.90, for its best weekly gain since early February.

The Dow Jones industrial average climbed 10.07 to 650.70.

Of 1,470 issues traded, 853 advanced and 464 declined. The remainder were unchanged.

Volume was 19,566 shares, a daily average of 3,913,354, compared with 18,419,640 the previous week. It was the heaviest since 19,566,770 were traded in the week of Dec. 15.

U.S. government bond prices slumped during the week. Corporate bonds traded on the New York Exchange, as measured by The Associated Press average, held steady at 1962 highs in exceptionally heavy trading. Treasury prices fell four of the five sessions.

Volume of corporate trading on the Exchange expanded to the highest in a year at $36,988,000 par value, compared with $35,783,000 the previous week. The week of May 15, 1961, total was $37,990,000.

EXECUTIVE CANDOR

Chrysler Cars Plan Radical '63 Change

DETROIT (AP)—One of the more curious aspects of the auto industry at the moment is the public comments by top Chrysler executives on next year's models.

"Very important changes are being made," said Chairman George H. Love the other day.

"A complete tear-up" is the way President Lynn A. Townsend referred to the 1963 models.

"Substantial sheet metal and size changes," according to Virgil Boyd, the new sales vice president.

Normally, any open discussion of future products is strictly verboten in the auto business. Most dealers writhe in anguish when reports are published indicating any change, or even hinting at such, in next year's car. Their theory is that if the consumer learns something new is coming, he won't be eager to buy current products.

The Automobile Manufacturers' Association carries this thinking to an extreme in their national auto show where they forbid companies to display the so-called dream cars, apparently fearing such cars, although not designed for production, might cause sightseers' thoughts to wander from the cars being offered for sale.

Auto sales this year are very good—running a strong 30 per cent ahead of 1961, with General Motors, up 46 per cent, experiencing outstanding success. American Motors and Studebaker both are 23 per cent ahead of last year and Ford shows a 20 per cent gain.

But Chrysler, which made major styling changes in its volume cars—Plymouth and Dodge—for 1962 and proclaimed "1962 will be Chrysler's year" in its model introduction advertising last fall, has had problems.

January and March sales were above 1961; February and April were below. For the first four months combined the total was off slightly less than one per cent and the corporation's share of the total market was running at an all-time low.

Chrysler already has instituted "build-out bonuses." These run from $60 to $125 per car, depending on make and model, and are in effect wholesale price cuts to dealers who order their factory-set quota of cars. These bonuses will continue until the 1963 models go on sale.

Such price cuts at the factory level enable dealers to cut retail prices and still show a profit. They are customary in the industry near the end of a model year.

When a company is having something less than a boom year, one common practice has been to introduce the next year's models earlier than usual in the fall. When sales have been particularly poor, the whole industry has been known to advance the new model dates.

Chrysler has taken pains to inform its dealers not to count on such action from it this year. Boyd wrote them that the host of changes being made eliminates any possibility of public introduction prior to Oct. 1, which was roughly the date of the 1961 and 1962 introductions.

Australians Seeking U.S. Investments

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The voices from Down Under are heard with slowly increasing volume in Wall Street.

Their object: To attract private investment from the United States in the industrial and business development of Australia.

A member firm of the Sydney Stock Exchange (Roland Walton & Co.) plans to open a branch office in the Wall Street area on June 1. It will be the first Australian brokerage firm to do so.

There already is a substantial investment of U. S. funds in this English-speaking outpost of the British Empire.

Australian trade sources here said $189 million was invested by U.S. companies in Australia last year. They put the total American investment there now at more than a billion dollars and some blue chip names are among them. American Cyanamid, Ford, General Motors, Rheem, U.S. Steel.

W. Clement Stone, president of the Combined Insurance Company of America, long has urged American investors to look to their opportunities there. He based his observations on a personal tour of financial and business centers in Australia some months ago and said perceptive investors might find the prospects "paved with gold."

Stone commented on advantages U.S. firms can find in Australia which might not be encountered elsewhere overseas: The ease of dealing with an English-speaking group, a kindred interest between the nations in development of the Pacific market. Both the domestic and the export markets of Australia, he felt, were good for development.

Business, Industry Show Signs Economy Is Better

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Pan American Petroleum Cor., continued testing a contrary Monroe County gas well this week, hoping to cap a winner at 5,900 feet.

The Watson No. 1, sec. 32-15s-7e, blew out last week as operators attempted to drill - stem test a cored interval at 5,675-85 feet. Gas sprayed for a few hours before it was controlled.

The venture, with little information reported, is three miles southeast of the Muldon gas field.

Two potential new discoveries are under test in Franklin and Wilkinson counties to determine commercial worth of shows logged in the Wilcox Zone.

Griffin, Kelley and Byrne are rulling production tests on the Stuart No. 1, sec. 29-6n-2e, in Franklin County, about a mile south of the abandoned Roxie field. Operators set production casing to 6,218 feet and will perforate and test a zone at 6,138-47 feet.

In Wilkinson County, Germany and Gulmon have set production casing to 6,580 feet and are preparing to perforate and test the Davis No. 1, sec. 4-4n-1w, about one mile north of the Ireland Field. Operators are expected to test the commercial worth of a zone at 6,484 feet and at 6,471 feet.

Triad Oil and Gas Co. is drilling below 11,000 feet in Grene County. The Franklin No. 1, sec. 4-4n-8w, logged tite sand with shows of oil below 8,200 feet in sidewall cores. The contract depth is 12,500 feet.

In Pike County, Humble Oil and Refining Co. is below 11,400 feet in the Holmesville unit No. 1, 19-3n-9e, with no shows reported logged.

The venture is located between the Little Creek field of Pike County and the Kokomo Field of Walthall County. Contract depth is 13,500 feet.

Pure Oil Co. continued to set drilling depth records in the Black Worrior basin with the Kemper County wildcat Henry No. 1, sec. 15-12n-153. The wildcat is below 12,300 feet and contracted to 15,000 feet. No information has been released on the test.

In Wayne County, Petroleum management Inc. is below 11,600 feet in the unit No. 12-15, sec. 12-10n-7w, after logging oil shows of undetermined commercial worth. The well was contracted to 10,500 feet.

Field drilling during the past week completed two new oilers and finaled one gas well.

In the LaGrange field of Adams County, Cities Service Petroleum Co. completed the Ayers No. 14, sec. 4-6n-2w, pumping 110 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 6,414-25 feet.

Lee and Ladner completed the Lowe No. 1, sec. 15-1s-14w, at Pistol Ridge on the Pearl River County side, flowing 72 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 8,130-50 feet.

At Knoxo in Marion County, California Co. completed the Wagner No. 1, sec. 10-2n-12e, as a dual gasser.

A sand at 12,519-26 feet flowed at the rate of 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day. The second sand flowed at 3,600,000 cubic feet of gas daily from a sand at 12,842-80 feet.

Power Company Men Given Pins

Three West Monroe area employes of the Louisiana Power and Light Co. recently became eligible for company service pins.

Northern Division surveying crewman Thomas B. Chauncey received a 20-year pin; Northern Division engineer A. C. Williams a 15-year pin; and Billy R. Clement, Northern Division construction crew groundman, a 5-year pin.

Chauncey resides in West Monroe with his wife and 18-year-old daughter Cheryl.

Williams, a Louisiana Tech mechanical engineering graduate, and his wife live in West Monroe, as do Clement, his wife, son and their two daughters.

OIL-HAULING FLEET

Tanker Building Climbs Modestly

HOUSTON, Tex. AP) — World construction of oil tankers has made a minor recovery since its sharp 1960 decline.

The British Petroleum Co. Ltd., estimates tankers totaling 14,700,000 deadweight tons were under construction or on order at the end of 1961.

The comparable total at the end of 1959 was 19,500,000 tons but the world surplus of oil dropped 1960's year-end new construction total to 14,600,000 tons.

British Petroleum's annual statistical review of the world oil industry rates the world tanker fleet at the end of 1961 at 67,100,000 tons, compared to 64,000,000 a year earlier, and 60,900,000 at the end of 1959.

The 3 per cent increase each of the last two years is in sharp contrast with 9 per cent in 1959, 12 per cent in 1958, and 11 per cent in 1957.

Major changes in the 1961 fleet involved tankers flying convenience flags of Liberia, Panama, nd Honduras.

Tankers operating under the convenience nations flags dropped to 14,051,000 tons in 1961, compared to 14,661,000 at the end of 1950, and a record 15,468,000 tons at the end of 1959.

Liberian flags flew over 19 per cent of the world fleet in 1959 but only 16 per cent in 1961.

Most of the major gains went to Western European nations and to Russia and the Communist bloc.

Western Europe claimed 21 per cent of the world fleet at the end of 1959 but 25 per cent at the start of 1962. Russia and her satellites increased their share during the same period from 2 to 4½ per cent, increasing their fleet from 1,100,000 tons to 1,300,000.

The postwar boom in convenience nation tankers has cut into the rankings of several nations but the United States has been the major casualty.

Tankers flying the United States flag accounted for 57 per cent of the world fleet in 1946. Despite increasing her tonnage from 8,000,000 to 9,100,000, the United States' share amounted to only 13½ per cent of the world total.

Great Britain's share meanwhile dropped from 18 per cent to 15½ per cent.

No tankers were flying the Liberian flag in 1946. Her postwar boom has been rivaled only by Western European nations whose combined totals jumped from 8 per cent of the world fleet in 1946 to 25 per cent at the end of 1961.

Norway meanwhile boosted her share from 10 to 14½ per cent. Other Western Hemisphere nations increased their share from 2 to 3½ per cent.

British Petroleum's estimates give three areas—the Middle East, United States, and Russia 81.3 per cent of the world's proved oil reserves.

The Middle East leads with 60.2 per cent, followed by the United States with 12.5 per cent, Russia 10.4.

The tiny kingdom of Kuwait led all nations with 20.3 per cent of all world reserves.

The Middle East has four nations among the top seven nations in oil reserves.

Kuwait holds the No. 1 position and is followed by Saudia Arabia's claim for 16.4 per ceent of the world total.

The United States holds the No. 3 spot but has only a narrow edge over Iran's 11.5 per cent.

Russia holds No. 5 spot and is followed by Iraq with 8.8 per cent and by Venezuela with 6.1 per cent.

'BUSINESS IS GOOD'

Californians React To Stock Gyrations

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Stock prices speak a common language to Americans in all parts of the nation. What effect the recent sharp fluctuations have had on the thinking of Californians is discussed in this, second of three self-contained articles from the West Coast by Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst.)

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The sharp downs and ups of stock prices in recent days worries many Californians—but puzzles them even more. Many fear speculators first pushed prices too high and then reacted too much to the squabble over steel prices and to government stock market investigations.

"What's the matter with people in New York?" asks a suburban housewife who is one of the millions of small stockholders in the nation. "Business is good and getting better. What are they afraid of?"

But some bankers and industrialists here think the recent shakeout shouldn't have been such a surprise as many stockholders seem to find it.

"A lot of market followers have been saying for three years that prices of many stocks were going too high," says Rudolph A. Peterson, vice chairman of the Bank of America, the nation's largest. "They got out of line with current earnings or prospects for some years ahead. So what's the surprise?"

O. N. Miller, president of Standard Oil Co. of California, admits the stock market's sharp drops and recoveries have been worrying everyone, business executives as well as the average citizen. But he suspects a price decline was in the making well before the headlines about the set-to of President Kennedy and the steel companies.

He cited the high prices of some stocks but also thinks that people were scared unnecessarily when the economy this year failed to attain the high goals set earlier by the administration. And the continuing foreign turmoil—whether in Laos or Berlin—makes some stock traders edgy.

"A lot of stockholders obviously are getting worried," says Eugene E. Trefethen Jr., executive vice-president of Kaiser Industries Corp. in Oakland. "But people aren't really scared yet. The economy here is sound. It's going to be a good year in spite of the stock market. We expect to continue to grow."

Vagaries of stockholders' reasoning sometimes puzzles Norman R. Sutherland, president of Pacific Gas & Electric.

"It's often hard to figure why people sell or buy our stock," he says. "Sometimes the price falls after we've announced increased earnings and stressed the prospects for steady growth. The price bounces back, though, and there was little evidence lately of scare selling."

Some companies have been touched very lightly by the recent goings on at the stock exchanges.

"We haven't been worried by the recent flurry in the stock market," says H. Myrl Stearns, president of Varian Associates, Palo Alto electronics firm. "Varian stock dropped before the recent break but recovered. In all this recent hullabaloo the price hasn't moved more than one point."

GMC Auto's Sales Show Great Boom

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Signs that things are picking up again for business and industry showered over the economic landscape during the past week.

They came in reports from Washington agencies, from stockholder meetings in New York, Chicago and elsewhere, and in statistics from Detroit, capital of motordom.

The indicators pointed upwards for the gross national product — the sum of output of all goods and services—for industrial production, for personal income, and nonfarm payrolls.

Also higher were hours worked in factories, housing starts in April, and automobile sales—notably those of General Motors Corp., which seemed almost embarrassed by its booming achievements.

One of the brightest reports came from Sears Roebuck & Co., which said the February-April quarter earnings had jumped 35 per cent over a year ago and that sales so far in May have been up about 16 per cent.

The brightening developments overshadowed a scattering of bad news—a sixth consecutive weekly dip in steel production and unfavorable profit figures here and there, notably from oil companies beset by gasoline price woes.

A federal investigation of the security business yielded testimony about some questionable practices, and contract negotiations between the nation's railroads and their operating workers struck a snag.

Summarizing the outlook, Chairman Walter Heller of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers said the economy had shifted into high gear after a lag in the pace of recovery.

"I expect to see a sustained advance in the months ahead," Heller told an audience of New York State accountants.

One of the rosiest reports was the Federal Reserve Board finding that industrial production had risen more than a point in April to a record 113.1 per cent of the 1957 average.

The index climbed in the face of a slide in steel output, expected in that industry because of inventory accumulation by big users of the metal before steel labor peace became assured at the end of March.

The Commerce Department said personal income had risen by more than $2.8 billion to an all-time high annual rate of $438.7 billion.

With auto sales bowling along at the fastest clip since 1955, GM —in the first 10 days of May—cornered 61.6 per cent of the market, the biggest share since the days of Henry Ford and his Tin Lizzie. GM previously had chalked up its biggest profit ever in 1962's first quarter.

Industry-wide production of cars held practically abreast of the past week's record level, with an estimated total of 156,000 rolling off the assembly lines.

Gross national product, the Commerce Department said, hit an annual rate of $548.3 billion in the first quarter, up better than $6 billion from the preceding three months.

Also at a peak, nonfarm payrolls listed 54,699,000 names, an unprecedented figure for an April.

The gain in housing starts, eight per cent, put the seasonally adjusted annual rate last month at 1,542,000, the Census Bureau said.

There were indications that the stock market may have stopped, for the time being anyway, a dizzy plunge that at one time Monday carried the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues down more than 100 points from its Dec. 13 high of 734.91.

Atheists Offer Flimsy Debate

By LOUIS CASSELS

The great English essayist, G. K. Chesterton, who became a Christian late in life, once remarked that he owed his conversion to atheists.

The more he studied the arguments by which atheists sought to disprove the existence of God, Chesterton said, the more he felt that they had a pretty flimsy case. As a result, he said, "there arose in my mind the first wild been exposed to any idea of God more adult than the picture of a grey-bearded patriarch sitting on a cloud in a geographical heaven somewhere in the sky.

Phillips lists a number of somewhat more sophisticated — but in the long run, equally inadequate —conceptions of God which "still linger unconsciously in many minds, including the minds of some professing Christians. They range from the terrifying notion

Church Holds Dedication Of New Building

Dedication of the new $60,000 sanctuary of Seigle Assembly of God Church, corner of Smith and Washington Streets in West Monroe, was held recently.

District superintendent of Assemblies of God, L. C. Ashbrook, delivered the dedication address. Services were opened by the Rev. B. O Smith, pastor of the church.

Atheists Offer Flimsy Debate

By LOUIS CASSELS

The great English essayist, G. K. Chesterton, who became a Christian late in life, once remarked that he owed his conversion to atheists.

The more he studied the arguments by which atheists sought to disprove the existence of God, Chesterton said, the more he felt that they had a pretty flimsy case. As a result, he said, "there arose in my mind the first wild doubts of doubt."

Russian cosmonaut Gherman Titov recently gave Americans an excellent demonstrations of what Chesterton was talking about.

While visiting the Seattle World's Fair, Titov got into a discussion of religion. "I don't believe in God," he said. That statement was not surprising, since Titov is a dedicated young Communist, and the non-existence of God is one of the prime articles of Communist faith.

Then Titov added, as if that clinched the case, that he had looked all around for God while he was orbiting the earth in his space capsule, and "I didn't find anyone there."

WASN'T JOKING

Anyone who thinks Titov was joking should note that Moscow Radio has been belaboring the same point, in great earnestness, for several months. The fact that Soviet cosmonauts didn't see God during their trips through space has become the chief theme of Communist anti-religious propaganda.

Intelligent Christians may be inclined to dismiss this whole argument as too ludicrous for discussion. But it ought to be taken seriously, because it sheds a good deal of light on the reason why disbelief is so prevalent in the world today, not only among Communists, but also among sincere and upright citizens of America and other free nations.

The reason is succinctly stated by J. B. Phillips in his superb book, "Your God Is Too Small," published by the Macmillan Co. and currently available in a Macmillan paperback ($1.10).

"The trouble with many people today is that they have not found a god big enough for modern needs," says Phillips. "While their experience of life has grown in a score of directions, and their mental horizons have been expanded to the point of bewilderment by world events and by scientific discoveries, their ideas of God have remained largely static. It is obviously impossible for an adult to worship the conception of God that exists in the mind of a child of Sunday-school age, unless he is prepared to deny his own experience of life."

In his remarks at Seattle, Titov made clear that his conception of God—and even an atheist must have some conception of what he is rejecting—is extremely primitive. He has apparently never been exposed to any idea of God more adult than the picture of a grey-bearded patriarch sitting on a cloud in a geographical heaven somewhere in the sky.

Phillips lists a number of somewhat more sophisticated — but in the long run, equally inadequate —conceptions of God which "still linger unconsciously in many minds, including the minds of some professing Christians. They range from the terrifying notion that God is a sort of hanging judge who spends his time recording human sins, to the bleak conviction that he is a remote "managing director" of the universe who could not possibly be concerned with the trivial affairs of creatures on one insignificant planet.

CITES AGENT TASK

One of the most urgent tasks of the church in our day, Phillips believes, is to hold up for skeptics and half-hearted believers an authentic Christian concept of God who is at once the Ground of all being, the Creator and Sustainer of the whole vast universe which man is beginning feebly to explore, the Author of the incredibly complex laws which science is seeking dimly to understand, the Source of all truth, beauty and purpose—and who is yet, at the same time, so close to each of his human children, so full of loving kindness toward them, even in their waywardness, that the One who knew Him best could think of no human term which described Him better than "father."

Hillside Church Dedication Set At New Location

The Hillside Church of God, formerly Dean's Chapel Church of God, will hold dedication services today at the new location on Wallace Dean Road.

There will be an old fashion dinner on the grounds as a part of today's program of activities.

Revival services will be held daily throughout the week at the church, with Arley Cravins of Little Rock, Ark., and the Rev. Jettie Dean, as evangelists. Special music will be furnished by the Whitfield Singers.

The new location of the church is about a mile from the old site.

Dr. J. M. Dabbs To Be Speaker At State Meeting

The president of the Southern Regional Council, Dr. James M. Dabbs, of Mayesville, South Carolina, will be one of the featured speakers Monday at the first pre-Synod Conference on Christian Action at Shreveport.

The Presbyterian Synod of Louisiana will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at the First Presbyterian Church of Shreveport.

Dr. Dabbs is an elder in the Presbyterian Church in Maysville, S. C., and author of the book, "Southern Heritage."

Pastor's Wife To Be Topic For Manual

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — There's a move afoot to remind church congregations that their minister's wife is human, even if she can't expect to be as fancy free as sisters outside the parsonage.

A national survey is under way and a theological school plans to publish a manual to guide the wives in their behavior and the congregations in their demands.

Mrs. Hugh F. Miller, a parson's wife, is a member of a 12-woman team that seeks to correct any conception of the clergyman's wife as a harried, drab woman with a smile etched on her face.

PROJECT LENGTH

The women are members of the interdenominational advisory committee of a research program on "The Minister's Wife," being conducted by the Boston University School of Theology under a grant from the Lilly Foundation, Inc. Their mass-interview project will take three years.

"What we want to establish is a factual rather than a high flown ideal," said Mrs. Miller, the wife of the pastor of the Eastwood Baptist Church.

"As things stand, what most people think a minister's wife should be is enough to scare a girl stiff," Mrs. Miller said.

Manuals given wives of seminary students are just awful, she added.

While the factual ideal will help guide seminary students' wives and financees, the researchers hope it also will ease the task of parsonage women by remolding the thinking of the country's congregations.

SHAPING ELEMENT

"It's what the church people expect that shapes the life of the pastor's wife," said Mrs. Miller, who has spent nearly 20 years in various congregations.

But certain restrictions make it difficult for the clergyman's spouse to be herself.

She must think twice before buying a high-fashion gown, or trying an exotic hairdo. (Hair coloring is strictly taboo.)

Her children must be models of good behavior; her personal and family plans must be flexible to accommodate the whims of a congregation.

In one church, Mrs. Miller recalled, she was expected to substutute regularly for an organist, without pay.

Mrs. Miller represents the American Baptists on the research group. The committee already has met three times—in Boston, Louisville, Ky., and Berkeley, Calif.

Church Holds Dedication Of New Building

Dedication of the new $60,000 sanctuary of Seigle Assembly of God Church, corner of Smith and Washington Streets in West Monroe, was held recently.

District superintendent of Assemblies of God, L. C. Ashbrook, delivered the dedication address. Services were opened by the Rev. B. O. Smith, pastor of the church.

MINISTERS

Among other ministers present were Rev. E. L. Tanner, and the Rev. Fred D. Wall, sectional presbyter and pastor of the First Assembly of God Church in West Monroe.

The church auditorium is 42 feet by 100 feet, one story brick, and the educational building is 30 by 71 feet. The entire plant consists of eight class rooms, baptistry, pastor's study, nursery, three rest rooms, fellowship hall, kitchen, and a room for air conditioning and heating units.

On a lot adjoining the church is the seven room parsonage.

The Rev. and Mrs. Smith came to the Seigle church June 12, 1960. A short time later the building program was launched.

Reception Set For Minister At Brownville

Members of the congregation of Brownville Baptist Church, 1701 Bailey St., West Monroe, will hold a reception for the Rev. Harold E. Cook, pastor for the past three years, who is leaving for a new assignment.

The reception will be held from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, May 26, at the church.

Rev. Cook, will leave June 1 to assume the pastorate of Parkview Baptist Church, El Dorado, Ark.

On Sunday, May 27, the congregation will dedicate a new temporary auditorium, during 11 a.m. services. Following the service there will be a dinner on the grounds.

The church recently completed work on recreational grounds which were made available by John Blazier, who also donated ground for the church.

Aldergate Day Observance Set At Church Here

Aldergate and Ministry Sunday will be observed at 10:50 a.m. services today at Gordon Avenue Methodist Church, located at the corner of Gordon and Dixie avenues, it was announced by the Rev. Walter M. Allen, pastor.

At 6 p.m. today, Dr. George Harbuck, Methodist district superintendent, will preside at the church conference, and at 7 p.m., he will deliver the message at evening worship services.

Aldergate and Ministry Sunday commemorates the experience of of John Wesley, founder of the Methodist Church, when he visited a society on Aldergate Street, and heard the reading of Luther's preface to the Epistle to the Romans. He was so touched by the experience which strengthened his faith in Christ, that it was considered the turning point in his life.

Spring Circuit Convention Of Witnesses Set

Jehovah's Witnesses from Louisiana and Arkansas will hold their spring circuit convention June 8-10 in the West Monroe High School Auditorium, it was announced by Henry C. Trull, presiding minister of the local congregation.

A variety of talks on Bible subjects with demonstrations will be presented during the session. Speakers will be from Monroe, Shreveport, Alexandria, Bastrop, Winnfield, Homer, and other north Louisiana areas.

J. A. Hinderer, southern district supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses, Brooklyn, New York, will appear daily on the program, and preside as chairman of the model Ministry School, a training program for the ministry conducted weekly in every congregation.

He will present a lecture on "Who Will Rule the World," as a feature of the convention.

Greek Money Edges Ridan In Preakness Race

IT MEANT VICTORY

Jockey Rotz Glad Hole Came Open

By GORDON BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jockey Johnny Rotz waited patiently for a hole to open up on the Pimlico backstretch Saturday and shot through expertly to guide Greek Money to victory in the 86th running of the Preakness.

"It's a good thing the hole opened up for I wouldn't have gotten through the pack," Rotz said. "I was alongside several horses and couldn't move. So I dropped back about half a length and a hole suddenly opened up."

Rotz, who finished second aboard Globemaster in last year's Preakness, reminded reporters he had told them then that he'd be back to win this year.

"This is by far the biggest race I've ever won," said the 27-year-old jockey. "I finally got a big one. I've been trying a long time."

Rotz said Greek Money and runner-up Ridan exchanged the lead during the race about four or five times.

"Manuel," he said, referring to jockey Manuel Ycaza on Ridan, "took the lead at about the eighth pole. I took a desperate chance with three or four jumps to go and threw everything I had into it."

Rotz said he whipped Greek Money quite a bit during the race, but didn't use his bat any more in the last eighth of a mile. "It was a combination of Ridan letting down and my horse picking it up," he said of the finish.

He made no mention of any trouble between himself and Ycaza at the finish line. Ycaza was suspended indefinitely by the stewards for putting his left elbow into Rotz as the two horses thundered under the wire.

"Rotz took advantage of all the opportunity, kept out of trouble, cut corners and saved ground," trainer Buddy Raines said. Then he added "and he finished well."

Greek Money acted up slightly when a helicopter took off from the infield while the colts were heading for the paddock to be saddled and Raines cut a finger while adjusting a tongue strap before the race. After the Preakness, Greek Money also was hard to handle and he led Raines, Ross and Rotz around in circles as they tried to pose him for pictures in the winner's circle.

Jockey Ycaza claimed he was fouled by Greek Money between the eighth pole and 70 yards from the finish. Steward Melvin Mackin said the track film did not show any bumping during that stage of the race.

"He gave me all he had today," Ycaza said of Ridan. "He got a little tired at the end. The track was a little softer today than when I worked him the other day."

Bill Hartack, who rode Decidedly to a Kentucky Derby victory in record time two weeks ago, finished eighth about 15 lengths to the rear of Greek Money.

"He had no excuses," Hartack said. "I wasn't too far out of it, but he wasn't doing any running today."

Homers Carry Orioles Over Chicago, 11-6

CHICAGO (AP)—Home runs by Jim Gentile, John Powell and Charley Lau powered the Baltimore Orioles to an 11-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

Gentile and Powell connected for three-run blasts, both featuring five-run rallies. Gentile's homer came in the first and helped chase rookie right-hander Joel Horlen who made the start for the Sox but couldn't get anybody out.

The Sox rallied for three runs off Steve Barber in the second and went ahead with another three-run rally in the third.

Eddie Fisher and Russ Kemmerer held the Orioles in check until the seventh when Brooks Robinson and Gentile opened with singles. Powell then put the Orioles ahead 8-6 with a homer his sixth of the year.

After Kemmerer walked Jackie Brandt, Turk Lown came on for the White Sox and was jolted a two-run homer by Lau, his second. The Orioles picked up their final run in the eighth without a hit.

Dick Hall, who relieved Barber in the fourth, received credit for the victory.

Phillies Defeat Cubs, 7-5, With Art Mahaffey

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies scored six runs in the fourth inning Saturday and then went on for a 7-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs at Connie Mack Stadium before a knothole crowd of 23,883.

Right-hander Art Mahaffey went the route in the 95-degree temperature—hottest May 19 in Philadelphia Weather Bureau history—to gain his third victory and put an end to his own five-game losing streak.

Mahaffey made it a memorable occasion by hitting the first home run of his career with Bob Wine on base in the six-run ruckus that saddled Glenn Hobbie with his fifth consecutive loss.

Lou Brock clouted his fourth home run of the season for the Cubs, who rallied for three runs in the sixth inning and another in the eighth to make it close at the finish.

Berg Protects 1-Stroke Lead In Golf Meet

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP)—Patty Berg protected her one-stroke lead in the Muskogee Women's Open Golf Tournament with a 2-over-par 72 in Saturday's third round.

Shirley Englehorn moved into second place in the $7,500 tourney and Mickey Wright, the pro tour's leading money winner, climbed to third.

Carol Mann and Kathy Whitworth, who had been tied for second behind Miss Beg at the halfway point, fell behind with rounds of 81 and 76, respectively.

The 44-year-old Miss Berg was one over par on both nine hole halves to end the 54 holes with 217. She had one double bogie and three bogies but offset these with three birdies.

Miss Wright, Miss Englehorn and Muskogee's Beth Stone each had 71 for the best scores of the day.

Miss Englehorn, of Spokane, Wash., was par until the 18th hole when she hit to the right of the green, then missed a putt to go one over and miss a tie for the lead.

She had a total of 218. She had been tied for fourth after 36 holes. Miss Englehorn narrowly missed a putt for a birdie on No. 17 which also could have gained her a tie.

WITHOUT MANTLE

Yanks Cool Off Twins With 3 Hitter; Win 2-1

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralph Terry cooled off the sizzling Minnesota Twins with a three-hitter Saturday and the New York Yankees eked out a 2-1 victory without hospitalized Mickey Mantle.

With the thermometer bouncing around the 99 degree mark, Terry mowed down the Twins and struck out seven en route to his fifth victory.

Harmon Killebrew, the home run star of Friday night's victory by the Twins, provided their only run with his seventh homer, a drive into the left field stands in the fourth.

With Mantle out of action probably for three weeks, due to a severely torn muscle in his right thigh, the Yanks played rookie Joe Pepitone in center field. However, Pepitone went hitless as did Roger Maris, who returned to the starting line-up after being limited to pinch hitting duty in the last two games because of a strained muscle.

Maris made a game-saving catch of Bernie Allen's fly to deep right in the eighth, leaning back into the stands to grab the ball.

The Yanks broke through for two runs against rookie Joe Bonikowski in the second inning. It was the second big league start for Bonikowski, a 21-year-old right-hander from Philadelphia who was not even on the roster in spring training.

Yogi Berra looped a single to right to open the Yankee second. Elston Howard popped up and Bill Skowron grounded out, moving Berra to second. Yoi went to third on a wild pitch and Clete Boyer walked. Terry came through with a single to left scoring Berra. Bobby Richardson's ground rules double into the left

Tigers Take Win From Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Detroit's Jim Bunning turned in a neat relief job and smacked a home run as the Tigers beat the Cleveland Indians 9-3 Saturday.

Bunning, who replaced starter Don Mossi in the eighth inning with one out, protected Detroit's 4-3 lead by striking out the next two men and retiring five in a row.

The Tigers broke open a tight game in the ninth with a five-run rally highlighted by Bunning's solo blast off reliever Frank Funk, the third Cleveland hurler. Four of the runs were unearned as the Indians made four errors in the ninth.

Mossi (3-4), the winner, had allowed only one Cleveland run and five hits until Chuck Essegian and Gene Green hit back-to-back homers with none on in the eighth. Mossi fanned seven and walked one.

Chico Fernandez singled twice and homered to knock in two Detroit runs.

Detroit took a 3-0 lead in the first off loser Jim Perry (2-1). Bill Bruton doubled home Fernandez, who opened with a single. Norm Cash singled and scored Bruton. Cash moved around on Rocky Colavito's single and Perry's balk.

Fernandez' third homer of the season in the second off Perry gave Detroit a 4-0 lead.

Cleveland got its first tally off Mossi in the third on a walk and singles by Tito Francona and Green, who knocked in two Tribe runs.

Women Set Up Golf Association Of City's Course

The Women's Golf Association of the Municipal Golf Course at Forsythe Park has been reorganized and plans are being made for golfing activities for women for the summer and fall.

Each Monday will be Ladies Day at the Municipal course. Play will begin at 9:00 a.m. with participants paired according to abilities. Those wishing to compete for the $1.00 merchandise prize of the day on a handicap basis will be asked to put up 25 cents.

Beginning golfers and those not wishing to compete will be welcomed also, as the purpose of the Association is to encourage more women in the area to play golf and to provide an opportunity for women golfers to meet and play golf together. The first Ladies Day will be held this Monday.

Cicada Survives Foul Claim; Wins

NEW YORK (AP)—Cicada survived a foul claim and became the top money winning filly of all time Saturday with a 1½ length victory in the 32nd running of the $58,450 Acorn Stakes at Aqueduct.

The addition of $37,992.50 to Cicada's previous winnings of $456,171 gave the 3-year-old bay daughter of Bryan G.-Satsuma a total of $494,163.50. The previous high for a filly was $462,605 by Calumet Farm's Bewitch in the late 1940s.

Jockey Pete Anderson on the King Ranch's Tamarona, which finished second, lodged a foul claim against Willie Shoemaker on Christopher Chenery's Cicada but it was not allowed. James Cox Brady's Upswept was third.

Cicada covered the mile in 1:35 3-5 and returned $2.50 to win, $2.50 to place and $2.10 to show.

Charles Carries Athletics Over Washington, 8-4

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ed Charles, a utility infielder who was hitting .156 at game time, clouted a home run and two run-producing singles to lead the Kansas City Athletics to an 8-4 decision over the Washington Senators Saturday.

Norman Bass made his first appearance as a relief pitcher for the A's after failing to go the distance seven times as a starter, and was the winner. His record is 1-5.

The Senators staked Don Rudolph to an early three-run lead, but the A's tied it in the fifth on Charles' homer and a two-run home run by Dick Howser.

The Athletics took a short-lived 4-3 lead in the sixth on a walk, sacrifice and Charles' single. They went ahead to stay in the seventh on a walk, sacrifice and singles by Gino Cimoli and Charles. at bat.

Decidedly, Jaipur Both Fail To Place

By JOHN CHANDLER

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Brandywine Stable's Greek Money outfought Ridan in a blistering stretch duel Saturday at sun-baked Pimlico and won the $188,-300 Preakness Stakes by a nose after surviving a foul claim as the two horses brushed under the wire.

Jockey Manuel Ycaza aboard Ridan, lodged the foul claim against John L. Rotz, who piloted the Greek Money.

More than an hour later the stewards disclosed that official films of the race showed that Ycaza leaned over and put his elbow into Rotz at the finish. The stewards promptly suspended Ycaza indefinitely.

The case against Ycaza, the fiery Panamanian who has been suspended many times, was referred to the Maryland Racing Commission for any further action.

Joseph F. Flanagan, steward representing the state racing commission, said the indefinite suspension was ordered for not only a "frivilous foul claim but unfair tactics just before the finish."

Flanagan said Ycaza leaned over and put his elbow into Rotz and was practically in Rotz' saddle as the two horses appeared to brush when they charged under the wire.

The Kentucky Derby winner, Decidedly, finished out of the money as did Jaipur, the heavily backed colt from New York.

This was the first foul claim against a winner in the long history of the Preakness, which was inaugurated in 1883.

While the stewards studied the films, the result was held up for almost 10 minutes before the claim was disallowed.

Rotz had finished second in the 1961 Preakness with Globemaster when Carry Back just caught him at the wire. Ycaza had piloted Ridan, who was favored in the Derby two weeks ago at Churchill Downs and finished third.

Rotz claimed that Ridan, who races in the color of Mrs. Moody Jolley of Hialeah, Fla., had bothered his horse several times during their stretch duel.

Bobby Ussery, who won the race with Bally Ache in 1960, went to the front almost immediately with Jaipur, who was held out of the Derby to aim for the Preakness and the June 9 Belmont Stakes.

Townsend B. Martin's Sunrise County, the erratic colt who was disqualified in both the Flamingo and Wood Memorial, joined Jaipur in the front end duel, as did Ridan and Roman Line. Only heads separated the first four horses as they rounded the turn into the backstretch.

Midway down the back side, Ridan got the lead by a head and Jaipur led Sunrise County by half a length. They whirled around the final bend with Ridan on the rail, and Jaipur, Sunrise County and Roman Line right alongside and heads apart.

Sunrise County was fifth again same as in Louisville with Green Hornet sixth, and followed by Crimson Satan, Decidedly, Flying Johnnie Jaipur and Prego—who also brought up the Derby rear.

Rotz bided his time as the leaders fought down the backstretch. He said he pulled back slightly and found running room along the rail.

Rotz said that turning for home, he dropped back about half a length when a hole opened up and he moved up to challenge Ridan.

"I didn't see any interference," said Rotz, the 27-year-old jockey from Decatur, Ill. "I just picked my horse up and dropped him on the wire. I was lucky to get through."

Ussery said Jaipur "had no trouble, he just couldn't run far enough today."

Ycaza said Ridan "gave me all he had today. He got a little tired at the end." As for the steward's decision to reject his foul claim, Ycaza said "the judges' decision is final."

That verdict meant a big purse difference. Greek Money collected $135,800 first prize, second richest in Preakness history, for Ross, banker and member of a prominent Philadelphia family. He also is president of Delaware Park Race Track near Wilmington.

Ridan's share was $30,000, with $15,000 to Roman Line and $7,500 for Vimy Ridge.

The winnings boosted Greek Money's bankroll to $190,206. in his last race, Greek Money won the Preakness Prep here last Saturday.

NY Mets Whip Milwaukee As Thomas Stars

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The New York Mets pulled from behind with a four-run uprising in the eighth inning and edged the Milwaukee Braves 6-5 Saturday with Frank Thomas supplying long ball power.

Thomas, sold by the Braves for $150,000 last winter, hit his 10th homer in the second and then launched the decisive rally with a triple. He also collected a single.

Baffled for seven innings by rookie right-hander Cecil Butler, the Mets put together four straight singles and a sacrifice fly after Thomas' triple. Butler gave way to veteran Lew Burdette who was charged with his fourth straight loss. Burdette has not won a game this season.

The victory went to southpaw Ken McKenzie, the third of four New York pitchers. MacKenzie now is 1-1.

New York starter Jay Hook was driven out in a three-run fourth inning when the Braves took a 5-1 lead. Hook was struck on the right foot by a line drive off the bat of Denis Menke. Two runs scored as the ball caromed over the third baseman's head and into short left field for a double. Hook was taken to a hospital where Xrays were negative.

Cards Defeat Los Angeles; Record Set

By CHARLES MAHOR

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Stan Musial set a National League career record for hits by getting his 3,431st Saturday night as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-1 before 50,103.

Musial, who now holds 41 National League records, had failed in nine at bats to get the record-setting hit before he came on in the ninth inning and singled sharply to right off left-hander Ron Perranoski.

The crowd gave Musial a standing ovation as he was taken out of the game for a pinch runner.

The Cardinals' victory moved them to within a single game of second place Los Angeles and kept them five games back of the league - leading San Francisco Giants.

Left-hander Ray Sadecki allowed the Dodgers only two hits after the third inning and finished with a six-hitter.

The Cards settled the issue in the fourth inning when they tore into loser Don Drysdale (5-3) for four runs. Ken Boyer, Bill White, Doug Clemens and Curt Flood all had singles in the inning.

Among Musial's 3,431 hits are 2,110 singles, 699 doubles, 174 triples and 44 homers.

Wagner established the hit record in 10,427 at bats between 1897 and 1917. Musial has had 10,297 at bats.

Ramblers Take 2-1 Win Over Homer's Oilers

RUSTON (Special) — Ruston's Ramblers upped their season mark to 3-1 last night with a hard fought, 2-1, victory over the Homer Oilers.

Lane Martin cooled the Oilers with a strong one hitter to get credit for the win.

Don Spahl was charged with the loss although he pitched a fine game too, allowing only five hits.

Ruston got its second run in the bottom of the seventh when Homer's leftfielder dropped a fly ball with two men out to let Cliff Rode score the winning run from second.

Martin struck out 12, and Spal got 10 via the strikeout route.

Score by innings:

Greek Money Edges Ridan In Preakness Race

IT MEANT VICTORY

Jockey Rotz Glad Hole Came Open

By GORDON BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jockey Johnny Rotz waited patiently for a hole to open up on the Pimlico backstretch Saturday and shot through expertly to guide Greek Money to victory in the 86th running of the Preakness.

"It's a good thing the hole opened up for I wouldn't have gotten through the pack," Rotz said. "I was alongside several horses and couldn't move. So I dropped back about half a length and a hole suddenly opened up."

Rotz, who finished second aboard Globemaster in last year's Preakness, reminded reporters he had told them then that he'd be back to win this year.

"This is by far the biggest race I've ever won," said the 27-year-old jockey. "I finally got a big one — I've been trying a long time."

Rotz said Greek Money and runner-up Ridan exchanged the lead during the race about four or five times.

"Manuel," he said, referring to jockey Manuel Ycaza on Ridan, "took the lead at about the eighth pole. I took a desperate chance with three or four jumps to go and threw everything I had into it."

Rotz said he whipped Greek Money quite a bit during the race, but didn't use his bat any more in the last eighth of a mile. "It was a combination of Ridan letting down and my horse picking it up," he said of the finish.

He made no mention of any trouble between himself and Ycaza at the finish line. Ycaza was suspended indefinitely by the stewards for putting his left elbow into Rotz as the two horses thundered under the wire.

"Rotz took advantage of all the opportunity, kept out of trouble, cut corners and saved ground," trainer Buddy Raines said. Then he added "and he finished well."

Greek Money acted up slightly when a helicopter took off from the infield while the colts were heading for the paddock to be saddled and Raines cut a finger while adjusting a tongue strap before the race. After the Preakness, Greek Money also was hard to handle and he led Raines, Ross and Rotz around in circles as they tried to pose him for pictures in the winner's circle.

Jockey Ycaza claimed he was fouled by Greek Money between the eighth pole and 70 yards from the finish. Steward Melvin Mackin said the track film did not show any bumping during that stage of the race.

"He gave me all he had today," Ycaza said of Ridan. "He got a little tired at the end. The track was a little softer today than when I worked him the other day."

Bill Hartack, who rode Decidedly to a Kentucky Derby victory in record time two weeks ago, finished eighth about 15 lengths to the rear of Greek Money.

"He had no excuses," Hartack said. "I wasn't too far out of it, but he wasn't doing any running today."

Homers Carry Orioles Over Chicago, 11-6

CHICAGO (AP)—Home runs by Jim Gentile, John Powell and Charley Lau powered the Baltimore Orioles to an 11-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

Gentile and Powell connected for three-run blasts, both featuring five-run rallies. Gentile's homer came in the first and helped chase rookie right-hander Joel Horlen who made the start for the Sox but couldn't get anybody out.

The Sox rallied for three runs off Steve Barber in the second and went ahead with another three-run rally in the third.

Eddie Fisher and Russ Kemmerer held the Orioles in check until the seventh when Brooks Robinson and Gentile opened with singles. Powell then put the Orioles ahead 8-6 with a homer his sixth of the year.

After Kemmerer walked Jackie Brandt, Turk Lown came on for the White Sox and was jolted a two-run homer by Lau, his second. The Orioles picked up their final run in the eighth without a hit.

Dick Hall, who relieved Barber in the fourth, received credit for the victory.

Berg Protects 1-Stroke Lead In Golf Meet

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP)—Patty Berg protected her one-stroke lead in the Muskogee Women's Open Golf Tournament with a 2-over-par 72 in Saturday's third round.

Shirley Englehorn moved into second place in the $7,500 tourney and Mickey Wright, the pro tour's leading money winner, climbed to third.

Carol Mann and Kathy Whitworth, who had been tied for second behind Miss Beg at the halfway point, fell behind with rounds of 81 and 76, respectively.

The 44-year-old Miss Berg was one over par on both nine hole halves to end the 54 holes with 217. She had one double bogie and three bogies but offset these with three birdies.

Miss Wright, Miss Englehorn and Muskogee's Beth Stone each had 71 for the best scores of the day.

Miss Englehorn, of Spokane, Wash., was par until the 18th hole when she hit to the right of the green, then missed a putt to go one over and miss a tie for the lead.

She had a total of 218. She had been tied for fourth after 36 holes. Miss Englehorn narrowly missed a putt for a birdie on No. 17 which also could have gained her a tie.

Phillies Defeat Cubs, 7-5, With Art Mahaffey

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies scored six runs in the fourth inning Saturday and then went on for a 7-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs at Connie Mack Stadium before a knothole crowd of 23,883.

Right-hander Art Mahaffey went the route in the 95-degree temperature—hottest May 19 in Philadelphia Weather Bureau history—to gain his third victory and put an end to his own five-game losing streak.

Mahaffey made it a memorable occasion by hitting the first home run of his career with Bob Wine on base in the six-run ruckus that saddled Glenn Hobbie with his fifth consecutive loss.

Lou Brock clouted his fourth home run of the season for the Cubs, who rallied for three runs in the sixth inning and another in the eighth to make it close at the finish.

Yanks Cool Off Twins With 3 Hitter; Win 2-1

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralph Terry cooled off the sizzling Minnesota Twins with a three-hitter Saturday and the New York Yankees eked out a 2-1 victory without hospitalized Mickey Mantle.

With the thermometer bouncing around the 99 degree mark, Terry mowed down the Twins and struck out seven en route to his fifth victory.

Harmon Killebrew, the home run star of Friday night's victory by the Twins, provided their only run with his seventh homer, a drive into the left field stands in the fourth.

With Mantle out of action probably for three weeks, due to a severely torn muscle in his right thigh, the Yanks played rookie Joe Pepitone in center field. However, Pepitone went hitless as did Roger Maris, who returned to the starting line-up after being limited to pinch hitting duty in the last two games because of a strained muscle.

Maris made a game-saving catch of Bernie Allen's fly to deep right in the eighth, leaning back into the stands to grab the ball.

The Yanks broke through for two runs against rookie Joe Bonikowski in the second inning. It was the second big league start for Bonikowski, a 21-year-old right-hander from Philadelphia who was not even on the roster in spring training.

Yogi Berra looped a single to right to open the Yankee second. Elston Howard popped up and Bill Skowron grounded out, moving Berra to second. Yoi went to third on a wild pitch and Clete Boyer walked. Terry came through with a single to left scoring Berra. Bobby Richardson's ground rules double into the left

Tigers Take Win From Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Detroit's Jim Bunning turned in a neat relief job and smacked a home run as the Tigers beat the Cleveland Indians 9-3 Saturday.

Bunning, who replaced starter Don Mossi in the eighth inning with one out, protected Detroit's 4-3 lead by striking out the next two men and retiring five in a row.

The Tigers broke open a tight game in the ninth with a five-run rally highlighted by Bunning's solo blast off reliever Frank Funk, the third Cleveland hurler. Four of the runs were unearned as the Indians made four errors in the ninth.

Mossi (3-4), the winner, had allowed only one Cleveland run and five hits until Chuck Essegian and Gene Green hit back-to-back homers with none on in the eighth. Mossi fanned seven and walked one.

Chico Fernandez singled twice and homered to knock in two Detroit runs.

Detroit took a 3-0 lead in the first off loser Jim Perry (2-1). Bill Bruton doubled home Fernandez, who opened with a single. Norm Cash singled and scored Bruton. Cash moved around on Rocky Colavito's single and Perry's balk.

Fernandez' third homer of the season in the second off Perry gave Detroit a 4-0 lead.

Cleveland got its first tally off Mossi in the third on a walk and singles by Tito Francona and Green, who knocked in two Tribe runs.

Women Set Up Golf Association Of City's Course

The Women's Golf Association of the Municipal Golf Course at Forsythe Park has been reorganized and plans are being made for golfing activities for women for the summer and fall.

Each Monday will be Ladies Day at the Municipal course. Play will begin at 9:00 a.m. with participants paired according to abilities. Those wishing to compete for the $1.00 merchandise prize of the day on a handicap basis will be asked to put up 25 cents.

Beginning golfers and those not wishing to compete will be welcomed also, as the purpose of the Association is to encourage more women in the area to play golf and to provide an opportunity for women golfers to meet and play golf together. The first Ladies Day will be held this Monday.

Cicada Survives Foul Claim; Wins

NEW YORK (AP)—Cicada survived a foul claim and became the top money winning filly of all time Saturday with a 1½ length victory in the 32nd running of the $58,450 Acorn Stakes at Aqueduct.

The addition of $37,992.50 to Cicada's previous winnings of $456,171 gave the 3-year-old bay daughter of Bryan G.-Satsuma a total of $494,163.50. The previous high for a filly was $462,605 by Calumet Farm's Bewitch in the late 1940s.

Jockey Pete Anderson on the King Ranch's Tamarona, which finished second, lodged a foul claim against Willie Shoemaker on Christopher Chenery's Cicada but it was not allowed. James Cox Brady's Upswept was third.

Cicada covered the mile in 1:35 3-5 and returned $2.50 to win, $2.50 to place and $2.10 to show.

Charles Carries Athletics Over Washington, 8-4

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ed Charles, a utility infielder who was hitting .156 at game time, clouted a home run and two run-producing singles to lead the Kansas City Athletics to an 8-4 decision over the Washington Senators Saturday.

Norman Bass made his first appearance as a relief pitcher for the A's after failing to go the distance seven times as a starter, and was the winner. His record is 1-5.

The Senators staked Don Rudolph to an early three-run lead, but the A's tied it in the fifth on Charles' homer and a two-run home run by Dick Howser.

The Athletics took a short-lived 4-3 lead in the sixth on a walk, sacrifice and Charles' single. They went ahead to stay in the seventh on a walk, sacrifice and singles by Gino Cimoli and Charles. at bat.

Decidedly, Jaipur Both Fail To Place

By JOHN CHANDLER

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Brandywine Stable's Greek Money outfought Ridan in a blistering stretch duel Saturday at sun-baked Pimlico and won the $188,300 Preakness Stakes by a nose after surviving a foul claim as the two horses brushed under the wire.

Jockey Manuel Ycaza aboard Ridan, lodged the foul claim against John L. Rotz, who piloted Greek Money.

More than an hour later the stewards disclosed that official films of the race showed that Ycaza leaned over and put his elbow into Rotz at the finish. The stewards promptly suspended Ycaza indefinitely.

The case against Ycaza, the fiery Panamanian who has been suspended many times, was referred to the Maryland Racing Commission for any further action.

Joseph F. Flanagan, steward representing the state racing commission, said the indefinite suspension was ordered for not only a "frivilous foul claim but unfair tactics just before the finish."

Flanagan said Ycaza leaned over and put his elbow into Rotz and was practically in Rotz' saddle as the two horses appeared to brush when they charged under the wire.

The Kentucky Derby winner, Decidedly, finished out of the money as did Jaipur, the heavily backed colt from New York.

This was the first foul claim against a winner in the long history of the Preakness, which was inaugurated in 1883.

While the stewards studied the films, the result was held up for almost 10 minutes before the claim was disallowed.

Rotz had finished second in the 1961 Preakness with Globemaster when Carry Back just caught him at the wire. Ycaza had piloted Ridan, who was favored in the Derby two weeks ago at Churchill Downs and finished third.

Rotz claimed that Ridan, who races in the color of Mrs. Moody Jolley of Hialeah, Fla., had bothered his horse several times during their stretch duel.

Bobby Ussery, who won the race with Bally Ache in 1960, went to the front almost immediately with Jaipur, who was held out of the Derby to aim for the Preakness and the June 9 Belmont Stakes.

Townsend B. Martin's Sunrise County, the erratic colt who was disqualified in both the Flamingo and Wood Memorial, joined Jaipur in the front end duel, as did Ridan and Roman Line. Only heads separated the first four horses as they rounded the turn into the backstretch.

Midway down the back side, Ridan got the lead by a head and Jaipur led Sunrise County by half a length. They whirled around the final bend with Ridan on the rail, and Jaipur, Sunrise County and Roman Line right alongside and heads apart.

Sunrise County was fifth again same as in Louisville with Green Hornet sixth, and followed by Crimson Satan, Decidedly, Flying Johnnie Jaipur and Prego—who also brought up the Derby rear.

Rotz bided his time as the leaders fought down the backstretch. He said he pulled back slightly, and found running room along the rail.

Rotz said that turning for home, he dropped back about half a length when a hole opened up and he moved up to challenge Ridan.

"I didn't see any interference," said Rotz, the 27-year-old jockey from Decatur, Ill. "I just picked my horse up and dropped him on the wire. I was lucky to get through."

Ussery said Jaipur "had no trouble, he just couldn't run far enough today."

Ycaza said Ridan "gave me all he had today. He got a little tired at the end." As for the steward's decision to reject his foul claim, Ycaza said "the judges' decision is final."

That verdict meant a big purse difference. Greek Money collected $135,800 first prize, second richest in Preakness history, for Ross, banker and member of a prominent Philadelphia family. He also is president of Delaware Park Race Track near Wilmington.

Ridan's share was $30,000, with $15,000 to Roman Line and $7,500 for Vimy Ridge.

The winnings boosted Greek Money's bankroll to $190,206. In his last race, Greek Money won the Preakness Prep here last Saturday.

Cards Defeat Los Angeles; Record Set

By CHARLES MAHOR

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Stan Musial set a National League career record for hits by getting his 3,431st Saturday night as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-1 before 50,103.

Musial, who now holds 41 National League records, had failed in nine at bats to get the record-setting hit before he came on in the ninth inning and singled sharply to right off left-hander Ron Perranoski.

The crowd gave Musial a standing ovation as he was taken out of the game for a pinch runner.

The Cardinals' victory moved them to within a single game of second place Los Angeles and kept them five games back of the league - leading San Francisco Giants.

Left-hander Ray Sadecki allowed the Dodgers only two hits after the third inning and finished with a six-hitter.

The Cards settled the issue in the fourth inning when they tore into loser Don Drysdale (5-3) for four runs. Ken Boyer, Bill White, Doug Clemens and Curt Flood all had singles in the inning.

Among Musial's 3,431 hits are 2,110 singles, 699 doubles, 174 triples and 44 homers.

Wagner established the hit record in 10,427 at bats between 1897 and 1917. Musial has had 10,297 at bats.

NY Mets Whip Milwaukee As Thomas Stars

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The New York Mets pulled from behind with a four-run uprising in the eighth inning and edged the Milwaukee Braves 6-5 Saturday with Frank Thomas supplying long ball power.

Thomas, sold by the Braves for $150,000 last winter, hit his 10th homer in the second and then launched the decisive rally with a triple. He also collected a single.

Baffled for seven innings by rookie right-hander Cecil Butler, the Mets put together four straight singles and a sacrifice fly after Thomas' triple. Butler gave way to veteran Lew Burdette who was charged with his fourth straight loss. Burdette has not won a game this season.

The victory went to southpaw Ken McKenzie, the third of four New York pitchers. MacKenzie now is 1-1.

New York starter Jay Hook was driven out in a three-run fourth inning when the Braves took a 5-1 lead. Hook was struck on the right foot by a line drive off the bat of Denis Menke. Two runs scored as the ball caromed over the third baseman's head and into short left field for a double. Hook was taken to a hospital where Xrays were negative.

Ramblers Take 2-1 Win Over Homer's Oilers

RUSTON (Special) — Ruston's Ramblers upped their season mark to 3-1 last night with a hard fought, 2-1, victory over the Homer Oilers.

Lane Martin cooled the Oilers with a strong one hitter to get credit for the win.

Don Spahl was charged with the loss although he pitched a fine game too, allowing only five hits.

Ruston got its second run in the bottom of the seventh when Homer's leftfielder dropped a fly ball with two men out to let Cliff Rode score the winning run from second.

Martin struck out 12, and Spal got 10 via the strikeout route.

Giant Southpaw Beats Colts 10-2

By DICK BARNES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Young left-hander Mike McCormick, making his first start for San Francisco is more than a month, whipped Houston 10-2 Saturday with the help of three two-out Giant home runs in the seventh inning.

The Colts collected nine hits and left men on base in every inning except the ninth as McCormick struggled gamely along. The fireballer, bothered all spring by a stiff shoulder, lost his shutout in the eighth on two singles and Bob Aspromonte's bad-bounce triple.

With McCormick tiring, Manager Alvin Dark used a pinch hitter for him in the eighth and Don Larsen finished.

With two down in the seventh, Willie Mays hit his 11th home run. Chuck Hiller walked and Orlando Cepeda followed with his 11th homer, a 420-foot drive to center field. Matty Alou beat out a single, then Ed Bailey continued the onslaught against reliever Dave Giusti with his eighth home run.

Mays also banged a double and two singles in five trips.

Angeles Stop Red Sox Nine For 6-5 Win

BOSTON (AP) — Switch hitter Bob Rodgers singled in the 10th inning for a 6-5 Los Angeles victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

Rodgers, who had struck out his two previous at-bats, moved to the left side of the plate against southpaw reliever Chet Nichols and singled home Joe Koppe, who had walked and moved to second on a sacrifice.

In the two previous innings Nichols had stranded the potential winning run on third base, the first time with the bases loaded in the eighth afteer a two-run single by Felix Torres had pulled the Angels into a tie.

Earlier, the story of the game was home runs. American League leader Leon Billy Moran hit a solo round-tripper in the fourth.

Bob Tillman homered with nobody on in his first official major league trip to the plate for Boston in the fourth. Tillman also contributed a sacrifice fly after Carl Yastrzemski tripled in the sixth. Carroll Hardy followed with a two-run homer.

Feurth Angels pitcher Dean Chance was the winner.

Findlay College Sophomore Ties 220 Yard Mark

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Odell Berry, a 19-year-old Findlay College sophomore, equalled the world's record in the 220-yard dash, broke two other mid-Ohio league marks and anchored a record-breaking 880-yard relay team in the league track and field championships Saturday.

Berry ran seven races — preliminary and final events—posting a 20-second flat time in the 220 dash equalling Frank Budd's world mark; a 9.4 100-yard time and 23.8 in the 220 low hurdles.

In all, Berry piled 16 1-5 points as Findlay won its fourth straight league track title.

It was still not determined whether the 220 dash time will be submitted for recognition. Early reports said there was a 5 to 12 knot tail wind but a later check disclosed the wind was not that strong.

The mark was set during the preliminary races. While officials gazed at the five watches which caught the tremendous effort, Bluffton Coach Ken Mast disclosed that he had clocked the speedster over the first 100 yards of the event and Berry had covered that much distance in the fantastic time of 9.15 seconds. The world record for the 100 is 9.2.

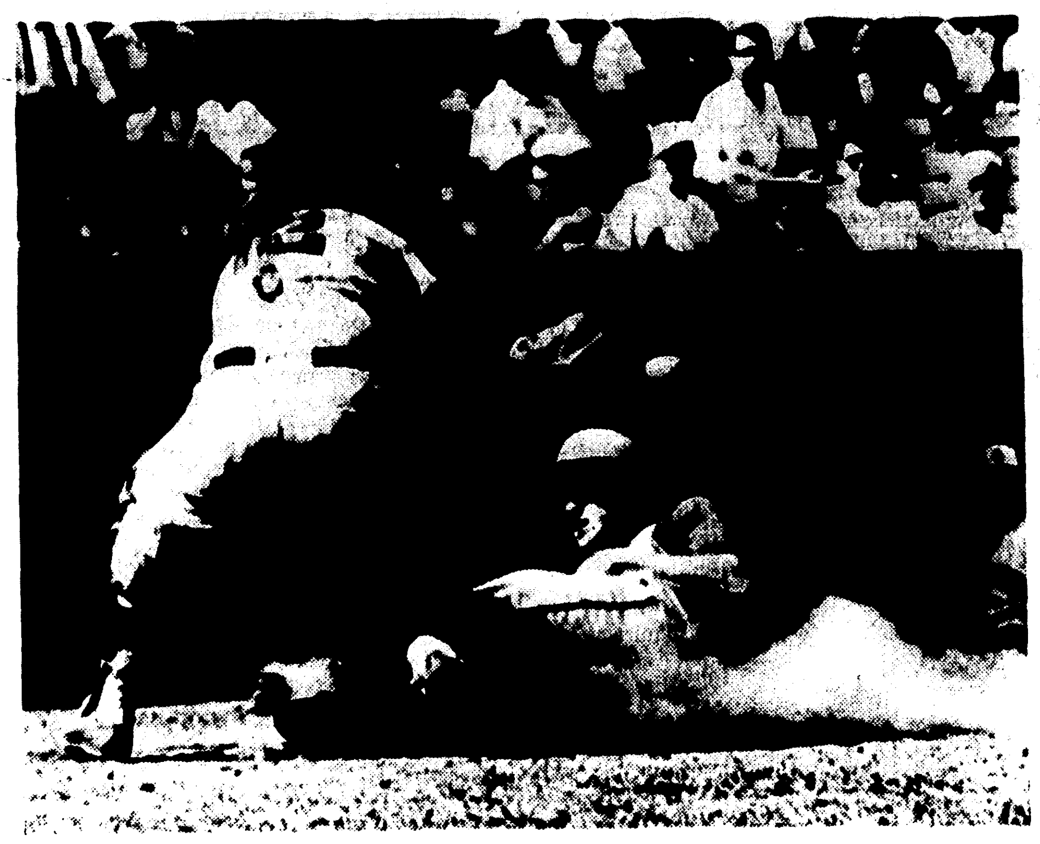
YOUNGEST CHAMP

CLENCOE, Ill. (UPI) — Gene Sarazen won the 1922 U. S. Open golf championship here when he was 20. That made him the youngest pro winner of an official tournament since the P. G. A. was organized in 1917.



FIRST BASEMAN Norm Siebern of the Kansas City Athletics slides home ahead of the ball in the eighth inning of Saturday's game with the Washington Senators. Nats' catcher Bob Schmidt (12) gets the relay on Gino Cimoli's long single to leftfield too late for the tag. The A's won 8-4. (AP Wirephoto)

CUPIT IN FOURSOME

Bill Collins Now Tied With Three For Lead

By BILL SIMMONS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Faltering Bill Collins fell into a four-way tie for first place in the $20,000 Hot Springs Invitational Open Golf Tournament Saturday.

Al Geiberger of Carlton Oaks, Calif., breezed in with a 5-under-par 67, the lowest round of the day, and Buster Cupit of Fort Smith, Ark., and Kel Nagle of Sydney, Australia, managed 70s. They tied Collins of Miami, Fla., at 205.

Collins slipped back to par 72 in the third round of play.

Bobby Nichols of Midland, Tex. and Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., were next with 206.

Nichols and Wall shot identical 72s.

Collins played the first nine in 37, with bogeys on the first, fourth and eighth holes and a birdie on the par-5 sixth hole.

On the backside, the ex-Marine bogeyed numbers 10 and 17, but birdied the 11th, 15th and 18th.

Geiberger roared out, birdie, par, birdie and added birdies on No. 6 and 9 to turn at 32. He bogeyed the 13th, but closed with birdies on the last two holes.

Cupit played flawlessly and dropped birdie putts of 25 and 20 feet at the par-5 6 hole and the par-3 17, respectively. He had no bogeys.

Nagle drilled birdie putts at the third and ninth holes, bogeyed the seventh and 12th and also finished with birdies on 17 and 18.

Wall had the lead halfway through the round but blew up twice on the final nine holes. He used four shots to make the green on 13 where he two-putted from 10 feet for a bogey. At the par-3, 17th, he slammed into a bunker, blasted on to the green and then three-putted from 17 feet.

Mick's Injury Big Blow To NY; Out For 3 Weeks

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle was in the hospital Saturday, lost to the New York Yankees for three or four weeks because of a torn muscle in his upper right thigh.

With the world champions hard pressed on several fronts in the early weeks of the season, Mantle's injury was a crippling blow to the team. However, Manager Ralph Houk was relieved to learn that Mickey's left knee, originally feared seriously damaged, was only bruised.

Houk was cheered by the return to the line-up of Roger Maris, who had been confined to pinch hitting duty in the last two games after straining a back muscle in Boston Wednesday.

Rookie Joe Pepitone, a handyman who can play first base or the outfield, was pressed into service as Mantle's replacement in center field. Maris, who shifted to center occasionally last year, remained in right for Saturday's game with the charging Minnesota Twins.

Mantle's injury in full view of the television cameras on the final play of Friday night's game flooded the Yankee Stadium switchboard with calls from anxious viewers. It occurred under most dramatic circumstances.

Tom Tresh was on second base with the potential tying run and there were two out in the last of the ninth when Mantle smashed a hard grounder at shortstop Zoilo Versalles. The ball was hit so hard that Versalles reeled back momentarily but quickly recovered.

"I saw him fumble the ball as I started to run so I tried to put on a little more speed, hoping I might beat it out," Mantle told his teammates. "When I stepped off, I felt something pop in my right leg. I guess that was the tear. It knotted right up and I couldn't straighten out the leg. When I grabbed at it, I fell."

Mantle fell in a heap about 10 feet from the bag and rolled over. Players from both teams gathered around and a stretcher was brought out.

Its reliability is probably its greatest single asset

When you build a quality truck, the inclination is to run around asking users what they think of it. We do quite a bit of this.

It's a funny thing. You'd think people would talk mostly about the mechanical features of the vehicle—the good ride, its power, the double-wall construction, cab comfort, or tough tailgate.

These things get comment, of course, but they're consistently outnumbered by expressions of satisfaction with the dependability of a Chevrolet truck. Its greatest single asset seems to be the fact that it does its job well day after day without a lot of fuss or attention—and that's what impresses people the most.

Quality is the key to reliability. The next time you have to buy a truck, call your Chevrolet dealer and make your money go farther.

Giant Southpaw Beats Colts 10-2

By DICK BARNES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Young left-hander Mike McCormick, making his first start for San Francisco is more than a month, whipped Houston 10-2 Saturday with the help of three two-out Giant home runs in the seventh inning.

The Colts collected nine hits and left men on base in every inning except the ninth as McCormick struggled gamely along. The fireballer, bothered all spring by a stiff shoulder, lost his shutout in the eighth on two singles and Bob Aspromonte's bad-bounce triple.

With McCormick tiring, Manager Alvin Dark used a pinch hitter for him in the eighth and Don Larsen finished.

With two down in the seventh, Willie Mays hit his 11th home run. Chuck Hiller walked and Orlando Cepeda followed with his 11th homer, a 420-foot drive to center field. Matty Alou beat out a single, then Ed Bailey continued the onslaught against reliever Dave Giusti with his eighth home run.

Mays also banged a double and two singles in five trips.

Angeles Stop Red Sox Nine For 6-5 Win

BOSTON (AP) — Switch hitter Bob Rodgers singled in the 10th inning for a 6-5 Los Angeles victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

Rodgers, who had struck out his two previous at-bats, moved to the left side of the plate against southpaw reliever Chet Nichols and singled home Joe Koppe, who had walked and moved to second on a sacrifice.

In the two previous innings Nichols had stranded the potential tying run on third base, the first time with the bases loaded in the eighth after a two-run single by Felix Torres had pulled the Angels into a tie.

Earlier, the story of the game was home runs. American League leader Leon Billy Moran hit a solo round-tripper in the fourth.

Bob Tillman homered with nobody on in his first official major league trip to the plate for Boston in the fourth. Tillman also contributed a sacrifice fly after Carl Yastrzemski tripled in the sixth. Carroll Hardy followed with a two-run homer.

Fourth Angels pitcher Dean Chance was the winner.

Findlay College Sophomore Ties 220 Yard Mark

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Odell Berry, a 19-year-old Findlay College sophomore, equalled the world's record in the 220-yard dash, broke two other mid-Ohio league marks and anchored a record-breaking 880-yard relay team in the league track and field championships Saturday.

Berry ran seven races — preliminary and final events—posting a 20-second flat time in the 220 dash equalling Frank Budd's world mark; a 9.4 100-yard time and 23.8 in the 220 low hurdles.

In all, Berry piled 16 1-5 points as Findlay won its eighth straight league track title.

It was still not determined whether the 220 dash time will be submitted for recognition. Early reports said there was a 5 to 12 knot tail wind but a later check disclosed the wind was not that strong.

The mark was set during the preliminary races. While officials gazed at the five watches which caught the tremendous effort, Bluffton Coach Ken Mast disclosed that he had clocked the speedster over the first 100 yards of the event and Berry had covered that much distance in the fantastic time of 9.15 seconds. The world record for the 100 is 9.2.

King Finance downed Texaco 12-4 in a Northside League tilt Saturday night. Moncrief and Nelson were the winning battery. Reynolds, Jones, Knighten and Mullis combined on the loss. Russell turned in a double and a home run for the winners in three trips to the plate. Brown went two for three for the Texaco team.

In Southside League action, the North Monroe Lions defeated Purity Ice Cream 12-7.

The two pitchers, who combined for the win, Simpson and McCarty, also led their hitting attack. Simpson went three for four while McCarty went two for four including a grand slam. Canal was the winning catcher while Boudreaux and Tanner were the losing battery. Tanner and Van posted two hits each for the losing nine.

Louisiana Machinery handed Keene's Shoe Store a 9-2 defeat in the first game in the Eastside League. Vaughan and Jones were the winning battery. Compton and Southwell were the losing pair. Vaughan hit two for two and limited Keene's to two hits.

In the second tilt, A & C Music edged Three - Way Finance 11-10. Wilson and Payne took the win and Carver and Hart suffered the loss.

Baker and Wilks went two for two for the winners. Carver, Porter and Gefhardt led the losers hitting attack with two hits each including one homer by Gefhardt.

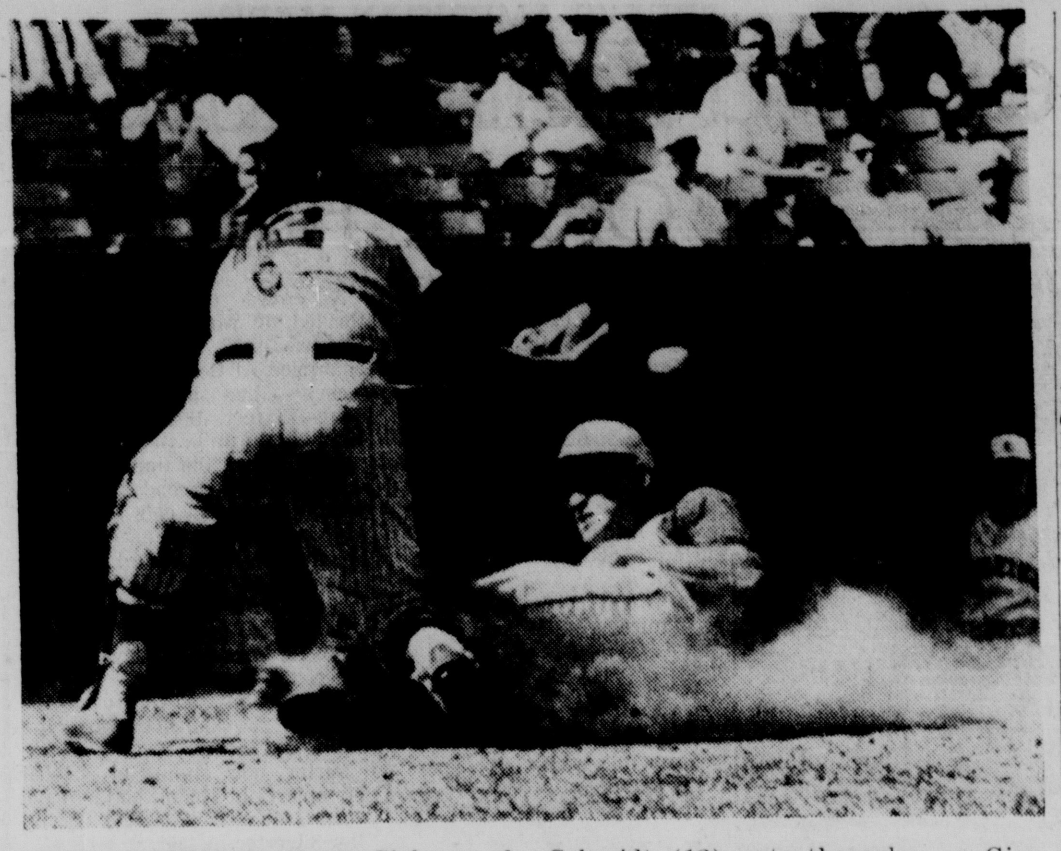
YOUNGEST CHAMP

CLENCOE, Ill. (UPI) — Gene Sarazen won the 1922 U. S. Open golf championship here when he was 20. That made him the youngest pro winner of an official tournament since the P. G. A. was organized in 1917.



FIRST BASEMAN Norm Siebern of the Kansas City Athletics slides home ahead of the ball in the eighth inning of Saturday's game with the Washington Senators. Nats' catcher Bob Schmidt (12) gets the relay on Gino Cimoli's long single to leftfield too late for the tag. The A's won 8-4. (AP Wirephoto)

CUPIT IN FOURSOME

Bill Collins Now Tied With Three For Lead

By BILL SIMMONS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Faltering Bill Collins fell into a four-way tie for first place in the $20,000 Hot Springs Invitational Open Golf Tournament Saturday.

Al Geiberger of Carlton Oaks, Calif., breezed in with a 5-under-par 67, the lowest round of the day, and Buster Cupit of Fort Smith, Ark., and Kel Nagle of Sydney, Australia, managed 70s. They tied Collins of Miami, Fla., at 205.

Collins slipped back to par 72 in the third round of play.

Bobby Nichols of Midland, Tex. and Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., were next with 206.

Nichols and Wall shot identical 72s.

Collins played the first nine in 37, with bogeys on the first, fourth and eighth holes and a birdie on the par-5 sixth hole.

On the backside, the ex-Marine bogeyed numbers 10 and 17, but birdied the 11th, 15th and 18th.

Geiberger roared out, birdie, par, birdie and added birdies on No. 6 and 9 to turn at 32. He bogeyed the 13th, but closed with birdies on the last two holes.

Cupit played flawlessly and dropped birdie putts of 25 and 20 feet at the par-5 6 hole and the par-3 17, respectively. He had no bogeys.

Nagle dribbled birdie putts at the third and ninth holes, bogeyed the seventh and 12th and also finished with birdies on 17 and 18.

Wall had the lead halfway through the round but blew up two on the final nine holes. He used four shots to make the green on 13 where he two-putted from 10 feet for a bogey. At the par-3, 17th, he slammed into a bunker, blasted on to the green and then three-putted from 17 feet.

Mick's Injury Big Blow To NY; Out For 3 Weeks

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle was in the hospital Saturday, lost to the New York Yankees for three or four weeks because of a torn muscle in his upper right thigh.

With the world champions hard pressed on several fronts in the early weeks of the season, Mantle's injury was a crippling blow to the team. However, Manager Ralph Houk was relieved to learn that Mickey's left knee, originally feared seriously damaged, was only bruised.

Houk was cheered by the return to the line-up of Roger Maris, who had been confined to pinch hitting duty in the last two games after straining a back muscle in Boston Wednesday.

Rookie Joe Pepitone, a handyman who can play first base or the outfield, was pressed into service as Mantle's replacement in center field. Maris, who shifted to center occasionally last year, remained in right for Saturday's game with the charging Minnesota Twins.

Mantle's injury in full view of the television cameras on the final play of Friday night's game flooded the Yankee Stadium switchboard with calls from anxious viewers. It occurred under most dramatic circumstances.

Tom Tresh was on second base with the potential tying run and there were two out in the last of the ninth when Mantle smashed a hard grounder at shortstop Zoilo Versalles. The ball was hit so hard that Versalles reeled back momentarily but quickly recovered.

"I saw him fumble the ball as I started to run so I tried to put on a little more speed, hoping I might beat it out," Mantle told his teammates. "When I stepped off, I felt something pop in my right leg. I guess that was the tear. It knotted right up and I couldn't straighten out the leg. When I grabbed at it, I fell."

Mantle fell in a heap about 10 feet from the bag and rolled over. Players from both teams gathered around and a stretcher was brought out.

Its reliability is probably its greatest single asset

When you build a quality truck, the inclination is to run around asking users what they think of it. We do quite a bit of this.

It's a funny thing. You'd think people would talk mostly about the mechanical features of the vehicle—the good ride, its power, the double-wall construction, cab comfort, or tough tailgate.

These things get comment, of course, but they're consistently outnumbered by expressions of satisfaction with the dependability of a Chevrolet truck. Its greatest single asset seems to be the fact that it does its job well day after day without a lot of fuss or attention—and that's what impresses people the most.

Quality is the key to reliability. The next time you have to buy a truck, call your Chevrolet dealer and make your money go farther.

RIDAN, left, jockey Manuel Ycaza up, and Greek Money, ridden by John Rotz, ram together at the finish of the Preakness Saturday. Ycaza filed a foul claim, but was suspended indefinitely himself after Pimlico stewards said he interfered with Greek Money, which won by a nose. TABLES ARE TURNED

Ycaza Calls Foul, Then Suspended

By GOERGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — Manuel Ycaza, the jockey who filed a foul claim in Saturday's Preakness [illegible] himself suspended for unfair tactics, claimed he was lucky he didn't fall off his own horse.

Ycaza, in an unusual news conference in the Pimlico press box hours after the 86th running of the classic, argued that he could have "shut off" the winning Greek Money early in the sizzling stretch duel.

Ycaza was aboard Ridan who was nosed out in a photo finish. Promptly after dismounting, Ycaza claimed a foul against the winner. The stewards, after looking at the official film, upheld Greek Money's victory.

Later the stewards looked at the finish of the race again and announced that Ycaza had thrown his elbow into jockey Johnny Rotz, who was riding Greek Money, as the two colts crossed the finish line in close quarters.

The stewards suspended Ycaza indefinitely and referred the case to the Maryland Racing Commission for definite action.

The still photograph of the race, taken by news media, appeared to show the elbow of Ycaza locked against that of Rotz at the finish.

Sammy Boulmetis, who rode the fourth place Vimy Ridge, appeared in the press box after the announcement of Ycaza's suspension and asked that it be explained that the photograph was taken "a foot inside the rail and shooting up."

Boulmetis is president of the Jockeys Guild and said he merely wanted to be sure viewers of the still photograph understood the angle from which it was taken and that it was not the official film patrol on which the decision of stewards is based.

Ycaza himself explained that he was leading Greek Money and "I could have shut him off at any time. Just before the eighth pole, Rotz came up whipping with his right hand and my horse shied. But my horse came on again in the last sixteenth, and got his head in front again.

"But he was dead tired and lost stride. I lost my balance and I was lucky I didn't fall off. Both horses made contact a couple of strides before the finish, but not the jockeys."

Ycaza also claimed that Greek Money had been very close to the rail when they began their stretch duel. But when they finished, the winner was "six or seven feet away from the rail."

Ycaza said that proved Greek Money had drifted out into his Ridan.

Cassius Clay In 14th Win; Stops Daniels

NEW YORK (AP) — Young Cassius Clay of Louisville stopped Billy Daniels of New York on cuts in the seventh round of a battle of unbeaten heavyweights at St. Nicholas Arena Saturday night.

Referee Mark Conn halted the contest at 2 minutes 21 seconds of the seventh of the television fight because of a nasty cut over Daniels' left eye.

"It hampered his vision," said the referee. Daniels was gashed over the eye in the third round and bled freely the rest of the way.

Dr. Sam Swetnick had visited Daniels' corner after the fourth, fifth and sixth rounds.

Although the 5-1 favorite Clay had a good lead, he didn't show too well against the 25-year-old barber who twice hurt him with long rights to the jaw.

The 20-year-old Clay had predicted "Daniels will fall in five" but he couldn't even floor his 6-foot-4 189 pound opponent. Clay weighed 196.

It was Clay's 14th victory in an all-winning pro career and his 11th knockout.

Daniels suffered his first defeat after 16 victories.

The officials had Clay ahead by the following scores:

Referee Mark Conn 5-1, and Judge Artie Aidala and Leo Birnbaum 4-2 each. The AP card had Clay in front 4-2.

Clay piled up points with his stiff left jabs and straight rights to the head. He concentrated on the cuts over Daniels eye from the moment he opened it in the third.

Cassius, in scoring his sixth straight knockout, looked far from impressive. He took a hard right to the jaw in the second with a pained expression on his face but in the fifth he was shaken by Daniels' long right to the choppers and held.

BREAKS AMERICAN MARK

Snell Still King Of Mile Runners

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Friendly but dedicated Peter Snell of New Zealand ruled as the undisputed king of the mile runners Saturday.

If there was any doubt, the 23-year-old curly top from Auckland proved it with a smashing, brilliant victory over the American record holder, 21-year-old Dyrol Burleson of the University of Oregon.

The two were the headliners in the "miracle mile" in the Memorial Coliseum Relays Friday night.

A crowd of 40,007 already thrilled by world breaking feats of two-time Olympic discuss champion Al Oerter—200 feet, 5½ inches — and shot putter Dallas Long—65 feet, 10½ inches—grew tense as the mile field lined up.

Snell blazed the final 220 in an unofficial 24.5 seconds. His final time of 3:56.1 not only left Burleson well behind but also bettered Dyrol's American record of 3:57.6.

Snell was delighted with the win. He had said repeatedly he was not too concerned with the time. He already has a world record of 3:54.4 pending.

But he felt a win over the Amrican record holder would be "quite an honor."

Oerter, now aiming at a third Olympic Gold Medal, bettered the world standard of 199-2½ set by Jay Silvester in 1961.

Long, a senior at Southern California, got his 65-10½ on his second shot. It bettered by one-half inch the rcord held by Bill Nieder.

4 Tribe Stars Run Unattached At Los Angeles

Four Northeast track stars, running unattached, competed in the Coliseum Relays in Los Angeles, Calif., Friday night.

The foursome, Randall Walker, John Baker, Dave Styron, and Don Styron, entered the mile relay and finished in fourth place.

The local group got its fourth place finish with a 3:10.9.

Arizona captured first place with a mark of 3:06.5, which is a new national record. Texas Southern came in second and Southern California took third.

Don Styron gave the Louisiana thinclads their highest finish with a second place in the 400 meter hurdles race. Don, who had a 50.9 time, was edged out by Rex Crawley of Southern California who posted a 50.5 mark. Styron led almost the entire race before hitting the final hurdle, causing him to lose enough time for Crawley to overtake him.

Dave Styron was the only other local entree. He placed fifth in the 100 meter race. Robert Hayes of Florida A&M walked off with top honors and Frank Budd took second.

Bayou DeSiard To Host State Amateur Meet

A field of approximately 40 local entries are expected to enter the Louisiana State Amateur Golf Tournament on Bayou DeSiard Country Club's 6,350-yard course June 6-10.

Qualifying rounds on the par 70 course will be played June 6 with the remaining four days to be match play with the exception of the championship flight. The medal play championship flight will consist of 32 players.

Burt Burdick of Baton Rouge is the tourney's defending champ. He downed title defending Sammy Love of Shreveport in 1961.

Bayou DeSiard hosted the state wide event in 1958.

McGowan Takes 2 First Places In Track Meet

Baseball star Eddie McGowan was the only double winner in the second annual intramural track meet at Northeast State Friday.

McGowan, selected the most valuable player on the diamond squad, won the 220 and broad jump, setting records in both. He ran the 220 in 23.5, breaking Edwin Britt's old mark of 24.5, and leaped 20-11, erasing Ken Thornhill's old standard of 20-6.

Only one 1961 champion successfully defended his title. Larry Danna again won the discus, this year with a 130-9½ distance.

A record was set in the 880 relay when Ronnie Myrick, Jimmy Love, Ken Thornhill and Joe Thrailkill, all members of the football team, covered the distance in 1:34.0, shaving a second and a half off the old mark set by Toms, Douglas, Newton and Newsom.

Marion Collier set a record of 53.3 in the 440, a tenth of a second faster than the time run by Jiggs Newsom last year.

Myrick and Pete Mulhearn tied records. Myrick running the 100 in 10.5 and Mulhearn the 880 in 2:16.8. John Kelly and Bobby Bryant set the marks last year.

Other winners were Douglas Webb in the 120-yard low hurdles with 14.4, Robert Lampard with 17.5 in the highs, Charles Beach with 46-8½ in the shot, Jerry Salley with a 5-4 high jump and two teams in the 440 relay—Dean Mann, McGowan, Morris Douglas and Gordon Salsman and the winning 880 quartet — with 44.8 times.

Tommy Bankston was student director of the meet. Dr. Robert Murdock, associate professor of health and physical education, is head of intramurals and A. S. Huffman is chairman of the H&PE department, sponsor of the meet. Members of Murdock's officiating class, H&PE 168, served as meet officials.

Title Fight Set For Detroit On September 17

DETROIT (UPI) — Tentative agreement has been reached to hold the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston world heavyweight title fight in Detroit, Sept. 17, it was learned Saturday night.

United Press International learned that Gus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, was in Detroit Friday for a meeting with Tiger Stadium officials and that he "did come to an agreement" for use of the ball park.

Sources said a definite announcement would be made Sunday regarding the site for the match between champion Patterson and challenger Liston.

It was reported D'Amato agreed to a $750,000 guarantee offered by promoters Leon Saddler and Elisha Gray.

The fight would be held in the Motor City Monday, Sept. 17, with the following three days open in case of a rainout.

It was also learned preparations have already begun to establish training camps for the two opponents in the Detroit area.

Patterson will train on a farm in Belleville, Mich., near Ann Arbor, about 25 miles west of Detroit.

Liston will set up training headquarters somewhere around Detroit, but the definite location hasn't yet been decided.

TABLES ARE TURNED

Ycaza Calls Foul, Then Suspended

By GOERGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — Manuel Ycaza, the jockey who filed a foul claim in Saturday's Preak-himself suspended for unfair tactics, claimed he was lucky he didn't fall off his own horse.

Ycaza, in an unusual news conference in the Pimlico press box hours after the 86th running of the classic, argued that he could have "shut off" the winning Greek Money early in the sizzling stretch duel.

Ycaza was aboard Ridan who was nosed out in a photo finish. Promptly after dismounting, Ycaza claimed a foul against the winner. The stewards, after looking at the official film, upheld Greek Money's victory.

Later, the stewards looked at the finish of the race again and announced that Ycaza had thrown his elbow into jockey Johnny Rotz, who was riding Greek Money, as the two colts crossed the finish line in close quarters.

The stewards suspended Ycaza indefinitely and referred the case to the Maryland Racing Commission for definite action.

The still photograph of the race, taken by news media, appeared to show the elbow of Ycaza locked against that of Rotz at the finish.

Sammy Boulmetis, who rode the fourth place Vimy Ridge appeared in the press box after the announcement of Ycaza's suspension and asked that it be explained that the photograph was taken "a foot inside the rail and shooting up."

Boulmetis is president of the Jockeys Guild and said he merely wanted to be sure viewers of the still photograph understood the angle from which it was taken and that it was not the official film patrol on which the decision of stewards is based.

Ycaza himself explained that he was leading Greek Money and "I could have shut him off at any time. Just before the eighth pole, Rotz came up whipping with his right hand and my horse shied. But my horse came on again in the last sixteenth, and got his head in front again.

"But he was dead tired and lost stride. I lost my balance and I was lucky I didn't fall off. Both horses made contact a couple of strides before the finish, but not the jockeys."

Ycaza also claimed that Greek Money had been very close to the rail when they began their stretch duel. But when they finished, the winner was "six or seven feet away from the rail."

Ycaza said that proved Greek Money had drifted out into his Ridan.

Cassius Clay In 14th Win; Stops Daniels

NEW YORK (AP)—Young Cassius Clay of Louisville stopped Billy Daniels of New York on cuts in the seventh round of a battle of unbeaten heavyweights at St. Nicholas Arena Saturday night.

Referee Mark Conn halted the contest at 2 minutes 21 seconds of the seventh of the television fight because of a nasty cut over Daniels' left eye.

"It hampered his vision," said the referee. Daniels was gashed over the eye in the third round and bled freely the rest of the way.

Dr. Sam Swetnick had visited Daniels' corner after the fourth, fifth and sixth rounds.

Although the 5-1 favorite Clay had a good lead, he didn't show too well against the 25-year-old barber who twice hurt him with long rights to the jaw.

The 20-year-old Clay had predicted "Daniels will fall in five" but he couldn't even floor his 6-foot-4 189 pound opponent. Clay weighed 196.

It was Clay's 14th victory in an all-winning pro career and his 11th knockout.

Daniels suffered his first defeat after 16 victories.

The officials had Clay ahead by the following scores:

Referee Mark Conn 5-1, and Judge Artie Aidala and Leo Birnbaum 4-2 each. The AP card had Clay in front 4-2.

Clay piled up points with his stiff left jabs and straight rights to the head. He concentrated on the cuts over Daniels eye from the moment he opened it in the third.

Cassius, in scoring his sixth straight knockout, looked far from impressive. He took a hard right to the jaw in the second with a pained expression on his face but in the fifth he was shaken by Daniels' long right to the choppers and held.

BREAKS AMERICAN MARK

Snell Still King Of Mile Runners

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Friendly but dedicated Peter Snell of New Zealand ruled as the undisputed king of the mile runners Saturday.

If there was any doubt, the 23-year-old curly top from Auckland proved it with a smashing, brilliant victory over the American record holder, 21-year-old Dyrol Burleson of the University of Oregon.

The two were the headliners in the "miracle mile" in the Memorial Coliseum Relays Friday night.

A crowd of 40,007 already thrilled by world breaking feats of two-time Olympic discuss champion Al Oerter—200 feet, 5½ inches — and shot putter Dallas Long—65 feet, 10½ inches—grew tense as the mile field lined up.

Snell blazed the final 220 in an unofficial 24.5 seconds. His final time of 3:56.1 not only left Burleson well behind but also bettered Dyrol's American record of 3:57.6.

Snell was delighted with the win. He had said repeatedly he was not too concerned with the time. He already has a world record of 3:54.4 pending.

But he felt a win over the Amrican record holder would be "quite an honor."

Oerter, now aiming at a third Olympic Gold Medal, bettered the world standard of 199-2½ set by Jay Silvester in 1961.

Long, a senior at Southern California, got his 65-10½ on his second shot. It bettered by one-half inch the rcord held by Bill Nieder.

4 Tribe Stars Run Unattached At Los Angeles

Four Northeast track stars, running unattached, competed in the Coliseum Relays in Los Angeles, Calif., Friday night.

The foursome, Randall Walker, John Baker, Dave Styron, and Don Styron, entered the mile relay and finished in fourth place.

The local group got its fourth place finish with a 3:10.9.

Arizona captured first place with a mark of 3:06.5, which is a new national record. Texas Southern came in second and Southern California took third.

Don Styron gave the Louisiana thinclads their highest finish with a second place in the 400 meter hurdles race. Don, who had a 50.9 time, was edged out by Rex Crawley of Southern California who posted a 50.5 mark. Styron led almost the entire race before hitting the final hurdle, causing him to lose enough time for Crawley to overtake him.

Dave Styron was the only other local entree. He placed fifth in the 100 meter race. Robert Hayes of Florida A&M walked off with top honors and Frank Budd took second.

McGowan Takes 2 First Places In Track Meet

Baseball star Eddie McGowan was the only double winner in the second annual intramural track meet at Northeast State Friday.

McGowan, selected the most valuable player on the diamond squad, won the 220 and broad jump, setting records in both. He ran the 220 in 23.5, breaking Edwin Britt's old mark of 24.5, and leaped 20-11, erasing Ken Thornhill's old standard of 20-6.

Only one 1961 champion successfully defended his title. Larry Danna again won the discus, this year with a 130-9½ distance.

A record was set in the 880 relay when Ronnie Myrick, Jimmy Love, Ken Thornhill and Joe Thrailkill, all members of the football team, covered the distance in 1:34.0, shaving a second and a half off the old mark set by Toms, Douglas, Newton and Newsom.

Marion Collier set a record of 53.3 in the 440, a tenth of a second faster than the time run by Jiggs Newsom last year.

Myrick and Pete Mulhearn tied records. Myrick running the 100 in 10.5 and Mulhearn the 880 in 2:16.8. John Kelly and Bobby Bryant set the marks last year.

Other winners were Douglas Webb in the 120-yard low hurdles with 14.4, Robert Lampard with 17.5 in the highs, Charles Beach with 46-8½ in the shot, Jerry Salley with a 5-4 high jump and two teams in the 440 relay—Dean Mann, McGowan, Morris Douglas and Gordon Salsman and the winning 880 quartet — with 44.8 times.

Tommy Bankston was student director of the meet. Dr. Robert Murdock, associate professor of health and physical education, is head of intramurals and A. S. Huffman is chairman of the H&PE department, sponsor of the meet. Members of Murdock's officiating class, H&PE 168, served as meet officials.

Bayou DeSiard To Host State Amateur Meet

A field of approximately 40 local entries are expected to enter the Louisiana State Amateur Golf Tournament on Bayou DeSiard Country Club's 6,350-yard course June 6-10.

Qualifying rounds on the par 70 course will be played June 6 with the remaining four days to be match play with the exception of the championship flight. The medal play championship flight will consist of 32 players.

Burt Burdick of Baton Rouge is the tourney's defending champ. He downed title defending Sammy Love of Shreveport in 1961.

Bayou DeSiard hosted the state wide event in 1958.

Title Fight Set For Detroit On September 17

DETROIT (UPI) — Tentative agreement has been reached to hold the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston world heavyweight title fight in Detroit, Sept. 17, it was learned Saturday night.

United Press International learned that Gus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, was in Detroit Friday for a meeting with Tiger Stadium officials and that he "did come to an agreement" for use of the ball park.

Sources said a definite announcement would be made Sunday regarding the site for the match between champion Patterson and challenger Liston.

It was reported D'Amato agreed to a $750,000 guarantee offered by promoters Leon Saddler and Elisha Gray.

The fight would be held in the Motor City Monday, Sept. 17, with the following three days open in case of a rainout.

It was also learned preparations have already begun to establish training camps for the two opponents in the Detroit area.

Patterson will train on a farm in Belleville, Mich., near Ann Arbor, about 25 miles west of Detroit.

Liston will set up training headquarters somewhere around Detroit, but the definite location hasn't yet been decided.

Hidden Lakes

By JOHN BLANCHARD
Public Relations Director
International Paper Company

Ask directions to a small, hidden woods lake and you'll get, not a map, but some of the finest hand-waving action, stuttering, stammering and "you know where it is" cliches which are understandable only to mind-readers and those who speak in the unknown tongue.

The stories about these little backwoods jewels are spellbinders concerning 10-pound bass, two-pound bream and white perch wider than a boat paddle. It's reasonable, and perhaps respectable, to lie a little bit about fishing, but the yarns about "cypress lake", "horseshoe," "crane", "hog" and others would take the trophy in the national liars' contest.

However, some of the tales are true, but weeding the scales and fins from the meat is often a tough task. We could tell some rather lofty ones about bass which broke an 18-pound test line three times in a single afternoon at Van Ransom; relate the story about hanging 12 bass and catching only two — the others were too big to handle with 15 - pound test monafilament in Little Sandy . . . .

and on a nine-hook Lucky 13.

There was another time, when fishing in Bal Moral, that a bird flew into the casting line which half-hitched around his neck and we boated him. We were identified forthwith as the "man who 'cought' the bird", not as the fellow who brought the bass back to camp.

Fred Nielsen of Winnsboro, one of the state's top bass anglers, using a floating runt, strung 10 bass from Lick Bayou and they weighed 45 pounds. Again, in Upper Fool River, we caught 28 largemouth creatures which went in excess of 100 pounds.

These backwoods lakes do produce some big fish and some "truths" which you'll not believe.

There are some purists left in this fishing game — those who will fish only in lakes which have been undisturbed by outboards, picnickers and yankees.

Right in this area there are lakes you've never heard about, possibly never read about. In fact, right down in Franklin parish there's a chain of the little sparkling water bodies virtually untouched by human hand. The chain starts north of the Winnsboro - Newellton highway and extends into Catahoula parish (where Bayou Macon runs into Tensas). In this string of dark-colored natural lakes are Hog, East Johnson, West Johnson, Moon, Twin, Big Cow, Little Cow, Dean, East, Moss, Hoover, Green, etc.

Across the Tensas, paralleling this chain is another, beginning wtih Saddletree, Hoparka, Caroll, Horseshoe, Mosquita and a dozen others. When the great glacier rooted out a patch to make Tensas, prongs undoubtedly dropped off to form these near-forgotter many-named lakes.

The little fellows, most of them averaging less than 10 acres, must be fished before hot weather and again when frosts start biting the pumpkin. Hot weather causes fermentation, and the water turns green and the fish get nauseated, or just plain ornery.

These tiny lakes of the back - country sound interesting, but these are just a few if you compare them with the territory of Catahoula (Jonesville - Harrisonburg), where, probably, the best freshwater fishing in the U.S. is found. There are the bigger Tew, Larto, Louie, Horseshoe, Black River Lake, etc, but did you ever fish Sargent, Hibbs, Little Sandy, Jones Bayou, Fishtrap, Pendelton, Paradise, Grand, Brown, Cypress, and the other three dozen plus?

If your appetite is being whetted and your interest is high, and you call yourself one of the few remaining "purists" among bass fishermen, just spend a little cash and get quadrangle maps of these areas. You'll not believe what you see, nor what you hear. You must wet a hook where few white men have trod.

Right in Ouachita there are at least a half-dozen little fellows just begging for artificial plugs; there are near as Many in Union several in Caldwell (Eagle, Horseshoe, etc); in Morehouse there are quite a number — Hog, Crane, Cypress, Hash and the like. You haven't scratched the surface yet, nor have you warmed the motor of your four-wheel-drive vehicle.

Most bass fishermen snarl when you mention "cypress trout," "grindle" or "choupique", but they offer a fight unexcelled in strength and tenacity. Most of these lakes will give you some record "mudfish," bass, bream and white perch. The bream are mostly bluegill, but sometimes you'll come out with a two - pound chinquapin or "government bream". On a three - ounce flyrod there's no better fight than offered by these big members of the sunfish family.

While we pass along this information, you didn't get any specific directions. We got them pinpointed by our grandfather who hunted cranes (herons) for plumes to adorn ladies' hats of yesteryear.

If your grandfather wasn't a plume-hunter, but you are still classified as a bass fisherman, you'll get directions . . . and the best of luck to you. Hope to see you on Moon Lake one of these days, but don't bring the outboard, 'tis not in the rule book.

Statistics Reveal McGowan's Value

Northeast State's final baseball statistics reveal why second baseball Eddie McGowan was chosen by his teammates as the Tribe's most valuable player.

The speedy little infielder from Monroe was the leading Indian hitter for the campaign and paced the club in four other departments also.

McGowan averaged .316 for the full season, 10 points higher than center fielder Bob Groves, who closed the campaign with a rush, collecting seven hits in the final three games to finish with a .306 mark. Shortstop Phil Petras had the third highest average, .305.

Petras started off slowly but rallied in the second half of the season to bat over .300 for the fourth year.

McGowan also led the club in runs with 22 and in hits with 32. The Indins' leadoff man, he was tops in bases - on - balls also with 15. McGowan, Petras and third baseman Charley Dykes tied for the lead in triples with two apiece.

Catcher Bo Dick Smith, one of three Indians to play in all 32 gamees, led the team in at-bats with 105 while Petras was tops in RBI's with 19 and in stolen bases with eight.

Freshman first baseman Don Boniol led the Tribe in homers with four, winning the final game against Southwestern with a three - run roundtripper, and was tops in total bases with 42. He batted .297.

Dykes led in doubles with six. Outfielder John Pace was the only Redskin to bat over .300 in Gulf States Conference competition with a .309 mark.

Sophomore righthander Bob Rachal was Northeast's leading pitcher with a 5-2 record. His earned run average of 3.33 was the lowest among Tribe hurlers pitching 10 or more innings. He also led the staff in games with 13, in strikeouts with 35 and in shutouts with two.

Bobby Lockwood was the busiest Indian hurler, pitching 60 innings, six and one - third more than Rachal. He also was the leader in complete games with seven and finished the year with a 4-7 record and a 3.87 ERA.

Only two Indians baseballers are scheduled to graduate before next spring, McGowan and Petras, and the club has good prospects of improving on this year's 13-19 record next spring. Next year, again only two players—Lockwood and southpaw Jerry Godwin — will be seniors.

Safety Helmets May Be Needed

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Medical Association's national conference on head protection for athletes was told Saturday that safety helmets might offer needed protection to basketball players.

Dr. Allan J. Ryan of Meriden, Conn., said basketball has become a more rugged sport each year. He added that serious consideration should be given to the feasibility of head protection of some sort for this sport.

Tribe Opens Grid Slate With Lamar

A home contest with Tangerine Bowl champion Lamar Tech will open an eight - game football schedule for Northeast State next fall.

Jack Rowan, Northeast athletic director and head football coach, announced his team's 1962 grid slate, which features two other home games besides a State Fair battle with Southwestern in Shreveport.

Other home games on tap for the Indians next fall are an Oct. 6 tussle with Gulf States Conference rival Northwestern contest will be the Northeast homecoming game, as it was in 1960.

The Louisiana Tech game will not be the Indians' final contest as it has usually been in the past. The Tribe will end its season against Delta State Nov. 17 in Cleveland, Miss.

The eight games scheduled for Northeast in 1962 are the fewest since 1957, when the school had another eight - contest slate. In 1951, Northeast's first season of senior college football, the team played eight games.

"Since school opens a little later than usual (registration for regular classes begins Sept. 19) next fall, we had only nine playing dates available instead of the usual ten," Coach Rowan said. "We have filled eight of them and tried to fill the other but were unsuccessful. We believe we have an outstanding group of teams lined up and our opening opponent, Lamar Tech, is a tough team to start off with."

Lamar had a 7-2-1 record last year before defeating Middle Tennessee State, 21 - 14, in the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Fla.

Last year's Northeast - Lamar game, played in Beaumont, Texas, was probably the most exciting of the season. Lamar won, 38-34, on two long touchdown passes in the final period in a game that featured an individual duel between quarterbacks Ronny Myrick of Northeast and Windell Hebert of Lamar. Both players are scheduled to play next fall.

Two teams on the 1961 schedule are missing from the 1962 slate, Mexico Polytechnic and Arlington State.

Northeast was 3-7 last fall, defeating two of the teams on this year's schedule. The Indians routed East Texas State, a Sept. 29 opponent this fall, by a 36-0 count and defeated Southwestern, 27 - 20. The other victory came over Mexico Poly, 28-0.

The schedule:

Sept. 22 — Lamar Tech, Monroe, La.
Sept. 29 — East Texas State, Commerce, Tex.
Oct. 6 — Northwestern(x) (HC), Monroe, La.
Oct. 13 — McNeese(x), Lake Charles, La.
Oct. 20 — Southeastern(x), Hammond, La.
Oct. 27 — Southwestern(x), Shreveport, La.
Oct. 3 — Open
Nov. 10 — Louisiana Tech(x), Monroe, La.
Nov. 17 — Delta State, Cleveland, Miss.
(x)—Gulf States Conference game

Tryouts Slated For American Legion Squad

Coach A. R. "Red" Sims has announced that all boys interested in playing American Legion baseball should report to Legion Stadium Monday afternoon at 3:30.

The Monroe team is the defending state champ, and Coach Sims has all but three starters returning from last year's squad.

After claiming the state title last season, the local nine competed in the national regional tournament at Memphis, Tenn.

CLAUDE PATRICK, two time All - State Fullback from Holly Ridge, has accepted an invitation to play in the Louisiana High School Coaches Association All - Star game in Baton Rouge on August 2nd. He was North Louisiana scoring champion his junior year.

A&M Sprinter To Enter Events In NAIA Meet

COLLEGE HEIGHTS (Special) —David Denman, Arkansas A&M sprinter from Paris, has qualified for the 1962 National Championship Track and Field Classic and will compete in the annual affair June 1-2.

The NAIA running will be held in Sioux Falls, S. Dak., and Denman will leave Aggieland around the 30th of May for the trip.

Denman is the first athlete in the history of Arkansas A&M College to qualify for the national track championship.

The Aggie ace will enter the 220 and the 440 yard races in championship meet.

Hidden Lakes

By JOHN BLANCHARD
Public Relations Director
International Paper Company

Ask directions to a small, hidden woods lake and you'll get, not a map, but some of the finest hand-waving action, stuttering, stammering and "you know where it is" cliches which are understandable only to mind-readers and those who speak in the unknown tongue.

The stories about these little backwoods jewels are spellbinders concerning 10-pound bass, two-pound bream and white perch wider than a boat paddle. It's reasonable, and perhaps respectable, to lie a little bit about fishing, but the yarns about "cypress lake", "horseshoe," "crane", "hog" and others would take the trophy in the national liars' contest.

However, some of the tales are true, but weeding the scales and fins from the meat is often a tough task. We could tell some rather lofty ones about bass which broke an 18-pound test line three times in a single afternoon at Van Ransom; relate the story about hanging 12 bass and catching only two — the others were too big to handle with 15 - pound test monafilament in Little Sandy . . . .

and on a nine-hook Lucky 13.

There was another time, when fishing in Bal Moral, that a bird flew into the casting line which half-hitched around his neck and we boated him. We were identified forthwith as the "man who 'cought' the bird", not as the fellow who brought the bass back to camp.

Fred Nielsen of Winnsboro, one of the state's top bass anglers, using a floating runt, strung 10 bass from Lick Bayou and they weighed 45 pounds. Again, in Upper Fool River, we caught 28 largemouth creatures which went in excess of 100 pounds.

These backwoods lakes do produce some big fish and some "truths" which you'll not believe.

There are some purists left in this fishing game — those who will fish only in lakes which have been undisturbed by outboards, picnickers and yankees.

Right in this area there are lakes you've never heard about, possibly never read about. In fact, right down in Franklin parish there's a chain of the little sparkling water bodies virtually untouched by human hand. The chain starts north of the Winnsboro - Newellton highway and extends into Catahoula parish (where Bayou Macon runs into Tensas). In this string of dark-colored natural lakes are Hog, East Johnson, West Johnson, Moon, Twin, Big Cow, Little Cow, Dean, East, Moss, Hoover, Green, etc.

Across the Tensas, paralleling this chain is another, beginning wtih Saddletree, Hoparka, Caroll, Horseshoe, Mosquita and a dozen others. When the great glacier rooted out a patch to make Tensas, prongs undoubtedly dropped off to form these near-forgotter many-named lakes.

The little fellows, most of them averaging less than 10 acres, must be fished before hot weather and again when frosts start biting the pumpkin. Hot weather causes fermentation, and the water turns green and the fish get nauseated, or just plain ornery.

These tiny lakes of the back - country sound interesting, but these are just a few if you compare them with the territory of Catahoula (Jonesville - Harrisonburg), where, probably, the best freshwater fishing in the U.S. is found. There are the bigger Tew, Larto, Louie, Horseshoe, Black River Lake, etc, but did you ever fish Sargent, Hibbs, Little Sandy, Jones Bayou, Fishtrap, Pendelton, Paradise, Grand, Brown, Cypress, and the other three dozen plus?

If your appetite is being whetted and your interest is high, and you call yourself one of the few remaining "purists" among bass fishermen, just spend a little cash and get quadrangle maps of these areas. You'll not believe what you see, nor what you hear. You must wet a hook where few white men have trod.

Right in Ouachita there are at least a half-dozen little fellows just begging for artificial plugs; there are near as Many in Union several in Caldwell (Eagle, Horseshoe, etc); in Morehouse there are quite a number — Hog, Crane, Cypress, Hash and the like. You haven't scratched the surface yet, nor have you warmed the motor of your four-wheel-drive vehicle.

Most bass fishermen snarl when you mention "cypress trout," "grindle" or "choupique", but they offer a fight unexcelled in strength and tenacity. Most of these lakes will give you some record "mudfish," bass, bream and white perch. The bream are mostly bluegill, but sometimes you'll come out with a two - pound chinquapin or "government bream". On a three - ounce flyrod there's no better fight than offered by these big members of the sunfish family.

While we pass along this information, you didn't get any specific directions. We got them pinpointed by our grandfather who hunted cranes (herons) for plumes to adorn ladies' hats of yesteryear.

If your grandfather wasn't a plume-hunter, but you are still classified as a bass fisherman, you'll get directicns . . . and the best of luck to you. Hope to see you on Moon Lake one of these days, but don't bring the outboard, 'tis not in the rule book.

Tribe Opens Grid Slate With Lamar

A home contest with Tangerine Bowl champion Lamar Tech will open an eight - game football schedule for Northeast State next fall.

Jack Rowan, Northeast athletic director and head football coach, announced his team's 1962 grid slate, which features two other home games besides a State Fair battle with Southwestern in Shreveport.

Other home games on tap for the Indians next fall are an Oct. 6 tussle with Gulf States Conference rival Northwestern contest will be the Northeast homecoming game, as it was in 1960.

The Louisiana Tech game will not be the Indians' final contest as it has usually been in the past. The Tribe will end its season against Delta State Nov. 17 in Cleveland, Miss.

The eight games scheduled for Northeast in 1962 are the fewest since 1957, when the school had another eight - contest slate. In 1951, Northeast's first season of senior college football, the team played eight games.

"Since school opens a little later than usual (registration for regular classes begins Sept. 19) next fall, we had only nine playing dates available instead of the usual ten," Coach Rowan said. "We have filled eight of them and tried to fill the other but were unsuccessful. We believe we have an outstanding group of teams lined up and our opening opponent, Lamar Tech, is a tough team to start off with."

Lamar had a 7-2-1 record last year before defeating Middle Tennessee State, 21 - 14, in the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Fla.

Last year's Northeast - Lamar game, played in Beaumont, Texas, was probably the most exciting of the season. Lamar won, 33-34, on two long touchdown passes in the final period in a game that featured an individual duel between quarterbacks Ronny Myrick of Northeast and Windell Hebert of Lamar. Both players are scheduled to play next fall.

Two teams on the 1961 schedule are missing from the 1962 slate, Mexico Polytechnic and Arlington State.

Northeast was 3-7 last fall, defeating two of the teams on this year's schedule. The Indians routed East Texas State, a Sept. 29 opponent this fall, by a 36-0 count and defeated Southwestern, 27 - 20. The other victory came over Mexico Poly, 28-0.

The schedule:

Sept. 22 — Lamar Tech, Monroe, La.
Sept. 29 — East Texas State, Commerce, Tex.
Oct. 6 — Northwestern(x) (HC), Monroe, La.
Oct. 13 — McNeese(x), Lake Charles, La.
Oct. 20 — Southeastern(x), Hammond, La.
Oct. 27 — Southwestern(x), Shreveport, La.
Oct. 3 — Open
Nov. 10 — Louisiana Tech(x), Monroe, La.
Nov. 17 — Delta State, Cleveland, Miss.
(x)—Gulf States Conference game

Tryouts Slated For American Legion Squad

Coach A. R. "Red" Sims has announced that all boys interested in playing American Legion baseball should report to Legion Stadium Monday afternoon at 3:30.

The Monroe team is the defending state champ, and Coach Sims has all but three starters returning from last year's squad.

After claiming the state title last season, the local nine competed in the national regional tournament at Memphis, Tenn.

CLAUDE PATRICK, two time All - State Fullback from Holly Ridge, has accepted an invitation to play in the Louisiana High School Coaches Association All - Star game in Baton Rouge on August 2nd. He was North Louisiana scoring champion his junior year.

A&M Sprinter To Enter Events In NAIA Meet

COLLEGE HEIGHTS (Special)—David Denman, Arkansas A&M sprinter from Paris, has qualified for the 1962 National Championship Track and Field Classic and will compete in the annual affair June 1-2.

The NAIA running will be held in Sioux Falls, S. Dak., and Denman will leave Aggieland around the 30th of May for the trip.

Denman is the first athlete in the history of Arkansas A&M College to qualify for the national track championship.

The Aggie ace will enter the 220 and the 440 yard races in championship meet.

Size Of U.S. Military Buildup In Thailand To Depend On Requirements

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—No fixed ceiling has been imposed on the eventual size of the U.S. military forces assigned to help Thailand guard against Communist attack, it was learned Saturday.

The program, which until now has been referred to officially as involving a total of about 5,000 Army, Marine and Air Force personnel, actually is a flexible, open-end plan under which thousands of additional men might be moved in.

How many more men might be sent depends on requirements as seen by the Thai government, U.S. military leaders in Thailand, headquarters of the Pacific command and Washington, government sources explained.

They cautioned against predicting any specific figure for possible additional strength, saying it could turn out to be 3,000 or 5,000 or 10,000—or any other size.

Deployment of the initial 5,000 men was continuing as the weekend arrived. Units of Army troops were flying out of the 25 Division in Hawaii and landing in Thailand. The 1,800-man Marine battalion was in position at Udon, in northeast Thailand, 40 miles from the Laotion border and Red Pathet Lao troops. The Army's 1,000-man battle group had moved up from a training area used during recent joint exercises with Southeast Asian Treaty Organization units. It was in position 40 miles west of Khorat a rail-highway-air junction from which they could be moved swiftly north or east.

From Red China came a warning Saturday that the dispatch of U.S. forces to Southeast Asia could not be ignored and that Communist China "absolutely cannot permit establishment of a bridgehead" in Southeast Asia by the United States.

The declaration was carried by a Peiping paper, but Red Chinese papers usually are the media for the expression of government views.

The Red Chinese warning was couched in language far stronger than the comparatively moderate assertions of Soviet Premier Khrushchev during a visit in Bulgaria Friday. The Soviet boss said the United States had "ventured on a difficult situation in Laos" and he predicted they would be forced out.

The difference in the tenor and language of the two pronouncements raised again the question of whether the Soviet Union would back up, militarily, Red China if the latter opened a shooting war against the United States in Asia.

Without Soviet help, Communist China could encounter deep trouble in an attempt to move into Laos and on into Thailand, despite its masses of manpower.

The routes from Red China into Laos from the north are primitive even by Asian standards. Mountainous terrain and jungles stand along and south of the China-Laos border. Recently China has started construction of a highway extending for a short distance into Laos. But, except for this, the transportation network is entangled jungle and mountain trail, or no trail at all in most places.

The best troop and supply route from Red China would be through North Viet Nam. A railroad and highway extends southward from the North Viet Nam capital, Hanoi. But it runs only a comparatively short distance inland from the coast.

This makes that communication network highly vulnerable to bombing by carrier-based planes of the U.S. Navy and to Air Force planes which might operate from South Viet Nam and Thailand bases.

On the other hand, supply and reinforcement lines for U.S. forces would be relatively good both in Thailand and South Viet Nam.

Newcomer Introduced At Tea In Breard Home

A spring theme prevailed throughout the Armand Vaughan Breard home, 2780 Point Drive, Thursday, May 17 when Mrs. Breard and her daughter, Mrs. Louis P. Milner Jr. entertained at a tea to introduce the Breard's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Armand Enochs Breard to Monroe friends.

The newcomer, prior to her marriage to Mr. Breard last September, was Miss Travis Moore Turner of Atlanta, Georgia. The couple moved to Monroe the last week in March.

Approximately 400 guests, contemporaries of Mrs. Breard, her daughter and her son, called between the appointed hours of 3 until 6 p.m.

A massive arrangement of magnolia blooms and foliage in a silver punch bowl graced a table in the entrance hall and were also used on the living room coffee table. The dining table from which refreshments were served held an arrangement of white stock, daisies and purple iris, while opposite the marble top sideboard held a bouquet of pink radiant roses and lavender iris, with Queen Anne's lace.

Red amaryllis with white spring flowers decorated the den and floral arrangements in pastel shades were used on the summer porch.

Presiding at the tea table alternately throughout the afternoon were Mrs. Nelson D. Abell Jr., Mrs. Leo F. Terzia Jr., Mrs. E. D. Shaw, Mrs. J. W. Barham, Oak Ridge; Mrs. Sam Scott, Mrs. B. J. Breard, Mrs. R. L. Wood and Mrs. C. R. Tidwell.

Floating hostesses were Mrs. H. A. Mouk Jr., Mrs. O. B. Frazier, Mrs. Roy Johns, Mrs. Fred Fudickar Jr., Mrs. Abner Wimberly, Oak Ridge, Mrs. Louis Rolleigh, Mrs. D. M. Moore, Mrs. Joe Guerriero and Miss Catherine Livaudais.

Assisting the hostesses in greeting arriving guests were Mrs. Dan A. Breard, Mrs. Reneau G. Breard and Hrs. Thomas M. Hayes Jr.

Teen-Ager Sets Hair Style Trend

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the teen-ager stacks her hair into a teased pile of disorder, her elders follow. If she decides to let her locks grow straight, and then wear them casually dressed, those who are 10 years or more her senior do the same.

In short, say a couple of women with long experience in beauty shop supervision, today's teen-ager sets the hair style pattern. Hair styles do not originate, except in isolated cases, with either Mrs. John F. Kennedy or Miss Liz Taylor in Rome.

"The teen-aged girl is the one who constantly experiments with something new in hair styles," said Else Sieff. "She's the one who convinces mom it's time SHE did something.

"The First Lady's hair style is in the press (photographs)," continued Miss Sieff. "But the teenager is in the field."

"You may have the idea that today's teen-ager does her own hair," continued Jill Harrison. "Well, some of them do but you'd be amazed how many of them can afford professional care."

The two women are among a dozen supervisors of the largest chain of beauty salons in department stores with outlets in the United States, Canada, England and Latin America.

Miss Sieff supervises 32 salons in the New York City and suburban New York area. Miss Harrison has the same number in the Philadelphia and Baltimore area for Seligman & Latz, Inc., who for 50 years have been beauty salon concessionaries.

Both women are British-born, and between them have 25 years of bossing operations in the beauty business.

In an interview, both agreed to these current hair styling trends:

Rare is the female who does not assist nature in color. Some women ask the beautician for an easy-to-do rinse to brighten their own color. Others change nature completely with a trend currently to the light red haired.

"No one comes in these days and asks for a henna or a blue-black," said Miss Harrison.

"Teasing," has become standard practice in hair-dressing. Teasing involves combing the hair first the wrong way underneath, then combing the top smoothly in the normal direction to provide a bulky look.

But the next hair style may be neither Miss Taylorish nor Jackie Kennedyish. What's ahead as these two experts envision it? Long hair well down on the shoulder, and curled outward slightly.

Femme Fatale

Jack McConnell, whose hats make women look like women, has a quick trick for turning the work-a-day woman into an after-five femme fatale. He recommends a little snap-on veil you will treasure. If you want just a wisp of veil - snap it around the front of your hat only — but if you want a longer veil make a stiff veil, like a hat on top of a hat, extending it past the hat's rim down to the level you want it. Just snap it on top with a single snap — or two, if you need an extra anchor. Pfffft ... you can turn any daytime moth into a twilight butterfly. And ... as we said ... it's a snap!

"You may have the idea that today's teen-ager does her own hair," continued Jill Harrison. "Well, some of them do but you'd be amazed how many of them can afford professional care."

The two women are among a dozen supervisors of the largest chain of beauty salons in department stores with outlets in the United States, Canada, England and Latin America.

Miss Sieff supervises 32 salons in the New York City and suburban New York area. Miss Harrison has the same number in the Philadelphia and Baltimore area for Seligman & Latz, Inc., who for 50 years have been beauty salon concessionaries.

Both women are British-born, and between them have 25 years of bossing operations in the beauty business.

In an interview, both agreed to these current hair styling trends:

Rare is the female who does not assist nature in color. Some women ask the beautician for an easy-to-do rinse to brighten their own color. Others change nature completely with a trend currently to the light red haired.

"No one comes in these days and asks for a henna or a blue-black," said Miss Harrison.

"Teasing," has become standard practice in hair-dressing. Teasing involves combing the hair first the wrong way underneath, then combing the top smoothly in the normal direction to provide a bulky look.

But the next hair style may be neither Miss Taylorish nor Jackie Kennedyish. What's ahead as these two experts envision it? Long hair well down on the shoulder, and curled outward slightly.

Femme Fatale

Jack McConnell, whose hats make women look like women, has a quick trick for turning the work-a-day woman into an after-five femme fatale. He recommends a little snap-on veil you will treasure. If you want just a wisp of veil - snap it around the front of your hat only — but if you want a longer veil make a stiff veil, like a hat on top of a hat, extending it past the hat's rim down to the level you want it. Just snap it on top with a single snap — or two, if you need an extra anchor. Pfffft . . . you can turn any daytime moth into a twilight butterfly. And . . . as we said . . . it's a snap!

When we have one of our beautiful Louisiana May afternoons, what lovelier way to entertain than a patio party at five o'clock? Such an affair was RUTH SHERROUSE's compliment to her out of town guests last Friday afternoon MRS. HERMAN von KAAS of Milwaukee, and MRS. FRANK MOUSO of Oklahoma City visited in the W. J. Sherrouse home from last Thursday until Friday of this week, and were honored at several charming parties.

Guests arriving at Ruth's on Friday entered through the family room, which opens directly onto the patio beyond. Yellow and white flowers were used exclusively in decorating. Daisies and yellow roses were effectively combined in the arrangement on the refreshment table in the family room, where BESSIE BIEDENHARN served sherry.

On the terrace, one refreshment table was placed before a wall fountain, which was filled with magnolia blossoms. More magnolias were arranged under the glass topped table. EUNICE KING presided at the punch bowl. At another table, decorated with a pyramid of lemons, SARAH RHYMES poured sherry. Others who assisted were MABEL WALLACE, FLORA POTTS, and CLARISSA SHERROUSE . . 'Twas a perfect time of day for lingering on the patio, and guests enjoyed the opportunity for a chat with the visitors.

Saturday at noon, ANNA GRAY NOE was hostess for luncheon at home, honoring Mrs. Mouso and Mrs. von Kaas. White pots filled with miniature ivy centered the table, which was laid with all white accessories. Chilled gaspacho was served as a first course, followed by cheese souffle with mushroom sauce and fresh fruit in a buttermilk dressing. There were six guests.

That evening, the CHARLES SHERROUSES entertained at a family dinner party. On Sunday, IRENE BEASLEY invited visitors and their hosts to Bayou DeSiard country club's buffet dinner.

Lavish bouquets of sweet peas decorated the Lotus club library on Monday when Flora Potts and Mabel Wallace were hostesses for luncheon. Ten ladies attended this party. . . . Tuesday night Mrs. Mouso and Mrs. von Kaas and the Sherrouses were guests of the GEORGE TROUSDALES for dinner at Bayou DeSiard country club.

Weather continued perfect for the visitors, who on Wednesday morning dropped by the HENRY GUERRIERO home for coffee on the bayou terrace. Virginia took them boating for a taste of our waterfront living.

Also honoring these guests, EUNICE KING entertained with luncheon at home on Wednesday. Calla lilies decorated the living room mantel, with an arrangement of roses on the coffee table. Magnolias were used on the dining room table. The unusual menu included crabmeat, shrimp, and water chestnuts with mushroom sauce, served in patty shells; stuffed tomatoes, asparagus Hollandaise; and hot biscuits. Dessert was strawberry shortcake.

On Thursday, MARY CUMMINGS was hostess for luncheon, and that evening, DOROTHY SHOLARS invited the visitors for dinner at her home. They left for home on Friday.

NELL FAUCETT and FAY WINK invited a group of intimates for coffee on Wednesday morning at the Faucett home. The hostesses, both dressed in white, greeted their guests in the hall, which was decorated with an arrangement of gladioli and chrysanthemums in shades of pink. Easter lilies were used on the living room credenza.

Twin refreshment tables were set up in dining room and den. On the former were pink gladioli and roses, while a pyramid of yellow gladioli brightened the den. CHARLOTTE DENT and MARY HART poured. Others who sisted were NANCY DAVIS, VIRGINIA WARNER, DIBBLE PATE, and MARGE MULLENS.

New spring and early summer dresses were seen at the Bigtimers' Dance club party last Friday night at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Members began gathering at eight p.m. for a cocktail hour, with dancing from nine until one to the music of Paul Neighbors and his orchestra. Breakfast was served after one. . . . An outstandingly lovely dress was MARGARET FAULK's floor-length gold brocade, styled with panel falling free from the back of the shoulders to the hem. Also in gold brocade was HELEN WHEELER. . . . Wearing apricot chiffon, JUNE HOLMES had her hair in swirls, each centered with a tiny pearl . . . MELBA NUGENT chose white silk, the bodice embroidered in crystal and pink beads . . . JEAN HAMILTON's print in shades of blue, filmed with blue chiffon, featured one bare shoulder and a floating chiffon panel. . . . Style was exemplified in every inch of PEGGY CLAY's green peau de soie, high-necked and sleeveless, worn with golden jewelry and earrings THAT long. . . .

White was the choice of several ladies, viz: MILDRED HEARD in white silk organza, embroidered with white flowers down one side. . . . CAROLYN SIMPSON in white Chantilly lace over blue chiffon . . . CHRIS COLLINS in a floor-length summer formal of heavy white cotton . . . JEAN DICKENHORST chose white linen, with elaborate cutwork encircling cowl collar and hemline. . . . Most elegant was FRANCES ADCOCK, whose white linen was hemstitched into squares, each centered with a medallion of embroideryand braid. . . . The Grecian look was seen in MARY LEE MILAM's floor-length white chiffon, banded in gold.

Honoring EVA SPROLES, who moved to Monroe from Delhi several weeks ago, MAE MICKEL invited a group for homemade ice cream and cake last Saturday afternoon. Included in those invited to meet the newcomer were KATIE MAE THORNHILL, LUCILLE CARROLL, BESSIE FORTER, JIBBY FOX, BELLE HUSTED, LETA TISDALE, ELIZABETH KING, LOU UPDEGRAF.

Now with the season of children and pets approaching, here are two little poems about animals. First "Roving Rover" by Curtis Heath.

Where, oh, where has our little dog gone?
Sometimes to our neighbors do dig up their lawn
And mangle their roses, their 'mums and carnations
Along with our formerly pleasant relations
Sometimes he has gone to the woods for a bur,
A tick or some fleas
to bring home in his fur:
Sometimes to a mudhole to wallow and play there.
And sometimes we harbor a hope that he'll stay there.

And "The Final Tale" by Betty Isler:

A kitten loves all moving things:
Pencils, marbles, thimbles,
strings,
Fingers, lamp cords, water dripping,
Goldfish, flowers, pages flipping,
Buttons, curtains, bare feet, papers,
All inspire his frenzied capers.

And when these fail
He has his tail.

Fort Miro DAR Has Memorial

May meeting of Fort Miro Chapter of the Daughters of American Revolution was held Saturday afternoon at the chapter house with Mrs. W. A. Whitfield Jr. serving as hostess chairman.

Preceding the meeting a memorial service was held at Riverside cemetery in honor of deceased member, Mrs. Paul Fudickar. The ceremony was conducted by Mrs. O. C. Roddey, Mrs. Richard D. Kellogg and Mrs. K. R. Young.

Mrs. Kellogg, regent, presided over the meeting which followed. In observance of National Music Week, the Ouachita Parish high school ensemble under direction of Jimmie Morris, guest director was presented to the group by the program chairman, Mrs. George I. Hemphill. The ensemble entertained with several selections.

Mrs. Pascal Norris gave the national defense report after which officers were installed for a two year term. Those installed are Miss Carrie Dee Drew, first vice regent; Mrs. Milling Bernstein, second vice regent; Mrs. Travis Oliver, corresponding secretary; Miss Mary Buckner, treasurer; Mrs. John J. Stack, registrar; Mrs. E. J. Brown, historian and Mrs. Mary Jane Hobgood, librarian.

At the close of the meeting the group adjourned to the lawn where refreshments were served by Mrs. Whitfield and co-hostesses, Mrs. W. H. Thompson, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. B. A. Trousale Jr., Mrs. G. F. Wallace, Mrs. A. D. Williams Jr., Mrs. Wista Worthen, Mrs. Stanley Wyatt, Mrs. K. R. Young and Mrs. John P. Zoll. Mrs. Kellogg presided at the punch bowl.

Other members present werre Mrs. C. E. Buckley, Mrs. Henry Montgomery, Miss Ina Merle Thomas, Mrs. Kellogg, Mrs. Culbert Lee, Mrs. O. C. Roddey, Mrs. K. R. Young, Mrs. E. J. Brown, Mrs. A. F. Rabun, Mrs. Adelia Baylor, Mrs. W. B. Matthews, Mrs. Ray Junod, Mrs. Otto Williams, Mrs. Jase Johnson, Miss Nancy Johnson, Miss Carrie Dee Drew, Mrs. George Hemphill, Mrs. B. S. McRaney, Mrs. Mary Jane Hobgood, Mrs. Alymer Montgomery, Mrs. W. H. McGee, Mrs. C. E. Slade, Mrs. W. L. Alexander, Mrs. Pascal Norris, Mrs. Austin Miller, Mrs. Eugene Flournoy, Miss Edith Gunby, Mrs. John Middleton, Mrs. James W. Moore and Mrs. John Stack.

Cream Sauce

A well flavored cream sauce is a basic in all good cooking. Its creamy texture and bland flavor makes it an ideal base for hundreds of delectable dishes . . . soups, main dishes, vegetables and many others. Milk, being one of the major ingredients in a cream sauce, contributes its high quality and essential nutrients.

OUT-OF-TOWN houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sherrouse, 4498 DeSiard, for the past week were the inspiration for a number of parties in the city. Pictured left to right are Mrs. Herman von Kaas of Milwaukee, Wisc., Mrs. Sherrouse and Mrs. Frank W. Mouso, Oklahoma City, Okla. Mrs. Sherrouse entertained Friday to introduce her guests to local friends.

MISS SANDRA JUNE BAILEY

Sandra Bailey To Marry Julian L. Terrell In July

Announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Sandra June Bailey to Julian Lafayette Terrell, is made today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Bailey, 112 Vernon. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lafayette Terrell, Monroe.

The wedding will be solemnized Saturday, July 21 at 6:30 p.m. in the Central Baptist Church of Monroe. Rev. Charles Littleton will officiate at the exchange of vows.

The bride-elect has chosen her sister, Mrs. Gay May of West Monroe, as her matron of honor and Miss Linda Lou Fite as maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Jerrie Lane Yelverton, of Baton Rouge, cousin of the bride-to-be; Miss Barbara White, Miss Kay Terrell, sister of the prospective bridegroom and junior bridesmaids will be Miss Bertha Claire Dupree and Miss Pam Bailey, both cousins of Miss Bailey.

Chosen to serve as flower girls are Jill Hinckley and Pattie Ann Pettit and ringbearer will be Paul Taylor. Tommy Bailey and David Hinckley will act as candlelighters.

Ronnie Stevens of West Monroe will attend Mr. Terrell as best man and ushers will be Ted Bailey, Freeland May, Tommy Goldman, F. B. Davis and Bob Massingale, all of Monroe.

Miss Bailey is the granddaughter of Mrs. Jesse L. Bowman of Baton Rouge and the late Mr. Bowman of Monroe and Mrs. Bill Bailey and the late Mr. Bailey of Monroe. She is graduate of Ouachita Parish high school.

Mr. Terrell, a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school, is employed in Monroe. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Orlin W. DeLand and Mr. and Mrs. Basil L. Terrell of Montgomery, La.

Hat Trousseau

The clever bride travels in a hat, so that even a tiring, windy trip won't spoil her fresh, well-groomed appearance. Her honeymoon hatbox might contain a sun-hat to wear with sports clothes; a tailored hat to wear with casual cottons; a dressy hat for city lunching or sightseeing; an evening hat for cocktail elegance; and even one or two more, thanks to the packable, crush-proof hats now so popular.

Various Events By Progressive HD Mark Week

Members of Progressive Home Demonstration club celebrated National Home Demonstration Week May 5-12 with various activities throughout the week.

Opening event was the Dress Revue for parish clubs in which the members participated. Those entering and modeling dresses were Mrs. W. H. May, Mrs. Hollis May, Mrs. Mildred Chapman, Mrs. Charles Guraedy, Mrs. James Fletcher, Mrs. James White, Mrs. Roy Simmons, Mrs. Percy Rodgers, Miss Margaret May, Miss Gloria Simmons, Miss Faye Simmons, Miss Debra Fowler, Miss Rose Mary White and Miss Linda Fletcher. There were six winners from Progressive club.

Members also prepared salads and desserts to serve the volunteer workers at Cooley Sanitorium. Mrs. S. B. Harrellson made posters which were exhibited in business establishments. Members also attended Trinity Baptist church in a body and placed flowers on the church altar.

The group was also conducted on a tour of the building and grounds of the Cooley Sanitorium which is being renovated for use by retarded children.

Mrs. Tim Ford was hostess on Tuesday afternoon in her home, 113 Maridale Drive, West Monroe, for a tea. Those present for the occasion were Mrs. Mildred Chapman, Mrs. Charles Guraedy, Mrs. Roy Simmons, Mrs. Gil Guillory, Mrs. L. O. Guillory, Mrs. Jewell Russell, Mrs. S. B. Harrellson, Mrs. Alva Lane and Mrs. James Fletcher.

During the afternoon demonstrations on flower arranging were given by Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Chapman, who used pink roses, purple iris and daylilies in creating arrangements appropriate for church decorations.

June 3 Wedding Planned By West Monroe Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Wimberley, 4422 Cypress St., West Monroe, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Artie, to William Richard Smith. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith, 211 Hilton St., West Monroe.

Miss Wimberley, who currently resides in Shreveport, and her fiance will exchange wedding vows at 2:30 p.m. June 3 at Claiborne Methodist Church in West Monroe. The Rev. T. A. Brown will perform the ceremony.

Miss Billie Joiner of West Monroe, will serve as maid of honor and bridesmaids will be Miss Marilyn Robertson of Washington D.C. and Miss Linda Joiner, West Monroe. Steve Rodakis, Shreveport, will attend the bridegroom as best man and ushers will be Gene Hilburn of Jackson, Miss., and Jack J. Smith, brother of the prospective bridegroom.

Miss Wimberley is a graduate of West Monroe high school and Northwestern State College at Natchitoches. At NSC, she was editor of the college newspaper, member of Theta Sigma Upsilon sorority, which is now Alpha Gamma Delta and Purple Jackets, womens service organization. For the past two years the bride-elect has been assistant state editor and is currently editor of the weekly school news section of the Shreveport Journal.

Also a graduate of West Monroe high school, Mr. Smith will complete his pre-medical studies at Louisiana Tech in Ruston this month. He has been Tech studio photographer three years and is a member of Beta Beta Beta, honorary biological fraternity.

The couple will reside in New Orleans, where Mr. Smith will enter Louisiana State University Medical School in the fall.

Green Arrangements Set For Monroe Garden Club

The Recreation Center on Westminster Avenue was the setting for the May meeting of the Monroe Garden Club held Monday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Garretson presided over the brief business session and introduced the in-coming president, Mrs. Henry Hinkle.

Mrs. Hinkle, in turn presented other members of the board, who are president-elect, Mrs. A. B. Myatt Jr., first vice-president; Mrs. W. E. Dent; treasurer, Mrs. R. L. Vanderpool Jr.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. H. Bird; recording secretary, Mrs. W. L. Dean; historian, Mrs. Fredric King.

A rising vote of thanks was given Mrs. Garretson for her leadership during the year.

Mrs. Kent Breard gave pointers on cutting and conditioning foliage, and mentioned that a bit of charcoal in the water in which a green arrangement is placed will keep it smelling fresh.

Mrs. Norman Jardine described two green arrangements which had been made by Dr. Katherine Foster. In one, Ti leaves and Acuba were used and for the other Ti leaves with variegated eunonymous were placed in a white usabata beside which rested a Japanese goddess.

Mrs. Henson Coon Jr. recreated the arrangement which she had made for a recent flower show and demonstrated the construction of Ivy rosettes.

Mrs. H. B. Hargrove gave a demonstration of green arrangements which can be created in brief time. She used materials which are available in yards and her containers ranged from filigreed brass boxes to wooden buckets and a length of clay pipe. She stressed these will last for days if conditioned overnight in water.

Mrs. C. T. Munholland and Mrs. G. A. Boyd were chairmen for the meeting. Other members present were Mrs. John C. Burgess, Mrs. John J. Potts, Mrs. R. L. Junod, Mrs. F. A. Eastman, Mrs. Fred Beckett, Mrs. DeWitt Milam, Mrs. Ralph Marionneaux, Mrs. Allen T. Givens, Mrs. W. L. Alexander, Mrs. Corbin Turpin, Mrs. Felix Willey, Mrs. H. A. MISS SUE HATTAWAY

Charcoal Grill Meals Hit Spot With Children

Children love cook-outs and cook-ins. Here are some particularly popular ideas to adapt to the scout meeting, birthday party, or any gathering of the grammer school set. In every case the snacks can be cooked over wood charcoal briquets in the family room fireplace or on the outdoor grill.

A favorite with youngsters is shish-kebab planned especially for them. In this case use penny-size slices of frankfurt, mild cubes of bologna, small cooked beets, fresh tomato quarters and green pepper sections. At serving time, you can spare the implements. Big paper plates will do. No knife is needed as all the pieces are bite-size.

Good for a children's party, too, are hamburger "cakes." Grill thin cheeseburgers as flat as pancakes. Stack two or three and spike with a carrot stick. The burgers look like layer cakes topped with a candle.

Whether the party is outdoors or in, the youngsters count it a day to remember.

For Small Fry

Your small fry will appreciate that raw carrot salad if it's sprinkled with shredded coconut.

MISS SANDRA JUNE BAILEY

Sandra Bailey To Marry Julian L. Terrell In July

Announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Sandra June Bailey to Julian Lafayette Terrell, is made today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Bailey, 112 Vernon. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lafayette Terrell, Monroe.

The wedding will be solemnized Saturday, July 21 at 6:30 p.m. in the Central Baptist Church of Monroe. Rev. Charles Littleton will officiate at the exchange of vows.

The bride-elect has chosen her sister, Mrs. Gay May of West Monroe, as her matron of honor and Miss Linda Lou Fite as maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Jerrie Lane Yelverton, of Baton Rouge, cousin of the bride-to-be; Miss Barbara White, Miss Kay Terrell, sister of the prospective bridegroom and junior bridesmaids will be Miss Bertha Claire Dupree and Miss Pam Bailey, both cousins of Miss Bailey.

Chosen to serve as flower girls are Jill Hinckley and Pattie Ann Pettit and ringbearer will be Paul Taylor. Tommy Bailey and David Hinckley will act as candlelighters.

Ronnie Stevens of West Monroe will attend Mr. Terrell as best man and ushers will be Ted Bailey, Freeland May, Tommy Goldman, F. B. Davis and Bob Massingale, all of Monroe.

Miss Bailey is the granddaughter of Mrs. Jesse L. Bowman of Baton Rouge and the late Mr. Bowman of Monroe and Mrs. Bill Bailey and the late Mr. Bailey of Monroe. She is graduate of Ouachita Parish high school.

Mr. Terrell, a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school, is employed in Monroe. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Orlin W. DeLand and Mr. and Mrs. Basil L. Terrell of Montgomery, La.

Hat Trousseau

The clever bride travels in a hat, so that even a tiring, windy trip won't spoil her fresh, well-groomed appearance. Her honeymoon hatbox might contain a sun-hat to wear with sports clothes; a tailored hat to wear with casual cottons; a dressy hat for city lunching or sightseeing; an evening hat for cocktail elegance; and even one or two more, thanks to the packable, crush-proof hats now so popular.

Various Events By Progressive HD Mark Week

Members of Progressive Home Demonstration club celebrated National Home Demonstration Week May 5-12 with various activities throughout the week.

Opening event was the Dress Revue for parish clubs in which the members participated. Those entering and modeling dresses were Mrs. W. H. May, Mrs. Hollis May, Mrs. Mildred Chapman, Mrs. Charles Guraedy, Mrs. James Fletcher, Mrs. James White, Mrs. Roy Simmons, Mrs. Percy Rodgers, Miss Margaret May, Miss Gloria Simmons, Miss Faye Simmons, Miss Debra Fowler, Miss Rose Mary White and Miss Linda Fletcher. There were six winners from Progressive club.

Members also prepared salads and desserts to serve the volunteer workers at Cooley Sanitorium. Mrs. S. B. Harrellson made posters which were exhibited in business establishments. Members also attended Trinity Baptist church in a body and placed flowers on the church altar.

The group was also conducted on a tour of the building and grounds of the Cooley Sanitorium which is being renovated for use by retarded children.

Mrs. Tim Ford was hostess on Tuesday afternoon in her home, 113 Maridale Drive, West Monroe, for a tea. Those present for the occasion were Mrs. Mildred Chapman, Mrs. Charles Guraedy, Mrs. Roy Simmons, Mrs. Gil Guillory, Mrs. L. O. Guillory, Mrs. Jewell Russell, Mrs. S. B. Harrellson, Mrs. Alva Lane and Mrs. James Fletcher.

During the afternoon demonstrations on flower arranging were given by Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Chapman, who used pink roses, purple iris and daylilies in creating arrangements appropriate for church decorations.

June 3 Wedding Planned By West Monroe Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Wimberley, 4422 Cypress St., West Monroe, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Artie, to William Richard Smith. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith, 211 Hilton St., West Monroe.

Miss Wimberley, who currently resides in Shreveport, and her fiance will exchange wedding vows at 2:30 p.m. June 3 at Claiborne Methodist Church in West Monroe. The Rev. T. A. Brown will perform the ceremony.

Miss Billie Joiner of West Monroe, will serve as maid of honor and bridesmaids will be Miss Marilyn Robertson of Washington D.C. and Miss Linda Joiner, West Monroe. Steve Rodakis, Shreveport, will attend the bridegroom as best man and ushers will be Gene Hilburn of Jackson, Miss., and Jack J. Smith, brother of the prospective bridegroom.

Miss Wimberley is a graduate of West Monroe high school and Northwestern State College at Natchitoches. At NSC, she was editor of the college newspaper, member of Theta Sigma Upsilon sorority, which is now Alpha Gamma Delta and Purple Jackets, womens service organization. For the past two years the bride-elect has been assistant state editor and is currently editor of the weekly school news section of the Shreveport Journal.

Also a graduate of West Monroe high school, Mr. Smith will complete his pre-medical studies at Louisiana Tech in Ruston this month. He has been Tech studio photographer three years and is a member of Beta Beta Beta, honorary biological fraternity.

The couple will reside in New Orleans, where Mr. Smith will enter Louisiana State University Medical School in the fall.

MISS PATRICIA ANN COOPER

Fashions For Sun, Fun Shown At Highland Park

Fashions for sun and fun were featured in a style show which highlighted the Ladies Day luncheon at Highland Park Country Club Wednesday noon.

Members of the club modeled play clothes, swim suits and summer sportswear from Hays' Ready - to - Wear and shoes from Mouton's Shoe Store in West Monroe.

Models were Bonnie Passman, Charlotte Bouland, Marie Norman, Helen Hafler, Margaret Harrell, Nancy Calhoun, Agnes Reighney and Cynthia Feazel. Mrs. Flora Wilkins directed and narrated the style show.

Mrs. Passman, modeling swim wear, was striking in a gold lame' suit, ideal for sunning or swimming, with its fiber content nylon and rubber to ensure lastability. She also wore a bathing suit of braided orlon, acrylic, nylon and rubber knit of brilliant aqua, popular color for the summer season.

For golfing, Charlotte Bourland modeled bright yellow shorts with a white back-buttoned blouse, topped by a gaily colored hat. Stressing femininity was the white cotton lace trimmed overblouse she modeled with another sports ensemble combined with Jamaica shorts in cotton twill. Mrs. Bourland also appeared in full length tapered slim jims in Confederate blue - gray, topped by the popular sleeveless overblouse of wash and wear fabric.

Pants were also modeled by Marie Norman, whose choice was pedal pushers with pullover in blue and white. She also modeled a cotton sun - dress of earthy tones in brown, yellow and gold on white, which featured spaghetti straps over the shoulders. Her third costume was a black and white checked cotton arnel triacetate suit, ideal for travel with its straight skirt and four-button jacket.

Helen Hafler displayed the true American colors in wash and wear separates for active sports occasions whether the tennis courts or bowling. She also modeled slim jims and top in cool green. Scene stealer and party perfect the blue and white plaid cotton frock she wore which featured yards and yards of nylon lace.

Designed for active sports were the play clothes modeled by Margaret Harrell of cotton knit. She also wore a white sharkskin pleated skirt, combined with jacket of the same material with a black design.

Patio living inspired the beige cotton frock with zippered front bodice and box pleated skirt with large front pockets adorned with strawberry appliques, modeled by Nancy Calhoun. Also shown by Mrs. Calhoun was a beige permaanent pleated frock of dacron polyester and cotton, in sleeveless style with scoop neckline.

Pedal pushers were also shown by Agnes Reighney whose multicolor striped overblouse was a perfect complement to the green pedal pushers. A fitted bodice with scoop neckline featured a turquoise patio dress she modeled, with front button closing.

Cool latticed sleeves featured the patio dress worn by Cynthia Feazel, in 100 per cent cotton with zip front and pleated skirt. Mrs. Feazel also appeared wearing a cool crisp cotton jacket dress, pleated skirt and sleeveless low-necked bodice.

Door prizes were won by Miss Virginia Hamel and Mrs. L. N. Copes.

Hutchinson-Bell Vows Planned For June 23

June 23 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Linda Aleta Bell and Owen Bernard Hutchinson Jr. of Crossett. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Murle Bell of Crossett and the late C. A. Bell. Mr. Hutchinson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Hutchinson of Beaumont, Texas.

The wedding will be solemnized in the First Baptist Church at Concord, Arkansas.

Miss Bell received her B.S.E. degree from Arkansass State Teachers College and is now on the faculty of the Crossett Public schools.

Mr. Hutchinson is a graduate of Stephen F. Austin State College, Nacogdoches, Texas, where he received his B.F. degree. He received his master's degree in forestry from North Carolina State college in Raleigh, N.C. and is now a forester with the Crossett Company.

Logtown PTA Tea Sunday To Honor Teacher

Final meeting of the Logtown P-TA was held Thursday, May 10 at 3 p.m. in the school cafeteria with the new president, Mrs. G. L. McQuiston presiding.

The program was highlighted by four selections bv the Logtown Band and three numbers by the sixth grade chorus under direction of Mrs. Pope.

During the business session the president introduced the new committee chairmen for the coming year. Mrs. M. Ray gave a report on the state convention held in April. Miss Filhiol announced an invitational tea honoring Mrs. U. N. Bradford, on her retirement to be held Sundav, May 20 in the school cafeteria from 3 until 5 p.m.

Mrs. McQuiston presented Mrs. Bradford with a silver tray from the P-TA in appreciation of her years of service.

Room count was won by Mrs. McKenzie's fourth grade and during the social hour refreshments were served.

Garnish Meat

Small whole cooked carrots look pretty around a meat or fish dish. Cook the carrots in a small amount of boiling salted water for about 15 minutes to have tender-crisp.

Stuffed Peppers

Parboil green peppers before stuffing, then bake them in a moderate oven. Cover the stuffing with buttered crumbs.

Tasty Topping

You can make a quick and easy Coffee Caramel ice cream topping by melting over boiling water one-half pound vanilla caramel with 2 teaspoons instant coffee. Serve hot.

Stay Slim

Creamed cottage cheese is truly a stay - slim aid. One-half cup of this inexpensive food fills about one fourth of a teen-age girl's daily protein need. Cottage cheese does not replace milk but adds an excellent amount of essential protein to keep muscles firm and agile.

Party Corsages

Costume matched beauty for dance, party. Choose from all colors. Free delivery. Satisfaction guaranteed.

PTA Council Installs Officers

Installation of officers highlighted the final meeting of Ouachita Parish P-TA Council for the year. For the 1962-63 season, Wood Sers, principal of Crosley school, installed Mrs. Courtland McCoy, as president; Mrs. C. M. Eaker, vice - president; Mrs. R. C. Joyner, secretary and C. O. Wilson, treasurer.

Mr. Sers urged cooperation of all officers and unit officers in furthering the work of the P-TA. Reports were made on the state convention. In an effort to assist the units in preparing their work for the next session of school, each committee chairman gave a resume of duties.

The council was welcomed by Mrs. Malvin Hendrix of A. L. Smith school of Sterlington, scene of the meeting. Mrs. G. C. Bedenbender, outgoing president, was in charge.

Outline Sweater

Before laundering a wool sweater, trace its outline on the napped backing of a discarded palstic tablecloth. After sudsing and rinsing, blot the sweater in a towel, spread it over the plastic, and smooth it to fit the outline. The plastic can be used repeatedly.

Fashions For Sun, Fun Shown At Highland Park

Fashions for sun and fun were featured in a style show which highlighted the Ladies Day luncheon at Highland Park Country Club Wednesday noon.

Members of the club modeled play clothes, swim suits and summer sportswear from Hays' Ready - to - Wear and shoes from Mouton's Shoe Store in West Monroe.

Models were Bonnie Passman, Charlotte Bouland, Marie Norman, Helen Hafler, Margaret Harrell, Nancy Calhoun, Agnes Reighney and Cynthia Feazel. Mrs. Flora Wilkins directed and narrated the style show.

Mrs. Passman, modeling swim wear, was striking in a gold lame' suit, ideal for sunning or swimming, with its fiber content nylon and rubber to ensure lastability. She also wore a bathing suit of braided orlon, acrylic, nylon and rubber knit of brilliant aqua, popular color for the summer season.

For golfing, Charlotte Bourland modeled bright yellow shorts with a white back-buttoned blouse, topped by a gaily colored hat. Stressing femininity was the white cotton lace trimmed overblouse she modeled with another sports ensemble combined with Jamaica shorts in cotton twill. Mrs. Bourland also appeared in full length tapered slim jims in Confederate blue - gray, topped by the popular sleeveless overblouse of wash and wear fabric.

Pants were also modeled by Marie Norman, whose choice was pedal pushers with pullover in blue and white. She also modeled a cotton sun - dress of earthy tones in brown, yellow and gold on white, which featured spaghetti straps over the shoulders. Her third costume was a black and white checked cotton arnel triacetate suit, ideal for travel with its straight skirt and four-button jacket.

Helen Hafler displayed the true American colors in wash and wear separates for active sports occasions whether the tennis courts or bowling. She also modeled slim jims and top in cool green. Scene stealer and party perfect the blue and white plaid cotton frock she wore which featured yards and yards of nylon lace.

Designed for active sports were the play clothes modeled by Margaret Harrell of cotton knit. She also wore a white sharkskin pleated skirt, combined with jacket of the same material with a black design.

Patio living inspired the beige cotton frock with zippered front bodice and box pleated skirt with large front pockets adorned with strawberry appliques, modeled by Nancy Calhoun. Also shown by Mrs. Calhoun was a beige permaanent pleated frock of dacron polyester and cotton, in sleeveless style with scoop neckline.

Pedal pushers were also shown by Agnes Reighney whose multicolor striped overblouse was a perfect complement to the green pedal pushers. A fitted bodice with scoop neckline featured a turquoise patio dress she modeled, with front button closing.

Cool latticed sleeves featured the patio dress worn by Cynthia Feazel, in 100 per cent cotton with zip front and pleated skirt. Mrs. Feazel also appeared wearing a cool crisp cotton jacket dress, pleated skirt and sleeveless low-necked bodice.

Door prizes were won by Miss Virginia Hamel and Mrs. L. N. Copes.

Logtown PTA Tea Sunday To Honor Teacher

Final meeting of the Logtown P-TA was held Thursday, May 10 at 3 p.m. in the school cafeteria with the new president, Mrs. G. L. McQuiston presiding.

The program was highlighted by four selections by the Logtown Band and three numbers by the sixth grade chorus under direction of Mrs. Pope.

During the business session the president introduced the new committee chairmen for the coming year. Mrs. M. Ray gave a report on the state convention held in April. Miss Filhiol announced an invitational tea honoring Mrs. U. N. Bradford, on her retirement to be held Sunday, May 20 in the school cafeteria from 3 until 5 p.m.

Mrs. McQuiston presented Mrs. Bradford with a silver tray from the P-TA in appreciation of her years of service.

Room count was won by Mrs. McKenzie's fourth grade and during the social hour refreshments were served.

Garnish Meat

Small whole cooked carrots look pretty around a meat or fish dish. Cook the carrots in a small amount of boiling salted water for about 15 minutes to have tender-crisp.

Stuffed Peppers

Parboil green peppers before stuffing, then bake them in a moderate oven. Cover the stuffing with buttered crumbs.

Tasty Topping

You can make a quick and easy Coffee Caramel ice cream topping by melting over boiling water one-half pound vanilla caramel with 2 teaspoons instant coffee. Serve hot.

PTA Council Installs Officers

Installation of officers highlighted the final meeting of Ouachita Parish P-TA Council for the year. For the 1962-63 season, Wood Sers, principal of Crosley school, installed Mrs. Courtland McCoy, as president; Mrs. C. M. Eaker, vice - president; Mrs. R. C. Joyner, secretary and C. O. Wilson, treasurer.

Mr. Sers urged cooperation of all officers and unit officers in furthering the work of the P-TA. Reports were made on the state convention. In an effort to assist the units in preparing their work for the next session of school, each committee chairman gave a resume of duties.

The council was welcomed by Mrs. Malvin Hendrix of A. L. Smith school of Sterlington, scene of the meeting. Mrs. G. C. Bedenbender, outgoing president, was in charge.

Outline Sweater

Before laundering a wool sweater, trace its outline on the napped backing of a discarded palstic tablecloth. After sudsing and rinsing, blot the sweater in a towel, spread it over the plastic, and smooth it to fit the outline. The plastic can be used repeatedly.

MISS MARGARET DIANA MORGAN

MISS MARY JANE SMITH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Smith of Kenner, is the bride-elect of James H. Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hicks, 807 Clayton St., West Monroe. The wedding will be solemnized June 30 at Airline Baptist Church in Metairie.

Tea Honors Two Retiring From Clara Hall School

The Clara Hall Elementary School was scene of an informal tea honoring two of the school's teachers. Mrs. Lucile Wilkins and Mrs. Shirley Courtney, whose retirement from the Monroe City School system was jointly announced.

Hostesses for the tea held last Thursday evening were members of the Executive committee of the Clara Hall Parent -Teacher Association.

Mrs. Wilkins leaves the teaching profession after 30 years of service and Mrs. Courtney leaves with 35 years service.

Twin tables in the auditorium were covered with white linen and held matching centerpieces of empire mass arrangements of florabunda deep - shaded roses. Presiding at the silver service were Mrs. T. E. Chaney and Mrs. W. S Sheppert, while Mrs. M. E. Cottingham and Mrs. E. A. McPherson presided at the silver punch bowl.

Receiving the many guests who called between the hours of 7 until 8:30 p.m. were Mrs. Wilkins wearing a pale blue lace with a pink orchid and Mrs. Courtney wearing a sea green sheath and a white orchid, while Miss Eloise Cann, principal of the school, wore a bright pink sheer with a white orchid.

The retiring teachers were presented identical silver lace bon bon dishes appropriately inscribed.

Old-Fashioned Prints Appear In Apparel

One of the prettiest ways to dress this summer is by using all the old - fashioned points which are seen in separates and dresses.

Country prints, for example, either copy or take their inspiration from various authentic sources. There are the bright, gay French provincial florals, neatly precise, mixing half a dozen colors. These are made up into tailored shirts.

There are blouses in American colonial prints. Dressier ones use the formal patterns of eighteenth-century wallpapers and upholstery fabrics.

Daytime blouses use Pennsylvania Dutch and homespun motifs, with small, bright flowers on dark grounds. Or geometric patterns are made up with the rectangles filled with pioneer reminders: powder horns, buffalo, a log cabin.

Miss McDonald Engaged To Wed Johnny Mathis

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. McDonald, 1600 Jonesboro Road, West Monroe of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Flora Elaine, to Johnny L. Mathis, 1000 N. Fifth, Monroe. He is the son of Mrs. Neva Mathis of Crowville and the late Arthur E. Mathis.

The wedding is planned for July 1 at 3 p.m. in Fair Park Baptist Church of West Monroe. Rev. Pat Loftin, pastor of Lamar Baptist Church, Delhi, will officiate.

Serving as maid of honor will be Miss Patricia Stovall and best man will be Pfc. Arthur L. Mathis, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, brother of the prospective bridegroom.

Miss McDonald is the granddaughter of Mrs. Minnie Welch Ferrand and the late Joseph H. Ferrand and of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McDonald. She is a graduate of West Monroe High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

Mr. Mathis graduated from Crowville High School and attended B. M. I. of Monroe. He is the grandson of L. E. Brannin and the late Mrs. Brannin and the late Mr. and Mrs. John H. Mathis, and is presently employed as an accountant in Monroe.

Homemakers HD Observes Week

The Better Homemakers Home Demonstration Club celebrated National Home Demonstration Week with varied activities.

Mrs. Kenneth W. Smith gave a history of the club over a local radio station, starting with a history of the club over a local radio station, starting with a small membership in 1954 to a first place winner in 1961. A window display was arranged in a local store, showing numerous articles made by members.

A workshop was held in the home of Mrs. Frank Buce at which time articles for the fair booth were made. The home of Mrs. P. O. Bedgood was scene of a conservational hour and a picnic was also held by the group. Books were distributed by members to the children's ward at Conway Hospital and flowers were placed in the Edgewood Baptist Church with several members attending services in a body.

There were entries from the club in the annual dress revue held at the agricultural building, including adult and children's clothing.

Miss Morgan, Mr. Voelkel Plan Mid-July Wedding

Engagement of Miss Margaret Diana Morgan, of Monroe to Stephen Louis Voelkel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Voelkel Sr., of New Orleans, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Arol Morgan of Decatur, Alabama.

Miss Morgan is a graduate of Louisiana State University, where she was a member of the Honor Council, chairman of the music committee for the LSU Centennial Celebration, vice - president of Tau Beta Sigma, secretary of Sigma Alpha Iota, and elected to Who's Who among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

The bride - elect received her master's degree from Eastman School of Music, and is presently employed as an instructor at Northeast Louisiana State College, where she is Delta Omicron sponsor.

Busy Executive Can Tote Desk

Italian handbag designers have not only accepted the idea of the working woman, they have concluded that she never stops working.

One of the new styles for fall is a desk the busy lady executive can tuck under her arm while traveling.

Actually it's a tapestry covered traveling bag lined with leather. Along with the usual paraphernalia packed into a woman's purse, there is a handy lap desk, stationery and small filing compartment that allows her to set up shop on land, sea, or in the air

Musical Coterie Honors Miss Jonnie Bankhead

At its final meeting of the year, the Musical Coterie honored Miss Jonnie Bankhead by presenting her with its "Musical Coterie Spoon," in recognition of her large share in building the string program in Monroe, which has culminated in the Monroe Youth Symphony orchestra.

The meeting held May 11 in the home of Mrs. Felix Willey, was conducted by Mrs J G Caldwell.

In presenting the spoon to Miss Bankhead, Mrs. B D Allbritton, chairman of the 1961-62 yearbook committee, said the Musical Coterie had been given an award of merit by the Federation of Music Clubs for its support of the Federation's "Crusade for Strings."

Mrs H H Land, chairman of the 1962-63 yearbook committee announced the theme for next year's musical study, "A History of Musical Thought in the 19th Century," using the text "Music in the Romantic Era," by Alfred Einstein An appropriate picture, "Girl With Mandolin," by Jean Baptiste Corot, constitutes the cover of the new year book In addition to Mrs. Land, members of the committee were Mrs. Grayson Guthrie Jr , Mrs Estelle Sanders and Mrs Eloise Stanhope

Announcement was made of a Faculty Chamber Music Recital Sunday, May 20 at 3 p m at the student center of Louisiana Tech The program will consist of Beethoven C minor trio, Dr John Luce, violinist, Elizabeth Martin, cellist, Dr Marshall Bretz, pianist, "Variations," by Schroder and "Duet with Two Eyeglasses Obligatto," by Beethoven, played by Elizabeth Martin and her sister, Jean Harter, guest violinist, Brahms trio, Joe G Sheppard, clarinetist; Elizabeth Martin, cellist and Dr Marshall Bretz, pianist

Members were invited to attend the May 18 concert of the Ouachita Parish high school choir, under direction of Mrs Lloydelle Thomas.

Mrs Henry Whitfield concluded the study for the year in "A report by the Rapporteurgeneral of the International Conference on the Role and Place of Music in the Education of Youth and Adults."

The contemporary music program consisted of "While the Grown-up People Talk," and "What the Dwarf Said to Me," from "Childhood Images," by Dominago Santa Cruz, played by Mrs H G McDonald, pianist; "Extinguish My Eyes," sung by Mrs LeRoy Anspach; "Moods," played by Eloise Stanhope; "Lord of the Universe," sung by Mrs F V Allison ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Carolyn Carpenter to Robert D. Addington, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Williams of Winnfield, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Carpenter of Dodson. The wedding will take place Friday, June 15 at 7:30 p.m. in Welcome Home Baptist Church of Hudson with the Rev. E. B. Barton officiating.

Contemporary Female Travels Right — Light

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Good riddance to the day when we women needed 20 trunks to contain our vacation gear

The contemporary female travels light — and right, taking along just enough to cover all activities and occasions.

Trickery's not involved in the proper choice The formula for the wardrobe that's just right for your trip Take just what you need

To help you pack the correct togs for vactions from Maine to Mandalay, any month of the year, fashion authorities Eleanor Lambert and Francie Hughes have picked the rains of experienced travelers

What they learned is neatly packaged in a booklet — "Travel In Style" — published as part of a consumer service program sponsored by the Label Unit of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

Highlights from the booklet on planning, picking and packing your traveling togs:

—the successful travel wardrobe is like any other good wardrobe comfortable, correct, becoming, fashionable without being bizarre —accessories — shoes, bags, gloves, hats — should go well with your entire wardrobe.

—the basic travel wardrobe includes two coats, a wool or tweed suit, the good black dress, the dress with matching jacket or sweater, the shirtwaist dress, a knit dress, separates.

—an extra sweater or large scarf is a comfort on a plane. Stow it in the soft tote bag you carry on board and place beside your seat.

—on shipboard, life is a steady and exciting round of dressing up. You wear fresh casual clothes before dinner and evening clothes later.

—aboard a ship, you need a warm coat for day and a warm wrap for evening. And since shipboard acquaintances often ripen into real romance, wear you prettiest clothes. But pare down your selection to the minimum.

—getting to your distination by plane, train or car, wear clothes that sit well, don't ride up or balloon at the back. The knitted dress and jacket, the easy tweed suit and the printed spectator sports dress are examples of clothes that travel well.

If you're one of the lucky ones going to Europe for your vacation, remember that most European capitals are cosmopolitan. To be in character, wear your most sophisticated city clothes

For daytime abroad your town coat and town suit should be well cut, well tailored and becoming

Your after five clothes should be ultra pretty Take, for example, a silk suit for restaurant dining and the theater

For special events, tote a low cut dinner dress and an evening dress of lace, chiffon, jersey or flowered print taffeta

For easy packing, the fashion authorities recommend that you begin by laying out in one room everything you plan to take with you

Try to visualize every costume complete. Do you have the right foundation garments? Does it need a slip or a half-slip? Will it go with the shoes you plan to take?

Next, group things together by categories — lingerie, handkerchiefs, scarves, bags, gloves, jewelry. Put the lingerie in a plastic bag which you can lift out of your suitcase complete and into a dresser drawer

Pack cosmetics and medicines in a water-proof toilet kit. Never pack liquids like perfume or face lotion loose in your suit case. It can mean disaster if they spill.

Don't forget to pack liquid soap or soap flakes for washing out your drip-dry clothes.

Women Commit Fashion Sins

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Every year a goodly number of women commit color sins which ruin whatever clothes choices they have made. This spring has been the year of the awful yellows and the screaming oranges.

Granted that yellows and oranges were the big fashion colors. Granted that many of them were beautiful shades. Then where did all the bad ones come from?

Or perhaps it's the way women wear them. A favorite horror has been the use of accessories in one color to accompany the other. There is something peculiarly repulsive about orange gloves, shoes and plastic handbag with a lurid yellow suit.

MISS LEONE DIANE HOBSON

MISS LOU SHEPPARD

Diane Hobson To Become June Bride Of Mr. Clark

Mr. and Mrs. Al Hobson of Hodge, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Leone Diane to George Harold Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clark, also of Hodge.

The couple will exchange wedding vows June 2 at 2 p.m. in Hodge Methodist Church. Rev. Terrell T. Lowe will officiate.

Miss Hobson has chosen Miss Brenda Honeycutt of Jonesboro as maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Janette Gray of North Hodge and Miss Carolyn Plummer of Jonesboro, with Dianne Adcock, Jonesboro, to serve as flower girl.

Edgar Clark will attend his brother as best man and ushers will be Glenn Walsworth and Fred Turner, both of Hodge. Candlelighters will be Al Hobson Jr. and Dale Hobson, brothers of the bride - elect.

Miss Hobson is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Wells of Little Rock, Ark., and Mrs. W. G. Hobson and the late Mr. Hobson of Hodge and the great granddaughter of I. R. Weaver of Hodge. She is a student at Louisiana Tech and plans to enter Centenary College, Shreveport, in the fall.

Mr. Clark is the grandson of Mrs. Ella Drummond of Hodge. He is a graduate of Louisiana Tech and is employed in the field of education in Shreveport.

Fashion Is Varied This Season

Fashion, with variety this season, is every woman's game. Not that 'anything goes' in the present potpourri . . . only what melts down into a new soft - sell flattery . . . for flattery's the thing . . . the purpose of the whole game.

To sum up this season of spring into summer, shapes are distinctly more humanized . . . with a liquid, careless grace. Paris is enthusiastic about clothes with greater "flexibility." With warm weather only a lilac or two away, blithe dresses with carefree lines will enjoy life early. Sometimes they are made in splendidly floaty fabrics . . sometimes in clinging jerseys . . . in prints that vary from wide - spaced pastel plaids to bouquests of flowers scattered profusely on clear white grounds.

Lou Sheppard, Milton Linder Plan Nuptials

June 1 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Lou Sheppard and Milton Linder, whose forthcoming marriage is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. York Earl Sheppard of Enterprise. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Linder of Wisner.

The wedding will take place in the New Ouachita Baptist Church in Enterprise at 6 p.m.

Chosen as attendants by the bride - elect are Mrs. Donna Guilbeau of Crowley, matron of honor; Mrs. Jean Cheek of Haynesville, Miss Adrian Arnard, Jonesville, bridesmaids: Miss Johnnie Gail Hodges and Miss Geraldine McVay, Enterprise, junior bridesmaids. Flower girl will be Miss Debbie Ann Sledge, Enterprise, cousin of the bride - elect, and ring-bearer will be her brother, Johnny Sheppard, Enterprise.

Candlelighters will be Miss Donna Sledge, Delhi and Miss Beverly Sledge, Newport, Tenn., both cousins of the bride-elect.

Don Cheek of Monroe, will serve as best man for Mr. Linder and groomsmen are to be Keith Guice, Sicily Island; Carvel White of Jonesville and ushers will be brothers of the bride-elect, Frank Sheppard of York E Sheppard Jr. both of Enterprise.

Sea Fashions

When it comes to playing the summer game, the biggest on-the-sea fashion is the sun - struck bathing suit with pants slouched far away from its halter-strapped top. Getting the most for your sun also consists of wearing lean pants or a flare of a skirt, at a new "gunbelt" low. Midriff tops have the same get - away - from-it-all attitude. Fabrics are fun! Crazy - quilt, calico and bandana prints. Cotton duck, double knits, crepes.

Jewelry Can Be Flattering With Correct Choice

Girls! Do you know what jewelry goes where and when, and how to make it complement the long, short or dieting figure?

To look your best when wearing jewelry here are a few hints passed along by Miss Violet Hackim, fashion coordinator.

She suggests you plan your selection for the time of day and aim for smartness and good taste, plus individuality. "A good point to remember is that the total look must be harmonious."

The one piece of classic jewelry that is correct at all times is pearls. "When in doubt wear pearls," Miss Hackim advises. The pearl choker goes everywhere — to school, a party or to a formal affair. A chocker may be worn with a sweater, a suit or a party dress and a dainty pearl bracelet and small earrings to match give an extra touch.

Pearls must be chosen carefully. If you're petite the smaller size pearls are correct; don't burden yourself with the large ones unless you're a pretty substantial type of girl.

Beads are hard to beat for beauty of color, and they can be worn either short or long depending on your outfit, but make sure they match or blend with the color of what you are wearing. With casuals or sweaters a long gold chain with pendant is very smart.

Earrings and rhinestone jewelry are out when school is in, and should be reserved until after five, Miss Hackim warns. Wear earrings to suit the particular shape of your face and always try to wear a color to flatter the color of your eyes. Be discreet with rhinestone jewelry, a single pin with matching earrings is tasteful.

Bracelets are always good around the clock, but rings on your fingers should be simple. A simply set birthstone or a school ring is lady - like.

This jewelry can be used to complement a figure by keeping these tips in mind, Miss Hackim added. If you're very slim let jewelry soften your lines. Try wearing a large choker high on the throat and a group of jangling bracelets on your arm. Take advantage of a tiny waist with a pin at the midriff.

If you're watching your diet let slim dangle earrings create an oval of your face. Wear longer graduated pearls, and remember bracelets should be worn on only one wrist and never more than two at a time. With a pin be sure it is placed low at the neckline or off center.

Jewelry, with a little care, can be used to "great advantage" by every girl who wants to look her best, Miss Hackim adds.

Moment Musical Coterie Meets At Country Club

The Moment Musical Coterie held its monthly meeting at Bayou DeSiard Country Club with Susan Willey, Cathy Smith and Peggy Sue Whitfield as hostesses.

After a short social hour, the president called the meeting to order and the pledge was read in unison. The program featured piano selections as follows March of the Toy Soldier - Tschaikowsky by Annice Amman and Lari Lou Bewick; Fiddle Tunes - Robert Graham by Annie Laurie Caldwell and Sally Kilpatrick; Cassons Go Rolling Along by Peggy Sue Whitfield; Moonlight Enchantment - Giaranni by Leslie Faucett; Sonata No. 5, Mozart by True Guerriero; Sonata - Haydn by Jenny Jackson; Elfin Dance-Grieg by Rebo King; The Organ by Lynn Loflin; Ride in the Snow by Cathy Smith; A Little Song-The Clown Kabalevsky by Susan Willey.

Other members present were Linda Altenberg, Rowena Altenberg, Terry Ann Brown, Jennifer Frazer, Wanda Glenn, Debbie Hamilton, Fran Harbuck, Carolyn Maxwell, Carol Salley and Emily Seegers.

CRISP SALAD 5a

Crisp Salad

Want that lettuce salad to taste extra good? Add toothpick size strips of cheese and toss with dressing, then sprinkle crumbled crisply cooked bacon over the top.

Clean Blender

The easy way to clean an electric blender is to add a little water and detergent to the container and blend, then rinse a couple of times and drain.

BRIDES PREFER TO HEAD SOUTH

NEW YORK (UPI) — Florida rates as the number one honeymoon state, prospective brides reported in a "Modern Bride" magazine survey.

The Pocono Mountains rated number two. Other popular sites included Bermuda, the Bahamas, the Caribbean, Niagara Falls and New York State, the West Coast, Southeast and New England — in that order.

Sixty per cent of the brides intended to spend from one to seven days honeymooning; 33 per cent, eight to 15 days; and seven per cent, from 16 to 31 days.

Eleven per cent said they intend to spend $1,000 during the honeymoon. More — 69 per cent — said they will spend up to $500

Vinyl Floors Go Formal In Ornate Style

By JOYCE SHULLER

CHICAGO (UPI) — Vinyl flooring has gone ornate this year and moved beyond the kitchen into the most formal of living and dining rooms.

Many of the newly - elegant vinyl tiles reflect the trend toward Mediterranean design in home furnishings. Some resemble marble, mosaic, pre - cast slabs of Italian travertine, the stone of Roman ruins.

Others are overlaid with swirls of metallic gold and silver and sprinkled with jewel-colored chips on tones of onyx, ruby red, amethyst and opal.

One such pattern, called "Gold Spun," reproduces the decorative page found inside the cover of a rare book on the Civil War. It is a lacy network of gold overlaying solid color.

Even newer are the fabric-patterned vinyl tiles in florals, stripes, geometric designs and colonial provincial prints that match drapery or upholstery fabrics. They are custom - made to match any fabric.

Another manufacturer achieves the same effect by sealing actual fabric into rubber - based oversize vinyl tiles. Among the sealed - in fabrics are violet lace with a white border and lilac and white paisley, both suggested for period bedrooms.

Simplest of the new vinyl tiles are the marble - patterned ones. Available in both pastels and deeper hues, they're suitable for counter tops, for facing bath and dressing room cabinets, and for flooring.

Most elaborate vinyl tiles underfoot are the mosaic - patterns, intricately swirled arrangements of tiny tiles, patterned after Byzantine art forms. They make attractive wall coverings as well as elegant flooring.

Brass Cleaner

Here's a way to clean brass candlesticks, drawer pulls, or any brass accessory: Soak overnight in a solution of vinegar and salt. Then scrub with a small brush, wash in hot soap or detergent suds, rinse, and dry thoroughly.

MISS LEONE DIANE HOBSON

MISS LOU SHEPPARD

Diane Hobson To Become June Bride Of Mr. Clark

Mr. and Mrs. Al Hobson of Hodge, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Leone Diane to George Harold Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clark, also of Hodge.

The couple will exchange wedding vows June 2 at 2 p.m. in Hodge Methodist Church. Rev. Terrell T. Lowe will officiate.

Miss Hobson has chosen Miss Brenda Honeycutt of Jonesboro as maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Janette Gray of North Hodge and Miss Carolyn Plummer of Jonesboro, with Dianne Adcock, Jonesboro, to serve as flower girl.

Edgar Clark will attend his brother as best man and ushers will be Glenn Walsworth and Fred Turner, both of Hodge. Candlelighters will be Al Hobson Jr. and Dale Hobson, brothers of the bride - elect.

Miss Hobson is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Wells of Little Rock, Ark., and Mrs. W. G. Hobson and the late Mr. Hobson of Hodge and the great granddaughter of I. R. Weaver of Hodge. She is a student at Louisiana Tech and plans to enter Centenary College, Shreveport, in the fall.

Mr. Clark is the grandson of Mrs. Ella Drummond of Hodge. He is a graduate of Louisiana Tech and is employed in the field of education in Shreveport.

Fashion Is Varied This Season

Fashion, with variety this season, is every woman's game. Not that 'anything goes' in the present potpourri . . . only what melts down into a new soft - sell flattery . . . for flattery's the thing . . . the purpose of the whole game.

To sum up this season of spring into summer, shapes are distinctly more humanized . . . with a liquid, careless grace. Paris is enthusiastic about clothes with greater "flexibility." With warm weather only a lilac or two away, blithe dresses with carefree lines will enjoy life early. Sometimes they are made in splendidly floaty fabrics . . sometimes in clinging jerseys . . . in prints that vary from wide - spaced pastel plaids to bouquests of flowers scattered profusely on clear white grounds.

Lou Sheppard, Milton Linder Plan Nuptials

June 1 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Lou Sheppard and Milton Linder, whose forthcoming marriage is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. York Earl Sheppard of Enterprise. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Linder of Wisner.

The wedding will take place in the New Ouachita Baptist Church in Enterprise at 6 p.m.

Chosen as attendants by the bride - elect are Mrs. Donna Guilbeau of Crowley, matron of honor; Mrs. Jean Cheek of Haynesville, Miss Adrian Arnard, Jonesville, bridesmaids; Miss Johnnie Gail Hodges and Miss Geraldine McVay, Enterprise, junior bridesmaids. Flower girl will be Miss Debbie Ann Sledge, Enterprise, cousin of the bride - elect, and ring-bearer will be her brother, Johnny Sheppard, Enterprise.

Candlelighters will be Miss Donna Sledge, Delhi and Miss Beverly Sledge, Newport, Tenn., both cousins of the bride-elect.

Don Cheek of Monroe, will serve as best man for Mr. Linder and groomsmen are to be Keith Guice, Sicily Island; Carvel White of Jonesville and ushers will be brothers of the bride-elect, Frank Sheppard of York E Sheppard Jr. both of Enterprise.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Winning Displays In Arrangements

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

Mrs. Wilbur C. McDonald presented top award winning arrangements from the 10th Annual Flower Show of the Jonesboro-Hodge Garden Club held recently in Jonesboro.

The theme of the show was "One's Self."

The first design presented by Mrs. McDonald on the T.V. noon show was entitled "The Lonely Sea," made by Mrs. Eugene Hearne. The materials used to interpret this design were most interesting.

A typical seaside scene was made on a rectangular board. Sand was placed in a natural manner to depict the sea shore, while glass tinted blue resembled the sea. A lonely and dejected looking ceramic fisherman sat on the shore mending a minature fish net, with only the sand, the sea, a few shells and a very interesting piece of driftwood for company.

UNUSUAL SKILL

Mrs. Hearne executed unusual skill in interpreting this title "The Lonely Sea." Enough to rate a blue ribbon.

Next, an all green foliage design made by Mrs. Charles Barnum, was shown by Mrs. McDonald. This arrangement contained unusual material. Calla foliage was used for the line in a footed dark green metal container. Dark green rough textured hollyhock foliage forming a rosette was used to accent the focal area.

The main interest in this area was a cluster of green grapes in two shades of green, hanging partly over the rim of the container. These grapes were made of marbles wrapped in plastic-film and wired on stems wrapped with corsage tape, fashioned into a very realistic bunch of grapes. This design also rated a blue ribbon.

"Moments to Remember," was the title of the next design, a still life made by Mrs. Ann Mooney. This design received the "award of distinction" in it's class in the show. A still life arrangement is a composition in which flowers or plant materials take a secondary, but, complementary role, and, the main interest issues from extraneous objects or materials.

A lovely Bali dancer was selected first to establish the motif or theme. A background of draped velvet in olive green color and harmonious print combined blended perfectly with the figurine and provided interesting lines, both in height and width. To the right of the dancer was placed a tall brass container of yellow daylillies. This contained u s e d alone, in keeping with the feeling of the dancer, provided needed contrast in texture. To achieve unity the composition was placed on a piece of light beige carpet. It was lovely in every detail.

"Flowers by Candlelight," the Tri-Color award winner was made by Miss Valerie Barnum. An old candle mold was used to one side on an oval shaped black wooden The mold was painted black and brushed with green. The base was given the same treatment.

PINE CANDLES

Pine candles were used for the line, placed in a needle point holder at the base of the mold. Two tall red candles were used for added height behind the pine. Red amoryllis buds followed the line of the pine down to the open blossoms used at the base of the design. It was a very striking arrangement in this complimentary color scheme.

A formal corsage made by Mrs. Charles Barnum received the Silver Trophy Award. Very unusual materials were used in this corsage. The blossoms of the Chinese evergreen shaded in color from light creamy beige to chartreuse green tied with light green ribbon and filled with light green net formed this very delicate corsage.

The material has been one that holds up marvelously. The corsage seemed in perfect condition at the time of the T. V. show, had been made since May 2, two weeks previous, almost unbelievable.

Lovely horticulture specimens were displayed on this show. The last of the iris in her yard, so Mrs. McDonald explained, was the beautiful pink-into-beige "Cherry Flip." Pink and red double poppies were grown by Mrs. Charles Barnum and Miss Valerie Barnum. Mrs. Barnum also sent a sample of her large shasta daisies and blue cornflowers.

Thanks to Mrs. McDonald for presenting this lovely show from Jonesboro - Hodge Garden Club. It has been a real treat to all of us who saw it, and I hope you were one of the lucky ones.

This week, watch for our next T.V. and Garden Center show coming to us from the Rayville Garden Club, the president of which is Mrs. David Burk Sr.

Jet Fighter Writes Poem, Then Defects

By SHULLEN SHAW

TAIPEI (UPI)—
"I have my hopes,
"And I have my wishes.
"I also have strong wings
"That will carry me to a faraway place."

The author of this poem was Lieut. Liu Cheng - Sze, a handsome jet fighter pilot in the Chinese Communist air force. He was known as the poet of his squadron.

His political officers liked the poem so much they recommend it to "Chinese Youth," an official magazine of the Peiping regime. It was published in November, 1957.

UNAWARE

The political officers, however, did not know Liu's secret hopes and wishes until it was too late.

On March 3, Liu flew "far away" from the China mainland on the "strong wings" of a Russian-built MIG-15.

He landed at a Nationalist Chinese air force base on Formosa to become the first Red Chinese air force pilot to defect safely to the Nationalists.

"I have eventually fulfilled the hopes and wishes I have cherished for so many years," the 25-year-old Liu told reporters.

Liu's 50-minute dash to freedom also made him a millionaire in terms of Chinese dollars.

He was awarded 1,000 ounces of gold and made a first lieutenant in the Nationalist air force.

"This I did not dream of," Liu said. "I expected freedom, but also hardship on Taiwan. They told us in political classes that the government and the people on Taiwan were all very, very poor."

Liu's parents were farmers. When he was 12 years old, the Communists swept over the China mainland while he was studying in a primary school in his hometown of Tientung in Kwangsi Province.

Several red soldiers marched into Liu's classroom one day and took away his Chinese language teacher, an old man much admired by his students.

HEAD DISPLAYED

The teacher, accused of being a landlord, was beheaded several days later. For days his head was displayed on a pole in the city wall.

All but two of the teachers in Liu's school were arrested and either killed or sent away to unknown destinations.

When Liu was attending a Red Chinese air force academy, his mother became ill and sent for him. He obtained leave and rushed home, but his mother died. Neighbors told him his mother died of malnutrition, the same "disease" from which his father had died a few months earlier.

When he finally realized that his parents actually had died from starvation, his feelings toward the Communists changed from disappointment to hatred. It was then he decided secretly to fly to Formosa and join the forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

PLANS

Liu started to make his defection plans while stationed at Luchiao in Chekiang Province about 250 miles northwest of Formosa.

One night he accidentally picked up on his radio a Nationalist Chinese broadcast beamed at Red China. He learned that two Red Chinese civil aviation pilots had defected to the Republic of Korea in a biplane and were later evacuated to Formosa. He also learned detailed instructions on how to defect to Formosa by plane.

"I took mental notes of the instruction and memorized every word of it," Liu said. "I knew then that I would be able to make it."

His chance came when he was ordered to fly a solo training mission.

"After the Luchiao air base disappeared from my sight," he said, "I changed the course of flight, and also the course of my life, and headed directly for the Taiwan Strait."

The Nationalist Chinese air force, which had long been anticipating defecting Red planes, picked up on radar Liu's lone plane flying on the course Red pilots had been instructed to take in their approach to Formosa.

Nationalist air force authorities had no doubt then about Liu's intention. They immediately sent four F86 Sabrejets to escort Liu and to intercept any Communist planes which might be chasing Liu.

Liu recalled he was excited and nervous when he climbed out of his plane.

"When the first officer approached me and extended h i s hand," Liu said. "I handed my pistol to him."

Baths Are Big Business In West Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) —With warm weather hundreds of thousands of Germans are off to the baths—sulphur baths, salt baths, radioactive baths, mud baths, paraffin baths, cold water baths and sea water baths.

Germany's spas have become one of the great little industries of this highly industrialized society. There are more than 200.

Some take the baths at their own expense, but most take the cure at the expense of insurance companies and employers.

"Baths are always good psychologically," says an American doctor practicing in Germany.

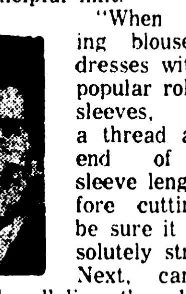
SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Winner of this week's Tailor Trix pressing board was Mrs. Iva Combs, Roseburg, Oreg., who sent this helpful hint.



"When making blouses or dresses with the popular roll - up sleeves, draw a thread at the end of the sleeve length before cutting to be sure it is absolutely straight. Next, carefully mark each roll line, then draw a thread from each of these marks. Do the same for each sleeve. This way, you will never have to guess where to roll your sleeve when ironing them and they will always be even. The drawn thread doesn't show when wearing garment because it will be exactly on the fold of your material."

CONVERT SWEATER

"Dear Eunice Farmer,

"Is it possible to make a short-sleeved, cardigan type sweater from a slipover sweater? It is so hard to find the right color in this type of sweater, to match a dress, although it often is possible to buy a short - sleeved slipover."

Mrs. B. C.

Dear Mrs. B. C.:

Yes, this is possible and not too difficult. However, you must be very careful to take the proper precautions before cutting into the sweater.

First, mark the exact center front of the sweater by folding it in half. Mark the center by hand-basting with a colored thread.

Second, baste a strip of seam tape on the wrong side of the sweater, directly over your center front.

Third, use a short machine stitch to stitch about four rows of stitching down the center of your sweater. Now carefully cut the sweater at the center front, through the seam binding.

If you are going to bind the front edges with part of your garment fabric, you may place the binding over the cut edges of the sweater without trimming any of the sweater away. If you wish to finish the two front edges with grosgrain ribbon, turn the cut edge of the sweater over about ¼ inch and machine stitch on each side. Button-holes can be made through the grosgrain ribbon.

There are many novel ways of trimming sweaters. You can fold back the sweater at the neckline and make a sailor collar for a nautical look. You can add a Peter Pan type collar to match your dress. If you think of some very unusual way to coordinate your sweater with your dress, please send us your ideas.

ARMHOLE FACING

"Dear Eunice Farmer,

"Whenever I use a strip of bias to finish the neckline or armholes of a dress, it seems impossible for me to get it to stay flat. My dress always wrinkles at the lower edge of the bias facing. There must be something I do or don't do that causes this, and I need help."

Mrs. P. V.

Dear Mrs. P. V.:

It sounds to me like you are pulling the bias facing too tight. You must ease the bias facing as you pin it to the neck edge or the armholes. Remember, the lower edge of the bias must be flat and it will be only if you have allowed enough fabric for this.

PRINCESS STYLE

"Dear Eunice,

"When I make a fitted princess style dress, how can I take the fullness out of the upper part of the back? The only way I can do this is by taking the whole dress up at the shoulders and it is so much extra work."

Mrs. P. E. H.

Dear Mrs. P. E. H.:

Your dress is too long waisted and, although this is a very easy pattern adjustment to make, it is necessary to do it before cutting the dress.

Tie a string very tightly around your waistline. Have someone measure you from the shoulder, over the bust and to the string in front. Do the same in the back. Since a princess style dress must fit smoothly at the waist, it can't have any extra fabric for ease such as you would need for a dress with a belt.

Now measure your pattern from seam line to seam line at exactly the same place you measured yourself. They must be the same length. If the bodice is too long or too short, the correction must be made about 3 inches above the waistline.

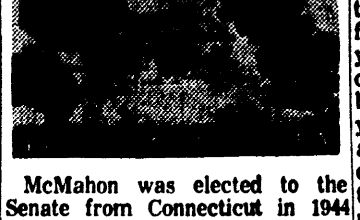
Dear Fans,

If you are machine stitching the last step of your Zipper, making welt seams, or edge stitching the outer edges of your garment, turn your garment INSIDE OUT. You will still do the machine stitching on the RIGHT side of the garment, but it will feed into the machine much easier since your garment will lie flat in this position.

Please send your sewing "tips" to Sew Simple. They will all be considered in awarding a Tailor Trix Pressing Board for the best "tip." Send all your questions to Sew Simple, in care of Monroe Morning World.

Stamp News

The late Sen. Brien McMahon, father of the Atomic Energy Act, will be honored on a new U. S. commemorative stamp scheduled for issuance July 28. It will be placed on First Day Sale in Norwalk, Conn., Sen. McMahon's birthplace.



McMahon was elected to the Senate from Connecticut in 1944 and re - elected in 1950, serving from Jan. 3, 1945, until his death in Washington, D. C., July 28 1952. He was the first chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy.

Details as to the design of the stamp and procedures for obtaining First Day Covers will be announced in the column shortly.

From the area "Down Under" in the South Pacific comes word that a new set of commemorative stamps will be issued in Papua and New Guinea on July 9 to mark the fifth South Pacific Conference. The denominations will be 5d, 1-6d and 2-6d with a common design.

Featured on the stamp will be a map of the South Pacific area indicating all of the island groups. At the left will be seen a portion of the Australian Continent. At the right will be a native village area with swaying coconut palms. The wording: "Fifth South Pacific Conference Pago Pago 1962" appears at the top.

Tunisia has issued a new set of two stamps commemorating Africa Day, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. The 50 mil. designed by M. Hatim El-mekki, shows a young native smiling. The new map of Africa is in the background. The 100 mil, designed by M. Ridha Ben Abdallah, portrays a native embracing the map of Africa.

Norway has issued a new 150 ore brown and blue stamp honoring the 50th anniversary of aviation in that country. Featured on the new adhesive is the first plane to fly in Norway, circa 1912.

The Portuguese colonies have announced the issuance of stamps to complete the series of 48 sport stamps for the various colonies. Macau's stamps will depict golf, wrestling, table tennis motor cycling, relay racing and tennis. Timor will feature bird hunting, steeple chasing, swimming, gymnastics, football and big game hunting. Other colonies issuing stamps with this theme have been Angola, Cape Verde, Guinea, India, Mozambique, and St. Thomas and Prince Islands.

Stamp collectors will be interested in a new book "The Romance of the Postage Stamp" by Gustav Schenk which has just been published. Schenk has written an absorbing history of stamps and postal services. It is a book for the general collector and tells how to read the history of a country from its stamps. The book was translated from the German by Mervin Savill. (Doubleday & Co. $4.95).

The United Nations will issue a memorial stamp on Sept. 18 honoring the late Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold and those who died with him in the plane crash in Africa. There will be two denominations in this set. Dates and designs will be announced soon.

Many Colors In Hibiscus

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

The hibiscus is an excellent plant to give color to the landscape during the summer months. There are ever so many colors to select from and now until the first of June is planting time. If yellow is the color you desire, crested yellow is considered the best double yellow. The double yellows are not likely to bloom as profusely as some of the other varieties. Other yellow varieties are Butterfly, Crow of Bahemia, Anderson's 161, or Hendry's 111.

The most outstanding variety, I believe, is Kona. It produces very large double pink blooms. It is a vigorous grower and a profuse bloomer. If you choose only one variety, this is an excellent one to try. Other double pinks are Pride of Hankin, and Peach Blow. Pride of Hankin is a very vigorous upright grower and the blossom is medium in size and is a coral pink. Peach Blow is probably not as good as the other two because the blooms appear to be faded.

DOUBLE VARIETIES

If you want red in your landscape Celia and Lambert's Red are both beautiful double varieties. The color of the flowers of Celia is on the orange side, so if you want a dark red, choose Lambert's Red.

Under good conditions hibiscus plants will make rapid growth during hot weather. These plants like sun and plenty of water. As with other plants, when watering is done it should be done thoroughly and not too frequently. The leaves of the plant should not be allowed to wilt. So if you need to add color, visit your nurseryman for some hibiscus plants.

Other garden jobs are to spray or dust weekly to control diseases and insects on roses; cultivate to control weeds and grasses and to prevent the soil from becoming too compact. If the soil becomes too compact, the plants may suffer because of insufficient oxygen to supply the needs of the roots. Only light cultivation should be given so as not to disturb the roots.

Dust gladiolus with five per cent DDT for thrips. If you have not fertilized your shrubs, use one - half cup of 8-8-8 per square yard of area covered by the shrub.

CLOTHING WORKSHOP

Our last adult clothing workshop for this year will be held at the Agricultural Building June 5-7. If you, Mrs. Homemaker, are interested in learning to sew, call our office, FA 3-2251, and get the details. We have eight electric machines and the first eight who enroll may use these. So, if you do not want to bring a machine be sure to call us real soon. The auditorium is air conditioned so will be a comfortable place to work. When you call to enroll, the secretary will mail you a list of pattern numbers to select from. These are certain construction problems which I plan to teach, set - in sleeve, collar or facings, zippers, and making a belt. This is open to any homemaker in Ouachita Parish. So, if you want to learn to make clothes for your family, we will be glad to help you. This will be our eleventh workshop for the year.

WASH AND WEAR

The term wash and wear is no longer a rare expression applied to one type of easy - care clothing. But to get the most satisfaction and pleasure from owning these garments you must wash them correctly. Without correct care the term wash and wear could be applied to very few garments. Remember wrinkles are put into garments by heat. Pressure secret, then, is to eliminate wear wrinkles and develop as few wash wrinkles as possible.

Resin treated cottons and man-made fibers are laundered differently. When a fabric is a blend, wash it as if it were 100 per cent of the predominant fiber. Soil does not penetrate man - made fiber. It remains on the surface. Since hot water causes wrinkles, it is not necessary to wash man -made fibers in hot suds. Cold water will clean them satisfactorily. Dry heat of a dryer will relax the wear wrinkles since cold water will not remove them.

Resin finishes increase soil resistance, but natural fibers absorb soil readily. You must use warm water to remove it. By hanging these garments to dry on non - rusting hangers with some moisture still in the garments the wrinkles will be more apt to come out.

MILDEW

To remove mildew from leather shoes, gloves and purses, the U. S. Department of Agriculture research service suggests wiping the articles with a cloth moistened in a solution of one cup of denatured or rubbing alcohol and one cup water. Dry in an airy place. Mildew in Louisiana is a problem many must deal with.

A THOUGHT

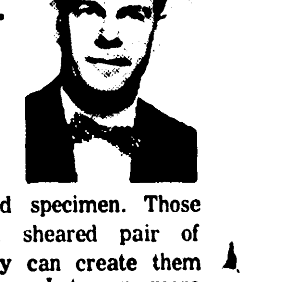
SOUTHERN GARDENER

Great Growth Spurt Is Over



By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The great spurt of spring growth is over on trees and shrubs. The major growth for the year has already been made, and the new, green branches and twigs are beginning to harden up and become woody.

This is the time, before the summer rains stimulate the second growth to shape (and this does not mean to shear) any trees and shrubs that may need it. Most gardeners seem to be afraid to do anything to their plants in this stage, but many shrubs can be improved by shaping them just a little right now.

APPEARANCE

Young trees and shrubs that receive some attention to their form in late spring will soon put on their small second growth in summer and look good when fall comes around.

Do not be afraid to tip back young hollies, yaupons, boxwoods, azalias and other broadleaf evergreens that tend to make somewhat longer growths than you want. Pinching off the end of the new growth will force them to put out from the lateral buds and begin to thicken up below and to make a denser tree or shrub.

Those rampant growers like wistaria and elaeagnus can be cut back at any time of the year. If you do not mind taking the trouble, elaeagnus can be made into a very handsome sheared or closely shaped specimen. Those who want a sheared pair of shrubs quickly can create them out of elaeagnus. Later on, more expensive slow - growing shrubs can replace them.

CONTROL

To hold back wistaria, tip the long growths back now, and then cut all of this year's growth back to within four or five leaves of the old wood in mid-July. This drastic reduction usually forces the formation of flowering buds.

It is the method used by the Japanese to produce the extra-long chains of wistaria which we see in pictures of their gardens. Wistaria is really most beautiful when it is trained from youth on a strong upright fence or frame. Few gardeners have the patience to hold back this rampant grower like this, but the trained trunks make a handsome design in winter when they are bare.

Unless they are starving or your soil is really inadequate, one feeding a year is all that is wise for rampant growers like wistaria, elaeagnus and Japanese privet. The other shrubs and trees, however, can be given a second spring feeding at the end of May or sooner. If you failed to fertilize at all this spring, make this a heavy one, but if you have already fed your plants, make it about half of the original amount.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Winning Displays In Arrangements

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

Mrs. Wilbur C. McDonald presented top award winning arrangements from the 10th Annual Flower Show of the Jonesboro-Hodge Garden Club held recently in Jonesboro.

The theme of the show was "One's Self."

The first design presented by Mrs. McDonald on the T.V. noon show was entitled "The Lonely Sea," made by Mrs. Eugene Hearne. The materials used to interpret this design were most interesting.

A typical seaside scene was made on a rectangular board. Sand was placed in a natural manner to depict the sea shore, while glass tinted blue resembled the sea. A lonely and dejected looking ceramic fisherman sat on the shore mending a minature fish net, with only the sand, the sea, a few shells and a very interesting piece of driftwood for company.

UNUSUAL SKILL

Mrs. Hearne executed unusual skill in interpreting this title "The Lonely Sea." Enough to rate a blue ribbon.

Next, an all green foliage design made by Mrs. Charles Barnum, was shown by Mrs. McDonald. This arrangement contained unusual material. Calla foliage was used for the line in a footed dark green metal container. Dark green rough textured hollyhock foliage forming a rosette was used to accent the focal area.

The main interest in this area was a cluster of green grapes in two shades of green, hanging partly over the rim of the container. These grapes were made of marbles wrapped in plastic-film and wired on stems wrapped with corsage tape, fashioned into a very realistic bunch of grapes. This design also rated a blue ribbon.

"Moments to Remember," was the title of the next design, a still life made by Mrs. Ann Mooney. This design received the "award of distinction" in it's class in the show. A still life arrangement is a composition in which flowers or plant materials take a secondary, but, complementary role, and, the main interest issues from extraneous objects or materials.

A lovely Bali dancer was selected first to establish the motif or theme. A background of draped velvet in olive green color and harmonious print combined blended perfectly with the figurine and provided interesting lines, both in height and width. To the right of the dancer was placed a tall brass container of yellow daylillies. This contained used alone, in keeping with the feeling of the dancer, provided needed contrast in texture. To achieve unity the composition was placed on a piece of light beige carpet. It was lovely in every detail.

"Flowers by Candlelight," the Tri-Color award winner was made by Miss Valerie Barnum. An old candle mold was used to one side on an oval shaped black wooden The mold was painted black and brushed with green. The base was given the same treatment.

PINE CANDLES

Pine candles were used for the line, placed in a needle point holder at the base of the mold. Two tall red candles were used for added height behind the pine. Red amoryllis buds followed the line of the pine down to the open blossoms used at the base of the design. It was a very striking arrangement in this complimentary color scheme.

A formal corsage made by Mrs. Charles Barnum received the Silver Trophy Award. Very unusual materials were used in this corsage. The blossoms of the Chinese evergreen shaded in color from light creamy beige to chartreuse green tied with light green ribbon and filled with light green net formed this very delicate corsage.

The material has been one that holds up marvelously. The corsage seemed in perfect condition at the time of the T. V. show, had been made since May 2, two weeks previous, almost unbelievable.

Lovely horticulture specimens were displayed on this show. The last of the iris in her yard, so Mrs. McDonald explained, was the beautiful pink-into-beige "Cherry Flip." Pink and red double poppies were grown by Mrs. Charles Barnum and Miss Valerie Barnum. Mrs. Barnum also sent a sample of her large shasta daisies and blue cornflowers.

Thanks to Mrs. McDonald for presenting this lovely show from Jonesboro - Hodge Garden Club. It has been a real treat to all of us who saw it, and I hope you were one of the lucky ones.

This week, watch for our next T.V. and Garden Center show coming to us from the Rayville Garden Club, the president of which is Mrs. David Burk Sr.

Baths Are Big Business In West Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—With warm weather hundreds of thousands of Germans are off to the baths—sulphur baths, salt baths, radioactive baths, mud baths, paraffin baths, cold water baths and sea water baths.

Germany's spas have become one of the great little industries of this highly industrialized society. There are more than 200.

Some take the baths at their own expense, but most take the cure at the expense of insurance companies and employers.

Jet Fighter Writes Poem, Then Defects

By SHULLEN SHAW

TAIPEI (UPI)—

"I have my hopes,
"And I have my wishes.
"I also have strong wings
"That will carry me to a faraway place."

The author of this poem was Lieut. Liu Cheng-Sze, a handsome jet fighter pilot in the Chinese Communist air force. He was known as the poet of his squadron.

His political officers liked the poem so much they recommend it to "Chinese Youth," an official magazine of the Peiping regime. It was published in November, 1957.

UNAWARE

The political officers, however, did not know Liu's secret hopes and wishes until it was too late.

On March 3, Liu flew "far away" from the China mainland on the "strong wings" of a Russian-built MIG-15.

He landed at a Nationalist Chinese air force base on Formosa to become the first Red Chinese air force pilot to defect safely to the Nationalists.

"I have eventually fulfilled the hopes and wishes I have cherished for so many years," the 25-year-old Liu told reporters.

Liu's 50-minute dash to freedom also made him a millionaire in terms of Chinese dollars.

He was awarded 1,000 ounces of gold and made a first lieutenant in the Nationalist air force.

"This I did not dream of," Liu said. "I expected freedom, but also hardship on Taiwan. They told us in political classes that the government and the people on Taiwan were all very, very poor."

Liu's parents were farmers. When he was 12 years old, the Communists swept over the China mainland while he was studying in a primary school in his hometown of Tientung in Kwangsi Province.

Several red soldiers marched into Liu's classroom one day and took away his Chinese language teacher, an old man much admired by his students.

HEAD DISPLAYED

The teacher, accused of being a landlord, was beheaded several days later. For days his head was displayed on a pole in the city wall.

All but two of the teachers in Liu's school were arrested and either killed or sent away to unknown destinations.

When Liu was attending a Red Chinese air force academy, his mother became ill and sent for him. He obtained leave and rushed home, but his mother died. Neighbors told him his mother died of malnutrition, the same "disease" from which his father had died a few months earlier.

When he finally realized that his parents actually had died from starvation, his feelings toward the Communists changed from disappointment to hatred. It was then he decided secretly to fly to Formosa and join the forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

PLANS

Liu started to make his defection plans while stationed at Luchiao in Chekiang Province about 250 miles northwest of Formosa.

One night he accidentally picked up on his radio a Nationlist Chinese broadcast beamed at Red China. He learned that two Red Chinese civil aviation pilots had defected to the Republic of Korea in a biplane and were later evacuated to Formosa. He also learned detailed instructions on how to defect to Formosa by plane.

"I took mental notes of the instruction and memorized every word of it," Liu said. "I knew then that I would be able to make it."

His chance came when he was ordered to fly a solo training mission.

"After the Luchiao air base disappeared from my sight," he said, "I changed the course of flight, and also the course of my life, and headed directly for the Taiwan Strait."

The Nationalist Chinese air force, which had long been anticipating defecting Red planes, picked up on radar Liu's lone plane flying on the course Red pilots had been instructed to take in their approach to Formosa.

Nationalist air force authorities had no doubt then about Liu's intention. They immediately sent four F86 Sabrejets to escort Liu and to intercept any Communist planes which might be chasing Liu.

Liu recalled he was excited and nervous when he climbed out of his plane.

"When the first officer approached me and extended his hand," Liu said, "I handed my pistol to him."

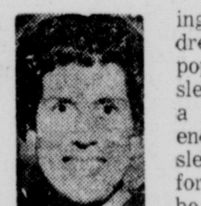
SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Winner of this week's Tailor Trix pressing board was Mrs. Iva Combs, Roseburg, Oreg., who sent this helpful hint.



"When making blouses or dresses with the popular roll - up sleeves, draw a thread at the end of the sleeve length before cutting to be sure it is absolutely straight. Next, carefully mark each roll line, then draw a thread from each of these marks. Do the same for each sleeve. This way, you will never have to guess where to roll your sleeve when ironing them and they will always be even. The drawn thread doesn't show when wearing garment because it will be exactly on the fold of your material."

CONVERT SWEATER

"Dear Eunice Farmer,

"Is it possible to make a short-sleeved, cardigan type sweater from a slipover sweater? It is so hard to find the right color in this type of sweater, to match a dress, although it often is possible to buy a short - sleeved slipover."

Mrs. B. C.

Dear Mrs. B. C.:

Yes, this is possible and not too difficult. However, you must be very careful to take the proper precautions before cutting into the sweater.

First, mark the exact center front of the sweater by folding it in half. Mark the center by hand-basting with a colored thread.

Second, baste a strip of seam tape on the wrong side of the sweater, directly over your center front.

Third, use a short machine stitch to stitch about four rows of stitching down the center of your sweater. Now carefully cut the sweater at the center front, through the seam binding.

If you are going to bind the front edges with part of your garment fabric, you may place the binding over the cut edges of the sweater without trimming any of the sweater away. If you wish to finish the two front edges with grosgrain ribbon, turn the cut edge of the sweater over about ¼ inch and machine stitch on each side. Buttonholes can be made through the grosgrain ribbon.

There are many novel ways of trimming sweaters. You can fold back the sweater at the neckline and make a sailor collar for a nautical look. You can add a Peter Pan type collar to match your dress. If you think of some very unusual way to coordinate your sweater with your dress, please send us your ideas.

ARMHOLE FACING

"Dear Eunice Farmer,

"Whenever I use a strip of bias to finish the neckline or armholes of a dress, it seems impossible for me to get it to stay flat. My dress always wrinkles at the lower edge of the bias facing. There must be something I do or don't do that causes this, and I need help."

Mrs. P. V.

Dear Mrs. P. V.:

It sounds to me like you are pulling the bias facing too tight. You must ease the bias facing as you pin it to the neck edge or the armholes. Remember, the lower edge of the bias must be flat and it will be only if you have allowed enough fabric for this.

PRINCESS STYLE

"Dear Eunice,

"When I make a fitted princess style dress, how can I take the fullness out of the upper part of the back? The only way I can do this is by taking the whole dress up at the shoulders and it is so much extra work."

Mrs. P. E. H.

Dear Mrs. P. E. H.:

Your dress is too long waisted and, although this is a very easy pattern adjustment to make, it is necessary to do it before cutting the dress.

Tie a string very tightly around your waistline. Have someone measure you from the shoulder, over the bust and to the string in front. Do the same in the back. Since a princess style dress must fit smoothly at the waist, it can't have any extra fabric for ease such as you would need for a dress with a belt.

Now measure your pattern from seam line to seam line at exactly the same place you measured yourself. They must be the same length. If the bodice is too long or too short, the correction must be made about 3 inches above the waistline.

Dear Fans,

If you are machine stitching the last step of your Zipper, making welt seams, or edge stitching the outer edges of your garment, turn your garment INSIDE OUT. You will still do the machine stitching on the RIGHT side of the garment, but it will feed into the machine much easier since your garment will lie flat in this position.

Please send your sewing "tips" to Sew Simple. They will all be considered in awarding a Tailor Trix Pressing Board for the best "tip." Send all your questions to Sew Simple, in care of Monroe Morning World.

The late Sen. Brien McMahon, father of the Atomic Energy Act, will be honoreed on a new U. S. commemorative stamp scheduled for issuance July 28. It will be placed on First Day Sale in Norwalk, Conn., Sen. McMahon's birthplace.

McMahon was elected to the Senate from Connecticut in 1944 and re - elected in 1950, serving from Jan. 3, 1945, until his death in Washington, D. C., July 28 1952. He was the first chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy.

Details as to the design of the stamp and procedures for obtaining First Day Covers will be announced in the column shortly.

From the area "Down Under" in the South Pacific comes word that a new set of commemorative stamps will be issued in Papua and New Guinea on July 9 to mark the fifth South Pacific Conference. The denominations will be 5d, 1-6d and 2-6d with a common design.

Featured on the stamp will be a map of the South Pacific area indicating all of the island groups. At the left will be seen a portion of the Australian Continent. At the right will be a native village area with swaying coconut palms. The wording: "Fifth South Pacific Conference Pago Pago 1962" appears at the top.

Tunisia has issued a new set of two stamps commemorating Africa Day, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. The 50 mil, designed by M. Hatim Elmekki, shows a young native smiling. The new map of Africa is in the background. The 100 mil, designed by M. Ridha Ben Abdallah, portrays a native embracing the map of Africa.

Norway has issued a new 150 ore brown and blue stamp honoring the 50th anniversary of aviation in that country. Featured on the new adhesive is the first plane to fly in Norway, circa 1912.

The Portuguese colonies have announced the issuance of stamps to complete the series of 48 sport stamps for the various colonies, Macau's stamps will depict golf, wrestling, table tennis motor cycling, relay racing and tennis. Timor will feature bird hunting, steeple chasing, swimming, gymnastics, football and big game hunting. Other colonies issuing stamps with this theme have been Angola, Cape Verde, Guinea, India, Mozambique, and St. Thomas and Prince Islands.

Stamp collectors will be interested in a new book "The Romance of the Postage Stamp" by Gustav Schenk which has just been published. Schenk has written an absorbing history of stamps and postal services. It is a book for the general collector and tells how to read the history of a country from its stamps. The book was translated from the German by Mervin Savill. (Doubleday & Co. $4.95).

The United Nations will issue a memorial stamp on Sept. 18 honoring the late Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold and those who died with him in the plane crash in Africa. There will be two denominations in this set. Dates and designs will be announced soon.

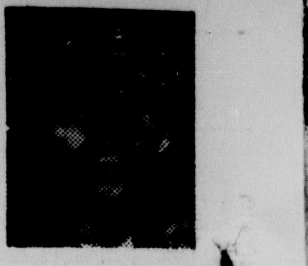
Many Colors In Hibiscus



By AUDREY H. DAWSON

The hibiscus is an excellent plant to give color to the landscape during the summer months. There are ever so many colors to select from and now until the first of June is planting time. If yellow is the color you desire, crested yellow is considered the best double yellow. The double yellows are not likely to bloom as profusely as some of the other varieties. Other yellow varieties are Butterfly, Crow of Bahemia, Anderson's 161, or Hendry's 111.

The most outstanding variety, I believe, is Kona. It produces very large double pink blooms. It is a vigorous grower and a profuse bloomer. If you choose only one variety, this is an excellent one to try. Other double pinks are Pride of Hankin, and Peach Blow. Pride of Hankin is a very vigorous upright grower and the blossom is medium in size and is a coral pink. Peach Blow is probably not as good as the other two because the blooms appear to be faded.

DOUBLE VARIETIES

If you want red in your landscape Celia and Lambert's Red are both beautiful double varieties. The color of the flowers of Celia is on the orange side, so if you want a dark red, choose Lambert's Red.

Under good conditions hibiscus plants will make rapid growth during hot weather. These plants like sun and plenty of water. As with other plants, when watering is done it should be done thoroughly and not too frequently. The leaves of the plant should not be allowed to wilt. So if you need to add color, visit your nurseryman for some hibiscus plants.

Other garden jobs are to spray or dust weekly to control diseases and insects on roses; cultivate to control weeds and grasses and to prevent the soil from becoming too compact. If the soil becomes too compact, the plants may suffer because of insufficient oxygen to supply the needs of the roots. Only light cultivation should be given so as not to disturb the roots.

Dust gladiolus with five per cent DDT for thrips. If you have not fertilized your shrubs, use one - half cup of 8-8-8 per square yard of area covered by the shrub.

CLOTHING WORKSHOP

Our last adult clothing workshop for this year will be held at the Agricultural Building June 5-7. If you, Mrs. Homemaker, are interested in learning to sew, call our office, FA 3-2251, and get the details. We have eight electric machines and the first eight who enroll may use these. So, if you do not want to bring a machine be sure to call us real soon. The auditorium is air conditioned so will be a comfortable place to work. When you call to enroll, the secretary will mail you a list of pattern numbers to select from. These are certain construction problems which I plan to teach, set - in sleeve, collar or facings, zippers, and making a belt. This is open to any homemaker in Ouachita Parish. So, if you want to learn to make clothes for your family, we will be glad to help you. This will be our eleventh workshop for the year.

WASH AND WEAR

The term wash and wear is no longer a rare expression applied to one type of easy - care clothing. But to get the most satisfaction and pleasure from owning these garments you must wash them correctly. Without correct care the term wash and wear could be applied to very few garments. Remember wrinkles are put into garments by heat. Pressure secret, then, is to eliminate wear wrinkles and develop as few wash wrinkles as possible.

Resin treated cottons and man-made fibers are laundered differently. When a fabric is a blend, wash it as if it were 100 per cent of the predominant fiber. Soil does not penetrate man - made fiber. It remains on the surface. Since hot water causes wrinkles, it is not necessary to wash man -made fibers in hot suds. Cold water will clean them satisfactorily. Dry heat of a dryer will relax the wear wrinkles since cold water will not remove them.

Resin finishes increas soil resistance, but natural fibers absorb soil readily. You must use warm water to remove it. By hanging these garments to dry on non - rusting hangers with some moisture still in the garments the wrinkles will be more apt to come out.

MILDEW

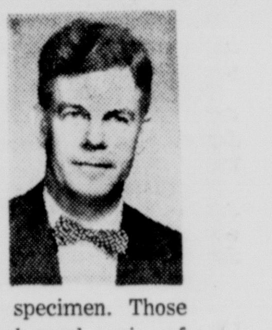
To remove mildew from leather shoes, gloves and purses, the U. S. Department of Agriculture research service suggests wiping the articles with a cloth moistened in a solution of one cup of denatured or rubbing alcohol and one cup water. Dry in an airy place. Mildew in Louisiana is a problem many must deal with.

A THOUGHT

Young people live in the future and old folks live in the past, but wise ones live right now.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Great Growth Spurt Is Over



By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The great spurt of spring growth is over on trees and shrubs. The major growth for the year has already been made, and the new, green branches and twigs are beginning to harden up and become woody.

This is the time, before the summer rains stimulate the second growth to shape (and this does not mean to shear) any trees and shrubs that may need it. Most gardeners seem to be afraid to do anything to their plants in this stage, but many shrubs can be improved by shaping them just a little right now.

APPEARANCE

Young trees and shrubs that receive some attention to their form in late spring will soon put on their small second growth in summer and look good when fall comes around.

Do not be afraid to tip back young hollies, yaupons, boxwoods, azalias and other broadleaf evergreens that tend to make somewhat longer growths than you want. Pinching off the end of the new growth will force them to put out from the lateral buds and begin to thicken up below and to make a denser tree or shrub.

Those rampant growers like wistaria and elaeagnus can be cut back at any time of the year. If you do not mind taking the trouble, elaeagnus can be made into a very handsome sheared or closely shaped specimen. Those who want a sheared pair of shrubs quickly can create them out of elaeagnus. Later on, more expensive slow - growing shrubs can replace them.

CONTROL

To hold back wistaria, tip the long growths back now, and then cut all of this year's growth back to within four or five leaves of the old wood in mid-July. This drastic reduction usually forces the formation of flowering buds.

It is the method used by the Japanese to produce the extra-long chains of wistaria which we see in pictures of their gardens. Wistaria is really most beautiful when it is trained from youth on a strong upright fence or frame. Few gardeners have the patience to hold back this rampant grower like this, but the trained trunks make a handsome design in winter when they are bare.

Unless they are starving or your soil is really inadequate, one feeding a year is all that is wise for rampant growers like wistaria, elaeagnus and Japanese privet. The other shrubs and trees, however, can be given a second spring feeding at the end of May or sooner. If you failed to fertilize at all this spring, make this a heavy one, but if you have already fed your plants, make it about half of the original amount.

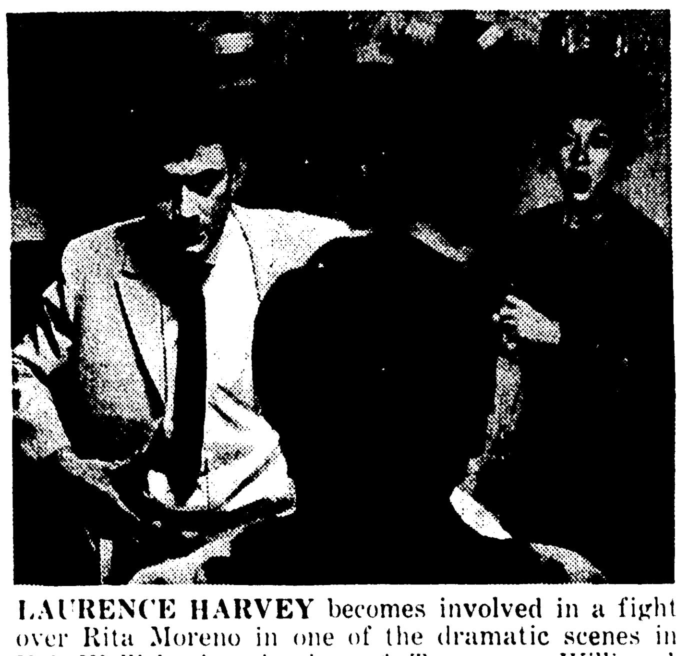
GROCERY $

NEW YORK (UPI) —Twenty-five cents out of every dollar spent on groceries goes for an item sold to the supermarket by a food broker, representing between $15 and $18 billion of the total grocery sales of $59 billion, according to a large food brokerage firm.

"THE ROMAN SPRING of Mrs. Stone," which opens today at the Paramount Theatre, stars Vivien Leigh as wealthy American actress, and Warren Beatty as her gigolo.

LIBERTY VALANCE delivers an ultimatum to the city-bred lawyer, played by James Stewart, left, while John Wayne stands by ready for trouble in "The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance." Lee Marvin portrays the vicious Valance in the production now showing at the Jim Theatre.



LAURENCE HARVEY becomes involved in a fight over Rita Moreno in one of the dramatic scenes in Hal Wallis' picturization of Tennessee Williams' "Summer and Smoke," which opens Wednesday at the Jim Theatre.

Helps His Cause

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Lewis E. Lint, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, may have garnered some housewife votes Thursday when he thus urged women to take a more active part in politics:

"When God created women, I am sure his purpose went beyond that of just washing dishes, scrubbing floors and all the other household chores which women so badly perform. Hers was also to be a role of active participation in all of organized society's endeavors."

Vivien Leigh Heads Cast Of Spring Story

One of the screen's most beautiful and most honored actresses, Vivien Leigh, and the year's most exciting newcomer, Warren Beatty, head the cast of "The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone," opening today at the Paramount Theatre. The Technicolor drama for Warner Bros. Release is based on a novel by the screen's most provocative writer, Tennessee Williams.

Two - time Academy Award winner Vivien Leigh stars as the wealthy American widow of fading beauty lured into a love affair with the handsome young gigolo played by Beatty, who won instantaneous stardom in his screen debut in "Splendor in the Grass."

ECHOING

Echoing the electric impact of another Williams' motion picture — "A Streetcar Named Desire," in which Miss Leigh played opposite Marlon Brando who had only one previous film to his credit and that unreleased when they were paired — Beatty had actually completed his costarring stint with Miss Leigh before "Splendor" was released.

Although Miss Leigh, who won her first Academy Award for Best Performance by an Actress for "Gone With the Wind," won her second Oscar as the tragic heroine in Williams' "Streetcar," she originally turned down the role of Karen Stone" after reading the novel.

However, after reading the actual film script and discovering certain basic changes in character and redefined motivations, she decided she wanted the part, her first screened role after six years of stage appearances.

Beatty, on the other hand, with a single — but critically acclaimed — Broadway role and an unreleased — but highly touted film — to his credit was initially balked by Williams' insistence that only an Italian could play the role of Paolo.

The determined young actor flew to Puerto Rico and spent 12 hours convincing the author no one but Beatty could play it. Miss Leigh, who had seen Beatty on Broadway, assented, and the young Virginian took off for Rome to acquire a proper Italian accent.

Lotte Lenya, Coral Crowne, Jill St. John and Jeremy. Spencer are also starred in the A. A. Production, produced by Louis de Rochemont and directed by Jose Quintero.

Dolores Hart Is Noted For Blush Trait

EDITOR'S NOTE — For most actresses, blushing went out of style a long time ago. Not for Dolores Hart. She has the most technicolored blush in all Hollywood, and it not only helped get her a movie contract but also once kept her out of a London jail.

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dolores Hart is the only actress I know who blushes.

When I first met her in 1957, she was fresh out of convent school and her blushing was understandable.

In the five years since, she has compiled quite a bit of movie and Broadway success — but she still blushes. It's remarkable.

"I shall never deny the effects of chemistry in my life," she answers when pressed for a reason of her natural technicolor.

Certain people make her blush more than others. Tony Franciosa is one. About three years ago she made a movie with him but when she sees him even today, she gets all flustered.

"I just have to tell him that he shakes me up, I just can't talk to him without turning six shades of red. I don't know what there is about him that makes me behave so."

Known as one of Hollywood's nice girls, Dolores almost had her spotless reputation tarnished in London a few months ago. She was saved by a blush.

"It seems funny now but it was a moment of tragedy at the time. I was shooting 'Lisa' in London. In it, as a Jewish concentration camp refugee, I wear drab clothes—trench coat, beret and the rest

Van Horn said he spent four cents to mail his declaration papers and four cents to mail an account of his campaign expenses.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Most camera fans would readily agree that the photographic grass is greener in someone else's back yard and the best pictures are to be found on a trip or vacation in a scenic spot in the great outdoors.

"Whoa there!" says Herbert Keppler, executive editor of Modern Photography. "Photographically speaking, and in the words of an old classic, 'There's No Place Like Home.' Your most treasured and rewarding pictures are likely to be shot within the four walls of your own domain — of your family, your children, your friends, pets and possessions."

QUESTION

And why? Because you are most familiar with everyone and every thing in it. You've seen it in daylight and at night, during its day-to-day routine and decked out in holiday garb on festive occasions. And when you know something so intimately, you are the one best qualified to portray its moods and capture its high spots.

Furthermore, photography at home no longer means setting up numerous light stands and reflectors and a maze of wires while everybody becomes actors, donning special costumes and assuming unnatural poses. Today we strive for naturalism and authenticity and obtain it with the least fuss by using fast lenses, fast films and tiny flashbulbs when we have to resort to extra light.

The when, where and how-to-do-it are explained in detail in a new book by Herbert Keppler appropriately entitled: "How to Make Better Pictures in Your Home" (Amphoto, N.Y., $2.50). He discusses the various types of cameras amateurs are likely to use and the advantages and deficiencies of each type. He examines the different means of lighting: daylight, existing artificial light, flash and flood for both color and black and white. His suggestions can help to turn a home into a photo studio without creating domestic chaos or alienating a spouse.

LIGHT LEVEL

It's a good idea to check the light level in the various rooms of the house with a meter set for an ASA film speed of 400 (good for either Ansco Super-Hypan or Kodak Tri-X pan films). Good lighting will enable you to shoot at 1-30 of a second at f-2.8 or f-3.5.

If the illumination is below that level, it is probably not good enough for regular living — for reading or seeing things normally. You ought to change bulbs, then, substituting 100-watt for 50 or 60-watt and 150-watt for 100-watt bulbs. You may have to rearrange some lamps or even add new ones to even out the illumination but the result will make for better vision as well as better pictures.

Finally Keppler ends with some household hints for the photo fan: Plastic bags are great for storing film, lenses, meters and other small photo items. Plastic bowl covers make handy lens caps. They go on and off quickly and fit different size lenses. Detergents make good wetting agents in processing negatives. Empty egg cartons are ready-made compartment boxes for holding small photo odds and ends. A lady's change purse can store filters, close - up lenses, adapter rings.

Use this advice and you can really say your pictures are home made.

Curtain Call

By BB STRON

Richard Clark, executive director of the Monroe Little Theatre announces the opening date for the last play of the current season, "Come Blow Your Horn," to be Friday.

This delightful comedy will run six nights, including Sunday, and through Wednesday, May 30th.

The Box Office will open on Wednesday at 1:00 and will remain open until 8:00 p.m. each day through the entire run of the play. For reservations call FAirfax 3-1235. However, you may make your reservations by writing to the Little Theatre, Box 868, Monroe.

Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope in which your tickets can be returned to you. This is a play the whole family will enjoy, so make your plans now to attend.

SPECIAL HONORS

Two of the case of "Come Horn" have received special honors recently. Gail Sawyer was runner up and Bettie Gibbs was fourth runner up in the Northeast Beauty Pageant. Congratulations. Among the judges for this event were Robert H. Evans, and Arthur Stone of the Drama Department of Louisiana Tech.

We want to extend our special thanks to the following members of the crew of "Come Blow Your Horn". Donnavae Hughes is serving as assistant to the director, Bill Blythe is stage manager, Bob Evans Jr., Donna McLean and Betsy McBride are operating the lights, and Sherry Wells is taking care of the sound effects. All of these people contribute a very important service to the presentation of the play and we are grateful for their help and dedication.

A guest of the Larry Shipmans was Mrs. Graesch from Dallas, who is Larry's mother. We were glad to see them out to watch rehearsal.

Please note this change on your calendar. The movie, "The Little World of Don Camillo," originally scheduled for May 22, will not be shown until June 12th. However, "Citizen Kane," will be seen on June 5 as scheduled.

FROM ISRAEL

A young man from Israel, Ely Matiovich, attended and enjoyed our last movie presentation. Matiovich is a project engineer with the Israel Petro - Chemical Interprises and is employed here at Ford, Bacon and Davis.

An interesting letter was received by Mrs. Carl McHenry, president of the Monroe Little Theatre, from Colleen Dent. You will remember that Colleen acted in many shows here, including "The Boy Friend." Colleen is now employed as a secretary with Twentieth Century Fox Film Corporation in Beverly Hills, California. It is her job to keep a running file on all of the properties of the studio, which employs 2,500 people. She says that they hope to finish "Cleopatra" soon and will begin shooting right away on "Somethings Gotta Give," starring Marilyn Monroe. Colleen sends a big "Hello" to all her riends here.

One of our Little Theatre members is in need of some help. Vi Cotton is writing a thesis and needs to get two publications, "Best in Books," and "Books Abridged." If you have either or both of these publications, Vi would appreciate your letting her borrow them. Please call her at FAirfax 2-5502.

Let's go to see "Come Blow Your Horn."

FOOD IMPORTS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is the world's second largest agricultural importer, accounting for about one-sixth of the world's total food imports, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

PETROCHEMICALS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Petrochemicals comprise one-third of the nation's entire chemical output, according to Oil Facts.

Special Shows For Graduates Are Planned

A series of special "graduate night" movie parties for seniors and dates of the Twin Cities high schools will be held at the Paramount Theatre.

Ted Hatfield, local city manager for the Paramount Gulf Theatres, said special arrangements have been made with Twentieth Century - Fox Distributing Corporation, for the advance showing of "Mr. Hobbs Takes a Vacation," a Technicolor comedy which will not be shown to the general public until later in the summer months. The show stars James Stewart, Fabian and Maureen O'Hara.

EARLY HOURS

The parties, this year termed "Graduate with Mr. Hobbs," will be presented in the early hours of the morning following graduation exercises and banquets. The parties in the past have been approved by both parents and students, and provide entertainment on graduation night, when it is the custom to gather with fellow classmates.

The Neville High School party will be on Tuesday, May 29, and will be under the direction of class president, Kim Breese. West Monroe graduates and and their dates will have their party on Wednesday, May 30, with Dwight Ramsey, president, in charge.

The Ouachita Parish High School party is scheduled for June 1, with Danny Tousinau, class president, handling the details.

GROCERY $

NEW YORK (UPI) —Twenty-five cents out of every dollar spent on groceries goes for an item sold to the supermarket by a food broker, representing between $15 and $18 billion of the total grocery sales of $59 billion, according to a large food brokerage firm.

"THE ROMAN SPRING of Mrs. Stone," which opens today at the Paramount Theatre, stars Vivien Leigh as wealthy American actress, and Warren Beatty as her gigolo.

LIBERTY VALANCE delivers an ultimatum to the city-bred lawyer, played by James Stewart, left, while John Wayne stands by ready for trouble in "The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance." Lee Marvin portrays the vicious Valance in the production now showing at the Jim Theatre.

LAURENCE HARVEY becomes involved in a fight over Rita Moreno in one of the dramatic scenes in Hal Wallis' picturization of Tennessee Williams' "Summer and Smoke," which opens Wednesday at the Jim Theatre.

Helps His Cause

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Lewis E. Lint, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, may have garnered some housewife votes Thursday when he thus urged women to take a more active part in politics:

"When God created women, I am sure his purpose went beyond that of just washing dishes, scrubbing floors and all the other household chores which women so badly perform. Hers was also to be a role of active participation in all of organized society's endeavors."

Vivien Leigh Heads Cast Of Spring Story

One of the screen's most beautiful and most honored actresses, Vivien Leigh, and the year's most exciting newcomer, Warren Beatty, head the cast of "The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone," opening today at the Paramount Theatre. The Technicolor drama for Warner Bros. Release is based on a novel by the screen's most provocative writer, Tennessee Williams.

Two - time Academy Award winner Vivien Leigh stars as the wealthy American widow of fading beauty lured into a love affair with the handsome young gigolo played by Beatty, who won instantaneous stardom in his screen debut in "Splendor in the Grass."

ECHOING

Echoing the electric impact of another Williams' motion picture — "A Streetcar Named Desire," in which Miss Leigh played opposite Marlon Brando who had only one previous film to his credit and that unreleased when they were paired — Beatty had actually completed his costarring string with Miss Leigh before "Splendor" was released.

Although Miss Leigh, who won her first Academy Award for Best Performance by an Actress for "Gone With the Wind," won her second Oscar as the tragic heroine in Williams' "Streetcar," she originally turned down the role of Karen Stone" after reading the novel.

However, after reading the actual film script and discovering certain basic changes in character and redefined motivations, she decided she wanted the part, her first screened role after six years of state appearances.

Beatty, on the other hand, with a single — but critically acclaimed — Broadway role and an unreleased — but highly touted film — to his credit was initially balked by Williams' insistence that only an Italian could play the role of Paolo.

The determined young actor flew to Puerto Rico and spent 12 hours convincing the author no one but Beatty could play it. Miss Leigh, who had seen Beatty on Broadway, assented, and the young Virginian took off for Rome to acquire a proper Italian accent.

Lotte Lenya, Coral Crowne, Jill St. John and Jeremy. Spenser are also starred in the A. A. Production, produced by Lous de Rochemont and directed by Jose Quintero.

Jaycees Plan Special Show For Kiddies

A special "School's Out Party", sponsored by the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held Saturday morning, June 2, at the Paramount Theatre. The show will feature the fun - filled Mickey Mouse programming, which have become popular in the Twin Cities during past months.

TWO HOURS

The show, which begins at 10 a.m., will last for two hours and will give the younger set steady all - new color cartoons and a Three Stooges comedy.

Joe Maggio, Jaycee chairman, said Mickey Mouse will be assisted by 20 mouseketeers.

The doors open at 9:30 a.m. All proceeds will go to the Jaycee Youth Fund.

Keeps Costs Down

GARY, Ind. (UPI) — Willard Van Horn waged a thrifty campaign as the unopposed Republican candidate for nomination to a Lake County judgeship.

Van Horn said he spent four cents to mail his declaration papers and four cents to mail an account of his campaign expenses.

Dolores Hart Is Noted For Blush Trait

EDITOR'S NOTE — For most actresses, blushing went out of style a long time ago. Not for Dolores Hart. She has the most technicolored blush in all Hollywood, and it not only helped get her a movie contract but also once kept her out of a London jail.

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dolores Hart is the only actress I know who blushes.

When I first met her in 1957, she was fresh out of convent school and her blushing was understandable.

In the five years since, she has compiled quite a bit of movie and Broadway success — but she still blushes. It's remarkable.

"I shall never deny the effects of chemistry in my life," she answers when pressed for a reason of her natural technicolor.

Certain people make her blush more than others. Tony Franciosa is one. About three years ago she made a movie with him but when she sees him even today, she gets all flustered.

"I just have to tell him that he shakes me up, I just can't talk to him without turning six shades of red. I don't know what there is about him that makes me behave so."

Known as one of Hollywood's nice girls, Dolores almost had her spotless reputation tarnished in London a few months ago. She was saved by a blush.

"It seems funny now but it was a moment of tragedy at the time. I was shooting 'Lisa' in London. In it, as a Jewish concentration camp refugee, I wear drab clothes—trench coat, beret and the rest.

HOW'S THE FISHING?

Have you wet a line in your favorite lake or stream this spring? Smokey hopes you have and found the fishing just as good as you remembered it!

But all over America, fishermen are going to get skunked in places where they always found fish before.

If the water's high and muddy, chances are that a forest fire upstream burned off the ground cover. The spring rains ran right off, carrying top soil and flood waters into the stream, spoiling your sport.

Remember—Only you can PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME for personal satisfaction in photography. Here's an American living room shot by light from two 100-watt table lamps at an exposure of 1/15 seconds at f/2.8 with Tri-X film. It's an example from "How to Make Better Pictures in Your Home" by Herbert Kepplier.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Most camera fans would readily agree that the photographic grass is greener in someone else's back yard and the best pictures are to be found on a trip or vacation in a scenic spot in the great outdoors.

"Whoa there!" says Herbert Keppler, executive editor of Modern Photography. "Photographically speaking, and in the words of an old classic, 'There's No Place Like Home.' Your most treasured and rewarding pictures are likely to be shot within the four walls of your own domain — of your family, your children, your friends, pets and possessions."

QUESTION

And why? Because you are most familiar with everyone and every thing in it. You've seen it in daylight and at night, during its day-to-day routine and decked out in holiday garb on festive occasions. And when you know something so intimately, you are the one best qualified to portray its moods and capture its high spots.

Furthermore, photography at home no longer means setting up numerous light stands and reflectors and a maze of wires while everybody becomes actors, donning special costumes and assuming unnatural poses. Today we strive for naturalism and authenticity and obtain it with the least fuss by using fast lenses, fast films and tiny flashbulbs when we have to resort to extra light.

The when, where and how-to-do-it are explained in detail in a new book by Herbert Keppler appropriately entitled: "How to Make Better Pictures in Your Home" (Amphoto, N.Y., $2.50). He discusses the various types of cameras amateurs are likely to use and the advantages and deficiencies of each type. He examines the different means of lighting: daylight, existing artificial light, flash and flood for both color and black and white. His suggestions can help to turn a home into a photo studio without creating domestic chaos or alienating a spouse.

LIGHT LEVEL

It's a good idea to check the light level in the various rooms of the house with a meter set for an ASA film speed of 400 (good for either Ansco Super-Hypan or Kodak Tri-X pan films). Good lighting will enable you to shoot at 1-30 of a second at f-2.8 or f-3.5.

If the illumination is below that level, it is probably not good enough for regular living — for reading or seeing things normally. You ought to change bulbs, then, substituting 100-watt for 50 or 60-watt and 150-watt for 100-watt bulbs. You may have to rearrange some lamps or even add new ones to even out the illumination but the result will make for better vision as well as better pictures.

Finally Keppler ends with some household hints for the photo fan: Plastic bags are great for storing film, lenses, meters and other small photo items. Plastic bowl covers make handy lens caps. They go on and off quickly and fit different size lenses. Detergents make good wetting agents in processing negatives. Empty egg cartons are ready-made compartment boxes for holding small photo odds and ends. A lady's change purse can store filters, close - up lenses, adapter rings.

Use this advice and you can really say your pictures are home made.

Curtain Call

By BB STRON

Richard Clark, executive director of the Monroe Little Theatre announces the opening date for the last play of the current season, "Come Blow Your Horn," to be Friday.

This delightful comedy will run six nights, including Sunday, and through Wednesday, May 30th.

The Box Office will open on Wednesday at 1:00 and will remain open until 8:00 p.m. each day through the entire run of the play. For reservations call FAirfax 3-1235. However, you may make your reservations by writing to the Little Theatre, Box 868, Monroe.

Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope in which your tickets can be returned to you. This is a play the whole family will enjoy, so make your plans now to attend.

SPECIAL HONORS

Two of the case of "Come Horn" have received special honors recently. Gail Sawyer was runner up and Bettie Gibbs was fourth runner up in the Northeast Beauty Pageant. Congratulations. Among the judges for this event were Robert H. Evans, and Arthur Stone of the Drama Department of Louisiana Tech.

We want to extend our special thanks to the following members of the crew of "Come Blow Your Horn". Donnavae Hughes is serving as assistant to the director, Bill Blythe is stage manager, Bob Evans Jr., Donna McLean and Betsy McBride are operating the lights, and Sherry Wells is taking care of the sound effects. All of these people contribute a very important service to the presentation of the play and we are grateful for their help and dedication.

A guest of the Larry Shipmans was Mrs. Graesch from Dallas, who is Larry's mother. We were glad to see them out to watch rehearsal.

Please note this change on your calendar. The movie, "The Little World of Don Camillo," originally scheduled for May 22, will not be shown until June 12th. However, "Citizen Kane," will be seen on June 5 as scheduled.

FROM ISRAEL

A young man from Israel, Ely Matiovich, attended and enjoyed our last movie presentation. Matiovich is a project engineer with the Israel Petro - Chemical Interprises and is employed here at Ford, Bacon and Davis.

An interesting letter was received by Mrs. Carl McHenry, president of the Monroe Little Theatre, from Colleen Dent. You will remember that Colleen acted in many shows here, including "The Boy Friend." Colleen is now employed as a secretary with Twentieth Century Fox Film Corporation in Beverly Hills, California. It is her job to keep a running file on all of the properties of the studio, which employs 2,500 people. She says that they hope to finish "Cleopatra" soon and will begin shooting right away on "Somethings Gotta Give," starring Marilyn Monroe. Colleen sends a big "Hello" to all her friends here.

One of our Little Theatre members is in need of some help. Vi Cotton is writing a thesis and needs to get two publications, "Best in Books," and "Books Abridged." If you have either or both of these publications, Vi would appreciate your letting her borrow them. Please call her at FAirfax 2-5502.

Let's go to see "Come Blow Your Horn."

FOOD IMPORTS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is the world's second largest agricultural importer, accounting for about one-sixth of the world's total food imports, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

PETROCHEMICALS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Petrochemicals comprise one-third of the nation's entire chemical output, according to Oil Facts.

Special Shows For Graduates Are Planned

A series of special "graduate night" movie parties for seniors and dates of the Twin Cities high schools will be held at the Paramount Theatre.

Ted Hatfield, local city manager for the Paramount Gulf Theatres, said special arrangements have been made with Twentieth Century - Fox Distributing Corporation, for the advance showing of "Mr. Hobbs Takes a Vacation," a Technicolor comedy which will not be shown to the general public until later in the summer months. The show stars James Stewart, Fabian and Maureen O'Hara.

EARLY HOURS

The parties, this year termed "Graduate with Mr. Hobbs," will be presented in the early hours of the morning following graduation exercises and banquets. The parties in the past have been approved by both parents and students, and provide entertainment on graduation night, when it is the custom to gather with fellow classmates.

The Neville High School party will be on Tuesday, May 29, and will be under the direction of class president, Kim Breese. West Monroe graduates and and their dates will have their party on Wednesday, May 30, with Dwight Ramsey, president, in charge.

The Ouachita Parish High School party is scheduled for June 1, with Danny Tousinau, class president, handling the details.

Businessmen Say Profits Ratio Is Low

NEW YORK (AP) — The business community is wrestling with a confusing profits paradox.

Businessmen concede that profits are up almost 30 per cent so far this year and may well hit record highs.

But businessmen complain earnings still are not high enough to get the country going full blast.

"Utterly fantastic," says an AFL—CIO economist who quarrels with both the facts and conclusions of this argument.

"Exactly how often," asks another labor official, "have you heard a businessman complain profits are too high?"

This is not merely a theoretical how-high-is-up debate, insist the many businessmen.

What has happened, they say, is that competition, both here and abroad, has thwarted price increases at the same time labor costs, taxes and other costs have been climbing.

This is shown, said Chairman Albert L. Nickerson of Socony Mobil Oil Co., by the way corporate profits have shrunk from 9.2 per cent of national income in 1947 to 5.4 per cent last year.

Despite dollar - figure records this year, reports the First National City Bank of New York in its monthly letter, current profits average only about 6 per cent. This is dangerously low for a recession-recovery period, it says, and does little to spark boom hopes.

Nor will the current trend bring about the $56.5 billion in pre-tax earnings estimated to be needed to balance the federal budget in fiscal 1963, the bank says.

Profit - erosion, businessmen contend, has eaten into money available for capital expansion.

This means, says Chairman Roger Blough, of U S. Steel Corp., that American plants aren't modernizing as fast as foreign competitors, thereby endangering America's past success at using production efficiency to counteract cheaper foreign labor.

It also means, says Martin R. Gainsbrugh, chief economist of the National Industrial Conference Board, that jobs at home are not being generated.

An attempt to spell out these effects in specific terms comes from William Butler, vice president of Chase Manhattan Bank and president of the National Association of Business Economists.

"You'll notice unemployment is worse in the heavy goods areas —Chicago, Pittsburgh, St. Louis. These are the plants that would be turning out new machinery if companies were buying it."

There's another thing, he says —a paucity of the kind of new products and new industries that could give the economy a shot in the arm.

Pay Increase To Be Sought By Trainmen

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen injected a new element into the troubled railway-labor negotiations Saturday with the announcement of demands for a 25-cent hourly pay increase and a fully paid health and welfare plan from the nation's railroads.

It was the first wage demand to come from any of the five railway operating unions that are deadlocked with the railroads in a dispute over proposed work-rule changes.

The demand far exceeds the 10.2 cents an hour recommended for 11 nonoperating unions May 3 by a presidential fact-finding board. The nonoperating unions, representing some 450,000 employes, had asked for an increase similar to that sought by the trainmen.

A spokesman for the railroads immediately branded the trainmen's demand as inflationary. James E. Wolfe, who has acted as spokesman for the nation's railroads in their negotiations, said in Chicago: "We view it as being entirely inflationary and and contrary to public policy."

Wolfe previously had expressed opposition also to the recommendation of the fact-finding board, saying that any increase was unjustified.

The trainmen's union the largest of the five operating brotherhoods, which cover a total of about 210,000 railroad employes. The trainmen reportedly cover about half of these.

A spokesman for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which also has headquarters here, said that union had no plans at the moment to follow the lead of the trainmen. But he added, "We all feel an increase is needed."

The spokesman noted that a two per cent wage increase was received in March 1961 in the second year of a contract that went into effect July 1, 1960. The 1960 increase also was two per cent.

W. P. Kennedy, president of the trainmen, said the demands will be presented to each railroad Monday. He said that in addition to the demand for an increase in basic pay scales of 25 cents an hour, the trainmen are asking that proportionate increases be made in differentials, special allowances, and miscellaneous rates. Current wage scales were not available.

The union wants the railroads to provide life insurance for each employe, pay a year's earnings to survivors upon his death, and pay all hospital and medical expenses. The trainmen did not say how much this might add to a wage package.

The trainmen also is demanding a reduction of hours for dining car stewards from the present 205 hours a month to 180 hours.

Ellender Would Abandon Asians To Communists

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., Saturday night proposed that the United States abandon southeast Asia to Communism unless SEATO and the Asian people contribute more to the defense of freedom.

Ellender, member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said this country should ask Southeast Asia Treaty Organization members and its allies in Europe to help draw a line of defense

Should they refuse, Ellender said, the U. S. should "pull out of southeast Asia altogether...all the way to the United States.. and let (Asia) go Communist if the people there desire it."

"We should never have created an army in Laos," Ellender said. "When the time came for them to resist, they just flew the coop ...and the Commies have all the military hardware and I have no doubt that it may be used against us."

Ellender also criticized American "kowtowing and scraping" to German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Britain's Harold Macmillan and France's Gen. Charles de Gaulle on the subject of negotiations with the Soviet Union.

"I don't suppose the Lord himself could get Adenauer, de Gaulle and Macmillan to see eye to eye on how to solve the problems of Western Europe," Ellender said. "My advice to the President is for him to talk to the Russians, irrespective of the feelings of France, Germany, Italy or any of these allies of Western Europe."

Asia Editors Split Over Troops Use

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The United States has taken some lumps from Southeast Asian editors for sending combat forces to Thailand, but in the main President Kennedy's policy seems to be ahead on points.

There has been almost no official comment in Southeast Asia, a critical area in maintaining world peace, but many newspaper editorials reflect the thinking of government circles.

In general, there is acceptance of Kennedy's action aimed at deterring Communist aggression against Thailand, but a widely expressed view is that the United States must press forward to seek a peaceful solution of Laos' strife.

As for the average man in the street, few in Southeast Asia seem to know what is going on —or care.

Some of the bitterest editorial criticism has come from neutralist Burma, which shares a common border with Thailand and Laos.

The left-leaning Botataung of Rangoon accused the United States of forcing its decisions on the area. The Vanguard of Rangoon carried a cartoon showing Uncle Sam extinguishing a fire in Laos with gasoline.

But the leading English-language Nation said "a swift show of force and willingness to use that force goes a long way toward deterring aggression" in the present cold war.

In Hong Kong, two english-language papers, the China Mail and the Morning Post, approved the Marine landing.

But Hong Kong's strongly anti-Communist Tiger Standard said the move exposes the United States to accusations of imperialist warmongering. It said there also is a risk that the Communists will "proceed unchecked with their offensive in Laos and then make the false but plausible claim that they have successfully defied the American paper tiger."

3 Are Booked In Twin Cities Driving Cases

Three persons were booked for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages by local police departments Saturday.

West Monroe officers booked Thomas F. Honer, 50 of 419 Walters St., West Monroe, for DWI at 12:25 a.m. Saturday. He was taken into custody in the 1800 block of Cypress Street.

Monroe officers booked two for DWI late Saturday. Eddie Leon Quarles, 49 of 505-B Cypress St., West Monroe, was booked at 9 p.m. after being apprehended on Cypress Street in West Monroe with the aid of West Monroe police. He was released under a $435 bond.

At 8:50 p.m. Saturday, Ronald Keith Mays, 24 of 210½ S. Riverfront St., West Monroe, was booked on a total of five counts. He was charged with negligent injury, two counts of damage to property, DWI and reckless driving.

Mays was taken into custody after his release from E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital where he had been given emergency treatment for injuries sustained in an accident early Saturday.

GOP Leaders, Ike Will Confer On Party Unity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., expressed confidence Saturday that Republicans will find in a meeting with ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower Monday a key to party campaign unity.

A committee of six senators and six House members will sit down at breakfast with the former president to go over the draft of a party statement of principles to guide GOP candidates in the fall elections.

"I am confident," Laird said in a statement, "that we will bring in a statement that will set forth the basic Republican principles on which all Republican candidates can and will run this fall.

"This again will demonstrate that we Republicans are the only national party. It will evidence anew that we are not simply a coalition of divergent groups, as are the Democrats. All Democrats cannot possibly run on a single statement of principles."

Laird and Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, serve as co-chairmen of the drafting group.

Republicans May Criticize Laos Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Republican leaders are supporting President Kennedy in the immediate Southeast Asia crisis but are reserving the right to criticize his diplomatic course in Laos.

And if a coalition government eventually is formed to rule that unhappy country, Kennedy can expect to hear in the fall campaign that his "mistakes" have made it certain that the Communists will control Laos.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, made it clear in an interview Saturday that GOP members have no criticism of the President's sending U.S. troops to Thailand.

"We are agreed," Hickenlooper said, "that a display of military strength was necessary. But we do not agree with the policies that brought about this crisis.

"In our view the policy of forcing Western elements in Laos into a coalition with the Communists and the neutralists is wrong. If there is a coalition government, eventually the Communists will own Laos."

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, the assistant Senate Republican leader, said in a separate interview it is fair to say that the Republicans are going along with the President now but reserving the right to criticize him later.

Kuchel was critical at a White House briefing of members of both parties last week on the failure of U.S. allies to send at least a platoon of troops into Thailand as a token of their support of our move.

Subsequently, the British made Royal Air Force units available on Thailand's request.

Theriot Urges Sound Policies

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) —State Comptroller Roy Theriot said Saturday night the only remedy for Louisiana's financial ills is a sound fiscal policy.

He told the Southwest Louisiana chapter of the American Institute of Banking he would like the legislature to appoint a committee of bankers, financial specialists and experts to make an impartial study of the state's finances for present and long range financing.

Chiropractors' Licensing Move To Be Opposed

The Louisiana State Medical Society will vigorously oppose any legislation in the current session of the legislature which would grant legal status to chiropractors in Louisiana.

Dr. Ralph H. Riggs of Shreveport, president of the Medical Society, said his organization will oppose announced plans by chiropractors to pass a licensing act in Baton Rouge. The medical society's position on chiropractic remains unchanged, according to Dr. Riggs.

"The licensing of chiropractors would, in effect, create a double standard for those practicing the healing arts," Dr. Riggs stated.

"The Louisiana State Medical Society feels that anyone who accepts money for treating or advising the sick is practicing medicine and should therefore be governed by the existing Medical Practice Act. This act is specifically designed to protect the public by prohibiting unqualified or others, from practicing medicine.

"Medical doctors have a moral responsibility to protect the health of the public," Dr. Riggs continued, "and that is why we are pledged to guard against activities by chiropractors or others who seek to lower the health standards of our state.

"It is the elief of the Louisiana State Medical Society that chiropractors are a health hazard because they attempt to treat the sick, even though they have received no medical training in universally recognized schools and hospitals," Dr. Riggs explained. "No state or recognized private college or university has courses in chiropractic," he concluded.

Brother Of Winn Woman Dies

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Funeral services for W. Dixon (Dixie) Morris, 51, president of a Houston oil management firm, will be held here Monday.

Morris, who died after a lengthy illness, was president of the Dixon Management Corp., which he founded in 1956. Morris was born in Morringsport, La., and grew up in Shreveport. He attended the University of Oklahoma and worked for the Union Producing Co., in the Rodessa field of Louisiana and Texas before coming to Houston in 1939.

Survivors include his widow of Houston; his mother, Mrs. C. E. Morris of Shreveport, and a sister, Mrs. Richard Heard of Winnfield, La.

All Aboard Die In Alaska Crash Of Jet Bomber

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—A B57 Canberra jet bomber carrying an American crew of at least two crashed during an Armed Forces Day demonstration Saturday, killing all aboard.

The bomber, making a starfing run, crashed in full view of about 20,000 persons in a wooded area about a mile northeast of the Elmendorf Air Force Base runway.

The area is part of the Air Force base, which borders this western Alaska city.

Soviet Premier Assails JFK Nuclear Policy

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev told a rally of Bulgarians Saturday night that President Kennedy is following "close to the dangerous road of his predecessors."

Addressing 50,000 Sofians in the main square of this Balkan capital the Soviet leader quoted Kennedy as saying earlier this year the United States was prepared under certain conditions to initiate atomic warfare.

Khrushchev said such a policy would be unreasonable and it could only lead to national suicide.

"Does President Kennedy want to push me into a competition as to who would be the first to push the button?" Khrushchev asked. "We are against such a competition. We only want to keep our powder dry and be ready."

The speech marked the end of Khrushchev's week-long visit to Bulgaria.

Model Of Long Statue Okayed

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) —The Earl K. Long memorial committee Saturday accepted a scale model to be used in casting a life-size bronze statue of the late governor.

Arthur Morgan, a Shreveport sculptor, designed the model and will make the statue, expected to be ready in 10 months.

The statue will be placed over Long's grave at Winnfield.

Businessmen Say Profits Ratio Is Low

NEW YORK (AP) — The business community is wrestling with a confusing profits paradox.

Businessmen concede that profits are up almost 30 per cent so far this year and may well hit record highs.

But businessmen complain earnings still are not high enough to get the country going full blast.

"Utterly fantastic," says an AFL—CIO economist who quarrels with both the facts and conclusions of this argument.

"Exactly how often," asks another labor official, "have you heard a businessman complain profits are too high?"

This is not merely a theoretical how-high-is-up debate, insist the many businessmen.

What has happened, they say, is that competition, both here and abroad, has thwarted price increases at the same time labor costs, taxes and other costs have been climbing.

This is shown, said Chairman Albert L. Nickerson of Socony Mobil Oil Co., by the way corporate profits have shrunk from 9.2 per cent of national income in 1947 to 5.4 per cent last year.

Despite dollar - figure records this year, reports the First National City Bank of New York in its monthly letter, current profits average only about 6 per cent. This is dangerously low for a recession-recovery period, it says, and does little to spark boom hopes.

Nor will the current trend bring about the $56.5 billion in pre-tax earnings estimated to be needed to balance the federal budget in fiscal 1963, the bank says.

Profit - erosion, businessmen contend, has eaten into money available for capital expansion.

This means, says Chairman Roger Blough, of U. S. Steel Corp., that American plants aren't modernizing as fast as foreign competitors, thereby endangering America's past success at using production efficiency to counteract cheaper foreign labor.

It also means, says Martin R. Gainsbrugh, chief economist of the National Industrial Conference Board, that jobs at home are not being generated.

An attempt to spell out these effects in specific terms comes from William Butler, vice president of Chase Manhattan Bank and president of the National Association of Business Economists.

"You'll notice unemployment is worse in the heavy goods areas —Chicago, Pittsburgh, St. Louis. These are the plants that would be turning out new machinery if companies were buying it."

There's another thing, he says —a paucity of the kind of new products and new industries that could give the economy a shot in the arm.

Asia Editors Split Over Troops Use

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The United States has taken some lumps from Southeast Asian editors for sending combat forces to Thailand, but in the main President Kennedy's policy seems to be ahead on points.

There has been almost no official comment in Southeast Asia, a critical area in maintaining world peace, but many newspaper editorials reflect the thinking of government circles.

In general, there is acceptance of Kennedy's action aimed at deterring Communist aggression against Thailand, but a widely expressed view is that the United States must press forward to seek a peaceful solution of Laos' strife.

As for the average man in the street, few in Southeast Asia seem to know what is going on or care.

Some of the bitterest editorial criticism has come from neutralist Burma, which shares a common border with Thailand and Laos.

The left-leaning Botataung of Rangoon accused the United States of forcing its decisions on the area. The Vanguard of Rangoon carried a cartoon showing Uncle Sam extinguishing a fire in Laos with gasoline.

But the leading English-language Nation said "a swift show of force and willingness to use that force goes a long way toward deterring aggression" in the present cold war.

In Hong Kong, two english-language papers, the China Mail and the Morning Post, approved the Marine landing.

But Hong Kong's strongly anti-Communist Tiger Standard said the move exposes the United States to accusations of imperialist warmongering. It said there is no doubt that the Communists will "proceed unchecked with their offensive in Laos and make the false but plausible claim that they have successfully defied the American Paper Tiger."

3 Are Booked In Twin Cities Driving Cases

Three persons were booked for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages by local police departments Saturday.

West Monroe officers booked Thomas F. Honer, 50 of 419 Walters St., West Monroe, for DWI at 12:25 a.m. Saturday. He was taken into custody in the 1800 block of Cypress Street.

Monroe officers booked two for DWI late Saturday. Eddie Leon Quarles, 49 of 505-B Cypress St., West Monroe, was booked at 9 p.m. after being apprehended on Cypress Street in West Monroe by city police with the aid of West Monroe police. He was released under a $435 bond.

At 8:50 p.m. Saturday, Ronald Keith Mays, 24 of 210½ S. Riverfront St., West Monroe, was booked on a total of five counts. He was charged with negligent injury, two counts of damage to property, DWI and reckless driving.

Mays was taken into custody after his release from E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital where he had been given emergency treatment for injuries sustained in an accident early Saturday.

GOP Leaders, Ike Will Confer On Party Unity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., expressed confidence Saturday that Republicans will find in a meeting with ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower a basis for party campaign unity.

A committee of six senators and six House members will sit down at breakfast with the former president to go over the draft of a party statement of principles to guide GOP candidates in the fall elections.

"I am confident," Laird said in a statement, "that we will bring in a statement that will set forth the basic Republican principles on which candidates can and will run this fall."

"This again will demonstrate that we Republicans are the only national party. It will evidence anew that we are not comprised, as are the Democrats, of a multitude of divergent groups, as the Democrats. All Democrats cannot possibly run on a single statement of principles."

Laird and Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, are co-chairmen of the drafting group.

Republicans May Criticize Laos Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Republican leaders are supporting President Kennedy in the immediate Southeast Asia crisis but are reserving the right to criticize his diplomatic course in Laos.

And if a coalition government eventually is formed to rule that unhappy country, Kennedy can expect to hear in the fall campaign that his "mistakes" have made it certain that the Communists will control Laos.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, made it clear in an interview Saturday that GOP members have no criticism of the President's sending U.S. troops to Thailand.

"We are agreed," Hickenlooper said, "that a display of military strength was necessary. But we do not agree with the policies that brought about this crisis.

"In our view the policy of forcing Western elements in Laos into a coalition with the Communists and the neutralists is wrong. If there is a coalition government, eventually the Communists will own Laos."

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, the assistant Senate Republican leader, said in a separate interview it is fair to say that the Republicans are going along with the President now but reserving the right to criticize him later.

Kuchel was critical at a White House briefing of members of both parties last week on the failure of U.S. allies to send at least a platoon of troops into Thailand as a token of their support of our move.

Subsequently, the British made Royal Air Force units available on Thailand's request.

Theriot Urges Sound Policies

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) —State Comptroller Roy Theriot said Saturday night the only remedy for Louisiana's financial ills is a sound fiscal policy.

He told the Southwest Louisiana chapter of the American Institute of Banking he would like the legislature to appoint a committee of bankers, financial specialists and experts to make an impartial study of the state's finances for present and long range financing.

Pay Increase To Be Sought By Trainmen

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen injected a new element into the troubled railway-labor negotiations Saturday with the announcement of demands for a 25-cent hourly pay increase and a fully paid health and welfare plan from the nation's railroads.

It was the first wage demand to come from any of the five railway operating unions that are deadlocked with the railroads in a dispute over proposed work-rule changes.

The demand far exceeds the 10.2 cents an hour recommended for 11 nonoperating unions May 3 by a presidential fact-finding board. The nonoperating unions, representing some 450,000 employes, had asked for an increase similar to that sought by the trainmen.

A spokesman for the railroads immediately branded the trainmen's demand as inflationary. James E. Wolfe, who has acted as spokesman for the nation's railroads in their negotiations, said in Chicago: "We view it as being entirely inflationary and and contrary to public policy."

Wolfe previously had expressed opposition also to the recommendation of the fact-finding board, saying that any increase was unjustified.

The trainmen's union the largest of the five operating brotherhoods, which cover a total of about 210,000 railroad employes. The trainmen reportedly cover about half of these.

A spokesman for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which also has headquarters here, said that union had no plans at the moment to follow the lead of the trainmen. But he added, "We may be forced."

The spokesman noted that a two per cent wage increase was received in March 1961 in the second year of a contract that went into effect July 1, 1960. The 1960 increase also was two per cent.

W. P. Kennedy, president of the trainmen, said the demands will be presented to each railroad Monday. He said that in addition to the demand for an increase in basic pay scales of 25 cents an hour, the trainmen are asking that proportionate increases be made in differentials, special allowances, and miscellaneous rates. Current wage scales were not available.

The union wants the railroads to provide life insurance for each employe, pay a year's earnings to survivors upon his death, and pay all hospital and medical expenses. The trainmen did not say how much this might add to a wage package.

The trainmen also is demanding a reduction of hours for dining car stewards from the present 205 hours a month to 180 hours.

Chiropractors' Licensing Move To Be Opposed

The Louisiana State Medical Society will vigorously oppose any legislation in the current session of the legislature which would grant legal status to chiropractors in Louisiana.

Dr. Ralph H. Riggs of Shreveport, president of the Medical Society, said his organization will oppose announced plans by chiropractors to pass a licensing act in Baton Rouge. The medical society's position on chiropractic remains unchanged, according to Dr. Riggs.

"The licensing of chiropractors would, in effect, create a double standard for those practicing the healing arts," Dr. Riggs stated.

"The Louisiana State Medical Society feels that anyone who accepts money for treating or advising the sick is practicing medicine and should therefore be governed by the existing Medical Practice Act. This act is specifically designed to protect the public by prohibiting unqualified or others, from practicing medicine.

"Medical doctors have a moral responsibility to protect the health of the public," Dr. Riggs continued, "and that is why we are pledged to guard against activities by chiropractors or others who seek to lower the health standards of our state.

"It is the elief of the Louisiana State Medical Society that chiropractors are a health hazard because they attempt to treat the sick, even though they have received no medical training in universally recognized schools and hospitals," Dr. Riggs explained. "No state or recognized private college or university has courses in chiropractic," he concluded.

Ellender Would Abandon Asians To Communists

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., Saturday night proposed that the United States abandon southeast Asia to Communism unless SEATO and the Asian people contribute more to the defense of freedom.

Ellender, member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said this country should ask Southeast Asia Treaty Organization members and its allies in Europe to help draw a line of defense.

Should they refuse, Ellender said, the U. S. should "pull out of southeast Asia altogether...all the way to the United States... and let (Asia) go Communist if the people there desire it."

"We should never have created an army in Laos," Ellender said. "When the time came for them to resist, they just flew the coop ...and the Commies have all the military hardware and I have no doubt that it may be used against us."

Ellender also criticized American "kowtowing and scraping" to German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Britain's Harold Macmillan and France's Gen. Charles de Gaulle on the subject of negotiations with the Soviet Union.

"I don't suppose the Lord himself could get Adenauer, de Gaulle and Macmillan to see eye to eye on how to solve the problems of Western Europe," Ellender said. "My advice to the President is for him to talk to the Russians, irrespective of the feelings of France, Germany, Italy or any of these allies of Western Europe."

Soviet Premier Assails JFK Nuclear Policy

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev told a rally of Bulgarians Saturday night that President Kennedy is following "close to the dangerous road of his predecessors."

Addressing 50,000 Sofians in the main square of this Balkan capital the Soviet leader quoted Kennedy as saying earlier this year the United States was prepared under certain conditions to initiate atomic warfare.

Khrushchev said such a policy would be unreasonable and it could only lead to national suicide.

"Does President Kennedy want to push me into a competition as to who would be the first to push the button?" Khrushchev asked. "We are against such a competition. We only want to keep our powder dry and be ready."

The speech marked the end of Khrushchev's week-long visit to Bulgaria.

All Aboard Die In Alaska Crash Of Jet Bomber

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—A B57 Canberra jet bomber carrying an American crew of at least two crashed during an Armed Forces Day demonstration Saturday, killing all aboard.

The bomber, making a starfing run, crashed in full view of about 20,000 persons in a wooded area about a mile northeast of the Elmendorf Air Force Base runway.

The area is part of the Air Force base, which borders this western Alaska city.

Model Of Long Statue Okayed

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) —The Earl K. Long memorial committee Saturday accepted a scale model to be used in casting a life-size bronze statue of the late governor.

Arthur Morgan, a Shreveport sculptor, designed the model and will make the statue, expected to be ready in 10 months.

The statue will be placed over Long's grave at Winnfield.

Tech Schedules Registration For Summer Session

RUSTON (Special) — Summer term registration at Louisiana Tech has been set for June 5, in Memorial Gymnasium.

Classes for the nine-week session will begin at 7 p.m. Wednesday, June 6.

Students who enroll after June 5 will be charged a late fee of $1. Registration closes June 9.

Registration will take place in alphabetical order as follows:

Graduating seniors and graduating graduate students — A-F, 9 a.m.; G-M, 10 a.m.; N-Z, 11 a.m.

New undergraduate students—A-N, 1 p.m.; P-S, 2 p.m.; T-Z, 3 p.m.

The regular registration schedule (this includes new graduate students and former Tech students who are not in the categories above):

Registration assistants, 8 a.m.; A-D, 9 a.m.; E-H, 10 a.m.; I-Mc, 11 a.m.; M-O, 1 p.m.; P-S, 2 p.m.; T-Z, 3 p.m.

Students registered for the fall or spring semesters of 1961-62 must present their identification cards to be validated for the summer session in the registration line. Registration will not be completed until the student has complied with this requirement.

All new students, freshmen and transfers, will follow the orientation schedule on Wednesday morning, June 5, as follows:

7:30 a.m. — Convocation for all new students in Howard Auditorium.

8 a.m. — Convocation for men in the Little Theater with Dean of Men S. X. Lewis; convocation for women in Howard Auditorium with Dean of Women June Dyson.

8:45 a.m. — College abilities test at the Irene Tolliver dining hall, bottom floor.

10:15 a.m. — Mathematics placement examination in Bogard Hall.

MR. STOCKMAN
INTERNAL parasites are expensive to feed and give no financial gain in return. Wormy livestock loses weight, milk production and the owner loses money. You can worm your entire dairy herd and never lose a drop of milk. Many dairymen reported a gain in milk production of 1 to 2 pounds per day per cow after worming their herd with Paritrope. You can also worm your sheep and not have any toxic reactions when you use Paritrope.

GRAY HORSE, 8 years, spirited but gentle. $145. NO 5-2070.

MR. STOCKMAN
INTERNAL parasites are expensive to feed and give no financial gain in return. Wormy livestock loses weight, milk production and the owner loses money. You can worm your entire dairy herd and never lose a drop of milk. Many dairymen reported a gain in milk production of 1 to 2 pounds per day per cow after worming their herd with Paritrope. You can also worm your sheep and not have any toxic reactions when you use Paritrope.

PUBLIC AUCTION
Of The Beautiful
LOGAN'S ISLAND RANCH
Located 20 Miles North of Shreveport, La. at
GILLIAM, LOUISIANA
* Land * Cattle * Farm Equipment
Everything Sells To The High Bidder Without Minimum or Reservation FRIDAY, JUNE 8, 1962— 1:00 P.M.
911 ACRES WITH 178 ACRE LAKE — to sell at public auction. This is very outstanding farming and grazing land. Capable of making two bales of cotton per acre every year and will run two cows to the acre. A rare investment opportunity in one of the most productive combination farms you'll ever find. Bounded by the Red River on the east and a "horse shoe" lake creates a beautiful island. High land that never floods. Low Down Payment. Easy Terms.
SPORTSMEN FISHERMEN LAKE DEVELOPERS
— here's over 4½ miles of lake frontage with hundreds of beautiful building sites on the cottonwood shaded banks. Deep clear water that maintains the same level year round. Chuck full of fish and a water skiers haven. Come see it.
LOCATION:
Located 5 miles southeast of Gilliam, La. just off Highway 71. Watch for auction direction signs. Only a 20 minute drive from Shreveport, La. and a short distance from Texarkana. Ideal for resort development or a company or church park without interfering with the cattle and farming operation.
INSPECTION:
To inspect property call owner, Dan P. Logan, Gilliam, La. or Wayne Cook Associates, 193 Meadows Bldg, Dallas, Texas, EM 3-3388.
CATTLE ALSO SELL:
107 Whiteface mother cows with 80 calves. Also 4 top Hereford bulls. A good set of commercial cows that will sell in pairs. Don't hesitate, inspect them now. Write for brochure:

PUBLIC AUCTION
Of The Beautiful
LOGAN'S ISLAND RANCH
Located 20 Miles North of Shreveport, La. at
GILLIAM, LOUISIANA
* Land * Cattle * Farm Equipment Everything Sells To The High Bidder Without Minimum or Reservation FRIDAY, JUNE 8, 1962—1:00 P.M.
911 ACRES WITH 178 ACRE LAKE — to sell at public auction. This is very outstanding farming and grazing land. Capable of making two bales of cotton per acre every year and will run two cows to the acre. A rare investment opportunity in one of the most productive combination farms you'll ever find. Bounded by the Red River on the east and a "horse shoe" lake creates a beautiful island. High land that never floods. Low Down Payment. Easy Terms.
SPORTSMEN FISHERMEN
LAKE DEVELOPERS
— here's over 4½ miles of lake frontage with hundreds of beautiful building sites on the cottonwood shaded banks. Deep clear water that maintains the same level year round. Chuck full of fish and a water skiers haven. Come see it.
LOCATION:
Located 5 miles southeast of Gilliam, La. just off Highway 71. Watch for auction direction signs. Only a 20 minute drive from Shreveport, La. and a short distance from Texarkana. Ideal for resort development or a company or church park without interfering with the cattle and farming operation.
INSPECTION:
To inspect property call owner, Dan P. Logan, Gilliam, La. or Wayne Cook Associates, 193 Meadows Bldg, Dallas, Texas, EM 3-3388.
CATTLE ALSO SELL:
107 Whiteface mother cows with 80 calves. Also 6 top Hereford bulls. A good set of commercial cows that will sell in pairs. Don't hesitate, inspect them now. Write for brochure:

This is cheaper than renting — for where can you find a home like this for $44 per month (including insurance and taxes) after a low down payment of $250 — full price $7250! And you'll own a completely redecorated 2 bedroom home with panel ray heating! Conveniently located to Plum St. Shopping Center. Why not see today?

Duncan, W.M.

CAN YOU AFFORD to rent when you can buy this home for only $300 down and payments of $53.50! It's newly decorated with 3 bedrooms, ceramic tile bath, kitchen with snack bar, built-in oven and range. Carport, storage. On a large beautiful lot with trees. Call now to see!

Audubon, W.M.

YOUR key to better living — if you'd like to raise your children in a "better" neighborhood, we suggest you see this home located in the country club area. This brick home is comfort-designed with a bonus of beauty — with 3 large bedrooms (14½x12½, 15x12½, 12½x15), 2 full baths, spacious 15x21 living room. Many other "extras" including 3 tons air conditioning, drapes, and 90x180 ft. landscaped lot. The price will pleasantly surprise you . . . only $16,500! We'd like you to see this!

Ada, W.M.

NONE TOO PLEASED with your present home? Then see this brick located just 1 block of Highland School! Features include 3 bedrooms, built-in oven and range in kitchen, and shady lot with cyclone fenced back yard for child-safety! Already financed, pay $850, no closing costs, and assume $82 monthly payments. Phone now for a showing!

North 8th, W.M.

SO TEMPTING, you'll want to move right in! This brick home is set on a large (100x170 ft.) lot and features huge living room with dining area and hard wood floors, 3 bedrooms, and full ceramic tile bath. Also central heating, attic fan, double carport. Located in a desirable neighborhood convenient to McGuire Shopping Center, churches, and schools. Full price, $15,800 . . . move in for a low down payment! Why not see today!

Senate 'Buries' Kennedy's Literacy Test Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate this week buried President Kennedy's literacy test bill under more than one million words of debate.

For three weeks the chamber had been arguing the merits and constitutionality of the measure to outlaw state literacy examinations as a requirement for voting in federal elections.

Ironically, a majority of the Senate favored the legislation since 64 voted against killing it. But they were not willing to choke off a Southern filibuster by invoking cloture — a gag rule which shuts off debate. Cloture requires a two-thirds vote for adoption. In two votes it fell substantially short of the necessary majority.

Senate leaders decided they had had enough. The filibuster had sidetracked nearly all Senate business. And even though Northern liberals wanted to keep trying, there was no chance of the bill getting anywhere without a test of physical endurance.

This would have meant continuous sessions to wear the Southerners out. But the leaders were unwilling to put the Senate through such a trial at this time in world affairs.

It isn't the best of international publicity to hear of U.S. Senators talking around the clock to avoid a vote. And the odds were against a test of physical stamina. In all, the Southerners had 19 senators in their filibuster phalanx. They could have talked for weeks.

Two major questions remain:

Liberals have served notice they will try to change the rules next January so a simple majority, instead of two-thirds, can bring debate to a close after it has gone on for two weeks. But the parliamentary setup is such that the odds are against them. Furthermore, the cloture showing was so weak that it seems to cut the ground from under the plan. The only thing that could offset this would be a substantial overturn in Senate sentiment as a result of elections.

Finally, there is the politics of the situation, though much of it can be considered a standoff.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., and GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., worked out team strategy on the bill — a strategy that didn't work. But no one can say whether any other strategy would have done better.

Both leaders worked under planks in their respective party platforms which call for an end to discrimination against voters. The U.S. Civil Rights Commission had charged the literacy tests were used in the South to keep voters from the polls.

Court Blocks Salan Trial Defense Bid

PARIS (UPI)—A military high tribunal Saturday blocked attempts by attorneys for ex-Gen Raoul Salan to turn his treason trial into a full-scale political debate on French politics on Algeria before and after President Charles de Gaulle was returned to power.

The attempt was made during testimony by ex-Premier Michel Debre, called by the defense on the fifth day of the trial of the renegade general who commanded the "French Algeria" Secret Army Organization (OAS).

The court was sitting under death threats from the OAS. The judges disclosed earlier that the OAS had threatened to kill each of them "like a dog" if Salan or his OAS aide, ex-Gen. Edmond Jouhaud, are executed. Jouhaud already is under a death sentence from a military court.

Unknown assailants made plastic bomb attacks at two Paris police stations early Saturday but there were no casualties. The plastic bombs have been a favorite weapon of the outlawed OAS in its terrorist campaign in Algeria and France.

There was no visible signs of any strengthening of the already strong guard at the Palais de Justice where the court is sitting. The judges and other key persons involved in the trial already were under stringent police protection.

Debre, who resigned as premier after the cease-fire agreement on Algeria last March, was the first witness at the session Saturday.

During his testimony, he denied all complicity or knowledge of an attempt to kill Salan with bazooka shells on Jan. 16, 1957, in Algiers. Salan then was commander - in chief of French forces.

RABUN SAYS

D'Arbonne Fishing Scheduled For '63

RUSTON (Special)—Fishing in Lake D'Arbonne by this time next year, provided the weather cooperates, is the prediction of Armand Rabun, chairman of the D'Arbonne Lake Commission. He spoke to Ruston Kiwanians.

Work is now in progress raising the roadbeds of highways that cross the lake and construction on the spillway is about 75 per cent complete.

The same contractor has the task of building the roads, bridges, spillways and dam so that he is able to integrate all activity toward one goal of completion without waiting for another party to get ready for him.

No work of any sort has been done for about six months due to the flooding rain that has softened the ground so that machinery could not be used. About five months of good weather will be necessary to complete the project, Rabun said.

Highways 3, 15 and 2 must be raised and bridges built. More than a year will be required to fill the reservoir, according to engineers, but it it is thought that several weeks of heavy rains such as we have been experienced lately will do the job much quicker.

The Commission has no power and no funds, Rabun added, and they hoped to work out some plan with the state concerning the granting of various rings around the lake that will enable them to hire personnel and enforce regulations.

Plans are being made toward writing a set of bylaws and he asked the Kiwanis Club to appoint some member to work with members from all other clubs, sportsmen's groups and towns to develop regulations that will make this one of the best lakes in the south.

Various state and federal agencies are working together to make D'Arbonne a model lake, he said. A waterfowl resting area will be established south of the bridge, but hunting will be allowed north of the bridge with shooting blinds.

Water sport area south of the bridge will provide for boating, water skiing, and other sports. There will be 7,000 open acres of water.

Twelve launching ramps and public recreational areas are provided around the lake of two acres each. There will be 150-miles of shore lines. No plans for public parks aside from these 12 are now provided.

Rabun said if public areas in addition to these are secured, it must be done with state funds. Roads around the lake must be built by the police juries of Lincoln and Union parishes.

Sanitation studies are now being made to allow house boats on the lake if they are equipped with chemical toilets. There is no restriction on the size of a boat anywhere on the lake.

Additional information about lake will be announced as it is developed, Rabun concluded.

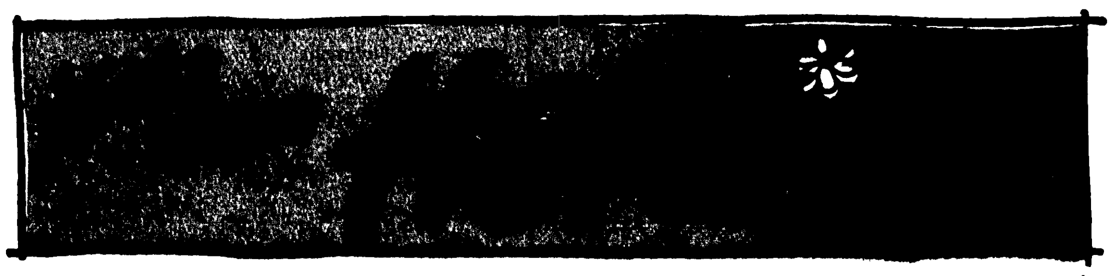
HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS



DEAR READERS:
First thing this morning are Formica, Micarta, etc., drainboards with stains! Never use an abrasive on this type of material. It cuts the finish off the top and then more stains adhere! This is what you are trying to prevent!

Quite by accident (after trying everything everyone suggested) I tried alcohol! I found this removes (or dislodges) most stains, such as tobacco, the most difficult of all to get off.

I poured plain, inexpensive alcohol on my Formica drainboard. Within a few seconds the stains were removed! But later I noticed a return of some of the discoloring.

I poured more alcohol on the drainboard and smeared it with my hand and, within one minute, applied pure household bleach. This time the stain was completely removed!

I then called a chemist. He said the alcohol (which was quite a discovery) had brought the stain to the surface and the bleach had bleached the impurities and stains from the top of the alcohol!

I was as "floored" as you will be when you try this experiment. I thought I was seeing things. I didn't believe it myself. Since then over 20 people have tried this stain removal method on different types of drainboard, table tops, etc., and all say it has worked for them.

For less than two cents you can try this on your stained counters.

I suggest that you pour about one-fourth cup of plain rubbing alcohol over the stains on this type drainboard, smear it on with your hand (unless you are allergic to alcohol) and one minute later apply one-fourth cup of household bleach. Rinse as usual when stains disappear.

— Heloise

FOIL YOUR HANGERS

DEAR HELOISE:
Here's an idea for those who are too frugal to buy plastic coat hangers for their drip-dries.

Cover wire coat hangers with foil! I cut foil in one-inch strips and wrap round and round. These strips can just be folded on the three sides of the coat hanger and pinched together.

—Mrs. J. Hughes

DEAR HELOISE:
For those who use top and bottom sheets of different kinds — (for example, a contour sheet and a plain top sheet) — and fold them together when they put them in their closet to prevent wasting time when making the beds — I go one better!

Hang them on the line that way! I put the contour sheet on the bottom and hang the top sheet over this. Saves space on the line too.

But better yet . . . when I take them down, I fold them together, thus saving two operations.

— B. Beal

PINCH-HITTERS

DEAR HELOISE:
So often when we move we don't have the right size curtains for windows. I use candy-striped kitchen towels and they pinch-hit beautifully. Just stitch a hem along one end and put them on a curtain rod until you can do better.

Mine looked so pretty that they are in permanent use now.

These window curtains do not have to be striped or even all in one color. If the window is wide, put up four different colored towels on one curtain rod. They may be tied back or left hanging straight.

— Mrs. A. M. Atherton

BOOT MARKS

DEAR HELOISE:
Instead of adhesive or name tapes for rainwear, I wrote my son's name with a dry ink marker right on the inside of his raincoat and hat.

I also wrote his first name (on the outside at the back) of his left boot and his last name on the right boot. This not only solves the name-tape problem but my son knows if he stands the boots in front of him and can read his name properly . . . each boot will be on the proper foot!

These ink markers are wonderful for many things such as marking toys, books, lunch pails and all school equipment and yard tools.

— Rita Weinsch

MILK CARTON ICE

DEAR HELOISE:
When making ice in empty milk cartons that contain lots of wax, rinse the cartons with hot water first to melt and remove all the excess wax. Then fill with cold water.

If the carton still contains wax after freezing (and you will know after testing a few) run the carton under hot water again before using, remove the top, and the block of ice will fall out.

I rinse ice again before using, as I never know on which day the dairy is generous with wax. I do find plastic cartons foolproof.

—Charles Hopper

TIDY PLAYTIME PLAN

DEAR HELOISE:
Those TV trays are useful for something else besides serving meals to the kiddies.

When my children use crayons or paint . . . I set up two trays for each child, side by side. On one tray I put the child's drawing paper and on the other tray I put his paints or crayons. This prevents spills on the floor.

I always put newspapers down (Yes, this one, after I have clipped your column) on the floor beneath both trays. When the child is through messing, I just "dump" all the mess onto the newspaper that's on the floor. Then I roll it up and discard.

What a lifesaver to mother! When weather permits, I let the children do this in the yard or on the porch. Even the garage is a good place.

If there is no garage, for some people the kitchen is wonderful.

IRON SKILLET SCOUR

DEAR HELOISE:
The best way to clean an iron skillet that over the years has acquired a thick coating of grease on the outside and some on the inside is to find someone who has a coal furnace.

Throw the skillet in any furnace for half an hour on the hot coals and presto . . . it comes out brand-new again.

There will be no damage whatsoever to the skillet.

Coal stoves and outdoor grills will help. ALL that is required is heat—to burn off the stale grease.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR READERS:

First thing this morning are Formica, Micarta, etc., drainboards with stains! Never use an abrasive on this type of material. It cuts the finish off the top and then more stains adhere! This is what you are trying to prevent!

Quite by accident (after trying everything everyone suggested) I tried alcohol! I found this removes (or dislodges) most stains, such as tobacco, the most difficult of all to get off.

I poured plain, inexpensive alcohol on my Formica drainboard. Within a few seconds the stains were removed! But later I noticed a return of some of the discoloring.

I poured more alcohol on the drainboard and smeared it with my hand and, within one minute, applied pure household bleach. This time the stain was completely removed!

I then called a chemist. He said the alcohol (which was quite a discovery) had brought the stain to the surface and the bleach had bleached the impurities and stains from the top of the alcohol!

I was as "floored" as you will be when you try this experiment. I thought I was seeing things. I didn't believe it myself. Since then over 20 people have tried this stain removal method on different types of drainboard, table tops, etc., and all say it has worked for them.

For less than two cents you can try this on your stained counters.

I suggest that you pour about one-fourth cup of plain rubbing alcohol over the stains on this type drainboard, smear it on with your hand (unless you are allergic to alcohol) and one minute later apply one-fourth cup of household bleach. Rinse as usual when stains disappear.

FOIL YOUR HANGERS

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's an idea for those who are too frugal to buy plastic coat hangers for their drip-dries.

Cover wire coat hangers with foil! I cut foil in one-inch strips and wrap round and round. These strips can just be folded on the three sides of the coat hanger and pinched together.

DEAR HELOISE:

For those who use top and bottom sheets of different kinds — (for example, a contour sheet and a plain top sheet) — and fold them together when they put them in their closet to prevent wasting time when making the beds — I go one better!

Hang them on the line that way! I put the contour sheet on the bottom and hang the top sheet over this. Saves space on the line too.

But better yet . . . when I take them down, I fold them together, thus saving two operations.

— B. Beal

PINCH-HITTERS

DEAR HELOISE:

So often when we move we don't have the right size curtains for windows. I use candy-striped kitchen towels and they pinch-hit beautifully. Just stitch a hem along one end and put them on a curtain rod until you can do better.

Mine looked so pretty that they are in permanent use now.

These window curtains do not have to be striped or even all in one color. If the window is wide, put up four different colored towels on one curtain rod. They may be tied back or left hanging straight.
